The Report of the Committee of both Houses on his Excellency General Washington's Letter of the 10th instant, was read, considered, and accepted as follows, viz :

The Committee appointed to consider what further measures are necessary to be taken for procuring Hay for the Army, reported. Read and accepted.

Whereas, by a Resolve of this Court, which passed this House the 16th of December last, it was recommended to a number of towns in the Counties of Suffolk, Essex, Middlesex, Plymouth, and Worcester, as they regarded their own safety, and the general welfare of these Colonies, to take effectual measures to supply the camps at Cambridge and Roxbury with such quantities of Hay, as was set to the respective towns named in said Resolve, at the rates of five Pounds per ton for English Hay, and forty Shillings per ton for salt Hay: And whereas, upon a thorough inquiry made by this Court, it now appears that the allowance then made is below the market price, and short of what has been usually given by the inhabitants of this Colony, under a like scarcity with the present :

Resolved, That it be recommended to those towns which have not as yet forwarded to the camps the quantities of Hay which have been assigned them, that they send their respective quantities immediately, and receive pay therefor, at the rate of six Pounds per ton for English, and fifty Shillings per ton for salt Hay; provided the same shall be brought into camp within ten days from the date hereof; and lest the other towns mentioned in said Resolve, which, from an early regard to the recommendations of this Court, have already furnished their respective quantities of Hay, should be sufferers for so doing, they are to receive out of the Colony Treasury such sums as have been short paid them of the prices now allowed to be given therefor, on their producing proper certificates to the honourable Board of the quantities furnished as aforesaid, who are hereby empowered to grant warrants for the same; and the Selectmen and Committees of Correspondence in those towns are desired to transmit to this Court the receipts for the Hay they have already carried into camps, that so their regard to the credit of this community, and zeal for the common safety, may appear upon the publick records of this Colony.

And whereas, it may so happen, that at the expiration of said ten days, some towns may still remain deficient; to prevent the sad consequences of such neglect, the Selectmen of any delinquent town are hereby directed and empowered to impress therein, for the use of the Continental Army, so much Hay as will make up the full quantity assigned such town by the aforesaid Resolve of this Court.

And the Committee named in the former Resolve, are directed to see that the foregoing carried into execution; and Colonel Thompson is directed to get this Resolve printed in handbills, and dispersed through the several towns mentioned in the schedule annexed to the first Resolve.

Ordered, That the Committee appointed to wait on his Excellency General Washington, on the subject of his Letter of the 10th instant, be a Committee to present his Excellency a copy of the Resolve of this Court for lending him the sum of fifty thousand Pounds.

On a motion, Ordered, That the Committee appointed to procure Sulphur, be directed to make an average of the price of what they may deliver to Mr. Samuel Phillips, Jun., according to what the Sulphur cost, which they may buy from time to time.

Eldad Taylor, Esq., brought down the Report of the Committee of both Houses on his Excellency General Washington's Letter of the 15th instant, relative to the want of Fire-Arms for the Army, viz :

That his Excellency be informed, that it is the opinion of this Court, there would be a general supply of Fire-Arms brought into the camp, if he would give publick notice that if the Recruits would come well armed they should be allowed for the use of their Arms, and, if lost in the service, the just value of them should be paid, and that their Arms shall not be detained from them when their time of service shall expire. And that to detain the Arms of the Militia without their consent, would neither promote the good of the service, nor facilitate the arming the forces, as it would produce a general uneasiness through the country. And that his Excellency be also informed that this Colony have in store but about two hundred Fire-Arms, part of which are out of repair; such as will do for the service, although provided for the particular use of this Colony, we shall be ready to deliver if they shall be needed, and do all in our power to aid his Excellency in arming the troops.

Whereas, it is of great importance, not only to the inhabitants of this Colony, but, also, of all the United Colonies, that the lines and fortifications at Cambridge and Roxbury should, at all events, be maintained; and that the Army investing Boston should be of strength sufficient to act offensively as well as defensively: And whereas, his Excellency General Washington has applied for a temporary reinforcement from Connecticut, New-Hampshire, and this Colony, to be at the said places as soon as possible, the proportion of which to this Colony, is four thousand three hundred and sixty-eight men :

Resolved, That the commanding officer of each Company of Militia in the towns hereafter mentioned, chosen agreeable to the direction of the Provincial Congress, be, and hereby is directed to cause his Company to be mustered without delay; and that out of the Companies in such town they cause to be voluntarily inlisted, the number of effective men hereinafter affixed to such towns, respectively, to serve in the American Army, on the Continental establishment, from the day of their inlistment to the first day of April next. And that each Officer and Soldier shall be allowed and paid for their service, respectively, the same sums by the calendar month, as are allowed to such Officers and Soldiers in the Army on the said establishment: the time of service to be computed from the time of his inlisting to the time of his discharge, and allowing sufficient time for his return home; that is to say, accounting one day for every twenty miles' travel; also, one penny per mile to compensate his expenses to the camp, and at the same rate, per mile, to bear his expenses from the camp home; his travelling expenses to the camp to be paid by himself, and each man to be compensated therefor at the rate above said, upon his arrival in camp; and the allowance to defray his expenses thence to his home, to be paid before or upon his discharge. And the Selectmen and Committees of Correspondence and Safety of each town

And it is further Resolved, That all the Field and Staff Officers shall be appointed by this Court, and commissioned by the Council, on or before they arrive in camp; and the Captains, Subalterns, and non-Commissioned Officers of the several Companies shall be chosen by the Companies, respectively, from such as are enlisted, or others; and the Captains and Subalterns shall be commissioned by the Council on or before they arrive in camp; and no officer, who shall be chosen to serve on this occasion, shall be considered as so connected with the Continental Army, as to be thereby disqualified from being an officer in the Militia of this Colony, by virtue of any clause in any Act providing for the regulation of the said Militia.

Whereas, this Court, at the request of his Excellency General Washington, have thought it necessary that a temporary reinforcement of the Army should be made with all possible despatch; and, to effect the same, have proportioned among the several towns in this Colony such a number of men as they apprehend each town ought to raise upon the present emergency, and have appointed a Committee, out of each County, to assist in raising the men, and forming them, when raised, into Companies, which Committee is as follows, viz:

Therefore, Resolved, That the persons aforementioned, for each of the several Counties aforesaid, be, and they hereby are directed to use their utmost endeavours with the Committees of Correspondence and Safety, and the Selectmen of each town, to have the several proportions of men affixed to each town, in their several Counties, raised with all possible expedition, and, when raised, to form them into Companies of ninety men each, including officers; and as soon as each Company have chosen their several officers, that they cause them to march forthwith to the camp at Cambridge or Roxbury, as his Excellency General Washington shall direct, viz:

The Committee appointed to bring in a Resolve for raising the Regiment to go into Canada, reported. Read, and accepted.

Whereas, it is of very great importance to our brethren, the inhabitants of Canada, and to the inhabitants of the United Colonies, especially to the western and northern Counties thereof, that the advantages gained under the smiles of Providence by the American arms, during the year last past, over the Ministerial forces in Canada, should be maintained, and the remainder of them there effectually subdued, as well as the rights and liberties of our brethren in that Colony secured: And whereas, his Excellency General Washington has applied to each of the Colonies of Connecticut, New-Hampshire, and Massachusetts-Bay, severally, to furnish a Regiment, consisting of seven hundred and twenty-eight men, including officers, to be raised with all possible despatch, on the American establishment, and to serve the United Colonies until the first day of January next, if required thereto:

It is, therefore, Resolved, That a Regiment, consisting of seven hundred and twenty-eight men, be raised, for the purpose aforesaid, in the Counties of Hampshire and Berkshire, and to be under the command of Elisha Porter, Esq., as Colonel; Thomas Williams, Esq., as Lieutenant-Colonel; and Abner Morgan, Esq., as Major; who have been unanimously chosen by the General Court of this Colony to those offices, respectively. And that the commanding officer of each company of Militia in the towns of the said Counties of Hampshire and Berkshire, hereafter mentioned, chosen agreeable to the direction of the Provincial Congress, be, and hereby is directed to cause his company, without delay, to be mustered, and that, out of the company or companies in such town, they cause to be voluntarily inlisted the number of effective men herein affixed to such town, respectively, to serve the United Colonies on the Continental establishment, and under their Generals, until the first day of January next, if the service shall require it. And that each officer and soldier shall be allowed and paid for their service, respectively, the same sum, by the calendar month, as is allowed to other officers and soldiers in the establishment aforesaid, the time of service to be computed from the time of his inlistment or entering the same, to the time of his discharge, and allowing sufficient time for his return home; that is to say, accounting one day for every twenty miles' march; also, one penny per mile, to compensate his expenses on his march to and from the camp, for so many miles as he shall bear his travelling expenses in the march aforesaid. And each non-commissioned officer and soldier shall be allowed a blanket, or twelve shillings to pay for the same if he finds it himself.

And whereas, the season is severe, and the service both important and necessary:

It is further Resolved, As a further encouragement to such non-Commissioned Officers and Soldiers as shall appear to inlist for the succour of their brethren in Canada, and for the defence and support of the just cause of America on this occasion, that, in addition to one month's advance wages to be paid them by his Excellency General Washington, there shall be paid them, also, out of the publick Treasury of this Colony, one other month's advance wages, upon their passing muster, by a Mustermaster to be appointed by his Excellency, in full confidence that the justice of the Congress will order the same to be reimbursed. And the Treasurer is hereby ordered to pay the sum of thirteen hundred and ninety-eight Pounds eight Shillings to Colonel Porter, for that purpose, he to be accountable to this Court for the same.

And the Selectmen, and Committees of Correspondence and Safety of each of said towns, are requested, without fail, to afford their immediate assistance, fully to effect this business with the utmost despatch, as they regard their country's and their own safety and welfare.

And it is further Resolved, That the Captains, Subalterns, and non-Commissioned Officers of the several companies, shall be chosen by the companies, respectively, from those inlisted, or others, and commissioned by the Council, and that the Committee appointed by this Court, in conjunction with the Field-Officers aforesaid, distribute the men inlisted as aforesaid, into companies.

Major Hawley, by leave of the House, brought in the following Resolve. Read, and accepted:

Whereas, a certain Act, intitled "An Act for establishing and regulating the Fees of the several Officers within this Province hereafter mentioned," made and passed at the session of the Great and General Court of this Colony, begun and held at Boston, in the County of Suffolk, upon Wednesday, the 6th day of January, 1773, expired on the last day of October last, and at present there is no Act or laws of this Colony now in force for establishing and regulating the fees of the several officers in the said Act mentioned, excepting a certain Act made and passed in the fourth year of the reign of William and Mary, King and Queen, entitled "An Act for regulating Fees," which last-mentioned Act has, by divers temporary Acts, from time to time, been superseded and suspended as insalutary, and the fees thereby settled and established appear to be, in many instances, extravagant and unreasonable:

It is, therefore, Resolved, That henceforward, until the further order of the General Court, it shall be lawful for all Officers named and mentioned in the Act first above mentioned to take and receive, for the several services therein specified, such and no higher Fees than the Fees, or sums of Money, specified in the said first-mentioned Act, and be subject to the pains and penalties there provided for the offences against the same.

The House then adjourned till ten o'clock, to-morrow morning.

Tuesday, January 23, 1776.

The Committee appointed to make an experiment of some Powder which was manufactured at Weymouth, from Saltpetre made in this Colony, reported, that they had effectually proved the same, and found it very good; and at the same time laid on the table two flattened leaden balls which were discharged from a small-arm, loaded with two inches of powder, into a tough white-oak tree, at the distance of eight rods, which penetrated the tree two inches.

The Members were called in.

The House considered and passed upon the Proclamation brought down the 19th instant, viz:

By the Great and General Court of the Colony of MASSACHUSETTS-BAY:—A PROCLAMATION.

The frailty of human nature, the wants of individuals, and the numerous dangers which surround them through the course of life, have, in all ages, and in every country, impelled them to form Societies and establish Governments.

As the happiness of the People is the sole end of Government, so the consent of the People is the only foundation of it, in reason, morality, and the natural fitness of things; and, therefore, every act of Government, every exercise of sovereignty, against, or without the consent of the People, is injustice, usurpation, and tyranny.

It is a maxim, that in every Government there must exist, somewhere, a supreme, sovereign, absolute, and uncontrollable power; but this power resides always in the body of the people, and it never was, nor can be delegated to one man, or a few; the great Creator having never given to men a right to vest others with authority over them, unlimited either in duration or degree.

When Kings, Ministers, Governours or Legislators, therefore, instead of exercising the powers intrusted with them, according to the principles, forms, and proportions stated by the Constitution, and established by the original compact, prostitute those powers to the purposes of oppression; to subvert, instead of supporting a free Constitution; to destroy, instead of preserving the lives, liberties, and properties of the people, they are no longer to be deemed Magistrates vested with a sacred character, but become public enemies, and ought to be resisted.

The Administration of Great Britain, despising equally the justice, humanity, and magnanimity of their ancestors, and the rights, liberties, and courage of Americans, have, for a course of years, laboured to establish a sovereignty in America, not founded in the consent of the people, but in the mere will of persons a thousand leagues from us, whom we know not, and have endeavoured to establish this sovereignty over us, against our consent, in all cases whatsoever.

The Colonies, during this period, have recurred to every peaceable resource in a free Constitution, by Petitions and Remonstrances, to obtain justice; which has been not only denied to them, but they have been treated with unexampled indignity and contempt; and at length, open war of the most atrocious, cruel, and sanguinary kind has been commenced against them. To this, an open, manly, and successful resistance has hitherto been made. Thirteen Colonies are now firmly united in the conduct of this most just and necessary war, under the wise councils of their Congress.

It is the will of Providence, for wise, righteous, and gracious ends, that this Colony should have been singled out by the enemies of America, as the first object both of their envy and their revenge; and after having been made the subject of several merciless and vindictive statutes, one of which was intended to subvert our Constitution by Charter, is made the seat of war.

No effectual resistance to the system of tyranny prepared for us could be made, without either instant recourse to arms, or a temporary suspension of the ordinary powers of Government and tribunals of justice: to the last of which evils, in hopes of a speedy reconciliation with Great Britain, upon equitable terms, the Congress advised us to submit; and mankind has seen a phenomenon, without example in the political world, a large and populous Colony subsisting in great decency and order, for more than a year, under such suspension of Government.

But as our enemies have proceeded to such barbarous extremities, commencing hostilities upon the good people of this Colony, and with unprecedented malice exerting their power to spread the calamities of fire, sword, and famine through the land, and no reasonable prospect remains of a speedy reconciliation with Great Britain, the Congress have resolved, "that no obedience being due to the Act of Parliament for altering the Charter of the Colony of Massachusetts-Bay, nor to a Governour or Lieutenant-Governour, who will not observe the directions of, but endeavour to subvert that Charter; the Governour and Lieutenant-Governour of that Colony are to be considered as absent, and their offices vacant; and as there is no Council there, and inconveniences arising from the suspension of the powers of Government, are intolerable especially at a time when General Gage hath actually levied war, and is carrying on hostilities against his Majesty's peaceable and loyal subjects of that Colony; that, in order to conform as near as may be to the spirit and substance of the Charter, it be recommended to the Provincial Convention to write letters to the inhabitants of the several places which are entitled to representation in Assembly, requesting them to choose such Representatives; and that the Assembly when chosen, do elect Counsellors; and that such Assembly and Council exercise the powers of Government until a Governnour of His Majesty's appointment will consent to govern the Colony according to its Charter."

In pursuance of which advice the good people of this Colony have chosen a full and free representation of themselves, who, being convened in Assembly, have elected a Council, who, as the Executive branch of Government, have constituted necessary officers through the Colony. The present generation, therefore, may be congratulated on the acquisition of a form of Government more immediately, in all its branches, under the influence and control of the people; and, therefore, more free and happy than was enjoyed by their ancestors. But as a Government so popular can be supported only by universal knowledge and virtue in the body of the people, it is the duty of all ranks to promote the means of education for the rising generation, as well as true religion, purity of manners, and integrity of life, among all orders and degrees.

As an Army has become necessary for our defence, and in all free states the civil must provide for and control the military power, the major part of the Council have appointed Magistrates and Courts of Justice in every County, whose happiness is so connected with that of the people, that it is difficult to suppose they can abuse their trust. The business of it is to see those laws enforced which are necessary for the preservation of peace, virtue, and good order. And the Great and General Court expects and requires, that all necessary support and assistance be given, and all proper obedience yielded to them; and will deem every person who shall fail of his duty in this respect towards them, a disturber of the peace of this Colony, and deserving of exemplary punishment.

That piety and virtue, which alone can secure the freedom of any people, may be encouraged, and vice and immorality suppressed, the Great and General Court have thought fit to issue this Proclamation, commanding and enjoining it upon the good people of this Colony, that they lead sober, religious, and peaceable lives; avoiding all blasphemies, contempt of the Holy Scriptures, and of the Lord's Day, and all other crimes and misdemeanors; all debauchery, profaneness, corruption, venality, all riotous and tumultuous proceedings, and all immoralities whatsoever; and that they decently and reverently attend the public worship of God, at all times acknowledging with gratitude His merciful interposition in their behalf, devoutly confiding in Him as the God of Armies, by whose favour and protection alone they may hope for success, in their present conflict.

And all Judges, Justices, Sheriffs, Grand Jurors, Tythingmen, and all other civil officers within this Colony, are hereby strictly enjoined and commanded that they contribute all in their power, by their advice, exertions, and examples, towards a general reformation of manners; and that they bring to condign punishment every person who shall commit any of the crimes or misdemeanors aforesaid, or that shall be guilty of any immoralities whatever; and that they use their utmost endeavours to have the Resolves of the Congress, and the good and wholesome laws of this Colony duly carried into execution.

And as the Ministers of the Gospel within this Colony have, during the late relaxation of the powers of civil Government, exerted themselves for our safety, it is hereby recommended to them, still to continue their virtuous labours for the good of the people, inculcating by their public ministry and private example, the necessity of religion, morality, and good order.

In Council, January 19, 1776: Ordered, That the foregoing Proclamation be read at the opening of every Superior Court of Judicature, &c., and Inferior Court of Common Pleas, and Court of General Session for the Peace, within this Colony, by their respective Clerks and at the Annual Town-Meetings in March, in each Town.

And it is hereby recommended to the several Ministers of the Gospel throughout this Colony, to read the same in their respective Assemblies on the Lord's Day next after their receiving it, immediately after Divine service.

Colonel Freeman, agreeable to order, reported the following Resolve. Read, and accepted, (the House having previously voted to reconsider the vote of yesterday, for drawing off one Company of Sea-Coast Men from Falmouth.) viz :

Whereas, there are two Companies, of seventy-five men each, raised and stationed at the Elizabeth-Islands, by a former Resolve of this Court, and it being apprehended that one of those Companies will be sufficient to guard those Islands till the first day of April next ; and as it is of importance to reinforce the Continental Army before Boston with the greatest expedition :

Therefore, it is Resolved, That the Committee for raising men in the County of Barnstable, be directed to include in the proportion of men to be raised in that County, one Company of the said men stationed at the Elizabeth-Islands aforesaid, in case they will inlist ; and all such Officers and Soldiers of them who shall inlist and engage in the service of the Continental Army till the said first day of April, shall receive the same allowance for travelling to and from the camp, as also the same wages, as others raised for the purpose of reinforcing the said Continental Army, and shall be released from their service at the said Elizabeth-Islands till the first day of April next, and then shall return to that service and establishment again : And if one set of Officers shall inlist one Company, of seventy-five men, of said Companies, stationed at said Islands, they shall, in that case, be the officers of that Company, and may fill up by inlistment the remainder of the Company, to make up the number of ninety men in the whole, including officers, and the whole of said Company shall then proceed to the choice of an Ensign, to serve till the first day of April.

And whereas, Barachiah Basset, Esq., was appointed by this Court as a Major to command the Forces stationed at the Islands aforesaid, and at Martha's Vineyard, and his attention to said service from this time till the first of April next, being thought unnecessary, and the said Basset being chosen as a Lieutenant-Colonel by this Court, for the Regiment to be raised in the Counties of Plymouth and Barnstable, to reinforce the Continental Army till the said first day of April :

Therefore, it is further Resolved, That the said Barachiah Basset, Esq., be released from his service at the said Islands, until the said first day of April, and then to return to said station and establishment.

The Committee appointed by both Houses to consider the propriety of commissioning such Captains and Lieutenants as marched and joined the Continental Army from the Militia, with full Companies, in pursuance of the Resolve of the General Court on the 1st day of December last, have attended their duty, and are of opinion, that the commissioning all the Captains and Lieutenants in the order in which they were chosen by their respective Companies, as they marched into camp, is what said Officers expected ; and as they have done the duty, sustained the office, and expect the pay due to them by the establishment of the Continental Army, your Committee conclude they ought to be commissioned. Therefore, beg leave to report a Resolve for that purpose.

Resolved, That all the Captains and Lieutenants that marched into the camp as a temporary reinforcement to the Continental Army by order of this Court, of the 1st of last month, be now commissioned by the Council, agreeable to their several ranks, and in the order in which they were chosen by their respective Companies, any thing in a Resolve of this Court of the 13th instant, to the contrary notwithstanding. It is, therefore, Resolved, That the honourable Council be, and hereby are empowered to make their Warrants on the Treasurer for the payment of all such sums allowed on such Accounts, either by this Court, or any Committee of the same thereunto empowered by the Court, to the person, or persons, or town, for whose use and benefit such moneys were stopped on the Rolls aforesaid.

Whereas, upon inquiry, it doth not appear that many of the inhabitants of the Island of Martha's Vineyard ever had a disposition to supply the enemy with Provisions, and it doth not appear, by the Resolve of the 9th of December last, that they were suspected of corruptly doing the same; and such measures having been taken as, in all probability, will prevent the enemy from being supplied from that Island, and the inhabitants thereof must suffer while under the aforementioned restraint:

Therefore, Resolved, That the Order of this Court, of the 9th of December last, so far as it respects Martha's Vineyard only, be, and hereby is annulled; and this Resolve be printed in the Cambridge and Watertown Papers.

The Committee appointed yesterday, to report a Resolve explanatory of a Resolve of this Court, which passed the House the 19th ultimo, reported. Read, and accepted.

Whereas, this Court observe, that in consistency with the letter of the purview of their Resolve of the 19th of December last, relative to the compensation for the loss of Arms, Accoutrements, and Clothing, sustained by certain persons who engaged the Ministerial forces on the 19th of April, and 17th of June, last past, accounts of losses may be exhibited to the Committee of this Court from officers and privates not so much as raised by this Colony, and others may make a claim of compensation for losses, which losses were not caused by their being actually engaged in fight with the Ministerial troops, on the days above said, or either of them, which is evidently diverse, and without the true intent and design of the Court at the time of their passing the said Resolve, as appears from the preamble thereof, as well as the justice and reason of the case:

It is, therefore, Resolved, That the aforesaid Resolve, of the 19th of December last, ought not to be taken or construed to extend to any Commissioned, non-Commissioned Officers, or Privates, who, on the said 19th day of April, or 17th of June, or either of them, were not on the establishment of this Colony, or to losses which were not caused by such persons having been actually engaged in battle against the Ministerial troops on the said days, or either of them; and no Committee, or Committees, of this Court, or of either House, appointed to consider of the claims of persons for compensation of losses, in consequence of the said Resolve of the 19th of December, ought to allow, or report in favour of an allowance of any such claim, without satisfactory evidence that the person, or persons, making such claim, was on the establishment of this Colony, and that he was actually engaged in fight with the said Ministerial troops.

Read, and ordered to lie.

Saturday, February 10, 1776.

The Committee on the Resolve of Congress relative to the Forces going into Canada, reported. Read, and accepted.

Whereas, the votes and proceedings of the honourable Continental Congress respecting the Regiment now raising in this Colony to join the Continental Army in Canada, make it necessary that some alterations should be made in the Resolves of this Court of the 21st of January last, respecting the encouragement thereby offered and proposed to such as should inlist themselves into the said service; and whereas, it is apprehended the mode of appointing the Captains, Subalterns, and non-Commissioned Officers therein recommended, will retard the speedy inlistment, and forming the several Companies to be raised, (which ought to be forwarded with all possible despatch.)

Therefore, Resolved, That the order of Court of the 21st of January last, relative to raising a Regiment of men in the Counties of Hampshire and Berkshire, to serve in Canada, so far as it relates to the two months' advance wages; the electing Captains, Subalterns, and non-Commissioned Officers by the men; and the Officers being confined to raise said Regiment in the Counties aforesaid, be reconsidered.

Resolved, That the blank Commissions for the Captains, Subalterns, and Staff-Officers sent to this Court by the Continental Congress for the said Regiment, be lodged in the hands of the Field-Officers appointed to raise and command said Regiment, as, also, Inlisting Papers, with orders to them, to deliver such Inlisting Papers to those men who come recommended to them for their loyalty to their country, their courage and good conduct, as properly qualified for Officers, and upon their raising the complement of men assigned them, to deliver them their commissions.

And for the encouragement of such as shall inlist themselves into the said service:

It is, therefore, Resolved, That agreeable to the Resolves of the honourable Continental Congress, there shall be paid to each effective, able-bodied non-Commissioned Officer and Soldier, who shall inlist as aforesaid, and be properly accounted according to the terms of their inlistment, the sum of forty Shillings, lawful money as a bounty.

And, also, that there shall be advanced and paid to every Officer and Soldier one month's advance wages, that they may be enabled to purchase necessary Clothing; both the said sums to be paid them upon passing muster.

It is further Resolved, That those who have inlisted already, upon the former inlistment given out, upon their signing the inlistment now ordered, shall be entitled to the same bounty and privileges as if they had not before inlisted, and shall be entitled to receive pay from the date of their first inlistment; the said sums of one month's advance wages, and forty Shillings bounty, to be in lieu of the two months' advance wages ordered in the said Resolves of the 21st of January.

And whereas, by the said Resolves of the 21st of January, three Companies were to be raised from the County of Berkshire, as part of the said Regiment: And whereas, nearly four hundred men have already enlisted and marched from the said County of Berkshire, into Canada, to serve the United Colonies there, until the 15th of April next, many of whom, it is hoped, and expected, will be willing to continue in the said service until the 1st day of January next:

Therefore, Resolved, That the Field-Officers of the said Regiment be directed to enlist, as soon as possible, out of those already marched as aforesaid, two whole Companies, to join the said Regiment; whose advance wages and bounty, including what they have already received from General Schuyler, shall be made equal in every respect to those who now enlist, according to the terms proposed by the honourable Continental Congress; and that six Companies only be now raised for the said Regiment, until this Court shall be informed of the success of raising the said two Companies out of those now in Canada, as aforesaid.

Ordered, That Brigadier Thompson get the foregoing printed.

The Committee appointed to consider the necessity of raising a Company of Matrosses to defend the Fortress erected at Marblehead, reported. Read, and accepted.

Whereas, it appears to be of great importance to the safety and welfare of this Colony, that the Harbour of Marblehead be effectually secured against the attacks of our enemies: And whereas, the inhabitants of that town have at a very great expense, erected Batteries, wherein twenty pieces of Cannon are mounted, and it being absolutely necessary for a successful defence, that there should be a number of men, well acquainted with the management of Cannon, appointed to said Batteries:

Therefore, Resolved, That a Company of Matrosses, consisting of thirty-eight men, exclusive of officers, be immediately raised for the purpose aforesaid, and that a Captain and two Lieutenants be chosen for said Company, their pay to be the same with officers of the like rank on the Sea-Coast establishment; and the Commanding Officer of the two Companies of Sea-Coast men stationed at Marblehead, is hereby directed and empowered to draft twenty-five men from each of said Companies to be joined to said Company of Matrosses, which will then consist of one hundred men, officers included.

Whereas, the Committee on Accounts, the Committee for Signing, &c., the Bills emitted by order of this Court, the Committee on Clothing, and the Committees on the Muster-Rolls of the Army and Militia, have in their Memorial represented, that in order to their discharging the duties required of them, most of their time has been employed, they having been deprived the pleasure and benefit of the publick debates, have been in a great measure prevented doing their duty to their particular constituents, by which they have been not a little injured, and praying that for part of their services they may be paid out of the publick Treasury of this Colony.

Therefore, Resolved, That the above Committee be paid for their respective services, one half out of the publick Treasury of this Colony, and the Committee on Accounts are hereby directed to pay the same accordingly, and the other half to be made up in the Pay-Roll of the House of Representatives.

The Committee on the state of the Ordnance, &c., at Falmouth, reported. Read, and accepted.

Whereas, it appears from a state of the Ordnance Stores and Ammunition, for Small-Arms, at Falmouth, in the County of Cumberland, exhibited to this Court, that most of the Cannon there are unfit for use, and that the quantity of Shot, Powder and Flints, is very small. And as it is necessary for the general safety of the Province, and of that part of it in particular, that a supply of these articles should be immediately procured:

Therefore, Resolved, That the Commissary-General of this Colony be, and hereby is empowered and directed to procure, as soon as possible, at the expense of this Colony, ten good Cannon, as follows, viz: three twelve-pounders, three nine-pounders, and four six-pounders, together with one hundred round-shot for each Cannon, suitable for the same; also nine hundred weight of Powder, and one thousand Flints.

Resolved, That Mr. Henderson be allowed for such service the sum of thirty-five Pounds, provided he is not obliged to tarry at Philadelphia longer than one fortnight, in which case he is to have a further allowance, as this Court shall judge reasonable, and that Colonel Orne bring in a Resolve expressive of this agreement.

The Committee to whom was referred the consideration of the Petition of a number of the inhabitants of the County of Lincoln, reported, that they are of opinion, that it is of great importance that the St. John's and Passamaquoddy Indians should be furnished by this Colony with ammunition and such articles as are necessary for them, and that they may not be obliged to seek supplies elsewhere; and, therefore, report the following Resolves, viz:

Resolved, That a Truckmaster be appointed by this Court to reside at Machias, and that the sum of four hundred Pounds be paid out of the publick Treasury of this Colony to said Truckmaster, to enable him to procure such Ammunition, and other articles of goods, as may be necessary to supply the said Indians with, and that he set the article he shall supply them with at a moderate advance, and take in return therefor their furs and other things they may procure in hunting, he, the said Truckmaster to be accountable to this Court for the said money, and his conduct in this affair.

And it is further Resolved, That John Steele be desired to repair to Machias, as soon as may be, and there act as Armourer in repairing the said Indians' guns, and such others as may be sent him by order of this Court, and that for his service and the use of his tools, there be allowed and paid to him after the rate of four Pounds per month, to commence from the time of his setting off from Newburyport, till the further order of this Court.

That by examining said Obrien's Account, they find the whole of the provision, &c., for billeting the men under his command, amounts to no more than five Shillings and six Pence per week each, and as said Captain Obrien has no other vouchers, the Committee are of opinion that his Account is just; said Account being three hundred and seventy-one Pounds, and the Account for cordage, tallow, iron, &c., belonging to the vessels, by said Obrien's ac-

Whereas, the invention and industry of the inhabitants of this Colony have been excited by the barbarous policy of Britain, and by the encouragement given by the General Court to seek internal resources of warlike stores, and have been so far succeeded that much greater quantities of that capital article, Saltpetre, has, and probably will be made here, than the Powder-Mills now erecting at Stoughton and Andover will be able to manufacture into Gunpowder: And whereas, experience, and the present apparent designs of Administration, strongly dictate the necessity of guarding against the want of that important article, which we presume may be done by encouraging individuals to erect Powder-Mills:

Therefore, Resolved, That a bounty, or premium, of fifty Pounds, shall be paid out of the Treasury of this Colony, to the person, or persons, who shall, at his or their own expense, erect the first Powder-Mill in this Colony, other than the aforementioned, capable of manufacturing at least fifty pounds weight of Powder per day, and shall make and manufacture therein ten hundred pounds weight of good and merchantable Gunpowder, to be judged and approved of by a Committee to be appointed by this Court. Also, that a bounty, or premium, of thirty Pounds, shall be paid out of the Treasury of this Colony, to the person, or persons, who shall, in like manner, erect a second Powder-Mill, (other than those mentioned in the Preamble,) and make and manufacture therein ten hundred pounds weight of good, merchantable Gunpowder, to be judged of and approved as aforesaid: Provided, always, That the said Mills shall be erected, and the Powder manufactured therein within six months from the 15th day of February, current; and that the said Mills shall be erected within such Towns or Plantations as the General Court of this Colony shall license, or, in the recess of the same, as shall be licensed by the Council, and in such part or parts of such licensed town, as shall be approved by the major part of the Selectmen thereof.

It is, therefore, Resolved, That no action, suit, or process, of a civil nature, be commenced or carried on before any Justice of the Peace in any Inferior Court of Common Pleas within this Colony, until the further order of this Court, and that the further consideration of this matter be taken up on the second Wednesday of the next sitting of this Court.

The House then adjourned till nine o'clock, to-morrow morning.

Saturday, February 17, 1776.

The Committee of both Houses appointed to make inquiry after virgin Lead, &c., beg leave to report:

That a sub-Committee has been to Northampton, and examined a Lead Mine there, which has been worked, and in which, as Mr. Clap, the Clerk of the Works informed us, much loss had been sustained. He also told us, that Mr. Bowdoin, Colonel Ward, and Mr. Hedge, were the present proprietors; that they owned about two hundred and twenty-five acres of land; had a store-house, stamping-mill, and smelting-house; that they would sell all their estate there for one thousand pounds, lawful money, as he believed; that their land is bounded about half a mile upon a river, upon which is said mill. Said Clap also said, that many assays had been made upon the ore, and it produced, in that small way, from fifty to seventy-five per cent. lead; but in smelting, in the large way of business, they could not produce any lead, but it all ran into glass, they not understanding the business; he said that they stamped and washed the ore, and in that state, without smelting, they sold considerable quantities to the potters.

The sub-Committee are of opinion, that if the present proprietors' right is purchased, it will be necessary to purchase other lands, perhaps to the amount of one thousand pounds, lawful money, more, so as to command the river, roads, and the summit of the mountain, in which it is likely are better mines than that which has been opened; and as the buildings are much out of repair, and others will be needed to carry on the business, it will require at least one thousand pounds, lawful money, more to set the work in a good way of business. There will be twelve or fourteen miles cartage to water carriage.

The sub-Committee also examined a Lead Mine in Southampton, very convenient for working and water; but as this had not been opened, and the winter preventing, they could not make full discovery of the quantity. They also examined a mine in Worcester; but its situation would not admit of its being worked to advantage.

The sub-Committee brought from Northampton some of the ore, and obtained Mr. Clark to make an assay, in doing which he saved twenty-five per cent. lead, and he supposed that he lost twenty-five per cent. more. They have, also, endeavoured to have another assay made by Mr. Hurd, but his fire-place being very small, the assay failed, he not being able to raise a sufficient heat.

The Committee beg leave to sit again, and desire to be instructed whether they shall now transmit this Report to the American Congress, or wait for further light in this matter; and also, whether they shall examine into the process, &c., of the lead-works now carrying on at Middletown, in Connecticut.

ELDAD TAYLOR, per order.

Resolved, That the said Committee be (A) instructed to transmit a copy of the foregoing Report to the American Congress, and that they examine into the process, &c., of the Lead-Works now carrying on at Middletown, in Connecticut, and that they be desired to sit again.

Afternoon.

The Committee appointed in the forenoon to bring in a Resolve containing some instructions to the Committee on the Rolls of the Minute-Men and Militia, reported. Read, and not accepted.

The Committee appointed to consider what further Supplies are necessary to be procured for the use of the Colony, reported. Read, and accepted.

Whereas, the Administration of Great Britain, by their despotick and cruel measures from time to time, and, finally, by shedding the blood of the inhabitants of the British American Colonies, has obliged us to take up arms for our defence, and thereby we are engaged in an unnatural war, which has, in a considerable degree, prevented the importation of bread, corn, flour, and other articles of subsistence and defence, into this Government from the neighbouring Colonies, whereby great part of the usual supply is cut short, and as the sea-coasts of this Colony are surrounded with ships-of-war and cutters, which makes it necessary for our defence an armed force should be stationed in various parts thereof, which army cannot be subsisted and defended without an importation of those supplies, and it being of great importance proper measures should be pursued to prevent the distresses that may arise from the want of the said articles:

Therefore, Resolved, That Daniel Davis, Esq., Thomas Durfee, Esq., and Captain Josiah Batchelder, with such as the honourable Board shall join, be, and they hereby are appointed a Committee to agree for, and fix out, with all possible despatch, on account of this Colony, on the best terms, as many vessels as may be sufficient for the importing ten thousand barrels of Flour, two thousand casks of Rice, and one hundred tons of Pig-Iron, from any of the Southern Colonies that shall to them appear most safe, and may be effected in the most expeditious manner; and that the said Committee deliver unto the Commissary-General of this Colony the aforesaid Flour, Rice, and Iron, when imported, taking his receipt for the same.

And it is further Resolved, That there be paid out of the publick Treasury of this Colony, into the hands of the said Committee, the sum of eighteen thousand Pounds for the above purposes, said Committee to be accountable to this Court for the same.

Resolved, That the Commissary-General be directed to lend his Excellency General Washington, fifty pounds of Saltpetre for the Continental Laboratory, if he shall desire it.

Read, and concurred.

Samuel Holten, Esq., brought down the following Vote of Council, viz:

Whereas, Benjamin Greenleaf, Esq., was appointed one of the Committee of this Court for building sundry Sloops-of-War, and as his attendance at the Council is necessary for the despatch of the important business of this Colony, on which account he has desired to be excused from the service of building the said Sloops:

Ordered, That a message go to the honourable Board to know if they concurred the Resolve of the House relative to Civil Actions.

Thomas Cushing, Esq., came down and informed the House, that the honourable Board had the same now under consideration, and that when they had passed upon it they would inform the House.

Samuel Holten, Esq., brought the same down, with the following vote of Council thereon, viz:

In Council, February 17, 1776: Read, and unanimously non-concurred, and the Board adhere to their own vote.

Voted, That the Members present give their attendance at the time to which this House shall be adjourned, and inform the absent Members they meet with, that the House require their attendance likewise at that time.

The House then adjourned till ten o'clock, Monday morning.

Monday, February 19, 1776.

Ordered, That Major Hawley, Colonel Freeman, Major Fuller, Deacon Cheever, and Captain Goodman, be a Committee to go up to the honourable Board and acquaint them that this House is desirous of a Conference of both Houses (immediately, if the Board pleases) on the subject of regulating law processes in civil causes, and the proceedings of the Inferior Courts of Common Pleas, in the several Counties in this Colony, until some day in the sitting of this Court after their next meeting.

Read, and committed to Major Hawley, Colonel Freeman, Captain Batchelder, and Mr. Davis, with such as the honourable Board may join.

Ordered, That a message go to the honourable Board, and inform them that the House are now ready for the proposed Conference, and propose that the President of the honourable Board should preside at the same, and that the pews on each side of the pulpit be assigned for the Members of the honourable Board.

A Conference on the subject aforesaid was held accordingly, and it being ended, the Members of the Council left the House, and the Speaker having resumed the chair, the House adjourned to half an hour after three o'clock.

Woburn, Josiah Johnson, Esq.

Dedham, Mr. Abner Ellis.

The House then adjourned till ten o'clock, to-morrow morning.

Tuesday, February 20, 1776.

Ordered, That Mr. Story be of the Committee to consider the subject-matter of the Letter from the Honourable James Otis, Esq., in the room of Major Hawley, otherwise engaged.

It having been the laudable practice of this Government to recommend and appoint days for Fasting and Prayer upon solemn and special occasions, besides our Annual Fasts, and as this Court apprehend that the present time is big with the most important events to this and the other Colonies, and that these events are in the hand of the Supreme Governour of the Universe:

Therefore, Resolved, That the honourable Board be, and hereby are desired to set apart Thursday, the 7th day of March, to be observed as a Day of Solemn Humiliation and Prayer, devoutly to implore of Almighty God, that the vocal dispensations of Providence, in the peculiar events which have lately taken place, may be duly resented, and the great end for which they were designed happily accomplished; that He will, also, command His blessing upon our Council and Arms in the present struggle with Great Britain, for those inestimable rights, civil and religious, with which God and Nature has invested us, and made it our duty to endeavour, at every hazard, to hand down to posterity, and that they cause a Proclamation to be immediately issued and sent to the Ministers and Pastors of the several denominations of Christians in this Colony for the purposes aforesaid.

Michael Farley, Esq., brought down the Report of the Committee of both Houses appointed to consider what was proper to be done, relative to regulating proceedings in Civil Causes, viz:

Whereas, this Colony, for several months past, has been made by Great Britain the seat of an unnatural war, by reason whereof, and the constant attention of this Court to the necessary means of defence, there has not as yet been opportunity to make sufficient provision for regulating, in all respects, the Executive Courts in this Colony, and especially with regard to the fees for services in and about civil actions, which fees have heretofore been very unequal and disproportionate to the service, and, in some instances, plainly excessive; and as this Court are deeply impressed with the necessity of making divers alterations in the fees and allowances for such services, that all oppression, and every appearance thereof in our Courts of Justice, may be wholly taken away and prevented, and have the fullest intention immediately after their next meeting, most seriously to attend to this matter, and to make such regulations therein, as that on the one hand none who are necessarily employed in the course of civil actions, should fail of receiving a reasonable allowance, and that on the other hand none, by any cunning arts or fictions, should take exorbitant sums on any pretence whatsoever:

It is, therefore, Resolved and Ordered, That no Civil Action shall be entered with any Justice of the Peace, and that no judgment shall be rendered on any action which is now pending, or that shall be entered and pending in any Inferior Court of Common Pleas in this Colony, before the 3d day of April next, without the further order of this Court; but that such actions shall be continued of course, until the term next after the 3d day of April next, whether there be an appearance of the defendant or not; and that no Fees shall be allowed, or costs taxed, by any Inferior Courts of Common Pleas in this Colony, on any action which shall be commenced or entered between the passing this Resolve, and the said 3d day of April next, but such as shall be allowed by some future Act or Order of this Court, any law, act, or resolve to the contrary hereof notwithstanding.

This Resolve to be published in the next Cambridge, Watertown, and Worcester Newspapers.

Whereas, it is of the utmost consequence that effectual care be taken to provide a sufficient Magazine of Provision for the use of this Colony, and it is possible we may be disappointed of part of the Flour and Rice lately ordered to be imported from the Southward:

Therefore, Resolved, That Deacon Elnathan Curtis, of Stockbridge, Gideon Wheeler, Esq., of Lanesborough, and Mr. Benedict Dewy, of Great-Barrington, be a Committee to purchase in the western parts of this Colony, a quantity of good merchantable Flour, not exceeding two thousand barrels, provided the same is delivered at Springfield and Hadley at sixteen Shillings per hundred, including every charge. And in order to prevent any loss from failure in the quality of this article:

It is Ordered, That every vender thereof cause to be marked on each barrel his name, and the town to which he belongs.

And it is further Resolved, That there be paid out of the publick Treasury, to Captain Noah Goodman and Major William Pyncheon, the sum of one thousand Pounds, to enable them to pay for the Flour, and transportation thereof, on its delivery at the said Towns of Springfield and Hadley; they to be accountable to this Court for the same.

Whereas, it is probable it may be for the interest of the Colony that part of the quantity of the Flour and Rice, lately ordered to be imported from the Southward, should be brought into some port eastward of Boston:

Resolved, That, in addition to the Committee already appointed to procure the same, there be chosen from that part of the Province two more for the same purpose; and Major Cross is accordingly chosen on the part of this House.

Ordered, That a message go to the honourable Board, to desire them to inform the House whether they have any matters to send down; and, if they have not, to acquaint a major part of the honourable Council, that it is the desire of the House that the Court might be adjourned to the 20th of March next.

On a motion, Ordered, That a message go to the honourable Board, informing them that the House have reconsidered their vote proposing that the Court might be adjourned to the 20th of March next, and that it is the opinion of the House that the 13th of the same month would be a more proper time.

Resolved, That there be granted and paid out of the publick Treasury of this Colony, to Samuel Freeman, the sum of one hundred Pounds, for the use of those persons who are sufferers by the burning of the Town of Falmouth; said sum to be applied in the same manner as was directed in a former Resolve of this Court, granting the sum of two hundred and fifty Pounds for that purpose; said Freeman to be accountable to this Court for the same.

The Secretary came into the House, and said:

MR. SPEAKER: I am directed, by a major part of the honourable Council, to inform this House that they have consented to the enacting of the following Bills, viz:

An Act for making and emitting Bills of Publick Credit.

An Act for forming and regulating the Militia within the Colony of the Massachusetts-Bay, in New-England, and for repealing all the laws heretofore made for that purpose.

An Act for altering the place by law appointed for holding the Superior Court of Judicature, Court of Assize and General Jail Delivery, and the Courts of General Sessions of the Peace, and Inferior Courts of Common Pleas, within and for the County of Suffolk.

An Act for altering the places appointed by law for holding the Superior Court of Judicature, Court of Assize and General Jail Delivery, within and for the County of Middlesex; and, also, for altering the places for holding some of the Courts of General Sessions of the Peace, and Inferior Courts of Common Pleas, within said County.

An Act for reviving and continuing sundry Laws that are expired and near expiring.

An Act to enable the Inhabitants of Falmouth to support prosecutions against persons who have in their possession goods taken from said Inhabitants during the late Fire there.

An Act for encouraging the fixing out of Armed Vessels to defend the Sea-Coasts of America, and for erecting a Court to try and condemn all Vessels that shall be found infesting the same.

And then the Secretary said:

MR. SPEAKER: I am likewise directed, by a major part of the honourable Council, to inform this House that they have seen fit to adjourn the Great and General Court to

Whereas, the time limited by His Majesty's Order in Council of the 22d of November last, for the prohibiting the exporting out of this Kingdom, or carrying coastwise, Gunpowder, Saltpetre, or any sort of Arms or Ammunition, will expire on the 23d of this instant, February: And whereas, it is judged expedient, that the said prohibition should be continued for some time longer, except in those cases where (for the benefit and advantage of trade, and for the use and defence of ships trading to foreign parts, and of the transports and victualling vessels employed in His Majesty's service) His Majesty by his several Orders in Council of the 13th and 27th of October, and of the 6th and 22d of November, 1775, and of the 5th and 19th of this instant, February, has thought proper to permit and allow the exportation of and carrying coastwise, Gunpowder, Saltpetre, Arms and Ammunition, under certain conditions and restrictions mentioned in the said Orders; His Majesty doth, therefore, by and with the advice of his Privy Council, hereby order, require, prohibit, and command, that no person, or persons, whosoever, (except the Master-General, Lieutenant-General, or principal officers of the Ordnance for His Majesty's service,) do at any time during the space of three months, to commence from the said 23d day of this instant, February, presume to transport into any parts out of this Kingdom, or carry coastwise, any Gunpowder, Saltpetre, or any sort of Arms or Ammunition, or ship or lade any Gunpowder, Saltpetre, or any sort of Arms or Ammunition, on board any ship or vessel, in order to transporting the same beyond the seas, or carrying the same coastwise, except in the cases comprised within the aforementioned Orders in Council of the 13th and 27th of October, and the 6th and 22d of November, 1775, and of the 5th and 19th of this instant, February, without leave or permission in that behalf first obtained from His Majesty, or his Privy Council, upon pain of incurring and suffering the respective forfeitures and penalties inflicted by an Act passed in the twenty-ninth year of his late Majesty's reign, intituled, "An Act to empower His Majesty to prohibit the exportation of Saltpetre, and to enforce the law for empowering His Majesty to prohibit the exportation of Gunpowder, or any sort of Arms and Ammunition; and also, to empower His Majesty to restrain the carrying coastwise of Saltpetre, Gunpowder, or any sort of Arms or Ammunition;" and the Lords Commissioners of His Majesty's Treasury, the Commissioners for executing the office of Lord High Admiral of Great Britain, the Lord Warden of the Cinque Ports, the Master-General of the Ordnance, and His Majesty's Secretary at War, are to give the necessary directions herein as to them may respectively appertain.

MARYLAND COUNCIL OF SAFETY TO CAPTAIN FULFORD.

[No. 21.] Annapolis, February 21, 1776.

SIR: From an opinion of your knowledge of cannon, we have thought proper to appoint you to prove those to be supplied this Province, by Messrs. Samuel and Daniel Hughes, and request you will immediately repair for that purpose to their works at Antietam. We enclose you an order on the Committee of Observation for the Middle District of Frederick County, for what powder may be wanting, and will defray any expense you may necessarily incur on that service. The commission for Mr. Massenback, to be Second Lieutenant, you will please to deliver him, and give him proper instructions how to act with regard to the company of Matrosses, during your absence.

We are, &c.

To Captain Fulford.

GENTLEMEN: Finding, by the resolves of last Convention, that commissioned officers of Minute-Men are excused from appearing among the Militia in a lower station, I take the liberty of applying to you for the following commissions, for myself and my inferior officers, that we may convince the most prejudiced that we are justly entitled to the above indulgence: Jacob Young, Captain; Peter Grosh, First Lieutenant; Archibald Boyd, Second Lieutenant; Rezin Davis, Ensign.

I am, with much respect, gentlemen, your very humble servant,

JACOB YOUNG.

To the Council of Safety, of Maryland.

JOSEPH ROBINSON TO NEW-YORK CONGRESS.

Jamaica, Long-Island, February 21, 1776.

SIR: I received a letter from you (as President of the Provincial Congress) desiring me to collect what evidence I can against those persons that were taken up here in our County, by order of the Continental Congress, and to transmit the same to our Convention, to prove that they are inimical to our glorious contest, and of their receiving powder. I think the Congress is furnished with the strongest and clearest proof that can be desired: their own publick opposition, and their many publick publications against the mode pursuing by the United Colonies; and, likewise, their own acknowledging the receiving and getting powder, I think as clear proof as can be desired to prove them enemies to our cause; so clear that even our own Convention publickly published them as such, and summoned, I believe, the major part of those gentlemen to appear before the Congress and answer for their conduct; which summons, sir, they despised and refused to obey. Mr. Peter Clowes is a proper person to refer you to for information of their conduct concerning the summons, and who were present when he went among them. To prove those of the gentlemen (who live in our township) being very industrious in riding to persuade the ignorant to oppose us, the Congress need only summons any of our inhabitants here.

As this letter will be read publickly, I cannot, consistent with my safety, publickly name persons who would be proper evidences; but I think Colonel Heard can inform the Congress of those that received and distributed out the powder. Whatever I can evidence, I shall readily obey the summons of the Congress.

I am, sir, yours, and the Congress's very humble servant,

JOSEPH ROBINSON.

To the New-York Congress.

GENERAL SCHUYLER TO PRESIDENT OF CONGRESS.

[Read March 4, 1776.]

Albany, February 21, 1776.

SIR: I forgot yesterday to mention, that I thought it highly expedient to direct the Commissary-General to send Deputies into Canada, in order to put that branch upon a proper footing there. I fear that for the want of such persons as understand the business, all will run into confusion, if it is not already so.

Mr. Livingston has just informed me that Mr. Price intended to apply for the Commissary-Generalship in Canada. I immediately sent a note to Mr. Price, but he had left town; if he had informed me that he had such an intention, I should not have hesitated to have recommended the appointment, as such an officer is much wanted in Canada, and Mr. Price is certainly entitled to it.

I shall, however, direct Mr. Livingston to send on Messrs. Swart and Benson, who are the persons he has appointed, and if the Commissary-Generalship is conferred on Mr. Price, he may employ them as his Deputies, if he finds they will serve.

I am, sir, most respectfully, your obedient, humble servant,

PHILIP SCHUYLER.

To the Honourable John Hancock, Esq., &c.

GENERAL SCHUYLER TO NEW-YORK CONGRESS.

Albany, February 21, 1776.

SIR: Mr. Payne has been employed during part of last campaign in the artillery way; he seems active and lively, and if you have not already appointed the officers of the Artillery company, it might be well to employ him, as he expresses a desire for the service, and is willing to return immediately into Canada.

I am, sir, your most obedient, humble servant,

PHILIP SCHUYLER.

To the President of the New-York Congress.

GENERAL WOOSTER TO PRESIDENT OF CONGRESS.

Montreal, February 21, 1776.

GENTLEMEN: Our distressing circumstances, together with the fatal consequences we have reason to apprehend, for want of hard money, have induced me to send my Secretary, Mr. Cole, to you, to bring forward what can be instantly procured. Provisions and wood cannot be obtained, nor can we pay for the transporting of any thing, but with hard cash, which, if we are not immediately supplied with, we must either starve, quit the country, or disgrace our army and the American cause, by laying the country under contribution; there is no other alternative. We have not by us half money enough to answer the pressing demands of the country people, to whom we are indebted. By the middle of March, or a little later, we shall not be able to pass with any thing up and down this country; our flour is already in a manner gone, and every other kind of provision soon will be, yet a large supply must be sent to the camp before the roads are impassable. Our friends here can supply us with specie no longer; our credit sinks with the inhabitants. Mr. Walker and Mr. Price will inform you more fully the absolute necessity of supplying the army before it is too late; a few days delay, at this critical time, may be attended with fatal consequences. I understand there is a quantity of pork at Fort George, which I have desired General Schuyler to forward across the Lakes; whether he will do it or not; I cannot say: I hope he will. Being certain that the Congress want nothing but information of the necessities of the army, in order, as far as possible, to supply them, I now take the liberty to give the necessary information, and am, with the greatest respect, gentlemen, your most obedient, and very humble servant,

DAVID WOOSTER.

To the Honourable Continental Congress.

Prospect-Hill, February 21, 1776.

Colonel Varnum and Colonel Bond have made choice of Mr. David for Chaplain for their Regiments: Colonel Hitchcock and Colonel Little have made choice of the Rev. Mr. Noble as Chaplain to their Regiments, providing your Excellency approves thereof.

I am, with due respect, your Excellency's most obedient, humble servant,

NATHANIEL GREENE, B. G.

To His Excellency General Washington.

VIRGINIA COMMITTEE OF SAFETY.

In Committee of Safety, Williamsburgh, February 22, 1776.

Mr. Walter Hutton, of Accomack County, being taken up for trial by the Committee of that County, as having written a letter to Nathaniel Coffin, Esq., containing sentiments very unfriendly to the rights of America, an extract from which was published in Mr. Purdie's Gazette of the 2d instant, was, at his own request, referred by the said Committee to the determination of this Board. Mr. Hutton accordingly appeared, and, being shown the manuscript extract from the said letter, transmitted from Philadelphia, declared himself well satisfied that it was faithfully taken from the original, and was willing the Committee should proceed to his trial upon that as his letter. He, at the same time, expressed his contrition for having written the letter, and his intention, in future, to conduct himself without offence. Whereupon, he was desired to retire, and reduce to writing what he was willing to say on that subject, and deliver it in the next morning. He accordingly, the next day, gave in the following paper, viz :

"Whereas, I, in November last, wrote a letter to Nathaniel Coffin, Esq., of Boston, wherein I mentioned sundry things disrespectful of the American cause; I, therefore, do now freely acknowledge my imprudence in so doing, and am sorry for the same; and I do hereby further agree and promise, that, for the future, (during the present unhappy dispute between Great Britain and America;) I will not, either by writing or speaking, give any information to any person in power, or any other person whatsoever, prejudicial to the American cause; but, that I will conduct myself entirely, henceforward, so as to give no occasion of offence.

"WALTER HATTON.

"Williamsburgh, February 22, 1776."

Which being satisfactory to the Committee, Mr. Hatton is discharged, and recommended to the friends of America to be restored to the peace and protection of society, so long as he observes the rule of conduct he has promised as aforesaid; and, it is Ordered, That these proceedings be published in the Virginia Gazette.

For the Committee :

EDMUND PENDLETON, President.

Northampton County, Virginia, February 22, 1776.

About a week ago two Minute Companies arrived here from Maryland—one from Kent County, under the command of Captain William Henry, the other from Queen-Anne, under the command of Captain James Kent. They are two very fine companies, extremely well armed, having amongst them many gentlemen of family and fortune, and are examples of good discipline and subordination. The day after their arrival, the Committee met, and addressed them as follows :

To Captain WILLIAM HENRY, and Captain JAMES KENT, and the Troops under their command.

GENTLEMEN : The Committee of Northampton County beg leave to congratulate you upon your safe arrival into this County, after a fatiguing march, at this rigorous season.

When gentlemen of easy fortunes, such as the companies we have seen from your Province, and who can enjoy at home every convenience and elegance of life, enter themselves voluntarily to serve their country, by undertaking a tedious march at an inclement season, and cheerfully submitting to every inconvenience consequent thereto, it cannot be doubted that they are actuated by the noblest principles; they are justly entitled to the thanks of their country, and we hope Providence will ever crown them with honour and success.

The peaceful state which this once happy County ever enjoyed, till the present unnatural, though unavoidable contest, renders us totally unprovided for the proper reception of a number of armed men; and we hope, gentlemen, you will consider the very indifferent accommodations which you meet with here as solely owing to this cause, and not from want of respect and attention to your circumstances. We, however, beg leave to assure you, that nothing in our power shall be wanting to promote your convenience and happiness, which the situation of our County will permit, in full confidence that you will, at all times, during your residence amongst us, cheerfully co-operate with this Committee in maintaining good order and regularity in this place, and in opposing the dangerous designs of all the secret and avowed enemies of American liberty.

To which the Committee received the following Answer :

Head-Quarters, Northampton Court-House, {

Mr. President, and Gentlemen of the Committee for NORTHAMPTON County, VIRGINIA :

We return thanks for your very polite Address to us, and the companies under our command, upon our arrival at this place, as, also, for your attention in making the necessary provision for our reception.

Impressed with a lively sense of the duty we owe to our country, and animated with the glorious cause of American liberty, we cheerfully left our habitations, thinking no difficulties too much for a people to encounter who were determined to die or live free, and shall esteem ourselves happy in proportion to the services we shall be able to render the Colony, and this County in particular.

We are not insensible of the many inconveniences attending the accommodation of soldiers in a country hitherto a stranger to war, and with pleasure we find your assiduity has conquered these difficulties, and made our residence easy and agreeable.

Be assured, gentlemen, we shall be always ready to give you any assistance in our power, consistent with our duty, to preserve good order and regularity; and shall be at all times thankful for your advice and directions in the execution of the trust reposed in us, especially as we are strangers to what is and may have been transacted in this place.

We beg leave to subscribe ourselves, with the greatest respect, gentlemen, your very obedient servants,

WILLIAM HENRY,
JAMES KENT.

MARYLAND COUNCIL OF SAFETY TO BALTIMORE COMMITTEE.
[No. 22.] Annapolis, February 22, 1776.

GENTLEMEN : The repeated instances you have given of your readiness to co-operate with us in such measures as we have thought conducive to the interest and security of this Province under our present unhappy circumstances, have proved very acceptable, and the information communicated by Mr. Samuel Purviance, Jun., by your order, that you will assist in providing shot suitable for the cannon, for which we have the pleasure to hear you have engaged a number of workmen in making wheels and carriages, agreeable to our requisition, when at Baltimore, affords us real satisfaction. Confiding in your zeal and diligence, we request you will immediately employ some able and skillful person in supplying a sufficient quantity of ball proper for those guns; and as we are advised some of the shot furnished the ship Defence are not round, that you will be particularly attentive to the casting of them, and receive none but what are truly formed and fit for service. We have not yet been wrote to by Mr. Hughes, for a Proofmaster to try the cannon he agreed with the last Convention to furnish for the use of this Province, or had any satisfactory information in what forwardness they are; however, as we are anxious to expedite this business, and presume Mr. Hughes must have run some of them by this time, we have appointed Captain Fulford to approve them, and have wrote him upon the subject; and from a wish to have every thing in readiness against the guns are brought down, we desire you will immediately contract for fit and proper carriages for them, to be supplied as expeditiously as they can. We are, &c.

To the Committee of Observation for Baltimore County.

Mount Clare, February 22, 1776.

GENTLEMEN : The enclosed was sent to my house at Annapolis, and by my clerk sent me up here. Mr. Hughes, by what he has heard, supposes there may be twenty nine-pounders cast by this time, though he has not, since we saw him at Baltimore Town, received any letter from his brother. There will be, he tells me, one thousand and eighty pounds of powder wanting to try them all; one hundred and eighty weight for the twenty nine-pounders, and nine hundred for the fifty eighteen-pounders, at the weight of the ball in powder for each gun. This, I suppose, must be ordered from Fredericktown; however, you will consider whether it may be necessary to send the powder for the eighteen-pounders till all or some of them at least be cast. You will observe what he says about the kinds of powder. I suppose that sent from Annapolis to Frederick was proper for cannon, if not, I do not know that we have any; the only method then we can fall upon, must be to diminish the quantity in proportion to the strength; this, I collected from him, was what he desired. I really do not know any person of experience and knowledge that we could appoint to attend the proving of them, and trying of their boxes, to find whether they were clear of material flaws. Major Pierce, if he be with you, perhaps may be able to inform you of one. Mr. Hughes mentioned Mr. Steel and Mr. Baird; if they understand it and will be pleased to undertake it, I am sure I shall not have the least objection to them. Mr. Cummings waits on you with his bond; he has made some alterations; if you agree to them I shall have no objection.

I am, gentlemen, your most obedient, humble servant,
CHARLES CARROLL.

GOVERNOUR OF PENNSYLVANIA TO THE ASSEMBLY.

Thursday, February 22, 1776.

GENTLEMEN: In consequence of your message of the 25th of November last, founded on a letter addressed to you from the County of Northumberland, respecting the Connecticut settlers at Wyoming, I took the earliest opportunity of giving orders to the Magistrates of that County to put the laws of this Province in execution in their County. The letter I have since received from the Magistrates and Sheriff, which I have ordered the Secretary to lay before you, will inform you of the steps they took in pursuance of my order, and of the unfortunate event of their proceedings.

As a considerable expense must have arisen on this attempt to execute the laws of the Government, I doubt not you will readily make provision for defraying it.

JOHN PENN.

LETTER TO THE GOVERNOUR FROM NORTHUMBERLAND.

Sunday, December 30, 1775.

SIR: In pursuance of your Honour's letter of the 25th ult., the Magistrates of this County delivered into the hands of our Sheriff warrants and other legal processes against a number of persons residing at Wyoming, in this County, who have been charged on oath with the most illegal practices, and some of them with the greatest crimes. The Sheriff, apprehensive of resistance, judged it prudent to raise the Posse of the County; a body of near five hundred men accompanied him to the neighbourhood of Wyoming, where they were met by some people from Wyoming, (one of whom was said to be an officer;) to these men the intention of the Sheriff and his Posse was sufficiently explained, and the strongest assurances given that no violence or molestation should be offered to any person submitting to the laws. The Sheriff proceeded, however, but a little farther, when he was most unexpectedly fired upon—one man (Hugh McWilliams) killed, and three others dangerously wounded. It was soon found impossible to force a passage on that side of the river, as the Narrows, naturally strong, had been fortified with the greatest care, and were lined with numbers of men, to which ours bore no reasonable proportion. An attempt was made to cross the river, with design, if possible, to arrive at the settlement of the persons against whom process had issued, without further molestation. This attempt was, for greater secrecy, made in the night. When the boats had nearly reached the opposite shore, and were entangled in a margin of ice, too thin to bear the weight of a man, they were, without any previous challenge, fired upon repeatedly by a party from the top of the bank. Jesse Lukins received a mortal wound, of which he is since dead. Sundry others narrowly escaped. As a landing could not be effected, the boats returned. Baffled in this second attempt, the weather being intolerably severe, and receiving information that the persons we wished to arrest were the chief in command in their breastworks, it was thought advisable to desist from any further attempt. The boat with the wounded men was fired on, while within gunshot; a constant fire was kept up on our men from the opposite side, while they retreated through a long narrows; one man only, however, was wounded, in the arm.

We are sorry to inform your Honour that a very considerable expense is incurred in this unfortunate affair. We, however, hope that the other branch of the Legislature will show the same readiness, in properly resenting this daring insult on the Government of the Province, which we have ever experienced in your Honour.

We are, with great respect, your Honour's most obedient, and most humble servants,

WILLIAM SCULL, Sheriff,
SAMUEL HARRIS, Coroner,
WILLIAM PLUNKET,
SAMUEL HUNTER,
MICHAEL TROY,
JOHN WEITZEL.

To the Honourable the Representatives of the Freemen of the Province of PENNSYLVANIA, in General Assembly met. The Memorial of the Committee of Safety.

In Committee of Safety, Philadelphia, February 22, 1776.

The Committee have, ever since their appointment, applied themselves with the greatest zeal and fidelity to the important trust confided to them, in providing means for the defence of this Province; they were, however, such means only as were thought more immediately requisite for our security against the attempts made by a naval armament, and were, besides, necessarily confined within the limits of the funds allotted to them by your honourable House; but they beg leave to represent, that, as every day brings with it fresh proofs of the violence of the British Ministry, and of their fixed purpose to subdue the free spirit of America, that has yet given such obstruction to all their schemes of tyranny and despotism—a purpose assisted, too, by an obsequious Parliament, which may not speak the genuine sense of the nation, though it has, unhappily, the direction of its force, it truly becomes us to prepare seriously for the storm gathering over the Colonies, and which, in the uncertainty of its course, may, in a few weeks, fall upon this Province. This being the idea of the Committee, they have come to the following resolution, claiming the most earnest attention of your honourable House thereto:

“Resolved, That application be made to the honourable the House of Representatives, praying that they will take order for the raising of two thousand men to act in the defence of this Province; and this Board will represent it as their opinion, that they will be most for the publick service, that one Battalion of Regular Troops be formed out of that number, and the remainder be a body of Riflemen.”

The Committee beg leave to solicit your attention to another object, also of extensive importance—the Military Association; the general sentiments concerning which, they have, in the recess of Assembly, had an opportunity of collecting, and though such numbers already have, and we hope, will still engage in it, under its present form, as may prove a considerable addition to our strength, yet, as there are material objections made to it, and, as they understand, are to be laid before your honourable House by divers respectable bodies of men, they submit to you, whether it will not be highly expedient, and consistent with good policy, immediately to remove every cause of discontent on this head from the minds of the Associators, who, under an apprehension of partial and unequal burdens imposed on them, have, nevertheless, had the virtue not to refuse their services to their country, in confidence that your honourable House will reconsider the several provisions and regulations complained of, and give them satisfaction therein.

By order of the Committee:

ALEXANDER WILCOCKS, Chairman.

ORANGE COUNTY (NEW-YORK) COMMITTEE TO PROVINCIAL CONGRESS.

In Committee, February 22, 1776.

GENTLEMEN: Upon receiving blank warrants, the Committee are now met to acquiesce with the request of Congress to fill them; but debates ensuing which of the officers on nomination for raising two companies should have the preference and have the warrants made out, on motion, it was carried that the warrants be returned, and the Congress to use their discretion, as our doing otherwise would involve us in heated parties and precinct disputes; we, therefore, pray you will not impute this measure to want of zeal to do every thing in our power for the general good, and do earnestly desire the honourable Congress to fill up the warrants as may seem meet to you, or otherwise furnish us with one other set of warrants, as each of the parties in nomination have spent much time in making advances towards raising their respective companies, which will extricate us out of the difficulty we now labour under.

We are, gentlemen, your humble servants,

DAVID PYE,
Deputy Chairman of County Committee.
JOHN COLEMAN, Deputy Clerk.

To the President of the Provincial Congress, New-York.

E. W. KIERS TO THOMAS SMITH.

Haverstraw, New-York, February 22, 1776.

SIR: A very disagreeable division is like to break out amongst us on account of two companies agreed upon by the Committee to be raised at the south side of the mountain. Captain Amos Hutchings and Captain Ary King, were recommended by the Committee. Mr. Hutchings has, to my knowledge, been at a great fatigue and expense already, in engaging a number of hearty men in order to have his company full as soon as possible; he has about fifty men ready engaged. Captain Ary King has also an inclination to serve his country. We have but one set of warrants come up. We are at a very great loss how to act. If you will be instrumental in obtaining two sets of warrants for this side of the mountains, which, I think, will be the only means of settling all division in these parts, you will greatly oblige your most humble servant,

E. W. KIERS.

GENERAL LEE TO PRESIDENT OF CONGRESS.

New-York, February 22, 1776.

SIR: Last night I had the honour of receiving yours, with the resolves and commands of the Congress, which I shall obey with the greatest zeal and alacrity, and all possible expedition. The confidence reposed in me is extremely flattering, and I shall labour to deserve their good opinion.

As I am yet very weak and tender, after my illness, I shall take the liberty to remain here a few days, at least until I am able to walk and ride with a tolerable degree of ease, which, at present, I am incapable of doing; in fact, venturing upon a journey in the state I am in might risk a relapse, which might totally incapacitate me from being of any service in that part of the world or elsewhere.

The cannon ordered by the Congress to Canada, shall be fitted out and despatched without loss of time; the Provincial Congress are now preparing the means. Mortars there are none, which is very unfortunate, as in the attack of towns they are absolutely necessary.

I was much disappointed, sir, in not being joined by a battalion from Philadelphia, as I was taught to expect. I did not apply for them merely with a view of opposing Mr. Clinton with the troops he should bring with him. I had sufficient, and more than sufficient force to cope with him, but it was agreed, in the conference held with the three gentlemen who were here, as a Committee from the Congress, that it would be necessary to retrench a camp in Long-Island, capacious enough to contain at least three thousand men; and although it was thought impracticable to fortify the sea side of the town against shipping, it was allowed and determined to be expedient to throw up divers works in the city and its environs, in order to prevent the enemy's getting possession of it. To accomplish these works, sir, not a small number of hands are requisite. Our present numbers are so far from being adequate to the business, that they are scarcely sufficient to mark out the works, and, at the same time, do the necessary garrison duty. As to the Minute-Men, no account ought to be made of them. Had I been as much acquainted with them when they were summoned as I am at present, I should have exerted myself to prevent their coming. The expense of these gentry is most intolerable. They have, upon an average, about two men to one officer; but the expense of their subsistence is not all; the loss of powder to the publick is dreadful. They leave their homes without a grain; they expect, and must be supplied out of the publick magazines; when they return they carry it with them. Upon the whole, sir, I cannot help expressing my wishes, that the Congress will find means of establishing one great Continental regular army, adequate to all the purposes of defence. Every consideration, that of economy as well as security, dictate the measure.

At present, we have here Lord Stirling's, Waterbury's, and Ward's Battalions. Waterbury's and Ward's are only enlisted to the 12th of March. In eighteen days, therefore, the whole force will consist of Lord Stirling's Regiment, not quite five hundred men fit for duty. I own I tremble for this important place; I cannot help fearing that the enemy will have possession of it. I submit it to the wisdom of the Congress whether a force should not be immediately provided to prevent so fatal an event. If they depend on the four regiments ordered to be raised in this Province, they will, I am afraid, be cruelly disappointed: for, from all those I have conversed with on the subject, many months will be required for their completion, if they are ever completed. I hope you will excuse my being so diffuse with respect to New-York, I thought it my duty to be particular on so important a subject.

I have a favour to ask of the Congress. Doctor Fague, who is settled at Fairfield, in Connecticut, is a French gentleman of ability, probity, and skill in his profession. He knows Canada very well; is known and esteemed there. He speaks French and English with great ease and fluency. He is extremely desirous of accompanying me. If, sir, there is a possibility of placing him in the Hospital, but in a station and rank proportioned to his pretensions, I apprehend he might not only be of great use to me, but to the publick. If the Hospital is already disposed of, I should think it worth while to appoint him to some other office.

Before I conclude, sir, I ought to apprise you that a very considerable number of the guns we took from the Battery are absolutely unfit for service. The enclosed is a return of those that are good, and those that may be used on occasion.

I am, sir, with the greatest respect, your most obedient servant,

CHARLES LEE.

To the Honourable John Hancock, Esq., President of the Continental Congress.

GENERAL HEATH TO GENERAL WASHINGTON.

Camp at Cambridge, February 22, 1776.

MAY IT PLEASE YOUR EXCELLENCY: I some time since reported that Colonels Prescott and Phinney had chosen the Reverend Mr. Foster for the Chaplain for those regiments. This choice is but temporary, as it is at present uncertain whether Mr. Foster can be absent from his own Parish for more than a month or two. I now beg leave further to report, that Colonels Greaton and Baldwin have made choice of the Reverend Mr. Barnum for the Chaplain of their regiments.

Having five regiments in the brigade under my command, Colonel Sargent finds it difficult to join another regiment, at present; and, as there are nine regiments in the camp at Roxbury, one of them must, of necessity, join with some regiment in this camp, and, as the situation of Colonel Prescott's regiment seems to point out that as the most proper one, it has been proposed that such a junction take place, and that Colonel Sargent and Colonel Phinney should join. This, however, seems at present a little embarrassed, on account of the uncertainty of Mr. Foster's continuing the whole campaign.

All which is humbly submitted, by your Excellency's most humble servant,

W. HEATH, Brigadier-General.

To His Excellency General Washington.

GENERAL WASHINGTON TO GENERAL LEE.

Cambridge, February 22, 1776.

DEAR SIR: I fully expected, by the two last posts, to have received your favours, with an account of the measures you have been, and are pursuing, for the defence of New-York, and of such occurrences as you might have thought worthy of notice; as I did not, nor got several other letters which I expected, I cannot but suppose they have been intercepted at some of the offices, or by some accident prevented coming to my hands.

I need not mention my impatience to hear from you, and beg that you will write me by every opportunity.

I am, dear sir, &c.,

GEORGE WASHINGTON.

To General Lee.

GENERAL WASHINGTON TO GOVERNOUR TRUMBULL.

Cambridge, February 22, 1776.

GOVERNOUR TRUMBULL: In my letter to you of the 19th instant, I mentioned that I was sorry to find that there were come but forty-two hundred and seventeen pounds of powder, instead of six or eight thousand I had expectations of. I had taken my information from Governour Cooke's letter, which, upon a perusal, I find mentions that weight, including the casks. I have since had it weighed by the Commissary, an exact return of which you have enclosed, by which you will see that the nett weight is three thousand five hundred and seventy-seven pounds; five hundred and seventy-seven pounds thereof will be placed to the credit of your Colony, and the whole settled for in whatever manner will be most agreeable.

I have just received a letter from J. Huntington, Esq., with the agreeable account of his having forwarded two tons of powder to this camp, by your order. Accept, sir, of my thanks for this seasonable supply. When it arrives I shall send you an account of it, and when you point out the mode, it shall be paid for, or replaced, in the manner you and the rest of your Legislature shall think proper.

I have nothing new at present to communicate to you from hence, but you may be assured that I am, with great esteem, sir, your most obedient servant,

GEORGE WASHINGTON.

To Governour Trumbull.

JOHN LANGDON TO NEW-HAMPSHIRE COMMITTEE OF SAFETY.
Portsmouth, February 22, 1776.

GENTLEMEN: I have just enrolled nearly one hundred men in the Ship-Yard, and have ordered every man to attend the muster at an appointed time, with a good fire-arm, powder, and ball, some of which are already completely equipped; but, as there is no powder to be had, only what is in the publick stores, would submit it to the consideration of the honourable Committee, whether it would not be best to order that those men who are not supplied already, to be supplied by the publick, when occasion requires, or, if it is best, for each to appear with one half pound of powder in his horn, for which a receipt to be taken, and if it is not returned, or made use of against the enemy, to pay double of the value at this time, which I will stop out of their wages; which I think will effectually prevent waste, and put those who have no powder upon the same footing with those who have but their own ammunition. I think I may with safety serve the Colony in this matter, and not in the least interfere with the Continental business. I should be glad to have some answer from the honourable Committee relative to this matter, as I have ordered every man to be ready for mustering by such a day, and should be glad to have every man furnished.

I am, with great respect, your most obedient servant,

JOHN LANGDON.

To the Honourable Committee of Safety of the Colony of New-Hampshire.

Williamsburgh, Virginia, February 23, 1776.

Two paragraphs from Lord Dunmore's Virginia Gazette, (as he calls it), printed on board his own ship, February 3d, 1776, may serve to show us what is the wish, and, we should presume, the intention of the Ministry:

"I hope that the British spirit is not so debased, that, for a little temporary interest, and precarious tranquillity, you will give up your dignity and honour, and render your nation contemptible in the eyes of all Europe. No, let them feel what it is to provoke and insult a great and powerful people, who have so lately astonished the world by their achievements. When they return to their duty and sue for pardon, let the conditions be: lay down your arms, deliver up your leaders to just punishment, retire quietly to your homes, and submit to the Legislature of your parent state.

"Do not sink, my Lord, under the glorious struggle; let not ignominious accommodation with our rebellious and ungrateful Colonies fade and tarnish your country's glory, and efface the remembrance of your former great conduct; let difficulties animate you to the utmost exertion of your powers. You have the confidence of your Sovereign, the support of the most independent Parliament that ever sat within those walls; you have the warmest approbation of every wise and good man, the body of the nation is with you, and you may command their natural force."

It is true, these are only extracts from the Publick Advertiser, but they were addressed to Lord North, and have a strong resemblance to his and the King's speech; and I will remark here, by-the-by, that these extracts were published and circulated by Lord Dunmore seven days after the date of his friendly letter.

A writer [in Dunmore's Gazette] who signs himself Candidus, supposed to be one Finlayson, a young Scotchman, formerly a shopkeeper in this city, who was genteelly caned by a certain Captain, some time before Captain Foy left the country, introduces the letter, from which the above extracts are made, in an elaborate piece, in which he complains of the publication of falsehood and concealment of truth, in all the newspapers except the one his Lordship has pressed into his service, (and a few others,) and which Candidus is supposed to superintend.

"I must do you, sir, the justice [says he to his printer] to say, that your press does not come within the description above given, being, undoubtedly, much in favour of American measures; it is the more necessary at this time, in order to give room for such truths and wholesome advice, as cannot otherwise be conveyed to the ears of the people, or is not, through the prostitute presses at present on the Continent. I am insensibly drawn into these reflections, while I meant to convey to you the following paper to be published, from the Publick Advertiser."

But, to return to the subject of a reconciliation: America, finding that the British Parliament, not content with restraining her trade within the most narrow bounds, had proceeded to drain her, by internal taxes, of the little circulating cash she had, remonstrated and petitioned in vain against such unjust and oppressive acts, and resolved "to contract herself within her little sphere, and be contented with her homespun," and, to use the words of the Virginia Petition to the King, this is all we did, and all we threatened, and for this the vengeance of an avaricious and tyrannical Administration has been poured out upon us. The national debt is so enormous, the expense of dependants and pensioners so heavy, that the Ministry could not think of leaving it to America to determine what part of it she would pay off; they thought they should stick at nothing to carry into execution the plan they had so much at heart, and which would make them absolute masters of the property of every man in America, to the lightening of their own burdens, the satisfying their avarice, and gratifying their lust of power. Hence, they could not scruple to encourage Indians, and Slaves to assist in their bloody plan of crushing and enslaving us.

It is evident that Administration, whatever it may do now, never wished for an accommodation; every step that they have taken was evidently calculated to preclude all hopes of it; it was their interest, wish, and intention, on the supposition that they could conquer America at a little risk and small expense, to force us into rebellion, to have a pretence for subduing and enslaving us, and glutting their avarice with the forfeited estates in America. As the Ministry could not wish for an accommodation before their disappointment, we have some reason to be on our guard during the negotiation, especially as they seem determined to send out a powerful armament with their Commissioners. They are determined to treat with us with the sword at our breasts; we should, therefore, be armed with a shield, and, with drawn swords, be ready to parry the thrusts which may be made at us, if we should refuse to submit to some insulting proposal.

Let no one think me an enemy to accommodation; I only caution my countrymen against being thrown off their guard, for I confess I suspect the sincerity of the Ministry. What occasion have they to send over Commissioners, fleets, and armies, if they intend to repeal the acts we complain of? We asked but for "peace, liberty, and security," and promised to disband our troops and return to a full and free trade with Great Britain, if the King would recall his troops and the Parliament repeal the obnoxious acts. What requests could be more reasonable? What easier for Britain to do? If this had been done, all would be right; there could be no room for fears and suspicions on our part, and we should have been bound in honour, and have fulfilled our promises in the petition, and, without any delay, or expense of a negotiation, peace and happiness would instantly be diffused throughout America.

I fear this fleet and armament can never be the harbingers of peace; therefore, however ardently I wish for peace, I must earnestly recommend it to my countrymen to be prepared for war.

A VIRGINIAN.

MARYLAND COUNCIL OF SAFETY TO THE SEVERAL COMMITTEES OF OBSERVATION.

[No. 23.] Annapolis, February 23, 1776.

To Committees where only Fifty Men are stationed:

GENTLEMEN: We perceive, by the proceedings of the Convention, that one-half of Captain Rezin Beall's company are to be stationed in your County. We understand the officers of that company are drawing their men together, and are desirous of knowing where they are to be stationed, so as to answer the purpose intended. We know not where proper houses can be got in your County, and, therefore, request you would make inquiry, and let us know your sentiments, where the men ought to be stationed, and whether convenient houses can be got for them.

Annapolis, February 23, 1776.

To Committees for those Counties where whole Independent Companies were stationed:

GENTLEMEN: Agreeable to the resolves of the last Convention, an Independent Company is to be stationed at such place in your County as the Council of Safety may think proper; but, as we are not so well acquainted with your County as to determine where they may be most conveniently posted, we shall be glad the Committee of Observation would take the matter under consideration, and give us their sentiments of the place which may best answer the intended purpose. We are, &c.

RICHARD BARNES TO MARYLAND COUNCIL OF SAFETY.

Leonardtown, February 23, 1776.

GENTLEMEN: Agreeable to the directions of our Committee, I send you, by Lieutenant Neale, seven gun-locks, which are all we have belonging to the publick. I have also sent you some gold, which be kind enough to give him paper money for. Philip Reed, Second Lieutenant in the Leonardtown company of Militia, has desired leave to resign his commission, as being very inconvenient for him to attend; should, therefore, be glad you would appoint Bennet Combs, in his place, (who is Ensign in the company,) and James Williams, Ensign. The company belongs to the twenty-first battalion of Militia. If agreeable, send the commissions by Mr. Neale.

We have received no powder, as yet, from Charles County.

I remain, gentlemen, your humble servant,

RICHARD BARNES.

FREDERICK RHINELANDER TO PETER VAN SCHAACK.

New-York, February 23, 1776.

DEAR SIR: At my return from Philadelphia, I had the happiness to receive your long letter. As I am to consider it as an answer to mine, of six and a half lines, I am the more obliged to you for its contents.

I forbear to mention the distressed state of this once happy city. Though General Lee has every thing to recommend him as a General, yet I think he was out of luck when he ordered the removal of the guns from the Battery, as it was without the approbation or knowledge of our Congress; consequently, the inhabitants were unprepared for so melancholy an event. The inclemency of the weather heightened our distress. The wind, too, was so high, that the rivers could not be crossed, but with the utmost hazard. Samuel Bayard was made prisoner. The Secretary's office is removed to Nicholas Bayard's, where Samuel is yet under a guard. Mr. Stevens is made prisoner by the New-England troops, and sent to Hartford. A flag was sent on board the Asia, with a proposal to exchange Stevens for a New-England officer, taken by the Asia, last summer. No answer has been sent. General Clinton has gone to the Southward. It is said he expects to be joined by seven thousand troops from the other side the water.

General Lee is taking every necessary step to fortify and defend this city. The men-of-war are gone out of our harbour; the Phenix is at the Hook; the Asia lies near Bedlow's Island; so that we are now in a state of perfect peace and security, were it not for our apprehensions of future danger. To see the vast number of houses shut up, one would think the city almost evacuated. Women and children are scarcely to be seen in the streets. Troops are daily coming in; they break open and quarter themselves in any houses they find shut up. Necessity knows no law. Private interest must give way to the publick good. Mr. Jacob Walton was ordered to remove, and give up his house, which is now occupied by the soldiers. I have not moved an article out of town yet, though I have taken a house for my family, at a place called Paranus. The Speaker has desired me to get a place for him in the same neighbourhood. I think it will be out of the route of the Army.

We are going to raise a new battalion. Colonels Lasher and Gouverneur Morris are candidates for the command. As both the gentlemen have great merit, it is hard to tell which will succeed.

General Lee is ordered to take the command at Canada; General Schuyler to command at New-York.

Yours, &c.,

FREDERICK RHINELANDER.

ROBERT BOYD, JUN., TO NEW-YORK CONGRESS.

New-Windsor, February 23, 1776.

GENTLEMEN: Your favour of the 12th instant came safe to hand, and I note the contents; but am at a loss to ascertain exactly what number of gun-barrels, &c., I can furnish by the 1st of April, as therein required. I hope, at or near that time, to have as many completed as will pay up the publick money I received, and then propose waiting on the honourable Congress, and determine whether I am to proceed any further, or not; but am inclined to think I shall not, on the strength of the old contract, as by that contract there is no fixed number to be made, only a definite number given, if that could be completed within six months. At the time I contracted, my ideas relative to executing the business were exceedingly erroneous. I thought one month would be sufficient for preparation in order to begin the business; but, with sundry hindrances, four months elapsed before that could be done. I also thought there would be no difficulty in procuring hands who understood the business, or, if there should, I could procure common smiths, who, in a little time, would learn; but found myself egregiously disappointed in both these opinions. In relation to the first, I sent both to East and West, in order to procure hands, but found them all employed on such terms as rendered it out of my power to remove them; and in relation to the second, the difficulty arose from my being circumscribed within the narrow limits of a few months, and could not foresee what would take place at the end of that time; therefore, could not, without a manifest risk, pursue that mode, as it is no trifling affair to teach a number of hands in a business they are wholly ignorant of, at a private expense, without having such a kind of certainty of prosecuting it as will, in the end, reimburse the expense accrued in teaching them. I believe no reasonable man will doubt the sincerity of my intention of carrying on the business to a considerable extensiveness, when they see that I have been at one hundred and twenty pounds expenses in preparing for it; and I do think there is not such a shop in this or any of the neighbouring Governments, (that hath come under my view,) for convenience in carrying on the business aforesaid. But this answers very little purpose, when the superintendent thereof must employ his own fingers at every piece of business that is done in it. But, even in this case, more might have been done, had not much of my time been spent in attendance on publick business, which it was out of my power to avoid.

As I have imposed on the patience of the honourable House in proceeding to this length, therefore shall now conclude, with only observing, that if the honourable Congress think it proper, I will immediately wait on them, and then inform them more fully, concerning this affair, than is consistent with the length of a letter. If not, I shall remain at home till I get the before-mentioned barrels, &c., completed.

I am, gentlemen, with all due esteem, your most obedient, humble servant,

ROBERT BOYD, JUN.

To the Honourable the Provincial Congress for the Colony of New-York.

N. B. I have the number of barrels, &c., before-mentioned, in hand, fit for boring; but my works have been so frozen up this whole winter, that I could neither bore nor grind.

GENERAL SCHUYLER TO PRESIDENT OF CONGRESS.

[Read March 4, 1776.]

Albany, February 23, 1776.

SIR: At two, yesterday afternoon, an express arrived here, in three days, from General Wooster, and brought me a letter, of which the enclosed is a copy.

I was apprehensive that we should meet with difficulties in supplying the Army in Canada with provisions, as I had been informed that much waste had been committed; and, on the 29th ultimo, I desired General Wooster to "send me a return of the names of the Commissaries of Provisions now in Canada, and to advise me how the Army was supplied with provisions." I am, in sentiment, with him, that it is necessary to send a quantity of provisions immediately; for I am morally sure that our cause will suffer, if it is not done; and, as the winter is on the point of leaving us, a delay may be dangerous. I shall, therefore, venture to send four hundred barrels of pork, without waiting the determination of Congress, although it will cost us not less than three pounds a barrel to transport it to Montreal, and, even at that rate, it will be very difficult to procure sleds, as there is hardly any forage left in the country. No time is, also, to be lost in forwarding the cannon, and what military stores are at Ticonderoga and Crown-Point; they will, however, be of little service, unless a considerable quantity of powder is immediately sent. What is gone is very trifling.

I fear I shall not be able to get shoes made in this part of the country sufficient, even, for the troops that are now on their march. I am informed there are none in Canada, and our troops will be greatly distressed for them unless a large number are sent into Canada, as soon as the Lakes are passable by water.

Colonel Wynkoop, to whom I have paid the expenses accrued by the prisoners in Ulster County, has shown me a resolution of Congress for their future subsistence. Would it not be well if Congress was to determine how much money should be allowed, instead of a ration, as the prisoners are quartered upon the people, who cannot find them with the articles allowed by Congress.

As the Commissary-General cannot possibly furnish our troops with all the articles allowed them, I shall make an estimate of what such as he cannot procure will amount to, and order an equivalent in the other species: this is become necessary, as I have already had applications for milk money, &c.

Yesterday, Captain Solomon, one of the chiefs of the Stockbridge Indians, brought me a letter from Mr. Edwards, of which the following is a copy:

"Stockbridge, February 20, 1776.

"DEAR SIR: The bearer, Captain Solomon, with this, waits upon you to give information of the disposition of the Indians in this Town, and to take your directions concerning their going against our enemies in Canada; the refusing their proffered service, is an affair of delicacy, to which you will readily attend.

"I am, dear sir, your friend, and most obedient, humble servant,

"TIMOTHY EDWARDS."

Solomon urged me to let the Stockbridge Indians go to Canada. I considered it as a matter too delicate for me to decide upon, and told him that I would lay his request before Congress. He hinted that they would expect pay.

General Washington, in a letter of the 27th ultimo, says, "I am a little embarrassed to know in what manner to conduct myself with respect to the Caughnawaga Indians now here. They have, notwithstanding the treaty of neutrality, which I find they entered into with you the other day, (agreeable to what appears to be the sense of Congress,) signified to me a desire of taking up arms in behalf of the United Colonies. The Chief of them, and whom, I understand, is now the first man of the nation, intends, as it is intimated to me, to apply to me for a commission, with assurance of raising four or five hundred men when he returns." To which, I answered: "It is extremely difficult to determine what should be done in what you mention respecting the offer made by the Caughnawaga Indians; but, if you can get decently rid of their offer, I would prefer it to employing them. The expense we are at in the Indian Department, is now amazing; it will be more so when they consider themselves as in our service, nor would their intervention be of much consequence, unless we could procure that of the other nations." I am very confident that we should be justified in employing the Savages, since the Ministry have made attempts to engage them against us, and if no other consideration prevented, I should be for it; but, besides the reasons I have given to General Washington, I may add, that they will consider our employing them is of necessity, and they will look upon themselves of more consequence than they really are, and rise in their demands upon us.

I have not yet received any nails, and my carpenters will soon be out of work, unless I employ them in procuring timber for an additional number of batteaus. I find many more of last year's are gone than I imagined. Please to let me have the direction of Congress if I should go beyond one hundred, and how many.

On board of the vessels which were taken near Montreal on the 19th of November, seven hundred and sixty barrels of pork, and six hundred and seventy-five of flour, were found; a quantity sufficient, of the first article, to have served two thousand men to the 3d instant, of the other, to the 22d ultimo. A considerable quantity had been taken a month before at Chamby; a large quantity was at St. John's; Bedel's and Warner's detachments had provisions bought for them; much has been bought since the surrender of Montreal; hence, a waste or embezzlement must have taken place. I can easily account for the loss by only imputing it to the inability of the Commissaries, and the culpable inattention of the officers. I gave orders last year, which, if they had been complied with, would have prevented this evil and extra expense in sending supplies. I have made additions to these orders and sent them into Canada. I have since drawn others; copies of which I shall transmit as soon I can find a little time; but all this will have no effect: Commissaries of reputation must be procured—men that may be depended upon, and genteel pay allowed; unless we have such, the next campaign will be still more expensive in this article than the last; and I believe ten thousand pounds will not more than pay the waste and embezzlement.

Enclose you a letter from General Arnold. That gentleman has acquainted me with the contents. Congress will see that he agrees with me in the necessity of sending a Committee into that country.

I have employed persons to collect all the hard money in this quarter on my own personal security. I am in hopes of procuring two or three thousand pounds in that way; whatever the same may be, I shall immediately transmit it to General Wooster, who must stand in great need of it, as our paper money will not, by any means, pass. I am informed that our soldiers offer to pay three dollars for necessaries to the value of two only. This is an alarming circumstance, and I fear will be attended with no less consequence than that all the men whose time will expire in April, will leave Canada.

St. Luke la Corne arrived with Major Melchior, and some other prisoners are since come. I shall send them all to Ulster County, there to remain until the further orders of Congress.

I am this moment informed that some nails are arrived from Canada, and a considerable quantity are on their way. The shipwrights, to construct the scows in Hudson's River, are not yet arrived. These vessels will be greatly wanted.

Colonel Wynkoop inclines to continue in the service. I do not know an officer more attentive to his duty, and more careful of the publick stores.

None of Colonel Burrell's Regiment yet arrived.

A Mr. Henry, of this town, has, as he informs me, brought cloth sufficient for five hundred tents. If Congress should not have otherwise provided, this might be procured; but here are not a sufficient number of persons to be got to make them up.

I am, sir, most respectfully, and most sincerely, your obedient, humble servant,

PHILIP SCHUYLER.

To the Honourable John Hancock, &c., &c.

Montreal, February 19, 1776.

Sir: The Paymaster has arrived, but has brought no hard cash with him. We can buy no provisions or wood with Continental currency, yet they must be had, and that before the middle of March; after that time, there will be no passing up and down this river for three or four weeks. Perhaps the expedition may fail for want of supplies. Flour may be purchased for nine livres per hundred weight. We ought to purchase a quantity of beef also. What we have will now soon be gone. I understand there is a quantity at Ticonderoga. I think it very necessary that it should be pushed over the Lake immediately. I need say nothing more than inform you that there is not one thousand left of the money which you sent us, and that will be gone in a very few days. I hope our friends will not suffer the enterprise to fall through for want of it.

I am told there is a Mr. Brazier, a gunner, at Crown-Point, who may be, doubtless, spared from there, and will be much wanted at Quebeck.

I shall be obliged to you if you will be good enough to inform me, whether there are any twelve or twenty-four-pound shot, or eight-inch shells, at Ticonderoga or Crown-Point; if there are, we shall be very glad to have them sent us; they will be much wanted. We have, at St. John's, a twenty-four-pound, and several twelve-pound cannon, and an eight-inch howitzer. It will not be worth while to take them to Quebeck, unless we have shot and shells for them.

I am, in haste, your most obedient, humble servant,

DAVID WOOSTER.

To Major-General Schuyler.

GENERAL SCHUYLER TO PRESIDENT OF CONGRESS.

Albany, February 23, 1776.

DEAR SIR: General Wooster has given me a very handsome character of Mr. Melchior. I should be guilty of injustice to the young gentleman, if I did not mention it to you. He was, also, recommended to my attention by Generals Washington and Lee.

I am, sir, your most obedient, humble servant,

PHILIP SCHUYLER.

Worcester, Massachusetts, (Friday,) March 1, 1776.

We are told a gentleman, who came out of Boston last Friday, reports, that the enemy have taken away their mortars from Bunker's Hill, and carried them to Boston; that a Council of War had been held in Boston for several days; that General Howe had advised the Mandamus Counsellors to go to England, and the Tories to leave the town; that all the vessels in the harbour that were not in the King's service, were taken up to transport the Tories and their effects; and that it was surmised in Boston, that, should another battle ensue, and the Regulars be defeated, they would set fire to the town, and remove to some other part of the Continent.

It is a prevailing opinion that something extraordinary will turn up in the course of a few days.

EXTRACT OF A LETTER FROM A MEMBER OF THE PROVINCIAL CONGRESS OF NORTH-CAROLINA TO COLONEL HOWE, DATED HALIFAX, FEBRUARY 24, 1776.

A gentleman, of the name of Smith, has just now lodged seven of the leaders of the Regulators in Halifax jail, among whom are four of the Fields. The names of the others I do not know, but neither Hunter nor Piles are amongst them. He informs me that the insurrection is entirely suppressed with respect to the Regulators, and says he thinks the Highlanders are dispersed before now. I do not give implicit credit to this last-mentioned conjecture, because we have later accounts than Mr. Smith's, (who was only as low down, I believe, as Chatham Court-House), which contradict it. However, it is clear to me that there will not be a gun fired upon this occasion; for the number of our troops (not less, perhaps, than five thousand) will, undoubtedly, awe the Highlanders into submission, if they are not already dispersed. Governour Martin, it seems, had kept up a correspondence with the disaffected in the western part of this Province, and formed a plan of insurrection, issued Colonels' commissions to many Counties for this purpose, and ordered that such men as should take arms should repair to the Royal standard, at Brunswick, by the 15th of this month, promising that they should be then and there supported by five thousand Regulars.

Your mind being relieved from all anxiety for us, you will be at full liberty to exert all your powers for the good of Virginia; and I flatter myself that your conduct will bring credit to your County, and honour to yourself.

MARYLAND COUNCIL OF SAFETY TO DELEGATES IN CONGRESS. [No. 24.] Annapolis, February 24, 1776.

GENTLEMEN: We some time since informed you that we had appointed a number of persons, in each County of the Province, to collect all the gold and silver coin that can be got within this week, or ten days. We have had applications from several of those who were appointed to furnish them with cash to exchange, without which, they tell us, many people will not part with the gold and silver. We would willingly supply Provincial money, but the state of our Treasury prevents us. The demands are very considerable for raising clothing, and paying the troops, and furnishing rations, to say nothing of other disbursements. If you do not send us down the plates and paper soon, the Treasury will be totally exhausted; therefore, we take the liberty again to remind you of forwarding them to us.

With regard to gold and silver, we think something handsome might be collected, but cannot say how much. Should the Congress approve of sending down Continental money, we will engage to return gold and silver for whatever they send, not exceeding eight thousand pounds, or to return the money again. Without this, we apprehend gold and silver cannot be procured, in any considerable quantity, until the new emission of our money, when we can supply the collectors with cash. We lay the affair truly before you, and must leave it to yourselves to move the Congress, or not, as you may think best. We wish to hear from you on every important occasion, and are much obliged to Mr. Alexander for the intelligence he hath been so kind as to communicate to us, from time to time.

Our troops are drawing together very fast. We should be glad to have the arms intended for this Province as soon as possible, that we may distribute them. The manufacture of guns goes on but slowly amongst us, from the best information we can get. Pray purchase, for the use of this Province, fifty reams of cartridge-paper, and send it to us by the first opportunity. We will remit the money as soon as we are furnished with the cost of it.

We are, &c.

To the Deputies of Maryland in Congress.

MARYLAND COUNCIL OF SAFETY TO COLONEL DASHIELL.

Annapolis, February 24, 1776.

SIR: We received yours of the 10th instant, enclosing a list of officers for Captain Wales's Company, who, you say, have resigned. This may be the case, but the Council of Safety think it not regular to issue new commissions, until the old ones are transmitted to us, and, therefore, have not sent them. We have before us, also, a petition from the Eden-School Company, for a change of officers. Their Captain, Andrew Adams, they allege, had a commission made out by the Convention surreptitiously and fraudulently. This, we think, ought most properly to be referred to the Convention themselves, which will meet again in April, and all parties will then have an opportunity of being heard. We cannot think of displacing officers appointed by the Convention, without a full hearing, and we recommend an application to them, as most proper, under all circumstances; and are, your most, &c.

To Colonel George Dashiell.

MARYLAND COUNCIL OF SAFETY TO QUEEN-ANNE'S COUNTY COMMITTEE.

[No. 26.]

Annapolis, February 24, 1776.

GENTLEMEN: We have received your letter, respecting the Minute Company under the command of Captain Kent, and are much obliged to you for communicating to us the contents of this letter.

We conceived, some time ago, that it might be advisable to write to Captain Kent on the principal subjects he has mentioned in his letter, and have accordingly wrote, and are in great hopes he will thereby receive every satisfaction we have it in our power to afford.

To the Committee of Observation, Queen-Anne's County.

J. A. THOMAS TO MARYLAND COUNCIL OF SAFETY.

Leonardtown, February 24, 1776.

GENTLEMEN: At the time I waited on you at Annapolis, I gave orders to Mr. Stewart, the First Lieutenant of my company, to be at Leonardtown, with the party of thirty men, which he returned to me, on Tuesday last, but have heard not a word, either of him or the men, since that time. The men inlisted by me are now here, supported by Mr. Ford, and we are endeavouring to instruct them as fast as possible we can. I am sorry to request that you will interfere in the business, and order Mr. Stewart down, with the thirty men that he has inlisted.

Information was lodged this day with the Committee, that two men, well dressed, were passing through this County, who, from their appearance and behaviour, the Committee had reason to suspect. They, therefore, requested me to send after them, which I immediately did; but the two men that I sent were delayed a considerable time, from the difficulty of procuring horses. I would beg you to consider whether, as it will be frequently necessary to advise you of what may be passing here, and the numberless occasions we must have, it would not be proper to allow a horse for the use of the company. If you think it proper, be pleased to acquaint me by Mr. Neale, who will deliver you this. I have, also, to request that you will send me about one hundred pounds, the money that I last received being all expended in board, blankets, clothes, and neither of the two last yet fully got. Mr. Neale also brings up seven gun-locks, sent by the Committee, and six purchased here by me, the account of which Mr. Neale will deliver. We have, as yet, received no powder from Charles County, and, from what I hear, there is no reason to expect any. I am much afraid we shall be pushed for a drummer and fifer. I have been informed by Mr. Davison, the Second Lieutenant, that there is a servant in Baltimore, who has two years to serve, who is a good fifer, which he will sell for fifteen pounds, or thereabout; as his wages in one year would pay that sum, and find his clothes, I should be much obliged to you to allow me to purchase him. Of the several matters be pleased to inform me by Mr. Neale.

I am, gentlemen, your most obedient, humble servant,

J. A. THOMAS.

To the Council of Safety of Maryland.

NEW-JERSEY PROVINCIAL CONGRESS TO CONTINENTAL CONGRESS.

In Provincial Congress, New-Jersey, Brunswick, }
February 24, 1776.

GENTLEMEN: This Congress having taken into their serious consideration the necessity of defending such parts of this Colony as are more immediately exposed to an invasion of the enemy, are of opinion, that the city of Perth-Amboy, in East-Jersey, from its open channel and safe harbour, and from its local situation, is a place deserving the utmost attention at this time. As the city of New-York has, at present, a large body of troops, and fortifications are now erecting for its defence, it is more than probable that the enemy, sensible of these preparations, will attempt a lodgment at Perth-Amboy, from whence incursions might easily be made into the heart of the country, before a sufficient force can be collected to oppose them.

That part of West-Jersey, which is situate on the River Delaware, below Philadelphia, appears also to merit great attention at this time. Opposite to Reedy-Island, at a place called Elsborough, in the County of Salem, a landing might easily be effected. This is within forty miles of Philadelphia, in a country abounding with provisions; and from whence an army might easily make its way to Cooper's Ferry, in a very short space of time.

This Congress would be happy if they had it in their power to take into pay a sufficient body of troops for the defence of both these important posts; but as this will be an expense too great for this Colony to support on its own bottom, and as the being guarded at all points is a matter of the utmost importance to the common cause, more especially to the cities of Philadelphia and New-York, this Congress beg leave to submit to the consideration of your honourable House the urgent necessity of making some immediate preparation to prevent any attempts of the enemy to land an army in those parts of this Province, which appear to be so situated as greatly to facilitate the success of such an attempt. One or two battalions, with two Artillery companies, may be sufficient for this important service; and we humbly submit to your consideration the necessity and propriety of such a step being immediately adopted.

We wish not to send this Continent to this expense for the sole defence of the inhabitants of this Colony; but the interest of this Colony in particular being so connected with that of the United Colonies in general, as to render an invasion in New-Jersey a matter of the utmost importance to all, we humbly conceive that the necessity of the occasion will induce the wisdom of your honourable House to take into Continental pay two battalions and two companies of Artillery, or such a body of forces as may be thought sufficient to answer this desirable purpose.

The express, by which this is forwarded, will wait your commands; and I am to request the favour of an answer as soon as possible. I am, likewise, to request that commissions may be sent for the officers of the Third Battalion; some of the companies are already full, and others in a fair way.

I am, gentlemen, your most obedient, humble servant,
Signed by order of Congress:

SAMUEL TUCKER, President.

To the Honourable Continental Congress.

To the Honourable Provincial Congress of New-York, now convened.

The Memorial of your Memorialist, humbly sheweth:

That your memorialist has had the honour of serving as First Lieutenant in Captain John Lamb's company of Artillery, in the late expedition against Canada; that he has been at great expense in preparing himself for that service; that he has put himself out of all other business for that purpose, and that he has endured a very tedious and fatiguing campaign in the defence of his country. Your memorialist continuing zealously desirous of serving his country, in her present struggle for liberty, humbly requests that your honourable House will appoint him to the care of a company of Artillery; and your memorialist, as in duty bound, will ever pray.

New-York, February 24, 1776.

JOSEPH CRANE.

ROBERT H. HARRISON TO WILLIAM WATSON.

Cambridge, February 24, 1776.

SIR: Your favour to his Excellency of the 22d, came to hand. Enclosed is a pass for Captain James Hall and Jonathan Grindle, to pass to Virginia, if they choose to go before trial, recommending to his care the articles that will be necessary for the men-of-war, and every thing else that is on board the prize. Ordered the Harrison out of commission, and that particular care be taken of every article belonging to the Continent on board.

The owner received one hundred and fifty-six dollars, to be taken notice of when you settle with him. The crew are permitted to remain on board, if not attended with risk, provided they cannot get employ, before the trial is decided.

I am, sir, yours, &c.,

ROBERT H. HARRISON.

To William Watson, Esq., Plymouth.

MARYLAND COUNCIL OF SAFETY TO COLONEL WATERS.

Annapolis, February 25, 1776.

SIR: Enclosed we send you the commissions for two companies of Militia, agreeable to the enrolments sent us. We have not sent any commission for Captain McClester or his officers, because there are no more than fifty persons enrolled, non-commissioned officers and privates included, which is not sufficient, without the enrolment be made by the special permission of the Committee of Observation. You will send us that permission, and the commission shall be transmitted you. We are, &c.

To Colonel Peter Waters.

MARYLAND DELEGATES TO COUNCIL OF SAFETY.

Philadelphia, February 25, 1776.

GENTLEMEN: Mr. Alexander Ross, a gentleman of our acquaintance, has applied to us to procure for him, from Congress, a passport to Lord Dunmore, upon whom, he says, he has a very considerable claim, which he hopes he should be able to secure, could he have an opportunity of making a personal demand.

From the multiplicity of business now before the Congress, an application of this kind would be attended with great delay, and, as a license from your honourable Board will be, at least, as effectual, we take the liberty of recommending him to your indulgence, being well persuaded, he will religiously observe any injunction you may think proper to lay him under.

We are, gentlemen, your most obedient servants,

J. ROGERS,

ROBERT ALEXANDER.

To the Council of Safety of Maryland.

LORD STIRLING TO WILLIAM LIVINGSTON.

[Referred to Mr. Chase and others.]

New-York, February 25, 1776.

DEAR SIR: The enclosed affidavits were this day delivered to me by Mr. Michael Kearney, who was proprietor of the boat York, of Amboy, which was impressed into the Continental service, and made use of in taking the ship Blue-Mountain-Valley, and which boat, it seems, is seized and detained by Captain Parker as a prize, on the pretence of her having been employed on that service. I have encouraged Mr. Kearney to hope that the Congress will not suffer his private property to be injured on this occasion, and that his loss will be made up to him out of the proceeds of the ship and cargo. I must beg the favour of you to lay his case before Congress, and to obtain their final answer on this matter as soon as possible, as his attendance at Philadelphia will tend to increase his damage.

I am your most humble servant,

STIRLING.

To William Livingston, Esq.

City of New-York, ss.

David Collins, late master of the Amboy passage-boat called the York, and Nathan Culver, one of the hands belonging to the said boat, being duly sworn on the Holy Evangelists of Almighty God, depose and say: That they sailed from Amboy, aforesaid, with the said boat, on Monday last past, about eleven of the clock, in the forenoon, having on board nothing but passengers bound to this city; that about four of the clock, in the afternoon of the same day, as they were nearly entering the Narrows, a gun was fired at them from His Majesty's ship, the Phoenix, then at anchor under Long-Island shore, a little below Demesse's Reef; that the deponents still kept on, in hopes of getting clear of the said ship, but, being pursued by one of the barges, which also kept firing at them, and the wind being very light, they found it impossible to escape; that they then were as near Staten-Island shore as it was possible for them to go, and the wind directly on shore, and the barge gaining upon them at a great rate; and being under the command of the Phoenix's guns, they were obliged to bring to, and the barge's crew coming on board, carried the said passage-boat alongside of the Phoenix, and still have her in possession; that these deponents did every thing in their power to prevent the said boat from being taken, and should have been happy in escaping, and were not, directly, nor indirectly, concerned in any steps that occasioned the said boat being taken. And further saith not.

DAVID COLLINS,

NATHAN CULVER.

Sworn this 24th day of February, 1776, before me,
P. MATTHEWS.

And the said David Collins further saith: That on being carried on board the said ship-of-war, the Phoenix, Captain Parker, who commands the said ship, told the deponent that the only cause of his taking the said passage-boat was because she had been employed in taking the store-ship that was lately carried to Elizabethtown-Point.

DAVID COLLINS.

Sworn this 24th day of February, 1776, before me,
P. MATTHEWS.

PHILADELPHIA, ss.

On the 9th day of March, Anno Domini 1776, before George Bryan, one of the Justices of the Peace in and for the City and County of Philadelphia, cometh Michael Kearney, of the city of Perth-Amboy, in New-Jersey, and on his solemn oath on the Holy Gospels depose and saith: That the passage-boat, or sloop, in the preceding affidavits called the York, was the property of this deponent at the time of the seizure thereof in said affidavits set forth, and that the said passage-boat was of the value of three hundred pounds, current money of New-York. And further this deponent saith not.

MICHAEL KEARNEY, JUN.

Taken and sworn the day and year afore-written, before,
GEORGE BRYAN.

GENERAL WOOSTER TO GENERAL WASHINGTON.

Montreal, February 25, 1776.

SIR: Your favour of the 27th ultimo I have received, and nothing but want of time, when proper opportunities presented, has prevented my answering it sooner.

I am fully sensible of the importance of reducing Quebeck, and keeping possession of this Province, for the accomplishing of which you may depend upon my utmost exertions. I am, also, with you, fully of opinion that the Ministry will send a powerful armament here in the spring, for which reason I think it of almost infinite importance that we have a large army here, properly provided, early, to oppose them upon their first arrival; indeed, it appears to me that our every thing in this Province depends upon it. If we have the greatest force, we have the Canadians our friends; on the other hand, should our enemies arrive with a superior force to ours, I fear the consequences may be fatal.

I cannot learn from General Schuyler that we are like to have any cannon, mortars, shot, or shells, from across the Lake, and, as we have not here proper cannon, &c., for cannonading of Quebeck, I rather imagine we shall be obliged to try once more by assault, which, notwithstanding the late unhappy repulse, I think must be successful, when attempted by three or four thousand good men. However, every other method will be first tried.

Troops are now daily coming in, and I hope, in a few days, to be able to leave this place and join General Arnold, who has, to his great honour, kept up the blockade with such a handful of men, that the story, when told hereafter, will be scarcely credited. He is now so reinforced as to be out of danger from a sortie.

Be pleased to accept of my best wishes for your success and happiness, and believe me, with the greatest respect, your most obedient, and very humble servant,

DAVID WOOSTER.

To General Washington.

GENERAL WASHINGTON TO GENERAL SCHUYLER.

Cambridge, February 25, 1776.

DEAR SIR: Notwithstanding I have adopted every measure which my judgment directed for procuring arms in these Governments, for the Army under my command, as well by application to the several Assemblies and Conventions, as by sending officers to the several towns to purchase, I am under the disagreeable and melancholy necessity of informing you that there is, at this important crisis, a very great deficiency, and that there is now a considerable number of men at these encampments without any in their hands, nor do I know that there is any prospect or probability of providing them. Can you, my dear sir, assist me with any from your parts? If you can procure or purchase any in the towns, fit for use, I beg that you will do it, and have them forwarded with all possible expedition to me; I will pay for them immediately on delivery, and the charges of bringing them. I am told that a Major Duncan, at Schenectady, has about three hundred King's arms; these, or such of them as are good and serviceable, will be of great use, and I doubt not may be readily procured. If they can, I request that they may, and be forwarded, with any others that you may get, with the price. I would not be thus pressing and thus importunate, were it not for my situation, which is truly alarming and distressing: to be within musket-shot of a formidable army, well provided with every necessary, without having the means, on my part, of maintaining even a defensive war.

Relying on your friendship, and that every thing in your power will be done to serve me, I shall only add, that I am, dear sir, with great regard, your affectionate, humble servant,

GEORGE WASHINGTON.

To General Schuyler.

KING-WILLIAM COUNTY (VIRGINIA) COMMITTEE.

At a Committee held for King-William County, the 22d day of February, 1776.

Captain Benjamin Temple having informed the Committee that a report has been propagated much to his prejudice, respecting his conduct as to the raising of men in this County for the Minute service:

Ordered, At the instance of said Temple, that it is the unanimous opinion of this Committee that he hath used every effort and endeavour in his power, as far as they know or believe, towards the promotion of said service, and are fully convinced that every such report is without a just foundation.

Ordered, That a copy of the above Resolution be transmitted to the Publick Printer of this Colony, who is requested to put the same in the Virginia Gazette.

JOHN WATKINS, Clerk.

MARYLAND COUNCIL OF SAFETY TO CAPTAIN HINDMAN.

[No. 28.]

Annapolis, February 26, 1776.

SIR: We have received yours of the 25th instant, signifying Mr. Edmondson's refusing to accept of his commission.

The Council do not incline to make any changes among the officers commissioned by the Convention, but wish to have a recommendation from you of a proper person to fill the place of Mr. Edmondson. We have agreed with some of the officers to allow twenty shillings for each pair of leather breeches furnished the troops, and the remainder of the price to be deducted out of the men's wages.

The Council apprehend the Captains of the Independent Companies are to provide clothing for their men, and have agreed to allow Captain J. A. Thomas a sum not exceeding three pounds five shillings each suit, and hope you will be able to clothe your men at that price. We think the price of the hats ought not to exceed five shillings and six pence each hat, but cheaper, if to be got. As to blankets, they will be provided as soon as possible. If you can purchase osenaburghs for making hunting-shirts at two shillings per yard, we recommend it to you to get so much as will be sufficient for your company, and have them made up as soon as you can. We are, &c.

To Captain James Hindman.

DORCHESTER COUNTY COMMITTEE TO MARYLAND COUNCIL OF SAFETY.

Dorchester County, Cambridge, February 26, 1776.

GENTLEMEN: We this day received your letter of the 21st instant, and the Committee being sitting, agreeable to your request took the matter mentioned therein into consideration, and are of opinion that the town of Cambridge is the most convenient and proper place for the Independent Company of this County to be stationed in. It is the most central place in the County, and the company may, with great ease and conveniency, march from thence to any part of the County that may happen to be attacked, which they could not so readily do should they be posted any where else; and we also think it would be very difficult to accommodate them in any other place than in this neighbourhood. These, among others, are the reasons why we prefer Cambridge to any other part of the country.

We are, very respectfully, gentlemen, your most obedient, humble servants. Signed per order:

JAMES MURRAY, Chairman.

CHARLES COUNTY (MARYLAND) COMMITTEE.

At a meeting of the Committee of Observation for Charles County, on Monday, the 26th February, 1776: Brigadier-General John Dent, Chairman, and John Gwynn, Clerk.

The following gentlemen are recommended as Officers, to be commissioned to fill up the vacancies of the late Company of Colonel William Harrison, to wit: William Winter, Jun., Captain; George Dent, Jun., First Lieutenant; John S. Chilton, Second Lieutenant; and William Barker, Ensign; and, in consequence of a letter of resignation received from John S. Chilton, the Committee thought proper to recommend Burditt Hamilton in his stead.

Ditto, for the late Company of Major John Marshall: Benjamin Philpot, Captain; Henry Dent, First Lieutenant; Burford Cottrell, Second Lieutenant; and Philip Marshall, Ensign.

Ditto, for the late Company of Colonel Samuel Harrison: William McPherson, Captain; Peter Green, First Lieutenant; Thomas Green, Jun., Second Lieutenant; and Leonard Hamilton, Ensign.

Ditto, for the late Company of Colonel Francis Ware: Walter Hanson, of John, Captain; Thomas Simms, First Lieutenant; Jos. W. Harrison, Second Lieutenant; and John Beal Twener, Ensign.

Ditto, for the late Company of Colonel Josias Hawkins: John Hanson, Youngest, Captain; Henry Massey Hanson, First Lieutenant; James Russell, Second Lieutenant; and John Griffin, Ensign.

Ditto, for the late Company of Major Thomas Harris: Jonathan Yates, Captain; Richard Hendly Courts, First Lieutenant; John Neall, Second Lieutenant; and Raphael Boorman, Jun., Ensign.

Ditto, for the late Company of Captain William Campbell: Walter Winter, Captain; Richard Bennett Boorman, First Lieutenant; Jonathan Thomas, Second Lieutenant; and Nehemiah Gibbons, Ensign.

Ditto, for the late Company of Captain John H. Stone: George Swann, Captain; John Gwinn, First Lieutenant; Michael Stone, Second Lieutenant; and William Lamar, Ensign.

Mr. James Farnandis, who was First Lieutenant to Captain Robert Sennett's Company, having entered into the regular service, made a recommendation of Officers necessary for that Company, and the following gentlemen are recommended, to wit: John Muschett, First Lieutenant; William McConkie, Second Lieutenant; and Samuel Stone, Jun., Ensign.

To fill up the vacancies in the Company lately commanded by General John Dent: Henry Ward, Captain; George Dent, First Lieutenant; Thomas McCartie, Second Lieutenant; and John Grant, Ensign; were recommended by a majority of thirty-two privates of the said Company, met for that purpose.

The Committee think proper to recommend to the honourable the Council of Safety, Captain Thomas Hanson Marshall, who lives in the Hundred to which the said Company belongs, but is not one of that Company, having enrolled in a neighbouring one of Militia. Henry Ward, who is above recommended by the said Company for Captain, was chosen Second Lieutenant by a former election, and, in the judgment and opinion of the Committee, it would tend most to the publick service for the honourable Council of Safety to commission the said Thomas Hanson Marshall, Captain for the said Company; George Dent, First Lieutenant; Henry Ward, Second Lieutenant; and John Grant, Ensign.

The honourable Council of Safety are requested to inquire of Colonel William Smallwood for a recommendation of Officers for the Company he commanded.

Signed by order: JOHN GWINN, Clerk.

In Committee, Port-Tobacco, February 26, 1776.

Resolved, That every Member of this Committee produce, by the first Tuesday in April next, of his own manufacturing, six pounds of crude Nitre, under the penalty of twelve Shillings currency.

Signed by order: JOHN GWINN, Clerk.

COLONEL BARTLETT TO MESHECH WEARE.

Philadelphia, February 26, 1776.

SIR: The enclosed order of Congress, of the 23d instant, I am directed to transmit to our Colony, and I make no doubt (if they have not already) they will speedily comply with the recommendations.

The necessity of arms and ammunition for our defence, and the danger of disappointment, shows the necessity of our using our utmost efforts to be supplied as much as may be within ourselves. And though I can, with pleasure, inform you that large quantities of powder and saltpetre have arrived here, and more is daily expected, yet, as we have reason to believe that as soon as the spring opens, our harbours will be much infested by the British cruisers, who have orders to seize all American vessels, and as large quantities of military stores will be wanted for sea, as well as land service, I humbly conceive it will be prudent to endeavour to supply ourselves with the necessaries of life and defence within ourselves, and leave as little to the uncertainty of winds, weather, and enemies, as possible, at least for the present.

You will please, sir, to see that the several orders of our Convention or Assembly for manufacturing arms, gunpowder, and saltpetre, be transmitted to me, and an account of what has been done in consequence of such orders, as it is necessary the Congress should know, as soon as may be, the true state of all the Colonies, with regard to their supplying themselves with these necessary articles; and when our Assembly meets, you will please to lay these resolves before them, and, in the mean time, communicate them to the Council or Committee of Safety, or whoever they have left to transact business in their recess.

I am, your most obedient servant,

JOSEPH BARTLETT.

To the Honourable Meshech Weare, Esq.

TO THE AUTHOR OF COMMON SENSE.

New-Jersey, February 26, 1776.

SIR: In your famous pamphlet, entitled Common Sense, by which I am convinced of the necessity of independency, to which I was before averse, you have given liberty to every individual to contribute materials for that great building, the grand charter of American liberty. I shall, therefore, venture to lay before you and the publick, a few hints, as they may occur to my mind, not having seen your second edition. And, for reasons already published, must consider independency as that which must take place in a few months at farthest; the temper, and fixed designs of the King, Ministry, and Parliament of Great Britain, being incompatible with the safety of these Colonies in any other way. Nor are we under any obligations to the contrary, from any thing contained in either of the petitions to the King, as some vainly argue, because they have both been rejected by him, to whom alone they were addressed: and that rejection sealed by the blood of many of the Colonists, who, being treated like Rebels, have been murdered while innocent. Of this number are General Montgomery, and all those brave men slain in this war, whose lives might have been saved by the King's having immediately put a stop to all hostilities, as soon as he received our last petition. For I can truly affirm, that the death of one American, whose life might have been saved by the King's immediate compliance with that petition, is sufficient to discharge America forever from any obligations to reconciliation on that account. But, to return, it is the custom of wise architects to lay their foundations deep, lest the basis should sink from under the superstructure. Should this letter point out one good stone for that purpose, though it were placed under ground, I am amply rewarded for my trouble.

Equality in strength, riches, and honours, are necessary to safety, mutual confidence, and friendship. Hence, the so much talked of balance of power in Europe, so necessary to the safety of those countries, but more especially of the weaker kingdoms and states. Hence, also, those common proverbs, "the poor is despised of his neighbour;" and "the weakest goes to the wall." Aesop's iron and earthen pots cannot swim with safety together. Therefore, let it be the work of your Continental Conference to set bounds to their claim: as an associated Continent, which ought to include, at least, the thirteen at present associated Colonies, with those of Quebeck and Nova-Scotia. Then, let there be at least three new Colonies formed; viz: Montreal, Albany, and Susquehanna. Montreal may be formed by dividing Canada into two Colonies by a line running from south to north, and crossing St. Lawrence between Montreal and the Three-Rivers. The Province of New-York is at present too long and too large for convenience in Government, as the Deputies, in the extremities of it, at some seasons especially, cannot be so soon convened as urgent necessity might require; for Hillsborough, which lies twenty miles north of Crown-Point, is three hundred miles distant from New-York, the half of which distance ends about fifteen miles below Albany; near that place, let the Province be intersected by a line running thence west to Delaware-River, and east to Connecticut-River, through part of Massachusetts; thence northerly, up said river to the latitude of Hillsborough; thence west, crossing Lake Champlain, till it meets a line running north from the west end of the south line first mentioned. This Colony, to be named Albany, will include the lands in dispute between New-York and New-Hampshire, and, by taking them away from both, will settle that matter so far as it respects Government. The like dispute will be settled by forming a Colony on Susquehannah, to include all those lands contended for by Connecticut and Pennsylvania. The reason for dividing Canada is the same as that for New-York. All the Colonies in New-England must undergo some alteration in their boundaries, because Rhode-Island bears no proportion to that of Massachusetts-Bay, the former not having sixty thousand inhabitants, while the latter hath four hundred thousand, an odds of near seven to one, and a much greater difference in their extent of territory; while Connecticut has one hundred and ninety-two thousand, and New-Hampshire, one hundred and fifty thousand; therefore, let about two Counties on the north of Connecticut be taken from Massachusetts, and added to Connecticut, so as to join that Colony on the north to that of Albany; and in lieu of this addition, let Connecticut spare from its east side, the Counties of Windham and New-London, to Rhode-Island, which Colony may also be further increased by the addition of one County more from the Massachusetts, lying next to Connecticut and Rhode-Island, after which, if the Bay is still too strong for her neighbours, take part from her on the other side, and annex it to New-Hampshire; still remembering to leave her a little superior to them, for she is worthy, as our elder sister, and the nurse and defender of American liberty. Let the bounds of the more Southern Colonies also be ascertained, either as they now are, or more advantageously; perhaps by forming a second tier on the back of the first, leaving Pennsylvania and Virginia, each, equal to Massachusetts; and let the name of dominion be reprobated in Virginia, or assumed in all the other Colonies. All these new boundary lines to be so run as not much to incommode any particular Town or County. To this scheme of assizing the Colonies, it may be objected, that the Delegates in Conference from those Colonies which will thereby be lessened, will oppose such alteration, and that the rest of them will not presume on so arbitrary a stretch of power, as to proceed therein without their consent. Let such objectors consider, that the strength and happiness of America must be Continental, and not Provincial, and that whatever appears to be for the good of the whole, must be submitted to by every part; this holds true, and ought to be a governing maxim in all societies. Neither will there, on such alteration, arise any considerable inconvenience to any one Colony, which will not be fully atoned for by a convenience arising from the same. So that I conceive the objection is removed. The benefits arising from equality in the Colonies, are too apparent to need further elucidation, among which, an equal representation in Congress is none of the smallest.

The reason why Canada and Nova-Scotia must be included in the Continental compact, is, that they cannot be happy without being so, as we shall be obliged to treat them in some measure as our enemies, till they are; nor is there any thing sufficient to hinder them from joining us immediately, but their fear of Great Britain, they being both under the dreadful tyranny of martial law, from which they would soon emerge were they properly assisted by Continental troops, Deo co-operante. That good work, I hope, is almost already completed in Canada, and may be repeated in Nova-Scotia.

At the meeting of the first Congress, after the Charter is formed, as proposed in Common Sense, let a just return be carried in by the Delegates of each Colony then in the Association, of all the Militia resident in their respective Colonies, including Continental troops of all kinds, being free white men, from sixteen years to fifty, and their returns to be made annually. From this annual return, let the Grand Congress ascertain the number of Delegates to be elected in the several Colonies for the ensuing year, yearly, as one is to one thousand. So that, if the return of the Militia in New-Jersey, be twenty-six thousand, this Colony will, the ensuing year, send twenty-six members to Congress, and so of the rest; the whole Congress consisting of about five hundred members, who are to give their votes in Congress personally, not by Colonies. The number of Deputies in each Provincial Assembly, to be chosen annually by towns, as one to two hundred Militia, through the Colony, no town, however small, to send less than one. So that New-Jersey, on the above supposition, will have an Assembly of one hundred and thirty members. These large Assemblies will be acquainted with all the material circumstances of their constituents. Delegates to the Continental Congress to be elected by ballot, in the several Counties, the number each County is to elect to be ascertained by the Provincial Assembly according to the above rule, no County sending less than one. Every free man, above the age of twenty-one years, having had a deed for lands for the space of one year, immediately preceding the election, or having in his possession either real or personal estate to the value of one hundred dollars, to have a vote in either of the above elections. Widows, paying taxes, to have an equal right to vote as men of the same property. Every person excluded by the above rules from a share in the choice of Representatives, to be exempted from paying taxes raised for the support of legislation; but of County, Town, and Poor Rates, &c., raised for such like social purposes, they shall be liable to pay a just proportion.

Hints on the regulation of the Continental Militia, which, at a moderate computation, are about five hundred thousand, &c., may be given in some future letter, from, honoured sir, your great admirer and advocate, ESSEX.

RICHMOND COUNTY (NEW-YORK) COMMITTEE TO PROVINCIAL CONGRESS.

Richmond County, February 26, 1776.

GENTLEMEN: In consequence of your letter, dated February 21st, three of our Committee went to Elizabethtown, and applied to the Chairman of the Committee, for the inhabitants of our County then in their prison to be returned. Said Chairman, knowing not by what authority Colonel Heard and Colonel Thomas had taken them in custody, referred the matter to said Colonels. Accordingly, one of our Committee went to Woodbridge, waited on the Colonels, who then promised the prisoners should be delivered up with the charge alleged against them. On returning to Elizabethtown, Colonel Thomas informed our Committee-men, that he could not then furnish them with the charges, but would send the prisoners on Saturday morning, under a guard, to be delivered at Richmondtown, with the charges, to our Committee. Accordingly, our Committee attended at the time and place, in order to receive them, but none appeared. The Committee then adjourned till this day; when, being assembled, Mr. Isaac Decker appeared, informed the Committee that on Saturday last, at sun-set, the Sheriff of Elizabethtown opened the prison door, desired said Isaac Decker and Mimo Burger to wait on Colonel Thomas, which they accordingly did. Said Colonel then told them, that on promising they would appear this day before the Committee in the County of Richmond, he would discharge them. Accordingly Isaac Decker has appeared; Mimo Burger, unwell, could not appear. Our Committee is at a loss how to act; the above Colonel has not sent any charge against them. We shall, therefore, wait your direction. Richard Connor, Esq., on giving his obligation to Colonel Thomas to appear when called upon, was admitted to return home before your letter came to hand; said obligation has not been returned to us, nor any charge against him. Abraham Starrow, we are informed, is detained in prison on account of a debt.

We are, gentlemen, your most obedient and most humble servants. By order of the Committee:

CHRISTIAN JACOBSON.

P. S. The foregoing have, by reason of bad weather, been detained; have this day received from Col. Thomas the accusation against the prisoners; we shall proceed to trial as soon as possible.

February 28.

GENERAL SCHUYLER TO PRESIDENT OF CONGRESS.

[Read March 5, 1776.]

Albany, February 26, 1776.

SIR: I do myself the honour to enclose you a copy of a letter this moment received from General Wooster, by the bearer of this, whom the General sends express to Congress.

I have ordered one hundred and fifty stall-fed oxen to be bought, and have taken such measures as that I hope to get them in Canada soon, and make them draw so much provisions as will pay for their forage, and the sleds that I must purchase for the occasion. I hope to send the General some money to-morrow, together with four hundred barrels of pork, and the cannon, cannon-shot, and shells, &c. What shall I do for blankets and arms for the Pennsylvania, New-Jersey, and Connecticut troops? The latter will arrive in a few days.

I am, sir, most respectfully, your obedient and humble servant,

PHILIP SCHUYLER.

Montreal, February 21, 1776.

SIR: The Paymaster has arrived, but has brought nothing but paper money. Our flour is nearly expended; we have not more than enough for the army one week. We can purchase no provisions or wood, or pay for transporting of any thing, without hard cash. We are now not able to pay half the debts we owe the country people. Our credit sinks daily; all the provisions and wood that we want for the army, for two or three months to come, must be purchased and transported to camp by the middle of March; after that time there will probably be no passing for a month or six weeks; these things, therefore, must be provided immediately, or the consequence will be dreadful. I have, therefore, sent Mr. Cole (a young gentleman from Quebeck, who I have employed as a Secretary) on purpose to hasten the forwarding of specie, as a few days may be of infinite consequence.

I am, sir, your most obedient and very humble servant,

DAVID WOOSTER.

JAMES DEANE TO GENERAL SCHUYLER.

[Enclosed in General Schuyler's, February 26, 1776.—Referred to Mr. Rutledge, Mr. Wythe, Mr. W. Livingston.]

Kanonwarohare, February 24, 1776.

SIR: The Indians who went to attend the meeting lately held at Niagara are returned, and say that Mr. Butler spoke nothing to them but of peace. I expect there will be a general meeting of the Six-Nations held very soon, at their Central Council-House. The Oneidas are already sent to, to hold themselves in readiness to attend. The Onondagas have advised to postpone sending for Mr. Butler till after the meeting at Onondaga, when it is proposed to send two or three from each tribe on that errand, and the Oneidas, willing to gratify them, have agreed to the proposal.

Onus, alias Governour Penn, has sent to the Six-Nations, inviting them down to Philadelphia in the Spring, and particularly informs them that he calls them down in his own name, without respect to any one else. The Oneidas have detained the message until they shall hear from you, and learn whether you know any thing of the affair, or whether it has your approbation. If you know nothing of the matter, they desire that you would take an opportunity to send to Philadelphia and learn the truth of it, and whenever they have a return from you, they will forward Onus's message, if it be agreeable to you. The Indians are much at a loss to comprehend Onus's design in calling them down to Philadelphia, as they say that Albany is the place appointed for the Six-Nations to treat with their brethren, the white people, upon all matters whatever.

I am, sir, your most obedient, and very humble servant,

JAMES DEANE.

To the Honourable Philip Schuyler, Esq.

P. S. SIR: This instant a messenger is arrived here from Onondaga, desiring the Oneidas to give their immediate attendance at the Central Council-House. An express will be despatched directly to the Mohawk Castle.

J. D.

Albany, February 27, 1776.

SIR: The above is just delivered me. I beg the direction of Congress what answer to give with respect to Governour Penn's request, as it is a matter I dare not decide upon alone. I am, respectfully, sir, your most obedient, humble servant,

PHILIP SCHUYLER.

To the Honourable John Hancock, &c., &c.

JACOB BAYLEY TO GENERAL WASHINGTON.

Newbury, February 26, 1776.

SIR: The view I had in sending men from hence to Canada, was as follows:

That I had a rumor of General Montgomery's defeat at Quebeck, but no certainty. I wanted to know, that we might do every thing in our power to strengthen and encourage them.

That they in Canada might know that help, even from Cambridge, might be soon and certain with them; and that your Excellency might have some certainty that the plan I proposed to Colonel Little, some time since, to make a road to Canada, by way of Missisque, was not founded on imagination, or not of selfish views, which may be suggested, as I live near the line the road must go.

I have also sent enclosed the journal of the men who went over, as also a copy of my letter to General Wooster, with his answer, to satisfy your Excellency of the view I had; and can further assure your Excellency that a post may go from hence to Montreal without any difficulty or obstruction; the point from hence is nearly north-west.

I must beg your Excellency's pardon for troubling you with this letter, and beg leave to subscribe myself your Excellency's most obedient, humble servant,

JACOB BAYLEY.

To His Excellency General Washington.

Newbury, Coos, January 21, 1776.

DEAR SIR: We have, here, the melancholy news of a defeat of General Montgomery, at Quebeck; though we are not certain of the truth of it, yet think it our duty to send men, not only to get intelligence ourselves, but that the situation of affairs in Canada may be known at Headquarters, and the quickest way to march from Cambridge to Canada. We are apprehensive that, from hence, men might march to you in six or seven days, which the bearers can inform you. If you have any express to General Washington, in three days from hence we can convey it to him. This is only by the Committee of Haverhill and Newbury, yet you will be so good as to supply them for their return. Nothing new here; only four vessels taken from England, by Captain Manly, and another privateer. This is from the servants of the Colony, and yours.

By order of the Committees of Haverhill and Newbury.

JACOB BAYLEY.

To Brigadier-General Wooster, Montreal.

We, the subscribers, being employed by Colonel Jacob Bayley, and consented to by the Committees of Haverhill and Newbury, did, on the first day of February, instant, set out from Newbury on a journey to Montreal, with a letter to Brigadier-General Wooster.

The journal of our journey is as follows, viz: The first day we went to Mr. Harvey's, twelve miles; from thence, second, third, fourth, fifth, and sixth days, on a marked road, fifty-nine miles, to Mr. Metcalf's, at Missisque-Bay: the best country for a road either of us ever saw, through any woods of the same length; the snow deep, and very bad snow-shoeing: the seventh day to St. John's; the eighth day to Montreal; tarried two days and a half. The second night on our return lodged at Mr. Metcalf's. The third and fourth day, travelled only one day's march, by reason of hail and rain falling some days before, the crust would not bear without snow-shoes, and bad standing with. The fifth, sixth, and seventh days good, except the trees being loaded with ice; lodged at Mr. Harvey's; and, Sunday, the 18th, returned to Colonel Bayley's, and delivered a letter from General Wooster to Colonel Bayley. We carried a compass with us. The marked road is north forty-four degrees west, and from Mr. Metcalf's to Montreal, about the same course.

FRYE BAYLEY,
ABIEL CHAMBERLIN,
SILAS CHAMBERLIN.

Montreal, February 10, 1776.

DEAR SIR: The publick is much obliged to you, and to the Committees of Haverhill and Newbury, for your attention and care to promote the interest of the country. I was happy to find, and shall gratefully remember your patriotic and friendly concern for our little army in this country. We have truly been very critically situated since the repulse at Quebeck, but by being particularly vigilant, and doubling duty, which has been very severe, we have kept our ground good; and as we have already received some succour, and daily expect more from our friends in the Colonies, we still hope to give an account of our brave countrymen who were unfortunately made prisoners. The Congress seem determined to support us. The securing this Province is truly an object of great importance to our cause, and I hope will be considered in that light by all true friends to the country, and I doubt not proper provision will be made for that purpose. The route from Cambridge to Canada, by Missisque, has been already represented at Head-Quarters. You will accept of my best wishes for yourself and the Committees of Haverhill and Newbury, and believe me, respectfully, your most obedient and very humble servant,

DAVID WOOSTER.

Colonel Jacob Bayley, at Newbury.

GENERAL WASHINGTON TO GENERAL LEE.

Cambridge, February 26, 1776.

GENERAL LEE: I received your esteemed favour of the 14th instant, which gave me great pleasure, being impatient to hear from you. I rejoice to find that you are getting better, and could not avoid laughing at Captain Parker's reasons for not putting his repeated threats into execution.

I take notice of your intended dispositions for defence, which I request you will lose no time in putting into execution, as, from many corroborating accounts I have received, the enemy seem to prepare for their departure from Boston; they have removed the two mortars from Bunker's Hill, and carried them, with a great part of their heavy brass cannon, on board their ships; they have taken all the topsail vessels in the harbour into the service; they are ready watered and their sails bent. All this show may be but a feint, but if real, and they should come your way, I wish you may be prepared to receive them. If I find that they are in earnest and do go off, I will immediately send you a reinforcement from this camp, and, if necessary, march the main body to your assistance, as circumstances may require. I shall keep a good watch on their motions, and give you the speediest information possible.

Lechmere's Point is now very strong, and I am now sending some heavy cannon thither; the platform for a mortar is preparing to be placed in the works there; another at Lambdam, and we are making the necessary dispositions to possess ourselves of Dorchester-Hill, which must bring them out if any thing will. If they do not interrupt us in that work, I shall be confirmed in my opinion that they mean to leave the town. A little time must now determine whether they are resolved to maintain their present ground, or look out for another post. I will now return to your letter.

The accounts you give of our New-York brethren are very satisfactory. I should be glad to know how many men you are likely to have, that you can depend upon remaining with you. I very much fear that the sailing of Clinton will keep back those you expected from Pennsylvania. Let me hear from you upon this and every thing else that concerns you, as soon and as often as you possibly can. I shall pay due attention to your recommendations of Captain Smyth and Captain Badlan. With respect to the Canada expedition, I beg leave to assure you that it was not my intention to propose your going there. I only meant what I thought would happen, that the Congress would make you that proposal. I am now of opinion that you will have work enough upon your hands where you are, and I make no doubt but your presence will be as necessary there as it would be in Canada. I am glad that Colonel Ritzema is gone to Congress, and hope they will expedite an army thither, not only to preserve what we have already got, but also to possess ourselves of Quebeck before it can be reinforced from Europe, or elsewhere; it is an object of such vast importance that it will be madness not to strain every sinew for effecting that purpose. I am in some pain for our little fleet, as I am informed that the Asia and Phoenix are sailed in quest of them. You doubtless had good reasons for the appointment you mention to have made; as it is temporary, it can have no bad effect.

I am, with great regard, &c.,

GEORGE WASHINGTON.

To General Lee.

GENERAL WASHINGTON TO COUNCIL OF MASSACHUSETTS.

Cambridge, February 26, 1776.

GENTLEMEN: As I am making all possible preparations to take possession of the Heights of Dorchester, which I expect I shall be able to accomplish by the last of this week, it is expected that this, if any thing can, will bring the enemy out of Boston to oppose, as at Charlestown, our erecting any works there. To weaken our lines on the north side of Cambridge-River too much, with a view to strengthen those of Dorchester before any move is made that way by the enemy, might expose an opening they would gladly avail themselves of, and to delay it till an attack is begun would be too late, as the contest will soon be decided, for or against us, after this happens. Under this state of the matter, and to avoid risking a defeat, when victory, under Providence, may be reduced to a certainty, I submit it to the wisdom of your Board if it will not be best to direct the Militia of some of the towns most contiguous to Dorchester and Roxbury, to repair to the lines at those two places, with their arms, ammunition, and accoutrements, instantly, upon a signal given.

If you approve of this, you will please to fix, with General Thomas, who waits upon you on purpose, upon the signal to be given, and issue your notice thereof accordingly.

I have the honour to be, with great respect and esteem, gentlemen, your most humble and obliged servant,

GEORGE WASHINGTON.

GENERAL WASHINGTON TO JOSEPH REED.

Cambridge, February 26, 1776.

DEAR SIR: We have, under many difficulties, on account of hard frozen ground, completed our work on Lechmere's Point. We have got some heavy pieces of ordnance placed there, two platforms fixed for mortars, and every thing for any offensive operation. Strong guards are now mounted there, and at Cobble-Hill.

About ten days ago the severe freezing weather formed some pretty strong ice from Dorchester to Boston-Neck, and from Roxbury to the Common. This, I thought, knowing the ice could not last, a favourable opportunity to make an assault upon the troops in town. I proposed it in Council; but behold, though we had been waiting all the year for this favourable event, the enterprise was thought too dangerous. Perhaps it was; perhaps the irksomeness of my situation led me to undertake more than could be warranted by prudence. I did not think so, and I am sure yet, that the enterprise, if it had been undertaken with resolution, must have succeeded; without it, any would fail; but it is now at an end, and I am preparing to take post on Dorchester-Heights to try if the enemy will be so kind as to come out to us. Ten regiments of Militia, you must know, had come in to strengthen my hands for offensive measures; but what I have said respecting the determinations in Council, and the possessing of Dorchester-Point, is spoken under the rose. I am, &c.,

GEORGE WASHINGTON.

To Joseph Reed.

GENERAL WASHINGTON TO PRESIDENT OF CONGRESS.

[Read March 6, 1776.]

Cambridge, February 26, 1776.

SIR: I had the honour of addressing you on the 18th and 21st instant, by Mr. Hooper, since which nothing material has occurred. We are making every necessary preparation for taking possession of Dorchester-Heights as soon as possible, with a view of drawing the enemy out; how far our expectations may be answered, time can only determine. But I should think, if any thing will induce them to hazard an engagement, it will be our attempting to fortify these Heights, as, on that event's taking place, we shall be able to command a great part of the town, and almost the whole harbour, and to make them rather disagreeable than otherwise, provided we can get a sufficient supply of what we greatly want.

Within these three or four days I have received sundry accounts from Boston of such movements there, such as taking the mortars from Bunker-Hill; the putting them with several pieces of heavy ordnance on board of ship, with a quantity of bedding; the ships all taking in water; the baking a large quantity of biscuit, &c., as to indicate an embarkation of the troops from thence. A Mr. Ides, who came out yesterday, says that the inhabitants of the town generally believe, that they are about to remove either to New-York or Virginia, and that every vessel in the harbour, on Tuesday last, was taken up for Government's service, and two months' pay advanced them; whether they really intend to embark, or whether the whole is a feint, is impossible for me to tell; however, I have thought it expedient to send an express to General Lee, to inform him of it, in order that he may not be taken by surprise, if their destination should be against New-York, and continued him on to you. If they do embark, I think the possessing themselves of that place and of the North-River, is the object they have in view, thereby securing the communication with Canada and rendering the intercourse between the Northern and Southern United Colonies exceedingly precarious and difficult. To prevent them from effecting their plan, is a matter of the highest importance, and will require a large and respectable army and the most vigilant and judicious exertions.

Since I wrote by Mr. Hooper, some small parcels of powder have arrived from Connecticut, which will give us a little assistance.

On Thursday night, a party of our men, at Roxbury, made the enemy's out-sentries, consisting of a corporal and two privates, prisoners, without firing a gun or giving the least alarm. I shall be as attentive to the enemy's motions as I can, and obtain all the intelligence in my power, and if I find them embark, shall, in the most expeditious manner, detach a part of the light troops to New-York, and repair thither myself, if circumstances shall require it. I shall be better able to judge what to do when the matter happens; at present I can only say, that I will do every thing that shall appear proper and necessary.

Your letter of the 12th instant, by Colonel Bull, came to hand yesterday evening, and shall, agreeable to your recommendation, pay proper notice to him. The supply of cash came very seasonably, as our treasury was just exhausted, and nothing can be done here without it.

I have the honour to be, with great regard, your most humble servant,

GEORGE WASHINGTON.

P. S. This was intended to have been sent by express, but meeting with a private opportunity the express was countermanded.

GENERAL ORDERS.

Head-Quarters, Cambridge, February 15, 1776.

(Parole, Fitzwilliams.)

(Countersign, Archer.)

The Regiments upon the new establishment, and the Regiments of Militia, lately arrived at Cambridge and Roxbury, to deliver to the Brigade-Majors they respectively belong to, at Orderly time, on Saturday, an exact return of their numbers, according to the form the Adjutant-General has this day given to each of the Brigade-Majors.

Such of the Regiments as are in want of leather shot-bags with straps, to hold ball and buck-shot, may have them by applying to the Adjutant-General. It is intended that every non-commissioned officer and soldier be supplied.

Head-Quarters, Cambridge, February 16, 1776.

(Parole, Chalmoudly.)

(Countersign, King.)

The Congress have been pleased to appoint Joseph Frye, Esq., a Brigadier-General in the Continental Army. He is to be obeyed as such; and his Excellency, the General, orders that he shall take the command of the vacant Brigade commonly called the Cambridge Brigade.

All the Regiments are immediately to be completed to twenty-four rounds of ammunition a man. The Colonel, or commanding officer of each, is to pass his receipt to the Commissary for the cartridges, or powder and lead necessary to do this, and to take receipts from their several Captains for the total quantity in each company; the Captains are to do the like from each of their men, who are to account satisfactorily for any load they have passed their receipt for, or pay four pence for each deficient. The Colonels, or commanding officers of Regiments, are to take especial care that this order is strictly complied with; that those fines are charged without fail to the delinquent soldiers, and credit given for them in making out the pay-abstracts. This order is to be read to, and impressed upon the minds of every man by their officers.

The General is surprised to find the Militia applying for cartouch-boxes and other accoutrements, when he had not a doubt but they would have come completely equipped. As the case, however, is otherwise, he directs that they should be served with powder-horns and shot-pouches, in lieu of cartouch-boxes, and that every thing which is delivered to them be charged to the Regiment that received it, that it may be redelivered, or paid for at the expiration of the term for which they stand engaged, and to this the Quartermaster-General and Commissary of Stores, are to give particular attention without further direction upon this head.

The intrenching tools of every kind, are to be carefully looked up, and put in good order; the Quartermaster-General is to give proper directions upon this head. No time is to be lost in the doing of it.

To prevent any mistakes, or impositions in the purchasing of arms, the Colonels are immediately to have the several arms, belonging to their respective Regiments, branded with the number of the Regiment, or stamped and marked in such a manner as they may be known.

Colonel Knox is to report the exact number of cannon cartridges, which are filled and ready for use, specifying the sorts and sizes.

Head-Quarters, Cambridge, February 18, 1776.

(Parole, Shelburne.)

(Countersign, Stamford.)

Head-Quarters, Cambridge, February 19, 1776.

(Parole, Penzenby.)

(Countersign, Abington.)

A General Court-Martial to sit to-morrow morning, at eleven, at Pomeroy's Tavern, in Cambridge, to try such prisoners as shall be brought before them. All evidences and persons concerned to attend the Court.

Head-Quarters, Cambridge, February 20, 1776.

(Parole, Manchester.)

(Countersign, Boyle.)

As it is necessary that every Regiment should be furnished with colours, and that those colours should, if it can be done, bear some kind of similitude to the uniform of the Regiment to which they belong; the Colonels, with their respective Brigadiers, and the Quartermaster-General, may fix upon such as are proper and can be procured. There must be to each Regiment the standard, (or Regimental colours,) and colours for each grand division; the whole to be small and light. The number of the Regiment is to be marked on the colours, and such a motto as the Colonel may choose; in fixing upon which the General advises a consultation amongst them.

The Colonels are to delay no time in getting this matter fixed, that the Quartermaster-General may provide the colours as soon as possible; they are, also, to consider what camp equipage may be further necessary, that no time may be lost in providing it, as the season is fast approaching for taking the field.

The General cannot again help urging it, in the strongest terms, to the Colonels the necessity of the strictest attention to the discipline of their men; learning them to march and perform all the different evolutions and manœuvres, which is of more essential service than dwelling too long upon the manual exercise. He, also, recommends to the Colonels a proper attention to the clothing of their officers and men, that they may appear in a soldierlike manner.

The General desires that the Brigadiers who have not complied with the orders of the 6th instant, concerning the ammunition, and that of the 7th, respecting the arrangement of Chaplains, may be informed that he expects an immediate report from them.

Head-Quarters, Cambridge, February 21, 1776.

(Parole, Devonshire.)

(Countersign, Grafton.)

The General, being anxious to have the established Regiments completed, with all possible expedition, desires the Colonels and commanding officers forthwith to send an officer from each incomplete company, into the country, upon the recruiting service, who are expressly forbid inlisting any boys, old men, or slaves. These officers are, also, to use their best endeavour to get what good arms they can. The recruiting in camp, is, also, to be continued.

The Colonels and commanding officers of Regiments are to send to the Quartermaster-General, to-morrow morning, the names of the Sutlers licensed by them to supply their respective corps.

Head-Quarters, Cambridge, February 22, 1776.

(Parole, Scarborough.)

(Countersign, Exeter.)

John English, of Captain Waterman's Company, in Colonel Arnold's Regiment, tried at a late General Court-Martial, for "absenting himself from his Regiment, and inlisting in Colonel Varnum's Regiment." The Court were unanimously of opinion, that the prisoner is guilty of the crimes whereof he was accused, and adjudge him to receive ten lashes on the bare back, and order the advance pay due to him, in Colonel Arnold's Regiment, to be paid the officer who gave him the advance pay in Colonel Varnum's Regiment. The General approves the sentence, and orders it to be put in execution at guard-mounting to-morrow.

The Brigadier-Generals, with their Majors of Brigade, the Colonel of Artillery, the Quartermaster-General, with the Barrackmaster of the four Brigades in the Cambridge Department, to be at Head-Quarters to-morrow morning, at ten o'clock.

Head-Quarters, Cambridge, February 23, 1776.

(Parole, Canterbury.)

(Countersign, St. Asaph.)

Lieutenant Thomas Cummings, tried at a General Court-Martial, for "behaving in a scandalous and infamous manner, unbecoming the character of an officer and gentleman," is sentenced to be cashiered. The General approves the sentence, and orders it to take place immediately.

The General, also, confirms the sentence upon James McCormick, of Captain Farrington's Company, in Colonel Sargent's Regiment, and commands the execution of it, at the discretion of his Colonel.

Head-Quarters, Cambridge, February 24, 1776.

(Parole, Hopkins.)

(Countersign, Alfred.)

The General having the credit of this Army much at heart, and anxious that it should not only behave well, but look well, recommends it to, and does expect that every officer, from the highest to the lowest, doth exert himself to accomplish those ends, to attain which the Brigadiers are desired to be attentive to every matter and thing relative to their Brigades, and where orders are not, or cannot be complied with immediately, to report the reason thereof.

From henceforward it is expected that the weekly returns of every Regiment will, before they are brought in to the Commander-in-chief, be examined and certified by the Brigadier to whose Brigade they respectively belong; who is, also, to direct his Major of Brigade to keep a book, and have them regularly entered, always comparing the return to be made with the one preceding, and inquiring minutely into the cause of every change or alteration from the last. The Colonel, or commanding officer of every Regiment, is to observe the same conduct with respect to the returns of his Companies, and keep a book for the regular entry thereof. These precautions are taken to prevent the many blunders and mistakes which have heretofore happened in making out the pay-abstracts; all of which, for the future, are to be inspected by the Brigadiers, compared with their books, and certified by them, before a warrant will be granted. A very strict attention will be expected to this order; for if these books are called for, and do not correspond with this order, the officer neglecting will meet with no favour.

The commanding officer of each Regiment may apply for a warrant for five hundred dollars, to put into the hands of such officers as they send into the country on the recruiting service, to buy arms; these officers are, in an especial manner, charged to purchase no arms but such as are good and fit for immediate use; King's muskets, or guns as near that quality as can be had, should be got, and with bayonets, if possible. As there is a Committee in each of the Counties of the Massachusetts-Bay, appointed by the General Court to purchase arms for this Army, the officers are to take care not to raise the price, by bidding against each other.

Mark Noble, of Captain Noble's Company, in Colonel Patterson's Regiment, tried by a late General Court-Martial, whereof Colonel Phinney was President, for "desertion," is found guilty, and sentenced to receive fifteen lashes upon his bare back, and mulcted one month's pay to defray the expense of apprehending and bringing the prisoner to camp. The General approves the sentence, and commands the execution of it, at such time and place as the Colonel of the Regiment shall direct.

Head-Quarters, Cambridge, February 25, 1776.

(Parole, Virginia.)

(Countersign, Norfolk.)

It being a matter of too much importance to intrust the wounds and lives of officers and soldiers to unskilful Surgeons, the General requests the Director-General and Surgeons of the Hospital, (taking, also, to their assistance such Regimental Surgeons, as, upon examination they approve of,) will sit and examine the Surgeons and Mates of the whole Army, and give certificates to those who are found qualified to discharge the duties of their office, in order that they may receive commissions. Gentlemen of candour and knowledge in their profession, will see the utility of this measure, and approve of it. None, but those who are conscious of their inability, will decline the examination.

The Surgeon of every Regiment is immediately to report to the Director-General of the Hospital, in what manner he and his Mate are at present furnished with instruments, medicines, bandages, &c., that the true state and condition may be known. The first Court of Examination will sit on Tuesday next, at the Convalescent Hospital, in Cambridge, at eleven, in the forenoon, at which all the Surgeons and their Mates, of General Sullivan's Brigade, are to attend.

Head-Quarters, Cambridge, February 26, 1776.

(Parole, New-York.)

(Countersign, Lee.)

The commanding officers of Regiments are immediately to order all the axes, pick-axes, spades, shovels, and other intrenching tools, now in their possession, to be forthwith sent to the Quartermaster-General's Store in Cambridge.

All officers, non-commissioned officers, and soldiers, are positively forbid playing at cards, and other games of chance. At this time of public distress men may find enough to do in the service of their God and their country, without abandoning themselves to vice and immorality.

EXTRACT OF A LETTER TO A GENTLEMAN IN PHILADELPHIA, DATED WILLIAMSBURG, VIRGINIA, FEBRUARY 27, 1776.

Colonel Corbin is returned from his fruitless journey to Lord Dunmore, who refused to give a commission for holding an Assembly, and only proposed that the principal gentlemen in the country should sign propositions for an accommodation, with which he would go home; but, we presume, he must get them signed by his old friends in the fleet, or about Norfolk, as he will get very few gentlemen's names to it. He said Commissioners were to negotiate, but did not say who they were.

His Lordship is not recalled, but has leave to go, if he chooses it. His conduct is approved of, and he has unlimited power to draw on the Treasury. Colonel Corbin says, that he, General Clinton, and Captain Hammond, all appeared in good humour, the latter declaring he had forbid his tenders to offer injury to individuals, or their property, his sole design being to watch the water, and enforce the acts of trade. General Clinton had four companies, who had not landed, but, on the contrary, the transports, with the Mercury, had fallen down into the Roads (Hampton) under sailing orders; he did not mention his destination, but it was gathered from the young officers, that they were to pay a visit to Governour Martin, at Cape-Fear, and then proceed to South-Carolina. On hearing that part of our letter to Colonel Corbin read, "that we were not authorized or inclined to intermeddle in the mode of negotiation, which must be left to Congress," the General said there was nothing America could ask, in a constitutional way, but would be granted; but, if we relied on the Congress, we had nothing to expect from Parliament.

Lord Dunmore wanted to borrow Clinton's troops to drive ours from Kemp's; he asked if ours would not return; the other said he supposed they would; then, says the General, "I do not think it worth while to meddle with them."

P. S. We have just received intelligence from Hampton, that General Clinton, with his troops, the Mercury, Kingfisher, and two or three tenders, went out of the Capes yesterday.

JOHN DAY SCOTT TO MARYLAND COUNCIL OF SAFETY.

Annapolis, February 27, 1776.

GENTLEMEN: I am under the necessity of applying to you for some money, for the support of the troops here, under my command, the whole of what I had an order for being expended; shall be glad if you could let me have an order for one hundred and fifty pounds, if you think proper. I have fifty men at lodgings, and expect more shortly; you will be capable of judging what sum will be sufficient; whatever you may think proper to give an order for, please deliver to Lieutenant Goldsmith.

I will have my account ready made out against you come down, for the whole of disbursements on raising and lodging my men.

Am, gentlemen, your most obedient, and very humble servant,

JOHN DAY SCOTT.

To the Honourable the Council of Safety of Maryland.

ROBERT ALEXANDER TO MARYLAND COUNCIL OF SAFETY.

Philadelphia, February 27, 1776.

GENTLEMEN: Your letter, by the post, is received. On your application to Congress, they have ordered twenty-two thousand dollars, equal to eight thousand two hundred and fifty pounds, to be advanced. This money I shall receive, and transmit you by the first safe conveyance.

The cartridge paper I have purchased; twenty-five reams, part of the quantity, shall be sent off by the stage this week; the remainder will follow next week, and I shall then furnish you with the account; the price is sixteen shillings by the ream.

I called on Mr. Morris to know the quantity of arms and powder, imported by him for the Province. He was from home; his clerk informed me, about four hundred stand of arms, and three thousand five hundred pounds of cannon powder. I have directed a gentleman of Maryland, now in this city, to receive them, and to forward them by the stages to Elk, from thence, to send them in a boat to Back-River, in Baltimore County, with orders for the skipper of the boat to proceed to Baltimore Town, and there take directions in what manner to land them. I have taken this precaution to avoid all danger; for should any tender or armed vessel be cruising in Patapsco-River, the boat can proceed to the head of Back-River, and land the arms and powder within five miles of the town; if no vessel of the enemy, she can run round without any great expense incurred by the delay.

Last night a ship arrived here from Bristol, which she left the 17th of December. She cleared out for Cork to avoid suspicion; notwithstanding which, she was strictly searched, and a letter being discovered, directed to a merchant in Philadelphia, the ship was detained, but the letter being merely on private business, the Captain, on his petition, was discharged, and permitted to sail. Some newspapers, and private letters, are brought in; they were stored away by a messenger in the bottom of a barrel of bread, which being placed in a careless manner, as if for the ship's use, it escaped the search. One of the letters was directed to Willing & Morris, without any signature; it contained a printed copy of my Lord North's Conciliatory Act, by which all American vessels found on the coast of Great Britain or Ireland, are to be seized and confiscated on the 1st day of January. All American vessels sailing into, or out of the ports of America, after the 1st of March, are to be seized and confiscated; all foreign vessels trading to America after the 1st of June, to be seized; all communication between Great Britain or Ireland, or the British West-Indies, with America, to be cut off; all captures made by British ships-of-war, or by the officers of the King's troops in America, adjudged by this act, to be lawful prizes; and as such, Courts of Admiralty to proceed in their condemnation. All orders for the regulation of Courts of Admiralty in America, heretofore made by the King in Council, or which may hereafter be made, are confirmed. The Boston Port Bill, the Fishing Bill, and the Restraining Act, are repealed by this bill; the Colonies being in the like circumstances and situation. The last clause of this more than diabolical act enables the King to appoint Commissioners to grant pardons, and receive the submissions of any Province, County, Town, or District. I shall make no comments on this act; it is only a further stay in that system of tyranny hitherto pursued by that —, who, under the influence of a Scotch Junto, now disgraces the British Throne.

What measures Congress may pursue in consequence of this act, I know not. With me, every idea of reconciliation is precluded by the conduct of Great Britain; and the only alternative, absolute slavery or independency; the latter I have often reprobated, both in publick and private, but am now almost convinced the measure is right, and can be justified by necessity.

The gentleman who enclosed the bill to W. & M., writes, that about twenty-six thousand troops are to be employed in America; that a sufficient body of men are to defend Boston, while different bodies are to attack New-York, Virginia, and South-Carolina; that Lord Cornwallis is destined for the last place, with five thousand men, and was to sail in January. The gentleman adds, the minority gains ground, that some of the Bedford party had deserted,; that the Scotch faction, headed by Sir G. Elliot, ostensibly, and by Lords Bute and Mansfield, privately, directed and influence the councils and measures of the Court.

I make no doubt you have heard Mr. Chase is ordered to Canada. He sets off in a few days. Mr. Rogers has leave of absence; should he leave Congress, Maryland will be without representation. I mention this to show the necessity of your requesting Messrs. Johnson and Stone to attend. I wrote Mr. Tilghman, but have not any answer. Although my private business requires my presence in Maryland, I shall not leave this city until a sufficient number of my brethren arrive.

I am, with respect, gentlemen, your very humble servant,

R. ALEXANDER.

To the Council of Safety of Maryland.

GEORGE STRICKER TO MARYLAND COUNCIL OF SAFETY.

Fredericktown, February 27, 1776.

GENTLEMEN: A gentleman in this town having lately purchased an assortment of goods, amongst which, (besides a sufficient quantity of deep blue broadcloth, from fifteen shillings to fifteen shillings and six pence per yard, to clothe about two hundred men, and six thousand good oiled gunflints,) he has about two hundred of the best kind of French match-coat blankets, which he will spare for the County's use, at one pound three shillings a pair, that being (he says) the price the Province of Pennsylvania allows him for them. I should be glad to know whether, or not, I may be permitted to purchase a sufficient quantity of the blankets for the use of my company at that price, as I know of none else here to be had, and the company cannot do without. I have purchased cloth for the use of my company, though at a higher price than limited; but, as the men are very agreeable the overplus should be deducted out of their wages, hope you will be kind enough to be answerable for the full amount. I have likewise agreed for their breeches, and they are all well armed; and, as their clothes will be finished in about a week, nothing will retard our march, after the expiration of that time, but the want of blankets.

I am, honourable gentlemen, with due respect, your obliged, humble servant,

GEORGE STRICKER.

To the Council of Safety of Maryland.

To the Honourable the Representatives of the Freemen of the Province of PENNSYLVANIA, in General Assembly, met:

The Petition of the Committee of Inspection for the County of Bucks, humbly sheweth:

That, as a general uneasiness prevails among the Associators in this County, on account of the late Military Resolutions of this honourable House, and many persons have signed them under a full persuasion that amendments would be made therein; and as there are many able-bodied men, between the age of fifty and sixty years, possessed of large estates, who are entirely exempt from military duty and experience, your petitioners, therefore, humbly pray that the Association may be extended to the age of sixty.

And as the tax upon the non-Associators is considered an equivalent for personal services, and the Associators have no compensation for their arms and accoutrements, not to mention the dangers they will be exposed to when called into actual service, your petitioners pray that an additional tax be laid upon the estates of non-Associators proportionate to the expenses of the Associators, necessarily incurred for the general defence of property.

And as, by marching whole battalions, or companies of Militia, large tracts of country will be left destitute of men, except those who either hold all resistance unlawful, or such as are disaffected to the present measures, your petitioners, therefore, beg leave to submit it to the consideration of the House, whether it would not be better to direct the Colonels to draft from their battalions such number as shall, from time to time, be requisite, thereby affording an opportunity for those whose circumstances will not always admit their going, to get volunteers in their stead, and, at the same time, leaving sufficient force in every part of the country to quell any local insurrections.

All which your petitioners humbly pray may be taken into the consideration of the House, and such amendments made as you, in your wisdom, shall see meet.

Per order of the Committee:

JOSEPH HART, Chairman.

In Committee, Bucks-County, February 27, 1776.

GENERAL LEE TO PRESIDENT OF CONGRESS.

New-York, February 27, 1776.

SIR: Since I did myself the honour of writing to you last, Messrs. Price, Walker, and Bonfield, are arrived from Canada, a circumstance which I consider as very fortunate, as they are able to give the best intelligence, and communicate the necessary lights on the measures to be adopted with respect to that country. In consequence of their representations, and as the season of the year, and precariousness of the weather, will admit of no delay, I shall, without waiting for orders from the Congress, take the liberty to contract immediately for four thousand barrels of pork, and a considerable quantity of rum. I have likewise written to General Wooster, ordering him to purchase, and grind into flour, twenty thousand bushels of wheat. I have, also, engaged a company of carpenters, on terms, as it appears to me, very reasonable. The captain is to have one dollar per diem, the men half-a-dollar; but they are not only to furnish their own tools, but each man is to provide himself with a gun and bayonet, and act occasionally as soldiers. Lord Stirling has, at my request, written to engage another company, on the same terms, and to consist of the same number of men, which is twenty-five. As these terms are so moderate, and the time so pressing, I hope that the Congress will approve of the step. These are times when it is impossible, without great danger to the publick cause, to wait for formal instructions; but as I shall never take this liberty, unless urged by necessity, and a view to the publick service, I flatter myself I shall never incur the censure of the Congress.

There is, certainly, nothing more important, in the present circumstances of America, than giving proper encouragement to the military spirit, inciting a military ardour, and recompensing those who have acquitted themselves with zeal and valour. On this principle, sir, I take the liberty of recommending to the favour of the Congress Major Ogden, who was a volunteer with Colonel Arnold in his hazardous expedition, who was with him, and received a wound in the attack. This gentleman, by his absence, (though he was absent in the service of his country,) has been thrown out of the way of promotion in his own Province; but as there are several vacant Lieutenant-Colonelcies and Majorities in the New-York battalions, I beg leave to recommend him for one of them. I have no particular connection or intimacy with the gentleman, but, merely from a motive of justice, and a conviction that it will be proper to reward men of his stamp, I venture on the recommendation. By some unfortunate accident, or mistake, a considerable list of meritorious officers, who have served the campaign in Canada, are struck out of employment. It must be submitted to the justice and wisdom of the Congress, whether it will not be right to remedy a grievance, before it is too late, which, neglected, may be attended with very bad consequences.

I am, sir, with the greatest respect, your most obedient, humble servant,

CHARLES LEE.

To the Honourable John Hancock, Esquire, President of the Continental Congress.

P. S. I find myself considerably better since my last, and hope to be able to set out in two or three days, though I must confess I leave this place in its present state with no small anxiety of mind. As there are no measures taken for its security, I tremble lest the enemy should take possession of it.

You have not favoured me with an answer on the subject of Doctor Fague. The gentlemen arrived from Canada are of opinion he might be of great service there. I should think that if some Jesuit, or religieuse of any other order, (but he must be a man of liberal sentiments, enlarged mind, and a manifested friend to civil liberty,) could be found out, and sent to Canada, he would be worth battalions to us. This thought struck me some time ago, and I am pleased to find, from the conversation of Mr. Price and his fellow-travellers, that the thought was very far from a wild one. Mr. Carroll has a relative, who exactly answers the description.

GENERAL SCHUYLER TO NEW-YORK CONGRESS.

Albany, February 27, 1776.

SIR: When an officer has acted with remarkable attention and propriety, it becomes a duty in his commander to give publick testimony of it. Such has been the conduct of Captain Willet, during the last campaign. He is, therefore, entitled to the attention of his country.

I am, sir, your most humble servant,

To Nathaniel Woodhull, Esquire, President of the New-York Congress.

GENERAL SCHUYLER TO PRESIDENT OF CONGRESS.

Albany, February 27, 1776.

SIR: I am honoured with your letter of the 20th, by express, advising me of the new arrangement in command. I shall ever, sir, be contented to remain where Congress thinks I can be of service. My disorder is become very alarming to the physicians here, but I do not think that it is so dangerous as they imagine; and I hope a little relaxation from the business of the closet, and a moderate degree of exercise, will re-establish me tolerably well.

I shall not be able to leave this until all the troops destined for Canada are passed, and until the batteaus are built at Fort-George, and every thing got into such a train as that General Lee's intended military operations in Canada may not be retarded, nor the Army suffer for want of provisions.

The Convention of New-York, in a letter of the 22d, advises me that they are unable to supply me with either arms, blankets, or clothing, for Colonel Van Schaack's Regiment. I hope I shall be able to equip them, although it will be very difficult to procure arms.

In a letter from the Committee appointed by the New-York Convention to convey the heavy cannon destined for Quebeck, they ask me what shot there is at the posts above. I have answered, "none for the cannon they have in charge;" and as they have said nothing about carriages, I fear they have not attended to it. I have, therefore, wrote them on the subject, that the cannon may not be detained, on their arrival here, until the carriages are constructed. The best of the common carriages in the country are insufficient to transport the least of them.

There is scarcely pork sufficient to be got on the east side of Hudson's River to supply the small quantities intended to be stored near that river. What is gone to Canada, and remains at the posts above, will serve the Army but a very short time; and no supplies of the meat kind can be had, even with hard cash, in Canada, from the beginning of April until the middle or latter end of September; hence, a very considerable quantity of provisions will be wanted. I shall, therefore, order the Commissary-General to send for one thousand barrels of pork to New-Jersey; but, being apprehensive that the men-of-war will not suffer any vessels to pass, I have directed that it should be sent by water to Hackensack, from whence I believe the traverse to Hudson's River is short, and sloops may be sent down to transport it to this place. But as this will be far from being a sufficiency, I propose, if agreeable to Congress, and that they judge fresh meat cheaper than salt pork, (which is very doubtful with me, on account of the numbers lost in driving, extra waste in issuing, &c.) that a continued supply of cattle should be sent to Onion-River, to be from thence conveyed in our vessels and row-galleys to St. John's; but not to be put on board at Onion-River until there is a fair wind, lest they should suffer in the passage. I do not mean that the cattle should be sent before there is grass sufficient for their subsistence on the road, and sedge, or something, to be got to feed them during the passage.

Since writing the above, I have considered, that as Hudson's River is not yet open, the delay of laying the matter about the pork before Congress, for their determination, cannot be attended with any evil consequences, and they may probably adopt a better mode. If they can give orders to some person in Jersey to purchase the pork, and send it as above, Mr. Peter Zabriskie, of Hackensack, a real friend to our cause, might be employed to see it transported to Hudson's River.

Enclose the orders I have issued for regulating the issuing of provisions. These are, in a great measure, similar to those I made on the 20th of July last. An immediate punishment on the first offender, will, I hope, have the desired effect. I shall order a strict watch to be kept, and the first Commissary that breaks the orders I will cause to be turned out of the employ.

The best of the batteamen may be got for three shillings a day, currency, which is cheaper than to employ soldiers; for, in thirty days, it amounts to only six shillings and eight pence more than a soldier's pay and fatigue-money, and they will transport nearly double the quantity of stores, in the same time, that a like number of men would do who are unaccustomed to the business; and they are employed as soon as raised, which will take only four or five days. If the Lakes should open before I can hear from Congress, I will venture to raise a company of one hundred, for I foresee that great quantities of provisions must be sent into Canada.

I am, sir, most respectfully, your obedient, humble servant,

PHILIP SCHUYLER.

To the Honourable John Hancock, Esquire, &c.

GENERAL ORDERS.

Head-Quarters, Albany, February 27, 1776.

Whereas, great abuses have heretofore prevailed, as well in the returns made for drawing provisions, and in issuing the same, as by embezzlements of those employed in the transportation: In order to prevent which for the future, the following orders are strictly and minutely to be attended to and complied with: The Deputy Commissary-General, and his Deputies, to keep exact accounts of all stores, of what kind soever, by him or them forwarded from one place to another, specifying the particulars sent, the time when, the person, or persons, carrying them, delivering, at the same time, a copy of such account to the person taking the provision, or stores, in charge; upon the delivery whereof, such person shall receive a certificate from the Commissary, or person to whom the same was so to have been delivered; but, if there shall be a deficiency in any of the articles, the Commissary, or person to whom the same shall be delivered, shall mark such deficiency on the certificate, and charge the person to whose care the provision, or stores, had been delivered, with such deficiency, in a book to be kept for that purpose, and transmit a monthly return thereof to the Deputy Commissary-General, who shall immediately send a copy thereof to the Deputy Paymaster-General, that he may, and he is hereby required, to deduct the amount out of the pay of such person into whose care the provisions and stores were delivered: provided, always, that if any provisions, or stores, shall be lost by unavoidable accidents, and the same can be proved to be so, by sworn witnesses, before any officer commanding at the post where such provisions, or stores, were intended to be sent to, such officer's certificate, with the proofs annexed, shall be a sufficient voucher to the Commissary to cancel such charge, by writing over against the charge, "Cancelled, by order of . . . , commanding here." No provision to be issued to any troops, but upon the return, signed by the officer commanding a corps, or by the Quartermaster, or by the officer, or non-commissioned officer; commanding a party thereof, when detached. And whereas, it has frequently happened that troops, who had been victualled at one post to a certain time, and were ordered from thence, and removed to another post, before the time to which they were victualled was expired, and have, nevertheless, on their arrival at such post, drawn provisions as though they were entitled to it; to prevent which, whenever any corps moves from one place to another, the commanding officer shall procure a certificate from the Commissary, signifying to what day, inclusive, such corps was victualled. The commanding officer of every party shall do the same; and if a detachment is composed of men from different corps, and who may be victualled to different days, the return shall be made, and the certificate shall specify the time to which each was victualled; and the Commissary at any post shall revictual such men, unless such certificate be produced; but lest, by the negligence of any officer in not procuring the certificates, the men should suffer for want of provisions, and the service be obstructed, the Commissary is permitted to victual the corps, or party, and to charge the officer commanding therewith, and make returns, that the same may be deducted out of his pay, as in the preceding article: provided that, if such certificate be procured and delivered within thirty days after the drawing of such provision without certificate, the Commissary shall cancel the charge, in manner before directed. Every Commissary to keep the accounts of provision issued to every corps, or parts or detachments of corps, separately, that it may be readily compared with the monthly returns, as a check upon the provision returns. All provision returns, or orders to issue provisions, to be by the Commissary numbered and endorsed, with the date, and number of men victualled, and carefully filed, to be produced when called for. A weekly return to be made to the commander-in-chief of the Department, and to the General Officer commanding the troops in Canada, of what provisions are in store at every place in the Northern Department. The Commissary to apply to the commanding officers at every post for working parties, to assist in securing the provisions and stores; and such commanding officers are hereby required to give such working parties, and offer all kind of assistance in their power, to secure the provisions and publick stores. Every Commissary in the Northern Department to keep their orders continually posted up in his issuing-store, that no person who may be concerned in the execution of them may plead ignorance. The officers commanding at the different posts to have copies of them posted up in one or more publick places about their posts.

HENRY B. LIVINGSTON, Aid-de-camp.

Estimate showing the value of different species of Provisions to be given in lieu of another, or the value of one specie to be given in lieu of the whole species, according to the bill of fare settled by the honourable the Continental Congress, the 9th of NOVEMBER, 1775, viz :

Two pounds of bread, or flour, and one pound of pork, are equal to one ration of all species.
 One pound of bread, or flour, one pound of pork, and two pints of peas, are equal to one ration of all species.
 One pound of bread, or flour, twelve ounces of pork, and six ounces of butter, are equal to one ration of all species.
 One pound of bread, or flour, one and-a-half pounds of beef, a half-pint of rice, or one pint Indian meal, are equal to one ration of all species.
 One pound of bread, or flour, one and-a-half pounds of beef, one quart of spruce beer, or cider, or one gill of rum, are equal to one ration of all species.
 Five pounds of bread, or flour, are equal to one ration.
 Three pounds of beef are equal to one ration.
 Twenty-eight ounces of pork are equal to one ration.
 Sixteen ounces of butter are equal to one ration.
 One gallon and a half-pint of peas are equal to one ration.
 Four pints of rice are equal to one ration.

GENERAL ARNOLD TO GENERAL WASHINGTON.

Camp before Quebec, February 27, 1776.

DEAR GENERAL: I wrote you the 14th ultimo, of our situation and prospects, since which nothing of consequence has occurred here. The enemy, to the number of about five hundred, have twice sallied out at Palace-Gate, with design of seizing our field-pieces, near the Nunnery, but, on our troops advancing to attack them, they made a precipitate retreat under cover of their guns. Desertions from the garrison are frequent, by which we learn they are much distressed for fuel, and must soon burn their houses and ships. Two officers taken at St. John's were lately sent with a flag to the walls, with a view of getting their families at liberty, but were refused admittance, which, I am told by several deserters, incensed the inhabitants very much, and caused a great uneasiness in the garrison, who, I believe, begin to grow heartily tired of salt provisions and confinement. We have received a reinforcement of four hundred men; many are daily coming in. I hope in the course of this month we shall have four or five thousand men. I am fearful we shall not be supplied with shot, shells, mortars, &c., I am, therefore, preparing ladders for an assault if necessary; the extensiveness of their works I think will render their defence impracticable.

I have, this minute, the pleasure of your favour of the 27th ultimo. I am greatly obliged to you for your good wishes, and the concern you express for me. Sensible of the vast importance of this country, you may be assured my utmost exertions will not be wanting to effect your wishes, in adding it to the United Colonies. I am fully of your opinion, that the balance will turn in whose favour it belongs. The repeated successes of our raw, undisciplined troops, over the flower of the British army; the many unexpected and remarkable occurrences in our favour, are plain proofs of the overruling hand of Providence, and justly demands our warmest gratitude to Heaven, which I make no doubt will crown our virtuous efforts with success. No doubt Administration will exert themselves in sending a large force this way in the spring; but if we are fortunate enough to reduce the city before they arrive, I make no doubt of keeping it, as we shall have the interest of the country in general, to which the raising two regiments of Canadians (which Congress have ordered) will not a little conduce.

I am sorry to inform you, notwithstanding every precaution that could be used, the small-pox has crept in among the troops; we have near one hundred men in the Hospital; in general it is favourable, very few have died. I have moved the inhabitants of the vicinity of Quebeck into the country, and hope to prevent its spreading any further.

The severity of the climate, the troops very illy clad, and worse paid; the trouble of reconciling matters among the inhabitants, and lately an uneasiness among some of the New-York, and other officers, who think themselves neglected in the new arrangement, while those who deserted the cause and went home last fall, have been promoted; in short, the choice of difficulties I have had to encounter, has rendered it so very perplexing, that I have often been at a loss how to conduct matters.

As General Schuyler's ill state of health will not permit his coming this way, I was in hopes General Lee, or some experienced officer, would have been sent to take the command here. The service requires a person of greater abilities and experience than I can pretend to. General Wooster writes me his intention of coming down here; I am afraid he will not be able to leave Montreal.

I have the pleasure to inform you my wound is entirely healed, and I am able to hobble about my room, though my leg is a little contracted and weak. I hope soon to be fit for action. We are waiting impatiently, expecting to hear of some capital blow being struck with you.

I beg my compliments to the gentlemen of your family, and am, with great respect and esteem, dear General, your obedient, and very humble servant,

B. ARNOLD.

To General Washington.

EDWARD WILLIAMS TO GOVERNOUR TRUMBULL.

Harford, February 27, 1776.

SIR: I find myself under the necessity of applying to you by letter, as the restrictions I am laid under by this Committee deprive me at present of a personal interview, which I requested on my arrival here near a fortnight ago. The artillery, which belonged to the late garrison at St. John's, were, by some mistake, during my absence, separated from Major Preston and the rest of the garrison. They are at present dispersed so far beyond the limits assigned to me, that it is out of my power to discharge the trust reposed in me as their commanding officer, to see them properly taken care of, or to be answerable for their good conduct.

John Miller, matross in my company, by trade a carpenter, is gone to work at some very considerable distance, forty or fifty miles from this place, without the knowledge or consent of Lieutenant Smith, who he ought to have applied to; nor can any of the gentlemen of this Committee inform me whether he obtained a pass from them. Three men, billeted at or near Windsor, have sold the new clothing, which I had just supplied them with, though they received two months' subsistence at the same time; yet these men expect, no doubt, that Government will continue to clothe and pay them. These, sir, are grievances which I hope you will redress, by ordering, or at least requesting, that no person whatever shall purchase any clothing or necessities from a soldier.

The troops under Major Preston, at Lancaster, being all quartered together, are properly inspected and kept in good order by their officers; and as the Artillery now in this Province are under the same capitulation, I must beg of you to order them to be billeted within my limits, that I may discharge my duty to them, agreeable to the spirit and design of the capitulation, which provided for the garrison being together. In the mean time I must request your leave for Lieutenant Smith and myself, to go to Canaan and Salisbury, &c., on Monday next, in order to pay the men some subsistence, particularly as some of them have families and are in want of many necessities. We shall return on Wednesday or Thursday. The orders of Congress, respecting the limits assigned to us, will not, I apprehend, be infringed by this leave, as that order is general, and, consequently, leaves particular exceptions to the judgment of the Governour.

If you think proper to send me the order for removing the men within my limits, I can have it executed while I am upon the spot. I have only further to beg the favour of you, to send me your leave to come to Lebanon, as soon as convenient, as the shortest and easiest matters become long and difficult to settle by letter.

I am, sir, your very humble servant,

EDWARD WILLIAMS.

To His Excellency Governour Trumbull, at Lebanon.

GENERAL WASHINGTON TO GENERAL SCHUYLER.

Cambridge, February 27, 1776.

DEAR SIR: Last night I received your favour of the 14th instant, by Mr. Bennett, enclosing a general return of the artillery and military stores in our possession, in Canada.

It gives me great pleasure to hear that you are improving in your health. Before long I most sincerely hope you will be so recovered as to be able to go to the Army in Canada, where, I am convinced, you are much wanted, and would be of the highest service at this important crisis. I doubt not of there being a good deal of confusion and disorder in that quarter, which, I flatter myself, would in a great measure subside, and be composed by your presence. It is natural enough that Mr. Walker's resentment should be up for the wrongs he has suffered; it is incident to humanity, but yet the passions of individuals ought never to prevail so far as to injure the state.

I am sorry to find that the quantity of artillery and military stores is so small and inconsiderable, as appears by the return. I had hoped that you were better provided with the former, and also, with much more ammunition than you have, particularly powder, and that the distresses no where else were equal to mine for want of this capital necessary. Would Fortune but give you possession of Quebeck, then would our wants be mostly supplied; may she smile propitious, and your virtuous struggles be crowned with success. The reduction of this fortress would be attended with consequences of the most happy and salutary nature to our great cause, and as General Arnold, with a handful of men, has been able to maintain the blockade, I look forward with pleasing confidence to the day when your being properly reinforced, will oblige it to surrender.

We have just completed a large and strong work on Lechmere's Point, opposite to New-Boston, and are about to take post on the Heights of Dorchester, with a view of drawing the enemy out. These Heights will command a large part of the town, and almost the whole harbour, and give us an opportunity of distressing the enemy whenever we may be properly provided with necessaries for carrying on a cannonade and bombardment. If any thing will induce General Howe to risk an engagement, it will be this. I am determined to do every thing in my power to bring on one, and that as soon as possible. How far my views may be answered, time must determine.

When I sent Colonel Knox in pursuit of artillery, I did not design that you should have been disfranchised; I only meant that he should have brought from Canada such ordnance as you could conveniently spare; but from your letter and the return, I am led to think that you are in want. I have been informed that General Lee has lately secured a large number of heavy cannon and shot that were at New-York, from whence, I imagine, you may get a supply of what you want, which you cannot be supplied with elsewhere. If you will acquaint me, I will most readily give you every assistance in my power, and deem myself happy if I can contribute to relieve your necessities in any manner.

I am, dear sir, with great regard, your affectionate, humble servant,

GEORGE WASHINGTON.

To the Honourable General Schuyler.

STEPHEN MOYLAN TO GENERAL WOOSTER.

Cambridge February 27, 1776.

SIR: I have it in command from his Excellency General Washington to acquaint you that the Indians, who were lately here from Canada, are very much dissatisfied that Mr. St. Luke La Corne, is suffered to be at liberty; he is, by all accounts, a dangerous person, therefore, think it will be better for our own safety, and to quiet the minds of the Indians, to have that gentleman sent out of that Province. Your compliance herewith will be pleasing to his Excellency, and he is strongly of opinion will be of very great service to the American cause.

I have the honour to be, sir, your most obedient, humble servant,

STEPHEN MOYLAN, P. T. S.

To General Wooster.

COLONEL PATRICK HENRY'S RESIGNATION.

Williamsburgh, Virginia, March 1, 1776.

Yesterday morning the troops in this city being informed that Patrick Henry, Esq., Commander-in-chief of the Virginia Forces, resigned his commission the day preceding, (February 28th,) and was about to leave them, the whole went into mourning, and, under arms, waited on him at his lodgings, when they addressed him in the following manner:

"To PATRICK HENRY, JUN., Esq.:

"Deeply impressed with a grateful sense of the obligations we lie under to you, for the polite, humane, and tender treatment manifested to us throughout the whole of your conduct, while we had the honour of being under your command, permit us to offer you our sincere thanks, as the only tribute we have in our power to pay to your real merits.

"Notwithstanding your withdrawing yourself from the service fills us with the most poignant sorrow, as it at once deprives us of our father and General, yet, as gentlemen, we are compelled to applaud your spirited resentment to the most glaring indignity. May your merit shine as conspicuous to the world in general as it hath done to us, and may Heaven shower its choicest blessings upon you.

"Williamsburgh, February 29, 1776."

To which he returned the following Answer:

"GENTLEMEN: I am extremely obliged to you for your approbation of my conduct. Your Address does me the highest honour. This kind of testimony of your regard to me would have been an ample reward for services much greater than I have had the power to perform. I return you, and each of you, gentlemen, my best acknowledgments, for the spirit, alacrity, and zeal, you have constantly shown in your several stations. I am unhappy to part with you. I leave the service, but I leave my heart with you. May God bless you, and give you success and safety, and make you the glorious instruments of saving our country."

After the Officers had received Colonel Henry's kind answer to their Address, they insisted upon his dining with them, at the Raleigh Tavern, before his departure, and after dinner a number of them proposed escorting him out of town, but were prevented by some uneasiness getting among the soldiery, who assembled in a tumultuous manner and demanded their discharge, and declaring their unwillingness to serve under any other commander. Upon which Colonel Henry found it necessary to stay a night longer in town, which he spent in visiting the several barracks, and used every argument in his power with the soldiery to lay aside their imprudent resolution, and to continue in the service, which he had quitted from motives in which his honour, alone, was concerned, and that, although he was prevented from serving his country in a military capacity, yet his utmost abilities should ever be exerted for the real interest of the United Colonies, in support of the glorious cause in which they had engaged. This, accompanied with the extraordinary exertions of Colonel Christian, and the other officers present, happily produced the desired effect, the soldiers reluctantly acquiescing. And we have now the pleasure to assure the publick that those brave fellows are now pretty well reconciled, and will spend the last drop of their blood in their country's defence.

Address to PATRICK HENRY, JUN., Esq., late Commander-in-chief of the Virginia Forces.

SIR: Deeply concerned for the good of our country, we sincerely lament the unhappy necessity of your resignation, and with all the warmth of affection assure you, that whatever may have given rise to the indignity lately offered to you, we join with the general voice of the people, and think it our duty to make this publick declaration of our high respect for your distinguished merit. To your vigilance and judgment, as a Senator, this United Continent bears ample testimony, while she prosecutes her steady opposition to those destructive Ministerial measures which your eloquence first pointed out and taught to resent, and your resolution led forward to resist. To your extensive popularity the service, also, is greatly indebted for the expedition with which the troops were raised; and while they were continued under your command, the firmness, candour, and politeness, which formed the complexion of your conduct towards them, obtained the signal approbation of the wise and virtuous, and will leave upon our minds the most grateful impression.

Although retired from the immediate concerns of war, we solicit the continuance of your kindly attention. We know your attachment to the best of causes; we have the fullest confidence in your abilities, and in the rectitude of your views, and, however willing the envious may be to undermine an established reputation, we trust the day will come when justice shall prevail, and thereby secure you an honourable and happy return to the glorious employment of conducting our councils and hazarding your life in the defence of your country.

With the most grateful sentiments of regard and esteem, we are, sir, very respectfully, your most obliged and obedient, humble servants.

Signed by upwards of ninety Officers, at KEMPS-LANDING, SUFFOLK, and WILLIAMSBURGH.

Williamsburgh, March 9, 1776.

The following is an exact copy of the Commission sent from the General Congress to the Committee of Safety, appointing Colonel Henry to the command of the First Regiment or Battalion in this Colony taken upon the Continental establishment, agreeable to the requisition of the last Convention.

IN CONGRESS.

The Delegates of the UNITED COLONIES of NEW-HAMPSHIRE, MASSACHUSETTS-BAY, RHODE-ISLAND, CONNECTICUT, NEW-YORK, NEW-JERSEY, PENNSYLVANIA, the Counties of NEW-CASTLE, KENT, and SUSSEX, on DELAWARE, MARYLAND, VIRGINIA, NORTH-CAROLINA, SOUTH-CAROLINA, and GEORGIA, to PATRICK HENRY, Esquire.

We, reposing especial trust and confidence in your patriotism, valour, conduct, and fidelity, do by these presents constitute and appoint you to be Colonel of the First Battalion of Virginia Forces, in the Army of the United Colonies, raised for the defence of American liberty, and for repelling every hostile invasion thereof. You are, therefore, carefully and diligently to discharge the duty of Colonel, by doing and performing all manner of things thereunto belonging. And we do strictly charge and require all officers and soldiers under your command to be obedient to your orders as Colonel, and you are to observe and follow such orders and directions, from time to time, as you shall receive from this or a future Congress of the United Colonies, or Committee of Congress for that purpose appointed, or Commander-in-chief (for the time being) of the Army of the United Colonies, or any other superior officer, according to the rules and discipline of war, in pursuance of the trust reposed in you. This commission to continue in force until revoked by this or a future Congress.

By order of the Congress:

JOHN HANCOCK, President.

Attest: CHARLES THOMSON, Secretary.
Philadelphia, February 13, 1776.

Williamsburgh, March 15, 1776.

I am informed a report is prevailing throughout the Colony that the Committee of Safety were the cause of Colonel Henry's resigning the command of his battalion, which it is supposed hath received confirmation from the Address of the Officers to that gentleman, in which they speak of a glaring indignity having been offered him, if it was not wholly derived from that source. That the good people of the country may be truly informed in this matter, the following state of facts is submitted, without comment, to the impartial judgment of the publick:

As soon as the last Convention had voted the raising seven new battalions of troops, besides augmenting the old ones, the Committee of Safety informed our Delegates to Congress of that vote, desiring they would use their best endeavours to have the whole supported at Continental expense; in answer to which a letter was received from the Delegates, dated the 30th of December, of which the following is an extract:

"The resolutions of Congress for taking our six additional (they would not agree to take the other two) battalions into Continental pay, and for permitting any exportation for supplying our countrymen with salt, are enclosed."

It was supposed, from hence, an intention prevailed in Congress to pass by the two old battalions and take six of the new ones into Continental pay, which, as it was said those officers would take precedence of Provincial ones of equal rank, was generally thought wrong, since it would degrade the officers of the first two battalions; and, to avoid this, the Convention came to a Resolution the 10th January, of which the following is part:

"Should the Congress adhere to their resolution of taking into Continental pay no more than six battalions, let it be earnestly recommended to them to suffer our two present battalions (to be completed as before-mentioned) to stand first in the arrangement, since otherwise the officers first appointed by this Convention, most of whom have already gone through a laborious and painful service, will be degraded in their ranks, and there is too much reason to apprehend that great confusion will ensue."

The worthy gentleman (not a member of the Committee of Safety) who proposed this Resolution, informed the Convention he had consulted some of the officers of the First Regiment, who wished to have their rank preserved, though it was foreseen the pay would be reduced.

The Committee of Safety, in a letter to the Delegates, dated the 25th of January, enclosing this Resolution, thus wrote:

"You have a list of the Field-Officers, as they stand recommended, and we doubt not receiving their commissions in the like order, with blanks for the proper number of Captains and Subalterns. If, however, the resolution of Congress should be unalterably fixed to allow us but six battalions, you will please to attend to that part of the resolve which recommends their being the first six, as a point of great consequence to our harmony, which may be involved in the good of the common cause."

The Committee of Safety afterwards received the commissions (wholly filled up) for the Field-Officers of six battalions, in the rank they stood recommended by the Convention, beginning with Colonel Henry, and ending with Colonel Buckner, of the Sixth Battalion, with directions to deliver them. Colonel Henry was accordingly offered his commission, which he declined accepting, and retired without assigning any reasons.

As to the General Officers, the Convention left them entirely to the choice of the Congress, without recommendation, nor did the Committee of Safety at all intermeddle in that choice.

A FRIEND TO TRUTH.

The Address of the Officers to Colonel Henry, and the Colonel's reply, has led some of our enemies to hope there would be a great discontent in the Army, by which our military operations would be retarded, and that there would be a considerable murmuring against the Congress; but they are much mistaken. It is true, the officers and soldiers were very unhappy at parting with so amiable a commander as Colonel Henry, and might be a little imprudent in some expressions on the occasion; but there is not a man of them who is not so warmly attached to the glorious cause he is engaged in, as to serve with alacrity under any commander, rather than it should suffer; and Colonel Henry, himself, is a gentleman of so much honour, and so true a patriot, that he never will countenance a murmur against the Congress; nay, so far from it, that it is highly probable he will soon be found in that august assembly, urging, with his powerful eloquence, the necessity of prosecuting the war with redoubled vigour.

I am a sincere friend to the Congress and Colonel Henry.

AN HONEST FARMER TO MR. PURDIE.

I was not surprised to see, in your last week's Gazette, the resignation of P. Henry, Esq., late Commander-in-chief of all the Virginia Forces, and Colonel of the First Regiment. From that great man's amiable disposition, his invariable perseverance in the cause of liberty, we apprehend that envy strove to bury in obscurity his martial talents, fettered and confined, with only an empty title, the mere echo of authority, his superior abilities lay inactive, nor could be exerted for his honour or his country's good.

Virginia may truly boast, that in him she finds the able statesman, the soldier's father, the best of citizens, and liberty's dear friend; clad with innocence, as in a coat of mail, he is proof against every serpentine whisper. The officers and soldiers, who know him, are riveted to his bosom: when he speaks, all is silence; when he orders, they cheerfully obey; and in the field, under so sensible, so prudent an officer, though hosts oppose them, with shouts they meet their armed foe, the sure presages of victory and success.

Let us, my countrymen, with grateful hearts, remember that he carried off the standard of liberty, and defeated Grenville in his favourite Stamp Act.

AN HONEST FARMER.

CATO TO MESSRS. DIXON AND HUNTER.

GENTLEMEN: For any man, or body of men, to fling out general reflections in common newspapers, with an intention to degrade the characters of gentlemen acting in public stations, is as unmanly as it is disingenuous. True, genuine honour revolts against such conduct; it abhors general accusations, which do not discriminate the persons accused, or point out the crimes for which they are to answer. Such accusations are scarcely to be met with in history of the most barbarous nations; they expose the innocent to the malevolence of the ill-natured, crafty, and designing, and are repugnant to the great duties of moral obligation.

I was led, Mr. Printers, into this way of thinking upon reading two Addresses from some officers to Colonel Henry, published in Purdie's paper, containing many severe and general censures, without distinguishing the persons for whom they were intended. As Colonel Henry, in his answer to the first Address, has not attempted to remove these censures, but seems to admit them to be just, I have taken the liberty to lay before the publick a fair and candid detail of facts, relative to Colonel Henry's appointment as an officer to command in our military establishment, and leave it to the publick to determine whether these censures are just or not.

I have no inclination to enter into a literary controversy; I am willing to give honour to whom honour is due, but I disdain to become the sycophantick flatterer, or to heap commendations upon any man when I am convinced he does not deserve them, especially, when such commendations may be disadvantageous to the true interest of my country.

The Convention, which met at Richmond in July last, passed an ordinance for raising and embodying a sufficient force for the defence and protection of this Colony. By this ordinance two regiments of regular forces were to be raised, each regiment to be commanded by a Colonel, Lieutenant-Colonel, and a Major, who were to be appointed by the General Convention. The other officers were to be appointed by the Committees of the several districts into which the ordinance divided the Colony. Besides these two regiments of regular forces, Minute battalions, consisting of five hundred men each, were to be raised in the several districts, to be commanded by proper officers appointed by the District Committees; the Militia of the several Counties were to be new regulated, under officers to be appointed by the Committees of the Counties.

Agreeable to the direction of the ordinance, the Convention proceeded to the appointment of field-officers to command the two regiments, and determined the choice should be made by ballot. Mr. Patrick Henry, Mr. Hugh Mercer, Mr. Thomas Nelson, and Mr. William Woodford, were severally recommended to be Colonel of the First Regiment. It was objected to Mr. Henry, that his studies had been directed to civil and not to military pursuits; that he was totally unacquainted with the art of war, and had no knowledge of military discipline; and that such a person was very unfit to be at the head of troops who were likely to be engaged against a well disciplined army, commanded by experienced and able Generals. These objections were answered by one gentleman, who said, that Mr. Henry solicited the appointment, which he supposed Mr. Henry would not have done if he did not think himself qualified to command. Mr. Mercer was objected to for being a North-Briton. In answer to this objection, it was admitted that Mr. Mercer was born in Scotland, but that he came to America in his early years, and had constantly resided in it from his first coming over; that his family, and all his other connexions were in this Colony; that he had uniformly distinguished himself a warm and firm friend to the rights of America; and what was of principal consideration, that he possessed great military, as well as literary abilities. Mr. Nelson acknowledged Mr. Mercer's military abilities, declared he would not oppose his appointment, and hoped that he himself should not be voted for. Mr. Woodford, who was not at that time of the Convention, spoke very largely without doors in favour of Mr. Mercer, declared he was willing to serve under him, as he knew him to be a fine officer.

Upon examining the votes in the ballot-box, the numbers appeared as follows: For Hugh Mercer, Esq., forty-one; for Patrick Henry, Esq., forty; for Thomas Nelson, Esq., eight; and for William Woodford, Esq., one. But as the number of votes upon the ballot, for Mr. Mercer, were not a majority of the whole House, the question, according to rule established by the Convention, was then put, whether Mr. Mercer or Mr. Henry, upon whom the greatest numbers fell, should be appointed to command the said regiment, when a small majority appeared in favour of Mr. Henry; and, thereupon, it was resolved that the said Mr. Henry be appointed Colonel of the First Regiment.

Mr. Henry being thus appointed to the command of the First Regiment, and the other officers chosen according to the direction of the ordinance, a Committee was appointed to draw up and report proper forms of commissions to be granted for the officers of the regular forces, Minute battalions, and Militia. This Committee did not make their report till the last day of the session, when the House was very thin, and only fifty-five members present. The commission reported by them, as proper to be granted to the Colonel of the First Regiment, began with the following preamble: "Whereas, by a resolution of the Delegates of this Colony, in Convention assembled, it was determined, that you, the said Patrick Henry, Esq., should be Colonel of the First Regiment of Regulars, and Commander-in-chief of all the Forces to be raised for the protection and defence of this Colony." This was certainly a mistake in the Committee, as no determination of the Convention had appointed him Commander-in-chief of all the Forces to be raised for the defence of the Colony, but only Colonel of the First Regiment. Whether this mistake was attended to by the Convention when the report was made, I do not pretend to know; but let that be as it may, these words could not give him any other command than that of Commander-in-chief of the two regiments, and of such detachments from the Minute battalions and Militia as should be directed by the Convention, or Committee of Safety, to act in conjunction with them, according to the express provision of the ordinance by which they were to be raised, and the express declaration of his commission. The commission itself makes this evident, as it requires him to pay due obedience to all orders and instructions which from time to time he should receive from the Convention, or Committee of Safety appointed and empowered during the recess of the Convention, to superintend and direct the military operations for the defence and protection of the Colony, and this commission was to be held by him during the pleasure of the Convention, and no longer.

The last Convention judged it necessary to augment the two regiments to ten companies each, and to raise six new regiments for the defence of the Colony, each consisting of ten companies, besides a battalion of five hundred men, to be stationed at the Eastern-Shore; the whole to be commanded by a Major-General and two Brigadier-Generals, who were to be appointed by Congress. The great expense which would necessarily be incurred if so large a force, exclusive of the Minute and Militia establishment, were kept up and maintained by the Colony, determined the Convention to direct their Delegates at the General Congress to endeavour to have them put upon the Continental establishment. In answer to this requisition the Delegates informed the Convention, that "the Congress agreed to take the six new additional battalions into Continental pay, but would not take the two old ones;" and that "Continental officers were to have the command of Provincial officers of equal rank, whenever they might happen to act together." When this information from our Delegates in General Congress was taken under the consideration of the Convention, they directed the Committee of Safety to inform them, among other important matters, that it be earnestly recommended to the Congress, that should they adhere to their resolution of taking into Continental pay no more than six battalions, to suffer the two old regiments to stand first in the arrangement; since otherwise the officers of those regiments would be degraded in their ranks. This requisition of the Convention arose principally from an information given them by some of their members, that the officers of the two old regiments were much dissatisfied with the resolution of the Congress for refusing to take their regiments upon the Continental establishment, which would occasion them to lose their rank when acting in conjunction with Continental officers.

As the Convention made no doubt but that this requisition would be complied with by the Congress, they declared, in their ordinance for raising an additional number of forces for the defence and protection of this Colony, "that all commissions granted by the Committee of Safety, in pursuance of the said, or a former ordinance of Convention, to any regular officer, should be void as soon as such officer, or any other in his stead, should be appointed or commissioned by the General Congress; and that the pay of every such officer should, from the time of such appointment, and notice thereof, given to the Committee of Safety, be the same as was settled by the General Congress.

Upon the 25th of February, the Committee of Safety received a packet from the Delegates in Congress, enclosing commissions for the officers of the six regiments the Congress had agreed to take upon the Continental establishment, of which the old regiments were two. Those to the Field-Officers were completely filled up, the others for the Captains and inferior officers were left blank, to be filled up by the Committee of Safety. Colonel Henry being appointed by one of those commissions to the command of the First Regiment, the Committee informed him thereof in a polite letter, and that they were ready to deliver him his commission, whenever he should think proper to call for it. In consequence of this letter, Colonel Henry came to the Committee, and the President delivered him the commission, which, after reading, he returned to the President, and declared that he would not accept of it, but gave no reasons for his refusal, and immediately left the Committee.

Thus, Mr. Printers, I have given you an honest detail of the publick proceedings, so far as they relate to Colonel Henry, from his first appointment to the command of the First Regiment to his refusal of the Continental commission, appointing him to the same command, according to the desire and resolution of the Convention; and I protest I cannot discover any thing invidious in these proceedings, or that the least indignity has been offered to Colonel Henry's honour. But I will make no reflections: I submit what I have said to the determination of the impartial publick.

CATO.

CAPTAINS KENT AND HENRY TO MARYLAND COUNCIL OF SAFETY.

Head-Quarters, Northampton Court-House, Virginia, }
February 28, 1776. }

HONOURABLE GENTLEMEN: Your much esteemed favour of the 14th instant is now before us, the contents of which has given much satisfaction to us, and our companies in general. The company from Kent County arrived here the 12th, and the company from Queen Anne's on the 14th instant, in good health and spirits.

Sunday night last a schooner that lay in Hunger's Creek, loaded with provision, was taken possession of by thirteen Negroes, who attempted to make their escape to Lord Dunmore, but the next morning she was pursued by a whale boat, which overhauled her upon York-Spit, and returned with her Monday night; the Negroes are now under guards. This is the only remarkable circumstance that has happened since our arrival here.

We have not heard what officer is to take the command over us; the Field-Officers of the Regulars raised in Accomack and this County are on the Western-Shore, but expected over every day. The Militia and Regulars here are in a very defenceless state, and see no anxiety among them to get either disciplined or accoutred. The resolve under which we marched mentioned our coming to the assistance of the inhabitants of Accomack and Northampton Counties; but, we are persuaded, should we have an engagement at this time, we should have but little assistance from them, but hope in a few days some companies will arrive from the Western-Shore. General Clinton's arrival at Norfolk, with one thousand troops, we imagine you are informed of.

It is said Dunmore has many friends in this place, though the complexion of the Tories, (we are told,) changed much on our arrival here; however, we can say with truth, that we were received here with every mark of esteem and friendship, and the Committee has spared no pains to procure us comfortable quarters. We beg leave to observe, your wish for our continuing here the time mentioned by the Convention, although we had enrolled only to serve till the 1st of March; what you have said on this head, and putting it in our power to draw on the Treasurer for money to pay wages, we hope will have a good effect with the companies, but could wish the Convention had recommended our staying the time mentioned, rather than ordered. The 1st of March is very near, when we expect a few must return home from necessity. As each company has brought a physician with them from home, which we every day find useful and necessary, hope some provision may be made for them, otherwise they must be considerably out of pocket, as they have been, and must be, until their return home, at their own expense, besides finding all the medicines and instruments necessary. And as you request the companies to return in a body to their respective Counties, hope some money will be paid us to defray the expense of our march back. Though one of our companies was only fifteen, and the other twelve days on their march to this place, yet the one hundred pounds received of the Treasurer was expended, and our Commissary not prepared to receive us, which much distressed us for a few days. If an opportunity offers to this place, should be glad to be furnished with the Continental regulations relative to wages and victualling, the latter of which our Commissary either does not, or pretends not to know any thing about. We shall endeavour whilst here to give all the satisfaction we can to the inhabitants of this place, as far as is consistent with our duty; but more particularly the Province to which we belong, and shall cheerfully obey every command of our Representatives, as far as can be done by a people who are determined to preserve their liberties; and hope the conduct of our companies this campaign will not reflect dishonour, either on the Province to which they belong, or themselves.

We are, with every mark of esteem and respect, gentlemen, your obedient, humble servants,

JAMES KENT,
WILLIAM HENRY.

To the Council of Safety of Maryland.

PRESIDENT OF CONGRESS TO GENERAL LEE.

Philadelphia, February 28, 1776.

SIR: Your letter of 22d instant has been duly received, and referred to a Committee of Congress, who have not yet reported thereupon.

As soon as the Congress have come to a determination I shall do myself the pleasure to communicate the same to you. In the mean while I am directed to desire you not to set out for Canada, until you receive further orders from Congress.

I have the honour to be, sir, your obedient, humble servant,

JOHN HANCOCK, President.

To Major-General Lee.

PLAIN HINTS ON THE CONDITION OF THE COLONIES.

Philadelphia, February 28, 1776.

Nothing can be more surprising than the great chain of events which have taken place in the American Colonies within the small compass of a few years. Possibly no instances occur in the history of mankind in which the universal opinion has been more frequently opposed. It is no wonder, then, that we now find ourselves at a loss, and uncertain where to fix. That the King can do no wrong; that the interests of Great Britain and the Colonies were the same, reciprocal and inseparable; that she could not injure us without injuring herself, and, therefore, we were safe; that she was a tender parent, in whom we might confide implicitly; that she was the grand support of freedom and the Protestant religion; that the King was imposed upon by his Ministers; that a change in Administration would rectify evils complained of; that the abilities and weight of our friends in Parliament would prevent extremities; that our friends throughout the nation would return a better Parliament than the last; that the act declaring their right to tax us, in all cases whatever, would not be carried into execution, but remain a harmless letter; that the several repeals and seeming alterations in their plan of conduct, proved a relinquishment of any evil intentions; that the power of Britain was such as we could not oppose through one single campaign; that our Provincial troops could not face the regularity and discipline of British forces; that we have no resources to carry on a war; that jealousies and opposition of interests would ever prevent a junction of the Colonies. These, and a thousand other opinions in succession have taken full possession of us; and after a little while we have found ourselves obliged to relinquish them. They were the grafts which might be expected to grow from that attachment to, and veneration for, the idea we had been taught to form of the wisdom, justice, and tenderness of Britain. It has, also, been supposed, that we are so connected with, and dependant on Great Britain, that repeated injuries committed with an avowed intent to do them, and more, and that plundering, murder, executions, and conflagration, in short, that all the havoc of halters, fire, sword, and famine, cannot destroy the debt of gratitude and justice we owe to that state, or make it our interest to dissolve the connection.

Let us examine this matter: Possibly the facts on which this opinion is founded may bear the inquiry not much better than the facts referred to above.

It is said we are indebted to Great Britain for the settlements of the Colonies. The truth is, when they were discovered it was the effect of accident, concurring with the disposition of the hardy adventurer. The settlement was made by persons who had no great reason to be obliged to King or Parliament; they were persecuted at home, and retired from mankind to a wilderness: There they suffered much, and risked all. If they obtained grants from the King, it could only be of security from further oppressions of his hand; more he could not grant; even this was for a while refused. The land was inhabited by Natives to whom God had given the property and dominion: Of these Natives the property was bought by the settlers, who cleared the country, cultivated the soil, and grew and prospered in the arts and in Government, without any expense to the King, or Parliament of Britain. It is said we are indebted to Great Britain for protection from our foes. It should be said, we have to charge Britain with all the foes and wars we ever had. In the infancy of the Colonies they were thought of little value, not worth contending for. The very settling of them has been treated with neglect and contempt. Then they were in no danger. When their consequence afterwards became more apparent, and, indeed, from their first origin to the present time, they have been so much advanced in population, wealth, and every advantage, as to be under no apprehensions from any of their neighbours: And had they, at any intermediate period, extended their trade generally to all parts of Europe, it is possible that the interest of every part in our commerce, might have prevented any one Power from oppressing or injuring us; even Britain herself would have found it her interest to protect our peace and trade. But our forefathers were fond of the pageantry of a King, and attached to the country that gave them birth. They chose the King of England to be their supreme head, and flattered themselves, that though they were persecuted at home, yet, that he would leave to them peace, liberty, and safety, in the wilderness. Thus we have been involved in every British war. Even a dispute in Hanover was sufficient to deluge America in blood; and till the year 1756, no war had any particular reference in its principles to American interests; nor ought we to be charged even with that. However, the Parliament of Britain has done us the justice to acknowledge we then overdid our proportion, and they have refunded accordingly. In all instances our coasts have by them been left unguarded, and our frontiers defenceless. When France and Spain scoured our shores because we were connected with Britain, we have been left without a single ship-of-war. When we trafficked with the Indians back for their land, or for peace, or repelled their incursions, it was at our own expense, though in many cases they were set on us by the foes of Britain. Shall any commercial advantages which we have enjoyed be urged as a ground of gratitude or retribution? Let the most zealous advocate for continual dependance on Britain point out a single instance of preference given by that Court to the American trade if he can; and while he hunts the rusty records in vain for any such, let him not turn over unnoticed the numberless acts passed to restrict our free commerce, to clog with impositions and duties, to discourage manufacturers and employments for our poor, and to give advantages, at our cost, to the lordly West-Indians. In a few words, the Colonies have paid more to Britain in a course of trade, by giving a greater price for goods of inferior value, &c., than if they had gone to other European markets, than any claims the British partisan can feign.

It is said, that under this connection and dependance we have grown and thriven. That we have thriven amazingly is true. The present state of these Colonies is the admiration of all who have given attention to the progress of mankind, of arts and sciences. But was it because our trade was restricted? Was it because we have never, as men, had the full improvement of our lands and property in our power? Was it because, as societies, or Governments, we had not the full and complete powers of legislation among ourselves? Let this account be fairly stated. Let us only make an experiment of an open trade, for half the time we have shackled ourselves with confinement to, as it were, one port. Let us try what improvements we may be drawn into by a general correspondence with the whole world, with people who will require from us every different article our lands, our different climates, can produce; and from whom may be had directly, at first hand, every thing requisite for us. Let us have access to the lowest and best market for every commodity. Let this be the case, but for half the time the Colonies have already existed, and the doubts and struggles too, concerning independence, will be at an end. Let all those people who are now groaning under oppression and poverty, in Europe, know that America is become an asylum for the injured, and is capable of giving encouragement to the industrious and skilful in every art and business of life, and, perhaps, the most sanguine expectations would fall vastly short of the multitude of honest, active, and ingenious citizens who would in a few years flock into this country. America has been hitherto little known abroad. Even our brethren in Britain, whom we left but a few years ago, and with whom we have a constant intercourse, know but little of us and our situation. The other parts of Europe must have been inconceivably less acquainted with it. The case is now greatly altered. Our late transactions have attracted the attention even of the common people of most of the European States; the lovers of liberty abroad have their eyes turned towards us; even to the head of the Rhine, it is said, they applaud our virtuous efforts, and wish us success. The fruits of our success they will wish us to enjoy. A free and general intercourse will throw the doors of information and opportunity open. Possibly it might not totally depopulate the old world, but, without a doubt, it would multiply the millions now in this new one. Let it be granted we have grown under the connection and dependance contended for; are we, therefore, involved in a debt even of gratitude? Be it so: What obligations then is Britain under to us? Our connection with them has been acknowledged to be of the utmost consequence to their trade, to their well-being. This is the language of their best writers on commerce, and of almost every act of Parliament in which America is mentioned. Before they had Colonies, what was their fleet? How great was their dependance on other nations for the most necessary articles to carry on a war, even for their own defence, and for their manufactories? It has been said by themselves, that one person in America, supported four in Britain. Allow one in Britain to be supported by every person in America, and so striking an instance cannot be named in which we have received benefits from her. It is not necessary to depreciate the advantages derived from the connection; let it only be understood, that they have been reciprocal, and at least equal on the part of Britain. This destroys the idea of any debt or any duty. As of inferiors, if a religious submission to this connection has rendered our growth and prosperity less flourishing, than they would have been in a general connection, it can only be compared to the situation of a tree in a little earth between two rocks, which, though it looks fair, and grows to a certain size, yet, had it been able to spread its roots, and imbibe the nourishment of an extended soil, might soon become the largest tree of the forest.

A. B.

SPEECH OF A FARMER TO AN ASSEMBLY OF HIS NEIGHBOURS OF PHILADELPHIA COUNTY, ON HIS ENGAGING IN THE CONTINENTAL SERVICE.

My Friends and Countrymen:

I have observed that some of you are a little surprised that I, with so many inducements as I have to remain at home, should have resolved to quit my family and my farm for the fatigues and dangers of war. I mean you should be perfectly satisfied as to my motives. I am an American, and am determined to be free. I was born free, and have never forfeited my birthright; nor will I ever, like the infatuated son of Isaac, sell it for a mess of pottage. I will part with my life sooner than with my liberty; for I prefer an honourable death to the miserable and despicable existence of slavery.

The tyrant who would rob me of my property, because he thinks he has use for it and is able to take it from me, would as soon, for the same reason, rob me of my life, if it stood in his way. But it is God Almighty who gave me my life, and my property as a necessary means, among others, of preserving and enjoying it; and it is He only that hath an absolute and unlimited right and power to take either or both away. Being the Creator, the Supporter, the perfect Ruler and Judge of all the earth, He, only, can do no wrong. Should, therefore, any creature whatsoever, or number of them, dare to usurp this sole prerogative of Heaven over me, I could neither answer it to my Maker, nor my conscience, nor my honour, if I did not resist, though it were to the last drop of my blood. It is in the free enjoyment of those blessings, uncontrolled by any human powers, (except so far as the voice of the society in general, of which we are members, may have resigned a part for the preservation of the whole,) that civil liberty substantially consisteth. Let no one, therefore, wonder, if of all earthly benefits my Creator hath bestowed on me, I do most esteem my liberty. Anarchy, indeed, I deprecate, but tyranny infinitely more. The reason is obvious: the former, like a common surfeit, occasioned by an irregular and intemperate indulgence of the bodily appetites, if but a little helped by simple medicine, will almost always, as I may say, cure itself; whereas the latter, like a devouring cancer, the longer it is let alone without the application of violent caustics, the faster and deeper it will root itself into the frame, until it gnaws out the very life of the body. Government is neither of these; it is an ordinance of Heaven, to restrain the usurpations of wicked men, to secure us in the enjoyments of our natural rights, and to promote the highest political interests and happiness of society. The claims, therefore, of the British Parliament of a power to bind us in all cases whatsoever, to give away our property in what measure and for what purpose they please, and to dispose of our lives as they think proper, when we have no voice in the legislation, nor constitutional power allowed us to check their most violent proceedings, are not of the nature of Government, but in the true and strict sense of the word, Tyranny.

Of the tendency and operation of this diabolical system, our country hath already had too deep and affecting experience not to be sensible of them; and it requires not the spirit of supernatural prophecy to foretell the end of them, should they not be seasonably controlled. Controlled, did I say? Blest be the spirit of American liberty, wisdom, and valour! they have been controlled. But, my friends, it is evident we can never have safety, liberty, and peace, until, by an unremitting and vigorous application of the axe, now laid to the root of the tree, we have totally overturned, in these Colonies, the power that would demolish us. Not to speak of the unwearied art and assiduity of the British King and Parliament these twelve years past, to fasten on us the shackles of slavery, let me only remind you of the base and cruel measures to subjugate us, since we have been obliged to take up arms in our defence. What stone have they left unturned? What device to ruin us, though never so mean, barbarous, and bloody—such as no heart but that of a devil and a tyrant can refrain shuddering at—have they not pursued? Have not all the powers of Europe been 'meanly courted and bribed not to supply us with the means of resistance? Hath not the most barbarous nation in it been applied to, to assist them with at least twenty thousand savages, to complete their intended massacre? Have they not attempted to spirit up the Indian Savages to ravage our frontiers, and murder, after their inhuman manner, our defenceless wives and children? Have not our Negro slaves been enticed to rebel against their masters, and arms put into their hands to murder them? Have not the King of England's own slaves, the Hanoverians, been employed? And were not the poor Canadians made slaves, that they might be made fit instruments, with other slaves and savages, to make slaves, and more wretched beings than savages of us?

Now, what kind of reconciliation can be reasonably expected with a Power so basely, so cruelly, so industriously, and obstinately bent on our destruction? In short, we have no alternative left us, but to fight or die. If there be any medium, it is slavery; and ever cursed be the man who will submit to it! I will not. But who would ever have imagined, that a people who a few years ago assisted their brethren of Great Britain, with their blood and treasure, to humble the power of France and Spain, and who from their first existence as a people, have, by their trade and industry, been enriching and exalting them above all the nations of the world—who, I say, would have imagined that this very people should, by these, their very brethren, be now reduced to so dreadful an alternative: Yet hear ye Heavens, and give ear, O Earth, and bear witness, this is the return we have received for all our love, loyalty, industry, treasure, and blood!

Had we begun this quarrel, had we demanded some new privileges unknown to the Constitution, or some commercial licenses, incompatible with the general interest of the Empire; had we presumed to legislate for Great Britain, or plotted with the Bourbon family to reinstate the execrable race of the Stuarts, and fled to arms, unprovoked, to accomplish these designs, there would then be some plausible apology for the severest hostile treatment we have received. But, what have we done? When alarmed, ere we had yet rested from the toils of the last war, by new unconstitutional demands of revenue, we asserted our rights, and petitioned for justice. Was this a crime? As unconstitutional statutes of different forms were repeatedly enacted, we repeated our petitions for redress. Was this a crime? We suffered ourselves to be insulted by the introduction of an armed force to drag us into obedience; we suffered them to take possession of our towns and fortifications, still waiting with decent and anxious expectation, from the wonted justice, humanity, and generosity of Britons. Was this a crime? Disposed to try every pacifick measure which might probably procure our relief, we agreed to withhold our commerce from them, in hopes that, feeling the effects of their injustice, they might see how ruinous their proceedings were to their own interests, and return in time to wisdom and peace. Was this a crime? Nor did we once lift the sword, even in our defence, until provoked to it by a wanton commencement of hostilities on their part. What, then, have we done to merit such cruel proceedings? My friends, I am firmly persuaded that no truth will appear in future history with more glaring evidence, and that the whole mass of guilt contracted by this unnatural war lieth at the door of the King of Britain, his abandoned Ministers, and corrupted Parliament; and so that not only all future generations of men, but the great Judge of all the earth, will finally condemn their measures, as a scene of tyranny and murder. I, therefore, conceive myself as having taken up arms in defence of innocence, justice, truth, honesty, honour, liberty, property, and life; and in opposition to guilt, injustice, falsehood, dishonesty, ignominy, slavery, poverty, and death; not that I have any fondness for the bloody profession; not that I delight in the carnage of my species, or sigh for an occasion of proving my courage: Heaven and you are my witnesses, that my voice was for some time, perhaps too long, and with too much earnestness, against any military preparations; but the times are altered; 'tis a dreadful necessity that calls me, and calls every man who can be spared from his other occupations.

I will not, however, fight as one who beateth the air. I speak plainly; I consider this year as the grand and final period of British Administration in this American world. I see no probability of their proffering such terms as we can accept of, consistently with our safety, honour and peace. Nay, should they grant all that our publick Councils have heretofore claimed, we should still be in a most dangerous situation, liable to renewed encroachments and renewed hostilities. What else can be supposed from such a situation, and from the views, temper, and prejudices that must and will prevail in the British Court and Parliament? Besides, who, in that case, will reimburse our losses? or how shall our publick debts be paid? I do solemnly declare, and that with respect to the best reconciliation that can reasonably be expected with so corrupt, treacherous, and tyrannous Administration, that if I thought we should again revert to a dependance on Britain, I should from this day lay down my sword, and weep that I was born in America. But far other prospects are before us: glory, empire, liberty, and peace, are, I am persuaded, unless we are lost to ourselves, very near at hand. And on every consideration of the present state and progress of our publick affairs, compared with the spirit of Britain, and the spirit, the interest, and internal advantages of America, methinks I hear a voice, as if an angel from heaven should proclaim, "Come out from among them, and be ye separate from them. Come out of her, my people, that ye be not partakers of her sins, and that ye receive not of her plagues."

TO THE INHABITANTS OF PENNSYLVANIA.

Philadelphia, February 28, 1776.

The town has been lately amused with a new political pamphlet, intitled Common Sense.

This piece, though it has taken a popular name, and implies that the contents are obvious and adapted to the understandings of the bulk of the people, is so far from meriting the title it has assumed, that, in my opinion, it holds principles equally inconsistent with learned and common sense.

I know not the author, nor am I anxious to learn his name or character; for the book, and not the writer of it, is to be the subject of my animadversions.

'Tis the glory of a free country to enjoy a free press, and of this, that the sentiments and opinions of the meanest, equally with those of the greatest, are brought to view; for we know, by frequent instances, that the rich and high-born are not the monopolizers of wisdom and virtue. On the contrary, these qualities are oftener to be found among the middling class in every country, who, being less dissipated and debauched than those who are usually called their betters, apply themselves with more industry to the culture of their understandings, and in reality become better acquainted with the true interests of the society in which they live.

But to my great grief I have too often seen instances of persons in every class of life, whose publications, at the same time they have reflected honour on the parts and genius of the authors, have been so shamefully wanting in candour as to attempt, by the cadence of words, and force of style, a total perversion of the understanding.

The pamphlet in question seems to be plainly calculated to induce a belief of three things:

1st. That the English form of Government has no wisdom in it, and that it is by no means so constructed as to produce the happiness of the people, which is the end of all good government.

2d. That monarchy is a form of Government inconsistent with the will of God.

3d. That now is the time to break off all connection with Great Britain, and to declare an independence of the Colonies.

It must be obvious to every impartial eye, that the author reasons from the abuses of, against the benefits derived from the English Constitution; and after reciting these abuses, concludes, very unfairly, that "it is incapable to produce what it seems to promise." For if an argument of this sort is to be received, it will prove, perhaps, rather more than the author would choose—it would even prove that the Jewish theocracy was quite as improper, and as incapable to produce what it aimed at, as the reprobated English Government. The records of sacred history inform us, that the law was given to the people from God, and that the Great Jehovah himself condescended to call them his chosen people. He signally interposed in their behalf in bringing them out of bondage, in preserving them from the rage of Pharaoh's army, and seating them in a land flowing with milk and honey, under his immediate government and laws, "written with his own finger."

"And he will love thee and bless thee, and multiply thee: he will also bless the fruit of thy womb and the fruit of thy land, thy corn, and thy wine, and thy oil; the increase of thy kine, and the flocks of thy sheep, in the land which he sware unto thy fathers to give thee."—Deuteronomy vii, 13.

"Thou shalt be blessed above all people; there shall not be male or female barren among you, or among your cattle."—Deuteronomy vii, 14.

But what effects did all these extraordinary favours and promises of the Deity himself produce upon that wicked, perverse, stiff-necked people? Moses tells them,

"From the day that thou didst depart out of the land of Egypt until ye came unto this place, ye have been rebellious against the Lord."—Deuteronomy ix, 7.

"You have been rebellious against the Lord from the day that I knew you."—Deuteronomy ix, 24.

Profane, as well as sacred history, informs us of the ineffectuality of the best Governments and the wisest laws among a corrupt, degenerate people. It does not regularly follow, that if the people are not happy under an excellent form of civil polity, that the fault is in the Government; it may be owing to the corruption of the people, and this I take to be the case in Great Britain at this day. When the British Parliament is properly balanced, and each branch of the Legislature faithfully executes its duty, I think I am safe in affirming there was never yet a form of Government in the world so well calculated for the happiness of a free people as this; and yet we are told by the author of the pamphlet, that the "prejudice of Englishmen in favour of King, Lords, and Commons, arises as much, or more, from national pride than reason." The world has already seen numberless instances of fine-spun political theories, which, like the quackeries of mountebank Doctors, are to cure all the political evils to which human nature is liable; but, when the experiment is made, they become astonished at the ill-success of their boasted schemes; they find a thousand little passions and interests continually interfering with their designs, and, at length, retire again to their closets, chagrined they had not thought it necessary to study the great volume of human nature, before they ventured to say what was the best for mankind.

The author, after venting his spleen against the English form of Government, comes next to consider the subject of Monarchy, and hereditary succession; in treating which, he plainly discovers the utmost prepossession in favour of a Republick. I shall not follow him through his Scripture quotations, which he has so carefully garbled to answer his purpose, but beg leave to oppose some authorities to it.

The celebrated Trenchard, in No. 60, of Cato's Letters, says, "there is no Government now upon earth which owes its formation or beginning to the immediate revelation of God, or can derive its existence from such revelation. It is certain, on the contrary, that the rise and institution, or variation of Government from time to time, is within the memory of men, or of histories; and that every Government which we know, at this day, in the world, was established by the wisdom and force of mere men, and by the concurrence of causes evidently human."

"Nor has God by any revelation nominated Magistrates, showed the nature or extent of their powers, or given a plan of civil polity for mankind."—Hutch. Mor. Philos. p. 272.

"There being no natural or Divine law for any form of Government, or that one person rather than another should have the sovereign administration of affairs, or have power over many thousand different families, who are by nature all equal, being of the same rank, promiscuously born to the same advantages of nature, and to the use of the same common faculties, therefore, mankind is at liberty to choose what form of Government they like."

"God's providence, or permission, suffered his own peculiar people, the Jews, to be under divers governments at divers times; as first, under Patriarchs, Abraham, Isaac and Jacob, &c.; then under Judges, Othniel, Ehud, and Gideon; then under High-Priests, Eli and Samuel; then under Kings, Saul, David, and the rest; then under Captains and High-Priests, again, as Zerubbabel, Judas, Maccabeus, and his brethren; and the government, was, lastly, taken from them, and they brought under the power of Rome. And that God permits such magistrate, or magistrates, as the community thinks fit to approve, is plain by the testimony of Holy Scriptures, when God said to Solomon, "By me Kings rule, even all the Judges of the earth."—Proverbs viii, 16.

"When the sons of Samuel were Judges over Israel, they took bribes and perverted judgment; therefore, the elders of Israel desired Samuel to make them a King;" and though the elders are only mentioned to have asked a King of Samuel, they seem to have been deputed from the whole congregation; for God said unto Samuel, "Hearken to the voice of the people in all that they say unto thee."—1 Samuel viii, 4, 7.

"And Samuel told the people the manner of the kingdom, and wrote it in a book, and laid it up before the Lord."—1 Samuel x, 25. 'Tis plain the manner of the kingdom signifies the Constitution of the Government, by which was meant the conditions on which Saul was to be King, and they his subjects; for though God had given him the crown, it was to rule the people according to justice and laws.

"After the battle between Saul and the Ammonites, Samuel said to the people, Come, let us go to Gilgal; and there they made Saul King before the Lord."—1 Samuel, xi, 1, 5, 6, 7, 14, 15.

"Now, therefore, behold the King whom ye have chosen; and behold the Lord hath set a King over you."—Samuel xii, 13.

These latter quotations are taken from the great Lord Somers's book, called "The Judgment of the whole Kingdoms and Nations, concerning the rights of Kings and the People." This nobleman was Lord High Chancellor of England in King William's reign, and was remarkable for his Revolution principles, great learning, and unshaken integrity in publick and private life.

It does, therefore, from the foregoing testimonies appear, that Monarchy, (especially a limited one, such as that of England), is not inconsistent with the Holy Scriptures, as is set forth in said pamphlet; but that it is as pleasing to the Almighty, if agreeable to the people, as any other form of Government, even the author's beloved Republick.

The writer next proceeds to inform his readers of the numerous wars and scenes of blood acted in England under their Kings, and asserts that "Monarchy and succession have laid the world in blood and ashes. 'Tis a form of Government which the word of God bears testimony against, and blood will attend it." Here are bold assertions, indeed! To the latter part, I have already endeavoured to make some reply, so far as he asserts it is contrary to the word of God; but, will the author's candour permit him to inform his readers of the infinite distractions and mischiefs which have happened in the ancient and modern Republicks? Under this form, there are always two parties, which divide the whole body of the people, and an eternal warfare subsists between them for power; the contest is dreadful enough, but which soever party prevails, there is no rod heavy enough, no sword sufficiently sharp to punish those whom they have subdued; it then becomes a many-headed monster, a tyranny of many.

Let any man read with an unprejudiced eye the accounts which the historians give us of the famous Grecian Commonwealths, and I will venture to speak for him, that he will not bestow great commendations upon them. The Athenians, a wise and polished people, very often banished their best citizens, from an apprehension of their power—a glorious reward for a virtuous citizen, who, as was the case in more instances than one, had preserved his country from destruction. In the latter times of the Carthaginian and Roman Republicks, what constant scenes of blood and devastation does history present to us. The multitude in a perpetual ferment, like the ocean in a storm—in a storm did I say?—like waters of the sea, agitated by a dreadful whirlwind—nothing but the fury of one party encountering the rage of another. Every trace of humanity being thus lost, men change their natures, and become as fierce and savage as wolves and tigers.

But, let us descend nearer to modern times: let us look for happiness and security in the Republick of Holland, so often mentioned, and so little known: let us recollect the fate of the two brothers, Cornelius and John De Witt, Dutch ministers, who were massacred by the people in the year 1672. Holland itself, from being a republick, is become a downright aristocracy. Liberty did not continue long in that country, notwithstanding the blood and treasure that were expended to acquire it. The people, so far from being free, have had no voice for many years past in the election of persons to represent them in the States-General; nor have they any thing to do in the forming of laws by which they are to be governed. Whenever one of them dies, the vacancy is filled up without any interference of the people, and this important change was made in the state because of the intolerable feuds and animosities which attended the elections of Representatives. Had they been to have chosen a King, what dangerous and destructive tumults must it have produced. Founded on the woful experience of ages, it is now become a general fixed opinion, that hereditary is preferable to elective monarchy, on account of the terrible disorders, outrages, and confusion, which usually attend the election of a King; a pregnant instance of which, in our times, is the Kingdom of Poland.

In our own history we see the effect of the much wished for Commonwealth, after the death of the tyrant Charles; it did not produce liberty; it presently ended in arbitrary power. The moment, almost, after the reins of Government fell from Charles's hands, Cromwell took them up and governed the nation with absolute sway.

I cannot agree with the author of the pamphlet in opinion, that this is the time to declare an Independence of the Colonies. This ought to be the dernier resort of America. Let us not yet lose sight of the primary object of the dispute, namely, a safe, honourable, and lasting reconciliation with Great Britain, until we are under a necessity of doing it. If an advantageous accommodation can be had, and a free Constitution for this country be established on mutual agreement and compact, 'twill be better and happier for us; but if justice is still denied us, and we are to contend for liberty by arms, we will meet them in the field, and try our manhood against them, even to spilling the blood of every brave man we have. Should the Ministry have recourse to foreign aid, we may possibly follow their example; and, if it be essential then to our safety to declare an Independence, I would willingly embrace the necessity.

RATIONALIS.

NEW-YORK PROVINCIAL CONGRESS TO PRESIDENT HANCOCK.

[Read March 4, 1776.—Referred till to-morrow.]

In Provincial Congress, New-York, February 28, 1776.

SIR: In obedience to the resolution of Congress, we have now the honour to transmit a list of gentlemen nominated by us as Field-Officers for the four Battalions ordered to be raised for the defence of this Colony.

In this nomination, we have endeavoured to pay due attention to the merits of those officers who served in the last campaign, and are willing to continue in the service. To these, we have added a number of gentlemen who now tender their services to their country. As soon as the Field-Officers are fixed by Congress, we beg their commissions may be forwarded. The other officers are appointed, and recruiting in different parts of this Colony.

It may not be improper to mention that some of the Captains and Subalterns who served in our regiments last year are now in Canada; these gentlemen we have not been able to provide for in the four battalions now raising, as we were uncertain when they would return, or whether they were not provided for in the Canada Regiments; we were apprehensive, if we provided for them in our battalions, it might impede the raising the troops, and thereby injure the service.

In justice to these gentlemen, we thought it our duty to mention this, and to enclose a list of their names; and doubt not but that their services will be duly considered by Congress, and that proper provisions will be made for them, if they are not already provided for.

We are, most respectfully, sir, your most obedient and very humble servants.

JOHN HILL TO NEW-YORK CONGRESS.

Ulster County, February 28, 1776.

DEAR SIR: As a friend to my country, I am obliged to address you and the venerable body in which you are a member, about an affair which, I am advised by the most discerning of my neighbours, ought to come under your inspection. The fact is thus: Cadwallader Colden, Esq., son to the Lieutenant-Governour, some years ago obtained a mortgage from me, with a bond and judgment, for security of a certain sum of money due to him from me, and he being unreasonably urgent for his money, which I could not immediately pay, on account of the slow success I had in collecting my own debts, I was obliged to sell part of my lands to satisfy him; but, after I had got the money, and wanted to discharge my bond, he utterly refused to accept of it on account of its being Continental money. The sum was as large as two hundred pounds, and I could not find any person who would change it for other money. Our Committee was about to sit, and hearing of the affair, sent for Mr. Colden, who signed a paper, in which he asserted that he had sold the bond in question to his brother, David Colden, of Long-Island, better than a year ago; that he only offered to receive the money specified in the bond, on this account, and was afraid, in case he would accept of the Congress money, his brother would be dissatisfied, as he had formerly refused such money. This apology passed with our Committee, so that they dismissed Mr. Colden. I immediately sent the money to David Colden, who declared he never had such a bond from his brother, and, in order to satisfy my messenger, examined all the bonds in his possession, but could not find mine, and said his brother Cadwallader had it still.

I am really at a loss how to conduct myself about this matter. Double interest is every day to be paid on the money, and I run the risk of being daily liable to have my estate seized on account of said bond, and, perhaps, have it sold for the twentieth part of what it is worth, as I am certain that no person can make the payments in any other money than the Continental, especially in these parts. I rest the matter on your wise decision. I have advanced nothing but matters of fact, which can be attested by several evidences of credit. In case it be thought necessary to write to me, the letter may be directed to John Hill, Esq., near New-Windsor.

Your most obedient and humble servant,

JOHN HILL.

To the President of the Provincial Congress, New-York.

JOHN HAMMELL, JUN., TO NEW-YORK CONGRESS.

At Dr. Hemmens's, New-York, February 28, 1776.

GENTLEMEN: Desirous of taking an active part in the American struggle, and willing to engage as a Surgeon to the last forces raised in this Province, I applied to the honourable Provincial Congress for their approbation, but received no answer. Still, actuated by the purest motives, (the love and welfare of my country,) and understanding four more battalions are shortly to be raised in this Colony, I again offer myself to the consideration of your honourable body. I do not mean, gentlemen, to impose myself on any body of men, nor do I wish an appointment, without previously discovering myself capable of the trust. Doctor Hemmen's thoughts on my abilities, I presented with my last application. Shall only observe that I have been almost eight years to the practice, and would be pleased in being Surgeon of a battalion, or First-Assistant, as, gentlemen, you shall think most proper of your very humble servant,

JOHN HAMMELL, JUN.

To the Honourable Provincial Congress of New-York.

I am, gentlemen, your obedient servant,

JOHN GUNBY TO DANIEL OF ST. THOMAS JENIFER.

Princess-Anne, Somerset County, February 29, 1776.

SIR: Mr. Forrest, my First Lieutenant, waits on your Board for instructions with respect to several matters relating to my company.

In obedience to your instructions, communicated to me by Mr. Scott, I have provided houses for my company, and rugs and blankets for as many of them as I could. I have, also, provided them with fuel, and such utensils as judged absolutely necessary for dressing their provisions, all which things I have purchased out of my own and my officers' money, as the two hundred pounds ordered me from the Eastern-Shore Treasury was not more than sufficient to pay the advance money, directed by the Convention to be advanced with soldiers and non-commissioned officers. The subsistence money has also been advanced to the several recruits as it was necessary.

If it is not going further than your Board may think themselves justifiable in, I would submit it, whether it would not be expedient, in order to save the trouble of frequent applications to the Council and expenses to the Treasury, to advance to the several Captains of Independent Companies such a sum of money as may provide their respective companies in such articles as are to be provided by the Captains, and, also, to pay up the arrearages of subsistence money; each Captain to render his account, with proper vouchers, for the money by him expended for the use of his company. If the Board think this ought to be done, I should be glad to receive, by Mr. Forrest, your order on Mr. Hindman, for such sum as you may judge necessary for the purpose.

I am, also, to request of the Council that they will take such order as they think proper for furnishing the company with muskets, drum, and fife, as they are at present absolutely unable to exercise for want of arms.

The Committee have fixed the station of the company at Princess-Anne, the County town for this County, where I have been able to provide for them very sufficient cover at reasonable rates. I am exceedingly anxious to have the company provided with arms as soon as may be, as most of them are entirely without, and it is impossible to do any thing with them (though many of them are very raw) until furnished with arms, and, from their situation, it is not improbable but they may be pretty soon called into action.

I am, sir, with respect, your most obedient servant,

JOHN GUNBY.

To the Honourable Daniel of St. Thomas Jenifer.

ANDREW BEALL TO MARYLAND COUNCIL OF SAFETY.

Bladensburg, February 29, 1776.

GENTLEMEN: The reason I have not waited on your Honours for a commission as a Field-Officer, is, that there has been so much clamour about the appointment of Field-Officers, that I did not choose to accept of a commission unless I was agreeable to the people, for which purpose I have done myself the pleasure of waiting upon several companies, to take their sentiments on the matter, and have met with their general approbation. Therefore, if your Honours think proper to promote me as a Field-Officer, please do me the favour to send a commission by Captain Lucas, who will satisfy your Honours that I am the oldest person in commission, except Colonel Joshua Beall, of the Twenty-Fifth Battalion, and that I have, heretofore, exerted myself in the cause of liberty as much as any one in the Province, and you may rely upon an exertion of my utmost abilities, in future, to support the cause, whatever my station may be.

You will please to defer issuing commissions to my company till I come up, which will be within a fortnight from this time, when I shall return recommendations for officers agreeable to the company.

Confiding in your doing me justice respecting this application, I remain, with the greatest regard, gentlemen, your Honours' most obedient, humble servant,

ANDREW BEALL.

AN APOLOGY FOR THE PENNSYLVANIA ASSEMBLY.

Philadelphia, February 29, 1776.

It has always appeared more meritorious in my eyes to make a good and sufficient apology for any seeming deficiency in the conduct of others, (especially of publick officers,) than forever to be censuring them for conduct, the reasons of which they do not fully attend to.

Insinuations have been thrown out in pamphlets and newspapers, against certain proceedings of our honourable House of Representatives, which I think injurious. As the best causes have not been assigned them, I would, therefore, beg leave to offer such reasons for those parts of their conduct which to some have appeared exceptionable, as I trust will fully acquit them, and remove the censure from that honourable Body to those to whom it of right belongs.

I have often heard them condemned for their backwardness in the cause of liberty, the great dislike they discover to certain measures, and the reluctance with which they proceed in an effectual opposition to a Government which sets no bounds to its claims, and exercises the most unrelenting cruelty in the prosecution of them. Insensibility itself, it is said, might be roused by their madness, and nothing but disaffection to the cause could account for such conduct. If proper attention were paid to the delicacy of their situation, I am persuaded our Assembly would escape without censure. It is a principle in philosophy, and ought to be admitted in every other science, never to admit of more causes than are sufficient to account for the effect, nor to permit a bad cause to be assigned while a good one can be found which will equally solve the phenomenon.

The Representatives of a free people, who are chosen purely for their publick merit and characters, must ever be considered as men of integrity, wisdom, and capacity for the service; a supposition of a contrary nature would reflect more disgrace upon the electors than the elected. In this light I mean to view our present Representatives, and to justify their conduct upon these principles only. An oath or affirmation is surely the most sacred and solemn of all obligations, the most distant appearance of a breach of which a conscientious man, and particularly the Legislators of a nation, would carefully avoid, as the happiness of the community in a great degree depends on the reverential awe and dread in which such an appeal to the Divinity is held by the people. And of all oaths, those that are undefined in their nature, and extensive in meaning, create the greatest perplexity in the consciences of religious men. To this, alone, I ascribe the backwardness of the Assembly to enter on such decisive measures as would give general satisfaction to their constituents—not to a dislike of the cause. And any one who will particularly attend to the late instructions given to our Delegates in Congress, will plainly perceive that I have pointed out the true principles on which they are founded. To the oaths which they are obliged to take before they can sit to hear a debate or vote in the House, and not to a disaffection to the cause, is their conduct on some important occasions to be ascribed. We ought never to charge that to a bad principle which can be accounted for on a good one. I beg, therefore, that my defence of their conduct may be impartially attended to, and not slightly passed over because it appears in a newspaper.

Men who are conscientiously careful to prove to the world that a solemn oath or affirmation is a sacred thing, and not to be trifled with, must find themselves under peculiar embarrassments when called upon to act against a Government to which they have sworn; and, if I am not ill-informed, some members have had their objections to taking it at this very sitting.

I beg leave to transcribe a part of the affirmation which the members are obliged to take on being admitted to a seat in the House, which, I am persuaded, will sufficiently apologize for the seeming reluctance with which they pursue measures that may appear to them to interfere with the oaths they have taken:

"I, A. B., do solemnly, sincerely, and truly acknowledge, profess, testify, and declare, that King George is the lawful and rightful King of the Realm of Great Britain, and of all others his dominions and countries thereunto belonging; and I do solemnly promise, that I will be true and faithful, and bear true allegiance to King George, and to him will be faithful against all traitorous conspiracies and attempts whatsoever, which shall be made against his Crown and dignity, and I will do my best endeavour to disclose and make known to King George and his successors all treasons and traitorous conspiracies, which I know to be made against him or any of them."

Now, this short extract, though but a small part of the whole, is so full of words of uncertain sense and import, so crammed with expressions, the extent of whose signification is so undefined and ill-limited, that a conscientious man may readily be at a loss to know how far he may proceed with safety, and where he must stop, or be perjured. Our Representatives certainly deserve great credit for the truly patriotick part of their conduct, and a too conscientious regard to their oaths ought to apologize for what they have left undone, as well as for some parts of their proceedings, particularly their instructions. It is hard to oblige men to do any thing that they may think interferes with their consciences. It is acknowledged that a bad oath is better broken than kept; and yet, few among us would be quite free from uneasy sensations and reflections on being reduced to the necessity of violating it. I readily admit the justness of that reasoning which, in the present case, alleges, that where the obligation is mutual, breach of covenant on one side of necessity releases the other. This is certainly implied in the nature of the compact.

But the clearest implication does not always relieve the conscience from scruples. If sacred history tells truth, Abraham's servant, when about to swear, on a more trivial occasion, would not be content with any implied release from his oath, but insisted on having the terms of it particularly and clearly defined, and the clause of release fairly and fully stated, that neither his own conscience, nor the tongue of slander might be able, however falsely, to accuse him of perjury. I also remember, a gentleman lately told me that he had just been reading the oath of allegiance, and, for his part, he said he could not, consistent with it, oppose the present proceedings of Great Britain. I told him the oath was conditional; but it would not do. Now, there may be many men in our House of Assembly who have like consciences with this man and Eleazer.

I conclude, therefore, that every degree of inactivity, backwardness, or inconsistency, with which they are chargeable, proceeds wholly from the oaths they have taken. Their situation is, in this respect, very delicate, and ought to be taken into consideration by every one who takes upon him to judge of their conduct. I am sure nothing heretofore alleged can so easily account for the instructions given by them to our Delegates in Congress, and the unanimity with which they were agreed to in the House. Their oaths, they might imagine, tied them, and they must tie their Delegates. Let us fully acquit them of all sinister motives. Here is principle sufficient to account for the matter; a principle more consonant to our ideas of their integrity and virtue, and the patriotick part of their proceedings, and, therefore, more worthy of credit than the charge of Toryism. Men of equal integrity, but more confined in their notions, would have refused to act at all, and rather submitted to any terms than made an opposition.

I cannot, therefore, help hinting, that if their constituents condemn them for backwardness and inconsistency on the present occasion, they have much greater reason for accusing their constituents of unreasonableness in expecting such things at their hands, while an oath is in the way.

The Assembly and a Convention are both Representatives of the People; yet, on the present occasion a Convention acts more to the minds of the people. Why so? Not, surely, because the members that compose it are greater friends to their country, or more warmly attached to the liberties of America? By no means; but, because they have no oaths to embarrass them. Why, then, is the Assembly laid under these difficulties, when they can be avoided?

If people would consider this matter properly, and show that regard to their Representatives which they certainly merit, they would not lay such stumbling-blocks in their way. If no other body of men would do what is required of them, necessity would plead on their behalf, and save them from self-reproach; but, as this is not the case, their backwardness is justifiable, and they, alone, are to be blamed, who have it in their power to remove the difficulty, and yet will not do it. For my part, I was always against troubling the Assembly with the matter. Were it not for a kind of tacit interfering with their oaths, who, that has the high esteem of them which is due to upright Representatives, can doubt but they would have recommended the calling a Convention before this time? The Committee of Inspection for this City and District have it in their power to take the load off their shoulders, and, if they do not, blame not your Assembly. I have shown sufficient cause why they cannot enter into the necessary measures. The Committee lies under no such difficulties. Let blame, for the future, fall on the deserving.

THE APOLOGIST.

JAMES MEASE TO PRESIDENT OF CONGRESS.

[Read March 1, 1776.—Referred to a Committee—Mr. Rutledge, Mr. Paine, Mr. Hewes.]

Philadelphia, February 29, 1776.

SIR: Through the want of any regular Department to apply to for instructions how to act in cases that appear uncertain, I am under the necessity of troubling you, in order to procure the necessary directions upon the several points herewith handed you, to which I humbly beg you will please (as soon as possible) to send the necessary information.

Captain Watson is under marching orders, and hath applied to have his company paid up, which I shall immediately do when I know how to proceed as to the fifth and sixth points, which appear to me the most dubious of the whole.

I beg leave to inform you that there are not near blankets enough yet procured for the two battalions, but I believe the deficiency could be easily made good, if the City Committee were just requested to complete the collection of them from the inhabitants, which they some time ago begun, and in part carried through.

I hope you will excuse my adding to the multiplicity of your business from the occasion, and believe me to be, with the most unfeigned respect, sir, your most obedient, humble servant,

JAMES MEASE.

GENERAL LEE TO GENERAL WASHINGTON.

New-York, February 29, 1776.

DEAR GENERAL: I am now so far recovered, though far from well, that I shall set out in two days.

The stripping Ticonderoga so entirely of its heavy cannon is a most unfortunate circumstance, as the transportation of them from this place is a business of monstrous difficulties, expense, and labour.

The Congress have, as yet, not taken the least step for the security of this place. The instant I leave it, I conclude the Provincial Congress and inhabitants will relapse into their former hystericks; the men-of-war, and Mr. Tryon, will return to their old stations at the wharves, and the first regiments who arrive from England will take quiet possession of the town and Long-Island. I have written letters till I am tired on the subject, to the Congress, but have received no answer. The Committee of three, who were here to confer with me, agreed that it was necessary that five thousand men should be in the place. They left us, and no notice has been taken of the affair since. Great and extensive works are resolved upon, and we have scarcely sufficient numbers to mark out the ground, much less to throw up the works. In short, I know not what to make of this apathy on so important a subject.

Messrs. Price, Walker, and, since then, the volunteer, Melchior, are arrived from Canada. It is very lucky, for they can communicate all the necessary lights to the Congress, with respect to the measures which must be taken in that country. By their accounts, nothing is so much wanted as artillerymen. Captain Lamb's Company were all taken prisoners. I wish, indeed it is necessary, you should spare us a company from Boston; we cannot possibly do without them; we have none here. I entreat, dear General, you would detach Captain Badlam's Company. The Captain and I are now well acquainted, and agree wonderfully.

The Pennsylvania and Jersey troops, who marched for Canada, are good, and strong in numbers. The spirit of infisting prevails through the whole country. I am told, but cannot believe it, that the New-England Delegates oppose the infisting for a year. They say, by means of a shorter engagement the whole country would be soldiers. A curious whim, this. Who the devil can fill their heads with such nonsense? I should think a letter from you on the subject, to either of the Adams's, would have a good effect.

I have this moment received yours of the 22d. It is a sort of reprimand for not having more exactly informed you of the occurrences here. I do assure you, General, that I have wrote fully and frequently. It is true, I believe, two posts have carried no letters from me, but I would not trouble you when I had nothing material to communicate. I shall not intrench myself behind the parade of great business, for my first business is to be attentive to my General; nor shall I make a plea of the loss of Palfrey, since whose departure I have been obliged to write with my own hand every, the most trifling note. But, in fact, though I confess I am naturally remiss, I have not neglected my duty in this point. I have suffered no safe opportunity to escape me. But enough of this.

I shall now give you a detail of what we have been doing, and in what circumstances we are: Our force, including the Minute-Men, amounts to about seventeen hundred men. Ward's Regiment, which is the stay, I have stationed in Long-Island. They are employed in making fascines, and preparing other materials for constructing three redoubts, one of which will, in great measure, (in correspondence with a battery which I have sunk opposite to it in the city,) secure the entrance of the East-River. Waterbury's and Stirling's Regiments are quartered in the city; the former in the Upper Barracks, the latter in the Lower. Two hundred Minute-Men are likewise lodged in the town. Drake's Regiment of Minute-Men, and one more company, (in all about two hundred,) are stationed at Horn's Hook, which commands the pass of Hell-gate. They are employed in throwing up a redoubt, to contain three hundred men. As to the town's having few hands, and the necessary duty being hard, I have been able to effect little. I have, indeed, thrown down the side of the fort next the town, to prevent its being converted into a citadel for the use of the enemy. It was absolutely impossible to be moulded into any thing which could annoy their ships. I have likewise thrown a traverse, or barrier, across the Broadway, two hundred yards in the rear of the fort, with four pieces of cannon, to prevent the enemy lodging themselves in the remains of the fort, and repairing it. It is likewise my intention to barricade all the streets leading into the Broadway, both on the right and left, to secure us against being taken in reverse. Batteries are to be erected on the eminence behind Trinity Church, to keep their ships at so great a distance as not to injure the town. As we are surrounded by navigable waters, I consider enclosed works as rather dangerous; it was, therefore, my intention to throw up a great number of large fleches, or redans, at certain distances, one behind another, so as to render it a disputable field of battle against any force. King's Bridge, being a most important pass, (without the command of which we could have no communication with Connecticut.) I had resolved to make as strong as possible. Such were my schemes; but as the Congress have not furnished the force which I was taught to expect from Philadelphia, we have not had it in our power to effect more than I have related. Governour Tryon and the Asia still continue betwixt Nutten and Bedlow's Islands. It has pleased his Excellency, in violation of the compact he had made, to seize several vessels from Jersey, laden with flour. It has, in return, pleased my Excellency to stop all provision from the city, and cut off all intercourse with him—a measure which has thrown the Mayor, Council, and Tories, into agonies. The propensity, or rather rage, for paying court to this great man, is inconceivable. They cannot be weaned from him. We must put wormwood on his paps, or they will cry to suck, as they are in their second childhood.

Captain Smith has just returned from Fort-Constellation. He gives a most terrible account of it. The expense of its construction has been enormous; its defects, both in point of situation, laying out, finishing, &c., are numerous. He has made the plan of another, which will command, as far as I can judge from it on paper, the river effectually.

I have now related, as minutely as necessary, our situation. As I shall set out very soon, it will probably be my last from this place. I must retreat, once more, dear General, that you will spare us a company of Artillery. Badlam seems rather averse on proposing it.

Adieu, dear sir. Yours, with the greatest respect and affection,

CHARLES LEE.

HENRY REMSEN TO COLONEL WOODHULL.

New-York, February 29, 1776.

SIR: A parcel of powder (about three tons) is arrived here, but without any directions where it is to be forwarded; about the same quantity may be expected here to-morrow. I am desirous that this powder should be transported without delay, and, therefore, have sent a person express, to have your directions by return of Mr. Saffron, the bearer of this.

The Committee for the County of Essex are now met. They would cheerfully have forwarded this powder, had any direction been sent to them. One gentleman of the Committee spoke to Mr. Lewis, (one of the Delegates for New-York.) who informed him that the powder was to go to Cambridge. Should our Provincial Congress be unacquainted with the destination of this powder, it will be expedient to consult Mr. Francis Lewis on the subject. Should it be ordered to New-York, a sufficient guard will be necessary to attend to the transportation of it from Paulus-Hook to New-York. You will please to give directions as soon as possible.

I am, respectfully, your most obedient servant,

HENRY REMSEN.

To Colonel Woodhull.

CAPTAIN SINCLAIR TO NEW-YORK CONGRESS.

Huntington, February 29, 1776.

SIR: It being the practice of all nations to allow the subjects of the respective States at variance to retire, I trouble the Congress with this application for being permitted to go to Europe in the first vessel from New-York.

I am, sir, your most obedient, humble servant,

PATRICK SINCLAIR.

To the President of the Congress, New-York.

SAMUEL GALE TO JOHN MCKESSON.

Fairfield, February 29, 1776.

DEAR SIR: Give me leave to inform you that I am now in close confinement, in the common jail of this town. I am also of opinion (and I have but too much reason to suspect it) that there is a design against my person, formed by some person, or persons, of the County of Cumberland, whose actions you are already acquainted with. True it is, there is a law in this Colony of Connecticut, but in the County of Cumberland, you know, there is none. I, therefore, (to clear myself before God,) expect my life and safety at the hand of those who hold the governing reins of the Province of New-York, the Metropolis of which Province I now call my residence.

Thaddeus Burr, Esquire, the Sheriff of this County, informs me that he is acquainted with you. I, therefore, request that you will inform him, by the return of the bearer, what you know of my character, as, also, the character which I bore among mankind before the commencement of these unhappy troubles; and I desire, if my release be not immediately granted, that I may be under the protection of the law till such time arrives.

You well know that my sentiments have been uniform and steady, even if erroneous; and, therefore, I consider myself entitled, at the least, to the privileges and protection which, by the laws of all Christian nations, are granted to prisoners of war—(I call it prisoner of war, not as being an enemy, in heart, to any man breathing, but as being, by birth and education, one of that country between which and this country a war subsists)—and, for that purpose, I conceive myself entitled to an impartial hearing, where prejudice does not prevail; and I hope that is the case in the Congress of which you are a member. Let me request that I may either be allowed the privilege granted by all Christians to a prisoner of war, or, else, the birthright of a British subject, the writ of habeas corpus. If the former, only, be allowed, you may mention what you choose in the parole; but I would choose, by all means, if possible, to be at New-York or Philadelphia, where I may finish my intended publication on surveying, which, you well know, is allowed by all parties to be a matter of great actual service to America. I should be glad you would not fail to be immediate in your proceedings herein, and I would look upon it as an additional favour, if you would acquaint Lord Stirling, (with whom I had formerly a small acquaintance,) as, also, Mr. Duane, of my present situation.

I remain, with the greatest esteem, (notwithstanding all political sentiments,) dear sir, your most humble servant,

To John McKesson, Esquire, Attorney-at-Law.

P. S. I have, at New-York, the copy of the letter which was sent by the Westminster, or, rather, Cumberland Committee, to Mr. Livingston; as, also, a vindication of the conduct of the Sheriff and Posse, by the oaths of, I believe, thirty persons, a great part of whom were on the prejudiced side. These oaths being in favour of the Sheriff and Posse, was the reason, as I have been informed, of their not being sent to your body according to promise.

I would be glad Mrs. Gale might not be informed of this letter, lest its contents should occasion her miscarriage.

Mr. Sturges, the jailer here, would be glad of half a ream of writing paper. If you are not acquainted with him, I should be glad you would put the expense to my account, and I will repay you next time I see you.

P. S. extraordinary, March 2d. I have been favoured with what is called a copy of my letter to Colonel Belkows. I aver, from the bottom of my soul, that both the words and the sense are materially altered, and that, consequently, it is not a copy of any letter ever by me written.

The firm belief of there being a design formed against my person occasions me to send a man on purpose with this letter, (by the Sheriff's permission.) If you are desirous of knowing what the letter actually was, I am of opinion that, by the help of the pretended copy, my memory will enable me to furnish a true copy, which shall be at your service.

Confinement in a common jail, where the cold wind through the bars (for the windows are not glazed) far exceeds the warmth of all the fire that is obtained, leads me to wish that I could be accommodated in a genteeler apartment, till I come to New-York. As you and the Sheriff are acquainted, I wish you would pass your word for my stay, and you may rely on the word of an honest and sincere (if an erroneous) man, that I shall not deceive either you or him; nor shall I start one inch from such limits as may be prescribed.

GENERAL WASHINGTON TO PRESIDENT OF CONGRESS.

[Read March 7, 1776.]

Cambridge, February 29, 1776.

SIR: I beg leave to inform you, at the request of the Committee of Pay-Table of the Colony of Connecticut, that I have not advanced to any of the regiments from that Government any money, except the sum of seven thousand one hundred and seventy-two and one-ninth dollars, on the 20th of November last, to Major-General Putnam, for the Thirty-Fourth Regiment, under his command. I should have paid them in the same manner I did the rest of the Army, had I not been prevented by the Colonels, who expressed their inclination to receive the whole at once, upon their return home at the expiration of service, as was customary in their Colony. For this reason, I never included them in any estimates of money, and have made no provision for their payment, always imagining that whatever payments the Colony made them, Congress would apply to their credit in the general account against the United Colonies, or refund, upon application.

I have the honour to be, with great esteem and regard, sir, your most humble servant,
 GEORGE WASHINGTON.

To the Honourable John Hancock, President of the Continental Congress.

COMMON SENSE.*

I. Of the Origin and Design of Government in general, with concise Remarks on the ENGLISH Constitution.

Some writers have so confounded society with Government as to leave little or no distinction between them; whereas, they are not only different, but have different origins. Society is produced by our wants, and Government by our wickedness; the former promotes our happiness positively, by uniting our affections, the latter negatively, by restraining our vices. The one encourages intercourse, the other creates distinctions. The first is a patron, the last a punisher.

Society in every state is a blessing; but Government, even in its best state, is but a necessary evil; in its worst state an intolerable one: for when we suffer, or are exposed to the same miseries by a Government, which we might effect in a country without Government, our calamity is heightened by reflecting that we furnish the means by which we suffer. Government, like dress, is the badge of lost innocence; the palaces of Kings are built on the ruins of the bowers of Paradise. For were the impulses of conscience clear, uniform, and irresistibly obeyed, man would need no other lawgiver; but that not being the case, he finds it necessary to surrender up a part of his property to furnish means for the protection of the rest; and this he is induced to do by the same prudence which, in every other case, advises him, out of two evils to choose the least. Wherefore, security being the true design and end of Government, it unanswerably follows, that whatever form thereof appears most likely to insure it to us, with the least expense and greatest benefit, is preferable to all others.

In order to gain a clear and just idea of the design and end of Government, let us suppose a small number of persons settled in some sequestered part of the earth, unconnected with the rest; they will then represent the first peopling of any country, or of the world. In this state of natural liberty, society will be their first thought. A thou-

* INTRODUCTION.—Perhaps the sentiments contained in the following pages are not yet sufficiently fashionable, to procure them general favour; a long habit of not thinking a thing wrong, gives it a superficial appearance of being right, and raises at first a formidable outcry in defence of custom. But the tumult soon subsides. Time makes more converts than reason.

As a long and violent abuse of power, is generally the means of calling the right of it in question, (and in matters too which might never have been thought of, had not the sufferers been aggravated into the inquiry,) and as the King of England hath undertaken in his own right, to support the Parliament in what he calls theirs, and as the good people of this country are grievously oppressed by the combination, they have an undoubted privilege to inquire into the pretensions of both, and equally to reject the usurpation of either.

In the following sheets the author hath studiously avoided every thing which is personal among ourselves. Compliments as well as censure to individuals make no part thereof. The wise, and the worthy, need not the triumph of a pamphlet; and those whose sentiments are injudicious, or unfriendly, will cease of themselves unless too much pains are bestowed upon their conversion.

The cause of America, in a great measure, the cause of all mankind. Many circumstances hath, and will arise, which are not local, but universal, and through which the principles of all lovers of mankind are affected, and in the event of which, their affections are interested. The lying, a country desolate with fire and sword, declaring war against the natural rights of all mankind, and extirpating the defenders thereof from the face of the earth, is the concern of every man to whom nature hath given the power of feeling; of which class, regardless of party censure, is the sand motives will excite them thereto, the strength of one man is so unequal to his wants, and his mind so unfitted for perpetual solitude, that he is soon obliged to seek assistance and relief of another, who, in his turn, requires the same. Four or five united would be able to raise a tolerable dwelling in the midst of a wilderness, but one man might labour out the common period of life without accomplishing any thing; when he had felled his timber he could not remove it, nor erect it after it was removed; hunger in the mean time would urge him from his work, and every different want call him a different way. Disease, nay even misfortune, would be death; for though neither might be mortal, yet either would disable him from living, and reduce him to a state in which he might rather be said to perish, than to die.

Thus necessity, like a gravitating power, would soon form our newly arrived emigrants into Society, the reciprocal blessings of which would supersede, and render the obligations of law and Government unnecessary while they remained perfectly just to each other; but, as nothing but Heaven is impregnable to vice, it will unavoidably happen, that in proportion as they surmount the first difficulties of emigration, which bound them together in a common cause, they will begin to relax in their duty and attachment to each other; and this remissness will point out the necessity of establishing some form of Government to supply the defect of moral virtue.

Some convenient tree will afford them a State-House, under the branches of which the whole Colony may assemble to deliberate on publick matters. It is more than probable that their first laws will have the title only of Regulations, and be enforced by no other penalty than publick disesteem. In this first Parliament every man by natural right will have a seat.

But as the Colony increases, the publick concerns will increase likewise, and the distance at which the members may be separated, will render it too inconvenient for all of them to meet on every occasion as at first, when their number was small, their habitations near, and the publick concerns few and trifling. This will point out the convenience of their consenting to leave the legislative part to be managed by a select number chosen from the whole body, who are supposed to have the same concerns at stake which those have who appointed them, and who will act in the same manner as the whole body would act were they present. If the Colony continue increasing, it will become necessary to augment the number of the Representatives, and that the interest of every part of the Colony may be attended to, it will be found best to divide the whole into convenient parts, each part sending its proper number; and that the elected might never form to themselves an interest separate from the electors, prudence will point out the propriety of having elections often: because as the elected might by that means return and mix again with the general body of the electors in a few months, their fidelity to the publick will be secured by the prudent reflection of not making a rod for themselves. And as this frequent interchange will establish a common interest with every part of the community, they will mutually and naturally support each other; and on this (not on the unmeaning name of King) depends the strength of Government, and the happiness of the governed.

Here then is the origin and rise of Government; namely, a mode rendered necessary by the inability of moral virtue to govern the world; here too is the design and end of Government, viz: freedom and security. And, however our eyes may be dazzled with show, or our ears deceived by sound; however prejudice may warp our wills, or interest darken our understanding, the simple voice of nature and of reason will say, 'tis right.

I draw my idea of the form of Government from a principle in nature which no art can overturn, viz: that the more simple any thing is, the less liable it is to be disordered, and the easier repaired when disordered; and with this maxim in view, I offer a few remarks on the so much boasted Constitution of England. That it was noble for the dark and slavish times in which it was erected is granted. When the world was overrun with tyranny, the least remove therefrom was a glorious rescue. But that it is imperfect, subject to convulsions, and incapable of producing what it seems to promise, is easily demonstrated.

Absolute Governments, (though the disgrace of human nature) hath this advantage with them, that they are simple; if the people suffer, they know the head from which their suffering springs; know likewise the remedy; and are not bewildered by a variety of causes and cures. But the Constitution of England is so exceedingly complex, that the nation may suffer for years together without being able to discover in which part the fault lies; some will say in one and some in another, and every political physician will advise a different medicine.

I know it is difficult to get over local or long standing prejudices, yet if we will suffer ourselves to examine the component parts of the English Constitution, we shall find them to be the base remains of two ancient tyrannies, compounded with some new Republican materials.

First. The remains of Monarchical tyranny, in the person of the King.

Secondly. The remains of Aristocratical tyranny, in the persons of the Peers.

Thirdly. The new Republican materials, in the persons of the Commons, on whose virtue depends the freedom of England.

The two first by being hereditary are independent of the people; wherefore, in a constitutional sense, they contribute nothing towards the freedom of the State.

To say that the Constitution of England is a union of three powers, reciprocally checking each other, is farcical; either the words have no meaning, or they are flat contradiction.

To say that the Commons is a check upon the King, presupposes two things:

First. That the King is not to be trusted without being looked after; or, in other words, that a thirst for absolute power is the natural disease of Monarchy.

Secondly. That the Commons, by being appointed for that purpose, are either wiser or more worthy of confidence than the Crown.

But as the same Constitution which gives the Commons a power to check the King by withholding the supplies, gives afterwards the King a power to check the Commons by empowering him to reject their other bills, it again supposes that the King is wiser than those whom it has already supposed to be wiser than him. A mere absurdity!

There is something exceedingly ridiculous in the composition of Monarchy; it first excludes a man from the means of information, yet empowers him to act in cases where the highest judgment is required. The state of a King shuts him from the world, yet the business of a King requires him to know it thoroughly; wherefore, the different parts, by unnaturally opposing and destroying each other, prove the whole character to be absurd and useless.

Some writers have explained the English Constitution thus: the King, say they, is one, the People, another; the Peers are an House in behalf of the King; the Commons in behalf of the People; but this hath all the distinctions of an House divided against itself; and though the expressions be pleasantly arranged, yet when examined they appear idle and ambiguous; and it will always happen, that the nicest construction that words are capable of, when applied to the description of something which either cannot exist, or is too incomprehensible to be within the compass of description, will be words of sound only, and though they may amuse the ear, they cannot inform the mind; for this explanation includes a previous question, viz: How came the King by a power which the people are afraid to trust, and always obliged to check? Such a power could not be the gift of a wise people, neither can any power which needs checking be from God; yet the provision which the Constitution makes, supposes such a power to exist.

But the provision is unequal to the task; the means either cannot, or will not accomplish the end, and the whole affair is a felo-de-se: for as the greater weight will always carry up the less, and as all the wheels of a machine are put in motion by one, it only remains to know which power in the Constitution has the most weight, for that will govern; and though the others, or a part of them, may clog, or as the phrase is, check the rapidity of its motion, yet so long as they cannot stop it, their endeavours will be ineffectual; the first moving power will at last have its way, and what it wants in speed is supplied by time.

That the Crown is this overbearing part in the English Constitution needs not be mentioned, and that it derives its whole consequence merely from being the giver of places and pensions is self-evident; wherefore, though we have been wise enough to shut and lock a door against absolute Monarchy, we, at the same time, have been foolish enough to put the Crown in possession of the key.

The prejudice of Englishmen in favour of their own Government, by King, Lords, and Commons, arises as much, or more, from national pride than reason. Individuals are undoubtedly safer in England than in some other countries; but the will of the King is as much the law of the land in Britain as in France, with this difference, that instead of proceeding directly from his mouth, it is handed to the people under the more formidable shape of an Act of Parliament. For the fate of Charles the First hath only made Kings more subtle—not more just.

Wherefore, laying aside all national pride and prejudice in favour of modes and forms, the plain truth is, that it is wholly owing to the Constitution of the People, and not to the Constitution of the Government, that the Crown is not as oppressive in England as in Turkey.

An inquiry into the constitutional errors in the English form of Government, is at this time highly necessary; for as we are never in a proper condition of doing justice to others, while we continue under the influence of some leading partiality, so neither are we capable of doing it to ourselves while we remain fettered by any obstinate prejudice. And as a man who is attached to a prostitute is unfitted to choose or judge of a wife, so any prepossession in favour of a rotten Constitution of Government will disable us from discerning a good one.

II. Of Monarchy and hereditary succession.

Mankind being originally equals in the order of creation, the equality could only be destroyed by some subsequent circumstance: The distinctions of rich and poor, may in a great measure be accounted for, and that without having recourse to the harsh, ill-sounding names of oppression and avarice. Oppression is often the consequence, but seldom or never the means of riches; and though avarice will preserve a man from being necessarily poor, it generally makes him too timorous to be wealthy.

But there is another and greater distinction, for which no truly natural or religious reason can be assigned, and that is, the distinction of men into Kings and Subjects. Male and female are the distinctions of nature; good and bad the distinctions of Heaven; but how a race of men came into the world so exalted above the rest, and distinguished like some new species, is worth inquiring into, and whether they are the means of happiness or of misery to mankind.

In the early ages of the world, according to the Scripture chronology, there were no Kings; the consequence of which was, there were no wars: it is the pride of Kings which throws mankind into confusion. Holland, without a King, hath enjoyed more peace for this last century than any of the monarchical Governments in Europe. Antiquity favours the same remark; for the quiet and rural lives of the first Patriarchs hath a happy something in them, which vanishes away when we come to the history of Jewish Royalty.

Government, by Kings, was first introduced into the world by the Heathens, from whom the children of Israel copied the custom. It was the most prosperous invention the Devil ever set on foot for the promotion of idolatry. The Heathens paid Divine honours to their deceased Kings, and the Christian world hath improved on the plan by doing the same to their living ones. How impious is the title of sacred Majesty applied to a worm, who, in the midst of his splendour, is crumbling into dust!

As the exalting one man so greatly above the rest cannot be justified on the equal rights of nature, so neither can it be defended on the authority of Scripture; for the will of the Almighty, as declared by Gideon and the Prophet Samuel, expressly disapproves of Government by Kings. All anti-monarchical parts of Scripture have been very smoothly glossed over in monarchical Governments, but they undoubtedly merit the attention of countries which have their Governments yet to form. "Render unto Cæsar the things which are Cæsar's" is the Scripture doctrine of Courts, yet it is no support of monarchical Government, for the Jews at that time were without a King, and in a state of vassalage to the Romans.

Near three thousand years passed away from the Mosaic account of the creation, till the Jews, under a national delusion, requested a King. Till then, their form of Government (except in extraordinary cases where the Almighty interposed) was a kind of Republick, administered by a Judge and the Elders of the Tribes. Kings they had none, and it was held sinful to acknowledge any Being under that title but the Lord of Hosts. And when a man seriously reflects on the idolatrous homage which is paid to the persons of Kings, he need not wonder that the Almighty, ever jealous of his honour, should disapprove of a form of Government which so impiously invades the prerogative of Heaven.

Monarchy is ranked in Scripture as one of the sins of the Jews, for which a curse in reserve is denounced against them. The history of that transaction is worth attending to :

The children of Israel being oppressed by the Midianites, Gideon marched against them with a small army, and victory, through the Divine interposition, decided in his favour. The Jews, elate with success, and attributing it to the generalship of Gideon, proposed making him a King, saying, "Rule thou over us, thou and thy son, and thy son's son." Here was temptation in its fullest extent; not a kingdom only, but an hereditary one; but Gideon, in the piety of his soul, replied, "I will not rule over you, neither shall my son rule over you; the Lord shall rule over you." Words need not be more explicit; Gideon doth not decline the honour, but denieth their right to give it; neither doth he compliment them with invented declarations of his thanks, but, in the positive style of a Prophet, charges them with disaffection to their proper Sovereign, the King of Heaven.

About one hundred and thirty years after this, they fell again into the same error. The hankering which the Jews had for the idolatrous customs of the Heathens, is something exceedingly unaccountable; but so it was, that laying hold of the misconduct of Samuel's two sons, who were intrusted with some secular concerns, they came in an abrupt and clamorous manner to Samuel, saying, "Behold thou art old, and thy sons walk not in thy ways, now make us a King to judge us like all the other nations." And here we cannot but observe that their motives were bad, viz: that they might be like unto other nations, i. e. the Heathens, whereas their true glory laid in being as much unlike them as possible. "But the thing displeased Samuel when they said, Give us a King to judge us: and Samuel prayed unto the Lord, and the Lord said unto Samuel, Harken unto the voice of the people in all that they say unto thee, for they have not rejected thee, but they have rejected me, that I should not reign over them. According to all the works which they have done since the day that I brought them up out of Egypt even unto this day, wherewith they have forsaken me and served other gods: so do they also unto thee. Now, therefore, hearken unto their voice; howbeit, protest solemnly unto them and shew them the manner of the King that shall reign over them:" i. e. not of any particular King, but the general manner of the Kings of the earth, whom Israel was so eagerly copying after. And notwithstanding the great distance of time and difference of manners, the character is still in fashion. "And Samuel told all the words of the Lord unto the people, that asked of him a King. And he said, this shall be the manner of the King that shall reign over you. He will take your sons and appoint them for himself, for his chariots, and to be his horsemen, and some shall run before his chariots;" (this description agrees with the present mode of impressing men;) "and he will appoint him captains over thousands, and captains over fifties, and will set them to ear his ground and to reap his harvest, and to make his instruments of war, and instruments of his chariots. And he will take your daughters to be confectionaries, and to be cooks, and to be bakers;" (this describes the expense and luxury as well as the oppression of Kings;) "and he will take your fields, and your vineyards, and your oliveyards, even the best of them, and give them to his servants. And he will take the tenth of your seed, and of your vineyards, and give them to his officers and to his servants." (By which we see that bribery, corruption, and favouritism, are the standing vices of Kings.) "And he will take the tenth of your men-servants, and your maid-servants, and your goodliest young men, and your asses, and put them to his work: and he will take the tenth of your sheep, and ye shall be his servants, and ye shall cry out in that day because of your King, which ye shall have chosen, and the Lord will not hear you in that day." This accounts for the continuation of Monarchy; neither do the characters of the few good Kings which have lived since, either sanctify the title, or blot out the sinfulness of the origin; the high encomium given of David takes no notice of him officially as a King, but only as a man after God's own heart. "Nevertheless the people refused to obey the voice of Samuel, and they said nay, but we will have a King over us, that we may be like all the nations, and that our King may judge us, and go out before us, and fight our battles." Samuel continued to reason with them, but to no purpose; he set before them their ingratitude, but all would not avail, and seeing them fully bent on their folly, he cried out, "I will call unto the Lord and he shall send thunder and rain, (which then was a punishment, being in the time of wheat-harvest,) that ye may perceive and see that your wickedness is great which ye have done in the sight of the Lord, in asking you a King. So Samuel called unto the Lord, and the Lord sent thunder and rain that day, and all the people greatly feared the Lord and Samuel. And all the people said unto Samuel, pray for thy servants unto the Lord thy God that we die not, for we have added unto our sins this evil, to ask a King." These portions of Scripture are direct and positive. They admit of no equivocal construction. That the Almighty hath here entered his protest against monarchical Government is true, or the Scripture is false. And a man hath good reason to believe that there is as much of kingcraft, as priestcraft, in withholding the Scripture from the publick in Popish countries. For Monarchy in every instance is the Popery of Government.

To the evil of Monarchy we have added that of hereditary succession; and as the first is a degradation and lessening of ourselves, so the second, claimed as a matter of right, is an insult and an imposition on posterity. For all men being originally equals, no one by birth could have a right to set up his own family in perpetual preference to all others for ever, and though himself might deserve some decent degree of honours of his contemporaries, yet his descendants might be far too unworthy to inherit them. One of the strongest natural proofs of the folly of hereditary right in Kings, is, that nature disapproves it, otherwise she would not so frequently turn it into ridicule by giving mankind an ass for a lion.

Secondly, as no man at first could possess any other publick honours than were bestowed upon him, so the givers of those honours could have no power to give away the right of posterity, and though they might say "we choose you for our head," they could not, without manifest injustice to their children, say "that your children and your children's children shall reign over ours for ever." Because such an unwise, unjust, unnatural compact, might (perhaps) in the next succession put them under the government of a rogue or a fool. Most wise men, in their private sentiments, have ever treated hereditary right with contempt; yet it is one of those evils which, when once established, is not easily removed; many submit from fear, others from superstition, and the more powerful part shares with the King the plunder of the rest.

This is supposing the present race of Kings in the world to have had an honourable origin; whereas, it is more than probable, that could we take off the dark covering of antiquity, and trace them to their first rise, that we should find the first of them nothing better than the principal ruffian of some restless gang, whose savage manners, or pre-eminence in subtlety, obtained him the title of chief among plunderers; and who, by increasing in power and extending his depredations, overawed the quiet and defenceless to purchase their safety by frequent contributions. Yet his electors could have no idea of giving hereditary right to his descendants, because such a perpetual exclusion of themselves was incompatible with the free and unrestrained principles they professed to live by. Wherefore, hereditary succession, in the early ages of Monarchy, could not take place as a matter of claim, but as something casual or complimentary; but as few or no records were extant in those days, and traditionary history stuffed with fables, it was very easy after the lapse of a few generations, to trump up some superstitious tale, conveniently timed, Mahomet-like, to cram hereditary right down the throats of the vulgar. Perhaps the disorders which threatened, or seemed to threaten, on the decease of a leader and the choice of a new one, (for elections among ruffians could not be very orderly,) induced many at first to favour hereditary pretensions; by which means it happened, as it hath happened since, that what at first was submitted to as a convenience was afterwards claimed as a right.

England, since the Conquest, hath known some few good Monarchs, but groaned beneath a much larger number of bad ones; yet no man in his senses can say that their claim under William the Conqueror is a very honourable one. A French bastard landing with an armed banditti, and establishing himself King of England against the consent of the natives, is, in plain terms, a very paltry, rascally original—it certainly hath no Divinity in it. However, it is needless to spend much time in exposing the folly of hereditary right; if there are any so weak as to believe it, let them promiscuously worship the ass and lion, and welcome. I shall neither copy their humility nor disturb their devotion.

Yet I should be glad to ask how they suppose Kings came at first? The question admits but of three answers, viz: either by lot, by election, or by usurpation. If the first King was taken by lot, it establishes a precedent for the next, which excludes hereditary succession. Saul was by lot, yet the succession was not hereditary, neither does it appear from that transaction there was any intention it ever should. If the first King of any country was by election that likewise establishes a precedent for the next; for to say that the right of all future generations is taken away by the act of the first electors in their choice not only of a King, but of a family of Kings for ever, hath no parallel in or out of Scripture, but the doctrine of original sin, which supposes the free-will of all men lost in Adam; and from such comparison, and it will admit of no other, hereditary succession can derive no glory. For as in Adam all sinned, and as in the first Electors all men obeyed; as in the one all mankind were subjected to Satan, and in the other to Sovereignty; as our innocence was lost in the first, and our authority in the last; and as both disable us from reassuming some former state and privilege, it unanswerably follows that original sin and hereditary succession are parallels. Dishonourable rank! inglorious connection! yet the most subtle sophist cannot produce a juster simile.

As to usurpation, no man will be so hardy as to defend it; and that William the Conqueror was an usurper is a fact not to be contradicted. The plain truth is, that the antiquity of English monarchy will not bear looking into.

But it is not so much the absurdity as the evil of hereditary succession which concerns mankind. Did it insure a race of good and wise men, it would have the seal of Divine authority, but as it opens the door to the foolish, the wicked, and the improper, it hath in it the nature of oppression. Men who look upon themselves born to reign, and others to obey, soon grow insolent; selected from the rest of mankind, their minds are easily poisoned by importance; and the world they act in differs so materially from the world at large, that they have but little opportunity of knowing its true interests, and when they succeed to the Government are frequently the most ignorant and unfit of any throughout the dominions.

Another evil which attends hereditary succession, is, that the throne is subject to be possessed by a minor at any age; all which time the Regency, acting under the cover of a King, have every opportunity and inducement to betray their trust. The same national misfortune happens when a King, worn out with age and infirmity, enters the last stage of human weakness. In both these cases the public becomes a prey to every miscreant who can tamper successfully with the follies either of age or infancy.

The most plausible plea which hath ever been offered in favour of hereditary succession, is, that it preserves a nation from civil wars; and were this true, it would be weighty; whereas, it is the most barefaced falsity ever imposed upon mankind. The whole history of England disowns the fact. Thirty Kings and two minors have reigned in that distracted kingdom since the Conquest, in which time there have been (including the Revolution) no less than eight civil wars and nineteen rebellions. Wherefore, instead of making for peace, it makes against it, and destroys the very foundation it seems to stand on.

The contest for Monarchy and succession between the houses of York and Lancaster, laid England in a scene of blood for many years. Twelve pitched battles, besides skirmishes and sieges, were fought between Henry and Edward. Twice was Henry prisoner to Edward, who in his turn was prisoner to Henry. And so uncertain is the fate of war and the temper of a nation, when nothing but personal matters are the ground of a quarrel, that Henry was taken in triumph from a prison to a palace, and Edward obliged to fly from a palace to a foreign land. Yet as sudden transitions of temper are seldom lasting, Henry in his turn was driven from the throne and Edward recalled to succeed him. The Parliament always following the strongest side.

The contest began in the reign of Henry the Sixth, and was not entirely extinguished till Henry the Seventh, in whom the families were united. Including a period of sixty-seven years, viz: from 1422 to 1489.

In short, Monarchy and succession have laid (not this or that kingdom only) but the world in blood and ashes. 'Tis a form of Government which the word of God bears testimony against, and blood will attend it.

If we inquire into the business of a King, we shall find that in some countries they have none; and, after sauntering away their lives without pleasure to themselves, or advantage to the nation, withdraw from the scene, and leave their successors to tread the same idle round. In absolute monarchies the whole weight of business, civil and military, lies on the King; the children of Israel in their request for a King urged this plea, "that he may judge us, and go out before us and fight our battles." But in countries where he is neither a Judge, nor a General, as in England, a man would be puzzled to know what is his business.

The nearer any Government approaches to a Republic the less business there is for a King. It is somewhat difficult to find a proper name for the Government of England. Sir William Meredith calls it a Republic; but in its present state it is unworthy of the name, because the corrupt influence of the Crown, by having all the places in its disposal, hath so effectually swallowed up the power, and eaten out the virtue of the House of Commons (the republican part in the Constitution) that the Government of England is nearly as monarchical as that of France or Spain. Men fall out with names without understanding them. For 'tis the republican and not the monarchical part of the Constitution of England which Englishmen glory in, viz: the liberty of choosing an House of Commons from out of their own body; and it is easy to see that when republican virtue fails, slavery ensues. Why is the Constitution of England sickly? but because Monarchy hath poisoned the Republic; the Crown hath engrossed the Commons.

In England a King hath little more to do than to make war and give away places; which, in plain terms, is to impoverish the nation, and set it together by the ears. A pretty business, indeed, for a man to be allowed eight hundred thousand sterling a year for, and worshipped into the bargain! Of more worth is one honest man to society, and in the sight of God, than all the crowned ruffians that ever lived.

III. Thoughts on the present state of AMERICAN Affairs.

In the following pages I offer nothing more than simple facts, plain arguments, and common sense; and have no other preliminaries to settle with the reader, than that he will divest himself of prejudice and prepossession, and suffer his reason and his feelings to determine for themselves; that he will put on (or rather, that he will not put off) the true character of a man, and generously enlarge his views beyond the present day.

Volumes have been written on the subject of the struggle between England and America. Men of all ranks have embarked in the controversy, from different motives, and with various designs, but all have been ineffectual, and the period of debate is closed. Arms, as the last resource, decide the contest; the appeal was the choice of the King, and the Continent has accepted the challenge.

It hath been reported of the late Mr. Pelham, (who, though an able Minister, was not without his faults,) that on his being attacked in the House of Commons, on the score that his measures were only of a temporary kind, replied, "they will last my time." Should a thought so fatal and unmanly possess the Colonies in the present contest, the name of ancestors will be remembered by future generations with detestation. The sun never shined on a cause of greater worth. It is not the affair of a City, a County, a Province, or a Kingdom, but of a Continent—at least one-eighth part of the habitable globe. It is not the concern of a day, a year, or an age; posterity are virtually involved in the contest, and will be more or less affected, even to the end of time, by the proceedings now. Now is the seed time of Continental union, faith, and honour. The least fracture now, will be like a name engraved with the weak point of a pin on the tender rind of a young oak: the wound will enlarge with the tree, and posterity read it in full-grown characters.

By referring the matter from argument to arms, a new era for politics is struck, a new method of thinking hath arisen. All plans, proposals, &c., prior to the 19th of April, i. e. to the commencement of hostilities, are like the almanacks of the last year, which, though proper then, are superseded and useless now. Whatever was advanced by the advocates on either side of the question then, terminated in one and the same point, viz: an union with Great Britain. The only difference between the parties was the method of effecting it; the one proposing force, the other friendship. But, it hath so far happened that the first hath failed, and the second hath withdrawn her influence.

As much hath been said of the advantages of reconciliation, which, like an agreeable dream, hath passed away and left us as we were, it is but right that we should examine the contrary side of the argument, and inquire into some of the many material injuries which these Colonies sustain, and always will sustain, by being connected with, and dependant on Great Britain; to examine that connection and dependance on the principles of nature and common sense, to see what we have to trust to if separated, and what we are to expect if dependant.

I have heard it asserted by some, that, as America hath flourished under her former connection with Great Britain, that the same connection is necessary towards her future happiness, and will always have the same effect. Nothing can be more fallacious than this kind of argument; we may as well assert that because a child hath thrived upon milk, that it is never to have meat, or, that the first twenty years of our lives is to become a precedent for the next twenty. But even this is admitting more than is true, for I answer, roundly, that America would have flourished as much, and probably much more, had no European Power taken any notice of her. The commerce by which she hath enriched herself are the necessities of life, and will always have a market while eating is the custom of Europe. But, she has protected us, says some. That she hath engrossed us is true, and defended the Continent at our expense as well as her own, is admitted; and she would have defended Turkey from the same motive, viz: the sake of trade and dominion.

Alas! we have been long led away by ancient prejudices, and made large sacrifices to superstition. We have boasted the protection of Great Britain, without considering that her motive was interest, not attachment; that she did not protect us from our enemies on our account, but from her enemies on her own account; from those who had no quarrel with us on any other account, and who will always be our enemies on the same account. Let Britain waive her pretensions to the Continent, or the Continent throw off the dependance, and we should be at peace with France and Spain were they at war with Britain. The miseries of Hanover, last war, ought to warn us against connections.

It hath lately been asserted in Parliament, that the Colonies have no relation to each other but through the parent country; i. e. that Pennsylvania and the Jerseys, and so on for the rest, are sister Colonies by the way of England. This is certainly a very roundabout way of proving relationship, but it is the nearest and only true way of proving enmityship, if I may so call it. France and Spain never were, nor, perhaps, ever will be our enemies as Americans, but, as our being the subjects of Great Britain.

But Britain is the parent country, says some. Then the more shame upon her conduct. Even brutes do not devour their young, nor Savages make war upon their families; wherefore, the assertion, if true, turns to her reproach; but it happens not to be true, or only partly so, and the phrase, parent or mother country, hath been jesuitically adopted by the King and his parasites, with a low, papistical design of gaining an unfair bias on the credulous weakness of our minds. Europe, and not England, is the parent country of America. This New World hath been the asylum for the persecuted lovers of civil and religious liberty from every part of Europe. Hither have they fled, not from the tender embraces of the mother, but from the cruelty of the monster; and it is so far true of England, that the same tyranny which drove the first emigrants from home, pursues their descendants still.

In this extensive quarter of the globe, we forget the narrow limits of three hundred and sixty miles, (the extent of England), and carry our friendship on a larger scale; we claim brotherhood with every European Christian, and triumph in the generosity of the sentiment.

It is pleasant to observe by what regular gradations we surmount the force of local prejudice, as we enlarge our acquaintance with the world. A man born in any town in England divided into parishes, will naturally associate most with his fellow-parishioner, (because their interests in many cases will be common), and distinguish him by the name of neighbour; if he meet him but a few miles from home, he drops the narrow idea of a street, and salutes him by the name of townsman; if he travel out of the County, and meet him in any other, he forgets the minor divisions of street and town, and calls him countryman, i. e. countyman; but if, in their foreign excursions, they should associate in France, or any other part of Europe, their local remembrance would be enlarged into that of Englishmen. And, by a just parity of reasoning, all Europeans meeting in America, or any other quarter of the globe, are countrymen; for England, Holland, Germany, or Sweden, when compared with the whole, stand in the same places, on the larger scale, which the divisions of street, town, and County do on the smaller ones; distinctions too limited for Continental minds. Not one-third of the inhabitants even, of this Province, are of English descent; wherefore, I reprobate the phrase of parent or mother country, applied to England only, as being false, selfish, narrow, and ungenerous.

But, admitting that we were all of English descent, what does it amount to? Nothing. Britain being now an open enemy, extinguishes every other name and title; and to say that reconciliation is our duty, is truly farcical. The first King of England, of the present line, (William the Conqueror), was a Frenchman, and half the Peers of England are descendants from the same country; wherefore, by the same method of reasoning, England ought to be governed by France.

Much hath been said of the united strength of Britain and the Colonies; that, in conjunction, they might bid defiance to the world. But this is mere presumption; the fate of war is uncertain; neither do the expressions mean any thing, for this Continent would never suffer itself to be drained of inhabitants, to support the British arms in either Asia, Africa, or Europe.

Besides, what have we to do with setting the world at defiance. Our plan is commerce; and that, well attended to, will secure us the peace and friendship of all Europe, because it is the interest of all Europe to have America a free port. Her trade will always be a protection, and her barrenness of gold and silver will secure her from invaders.

I challenge the warmest advocate for reconciliation to show a single advantage that this Continent can reap, by being connected with Great Britain. I repeat the challenge, not a single advantage is derived. Our corn will fetch its price in any market in Europe, and our imported goods must be paid for, buy them where we will.

But the injuries and disadvantages we sustain by that connection are without number, and our duty to mankind at large, as well as to ourselves, instruct us to renounce the alliance; because any submission to, or dependance on Great Britain, tends directly to involve this Continent in European wars and quarrels. As Europe is our market for trade, we ought to form no political connection with any part of it. It is the true interest of America to steer clear of European contentions, which she never can do, while, by her dependance on Britain, she is made the make-weight in the scale of British politicks.

Europe is too thickly planted with kingdoms to be long at peace; and whenever a war breaks out between England and any foreign power, the trade of America goes to ruin, because of her connection with Britain. The next war may not turn out like the last, and, should it not, the advocates for reconciliation now, will be wishing for separation then, because neutrality, in that case, would be a safer convoy than a man-of-war. Every thing that is right or reasonable pleads for separation. The blood of the slain, the weeping voice of nature cries, 'Tis time to part. Even the distance at which the Almighty hath placed England and America, is a strong and natural proof that the authority of the one over the other was never the design of Heaven. The time, likewise, at which the Continent was discovered, adds weight to the argument, and the manner in which it was peopled increases the force of it. The Reformation was preceded by the discovery of America, as if the Almighty graciously meant to open a sanctuary to the persecuted in future years, when home should afford neither friendship nor safety.

The authority of Great Britain over this Continent is a form of Government which, sooner or later, must have an end; and a serious mind can draw no true pleasure by looking forward, under the painful and positive conviction that what he calls "the present Constitution" is merely temporary. As parents, we can have no joy, knowing that this Government is not sufficiently lasting to insure any thing which we may bequeath to posterity; and, by a plain method of argument, as we are running the next generation into debt, we ought to do the work of it, otherwise we use them meanly and pitifully. In order to discover the line of our duty rightly, we should take our children in our hand, and fix our station a few years farther into life; that eminence will present a prospect which a few present fears and prejudices conceal from our sight.

Though I would carefully avoid giving unnecessary offence, yet I am inclined to believe that all those who espouse the doctrine of reconciliation, may be included within the following descriptions: Interested men who are not to be trusted, weak men who cannot see, prejudiced men who will not see, and a certain set of moderate men who think better of the European world than it deserves; and this last class, by an ill-judged deliberation, will be the cause of more calamities to this Continent than all the other three.

It is the good fortune of many to live distant from the scene of present sorrow; the evil is not sufficiently brought to their doors to make them feel the precariousness with which all American property is possessed. But let our imaginations transport us for a few moments to Boston; that seat of wretchedness will teach us wisdom, and instruct us forever to renounce a Power in whom we can have no trust. The inhabitants of that unfortunate city, who, but a few months ago, were in ease and affluence, have now no other alternative than to stay and starve, or turn out to beg. Endangered by the fire of their friends if they continue within the city, and plundered by Government if they leave it. In their present condition they are prisoners without the hope of redemption, and, in a general attack for their relief, they would be exposed to the fury of both armies.

Men of passive tempers look somewhat lightly over the offences of Britain, and, still hoping for the best, are apt to call out, "Come, come, we shall be friends again, for all this." But examine the passions and feelings of mankind; bring the doctrine of reconciliation to the touchstone of nature, and then tell me whether you can hereafter love, honour, and faithfully serve, the Power that hath carried fire and sword into your land? If you cannot do all these, then you are only deceiving yourselves, and, by your delay, bringing ruin upon posterity. Your future connection with Britain, whom you can neither love nor honour, will be forced and unnatural; and being formed only on the plan of present convenience, will, in a little time, fall into a relapse more wretched than the first. But, if you say you can still pass the violations over, then I ask, hath your house been burnt? Hath your property been destroyed before your face? Are your wife and children destitute of a bed to lie on, or bread to live on? Have you lost a parent, or a child, by their hands, and yourself the ruined and wretched survivor? If you have not, then you are not a judge of those who have. But if you have, and still can shake hands with the murderers, then are you unworthy the name of husband, father, friend, or lover; and whatever may be your rank or title in life, you have the heart of a coward, and the spirit of a sycophant.

This is not inflaming or exaggerating matters, but trying them by those feelings and affections which nature justifies, and, without which, we should be incapable of discharging the social duties of life, or enjoying the felicities of it. I mean not to exhibit horror for the purpose of provoking revenge, but to awaken us from fatal and unmanly slumbers, that we may pursue determinately some fixed object. 'Tis not in the power of England, or of Europe, to conquer America, if she doth not conquer herself by delay and timidity. The present winter is worth an age, if rightly employed; but, if lost or neglected, the whole Continent will partake of the misfortune; and there is no punishment which that man doth not deserve, be he who, or what, or where he will, that may be the means of sacrificing a season so precious and useful.

'Tis repugnant to reason, to the universal order of things, to all examples from former ages, to suppose that this Continent can long remain subject to any external Power. The most sanguine in Britain doth not think so. The utmost stretch of human wisdom cannot, at this time, compass a plan, short of separation, which can promise the Continent even a year's security. Reconciliation is now a fallacious dream. Nature hath deserted the connection, and Art cannot supply her place; for, as Milton wisely expresses, "never can true reconciliation grow where wounds of deadly late have pierced so deep."

Every quiet method for peace hath been ineffectual. Our prayers have been rejected with disdain, and hath tended to convince us that nothing flatters vanity, or confirms obstinacy in Kings, more than repeated petitioning; and nothing hath contributed more than that very measure to make the Kings of Europe absolute. Witness Denmark and Sweden. Wherefore, since nothing but blows will do, for God's sake let us come to a final separation, and not leave the next generation to be cutting throats under the violated unmeaning names of parent and child.

To say they will never attempt it again, is idle and visionary. We thought so at the repeal of the Stamp Act; yet a year or two undeceived us. As well may we suppose that nations, which have been once defeated, will never renew the quarrel.

As to Government matters, 'tis not in the power of Britain to do this Continent justice. The business of it will soon be too weighty and intricate to be managed, with any tolerable degree of convenience, by a Power so distant from us, and so very ignorant of us; for, if they cannot conquer us, they cannot govern us. To be always running three or four thousand miles with a tale, or a petition, waiting four or five months for an answer, which, when obtained, requires five or six more to explain it in, will, in a few years, be looked upon as folly and childishness. There was a time when it was proper, and there is a proper time for it to cease.

Small islands, not capable of protecting themselves, are the proper objects for Government to take under their care; but there is something very absurd in supposing a continent to be perpetually governed by an island. In no instance hath nature made the satellite larger than its primary planet; and as England and America, with respect to each other, reverses the common order of nature, it is evident they belong to different systems: England to Europe; America to itself.

I am not induced by motives of pride, party, or resentment, to espouse the doctrine of separation and independence. I am clearly, positively, and conscientiously persuaded, that 'tis the true interest of this Continent to be so; that every thing short of that is mere patchwork; that it can afford no lasting felicity; that it is leaving the sword to our children, and shrinking back at a time when a little more—a little further—would have rendered this Continent the glory of the earth.

As Britain hath not manifested the least inclination towards a compromise, we may be assured that no terms can be obtained worthy the acceptance of the Continent, or any ways equal to the expense of blood and treasure we have been already put to.

The object contended for ought always to bear some just proportion to the expense. The removal of North, or the whole detestable junto, is a matter unworthy the millions we have expended. A temporary stoppage of trade was an inconvenience which would have sufficiently balanced the repeal of all the acts complained of, had such repeals been obtained; but if the whole Continent must take up arms, if every man must be a soldier, it is scarcely worth our while to fight against a contemptible Ministry only. Dearly, dearly, do we pay for the repeal of the acts, if that is all we fight for; for, in a just estimation, it is as great a folly to pay a Bunker-Hill price for law as for land. As I have always considered the independency of this Continent as an event which, sooner or later, must arrive, so, from the late rapid progress of the Continent to maturity, the event could not be far off; wherefore, on the breaking out of hostilities, it was not worth the while to have disputed a matter which time would have finally redressed, unless we meant to be in earnest; otherwise, it is like wasting an estate on a suit at law to regulate the trespasses of a tenant whose lease is just expiring. No man was a warmer wisher for reconciliation than myself, before the fatal 19th of April, 1775; but the moment the event of that day was made known, I rejected the hardened, sullen-tempered Pharaoh of England forever, and disdained the wretch that, with the pretended title of Father of his People, can unfeelingly hear of their slaughter, and composedly sleep with their blood upon his soul.

But admitting that matters were now made up, what would be the event? I answer, the ruin of the Continent; and that for several reasons:

First. The powers of governing still remaining in the hands of the King, he will have a negative over the whole legislation of this Continent; and as he hath shown himself such an inveterate enemy to liberty, and discovered such a thirst for arbitrary power, is he, or is he not, a proper man to say to these Colonies, "You shall make no laws but what I please?" And is there any inhabitant in America so ignorant as not to know that, according to what is called the present Constitution, that this Continent can make no laws but what the King gives leave to? And is there any man so unwise as not to see that (considering what has happened) he will suffer no laws to be made here, but such as suit his purpose. We may be as effectually enslaved by the want of laws in America, as by submitting to laws made for us in England. After matters are made up, (as it is called,) can there be any doubt but the whole power of the Crown will be exerted to keep this Continent as low and humble as possible? Instead of going forward, we shall go backward, or be perpetually quarrelling, or ridiculously petitioning. We are already greater than the King wishes us to be; and will be not, hereafter, endeavour to make us less? To bring the matter to one point: Is the Power who is jealous of our prosperity, a proper Power to govern us? Whoever says No to this question is an Independent; for independency means no more than whether we shall make our own laws, or whether the King, the greatest enemy this Continent hath, or can have, shall tell us, "There shall be no laws but such as I like."

But the King, you will say, hath a negative in England; the people there can make no laws without his consent. In point of right and good order, there is something very ridiculous that a youth of twenty-one (which hath often happened) shall say to six millions of people, older and wiser than himself, "I forbid this, or that act of yours, to be law." But, in this place, I decline this sort of reply, though I will never cease to expose the absurdity of it, and only answer, that England being the King's residence, and America not so, makes quite another case. The King's negative here is ten times more dangerous and fatal than it can be in England; for there he will scarcely refuse his consent to a bill for putting England into as strong a state of defence as possible; and here he would never suffer such a bill to be passed.

America is only a secondary object in the system of British politicks. England consults the good of this country no further than it answers her own purpose; wherefore, her own interest leads her to suppress the growth of ours, in every case which doth not promote her advantage, or in the least interferes with it. A pretty state we should be in, under such a second-hand Government, considering what has happened! Men do not change from enemies to friends by the alteration of a name; and in order to show that reconciliation now is a dangerous doctrine, I affirm that it would be policy in the King, at this time, to repeal the acts, for the sake of reinstating himself in the government of the Provinces, in order that he may accomplish by craft and subtlety, in the long run, what he cannot do by force and violence, in the short one. Reconciliation and ruin are nearly related.

Secondly. That as even the best terms which we can expect to obtain can amount to no more than a temporary expedient, or a kind of Government by guardianship, which can last no longer than till the Colonies come of age, so the general face and state of things, in the interim, will be unsettled and unpromising. Emigrants of property will not choose to come to a country whose form of Government hangs but by a thread, and who is every day tottering on the brink of commotion and disturbance; and numbers of the present inhabitants would lay hold of the interval to dispose of their effects, and quit the Continent.

But the most powerful of all arguments is, that nothing but independence, i. e. a Continental form of Government, can keep the peace of the Continent, and preserve it inviolate from civil wars. I dread the event of a reconciliation with Britain now, as it is more than probable that it will be followed by a revolt, somewhere or other, the consequences of which may be far more fatal than all the malice of Britain.

Thousands are already ruined by British barbarity; (thousands more will probably suffer the same fate.) Those men have other feelings than us, who have nothing suffered. All they now possess is liberty. What they before enjoyed is sacrificed to its service, and having nothing more to lose, they disdain submission. Besides, the general temper of the Colonies towards a British Government will be like that of a youth who is nearly out of his time: they will care very little about her; and a Government which cannot preserve the peace is no Government at all; and, in that case, we pay our money for nothing. And pray what is it that Britain can do, whose power will be wholly on paper, should a civil tumult break out the very day after reconciliation? I have heard some men say, many of whom I believe spoke without thinking, that they dreaded an independence, fearing that it would produce civil wars. It is but seldom that our first thoughts are truly correct, and that is the case here; for there are ten times more to dread from a patched-up connection than from independence. I make the sufferer's case my own, and I protest, that were I driven from house and home, my property destroyed, and my circumstances ruined, that, as a man sensible of injuries, I could never relish the doctrine of reconciliation, or consider myself bound thereby.

The Colonies hath manifested such a spirit of good order, and obedience to Continental Government, as is sufficient to make every reasonable person easy and happy on that head. No man can assign the least pretence for his fears, on any other grounds than such as are truly childish and ridiculous, viz: that one Colony will be striving for superiority over another.

Where there are no distinctions, there can be no superiority; perfect equality affords no temptation. The Republics of Europe are all (and we may say always) in peace. Holland and Switzerland are without wars, foreign or domestic. Monarchical Governments, it is true, are never long at rest. The Crown itself is a temptation to enterprising ruffians at home; and that degree of pride and insolence, ever attendant on regal authority, swells into a rupture with foreign Powers in instances where a Republican Government, by being formed on more natural principles, would negotiate the mistake.

If there is any true cause for fear respecting independence, it is because no plan is yet laid down. Men do not see their way out—wherefore, as an opening into that business I offer the following hints; at the same time modestly affirming, that I have no other opinion of them.

myself, than that they may be the means of giving rise to something better. Could the straggling thoughts of individuals be collected, they would frequently form materials for wise and able men to improve into useful matter.

Let the Assemblies be annual, with a President only. The representation more equal. Their business wholly domestick, and subject to the authority of a Continental Congress.

Let each Colony be divided into six, eight, or ten convenient districts, each district to send a proper number of Delegates in Congress, so that each Colony send at least thirty. The whole number in Congress will be at least three hundred and ninety. Each Congress to sit and to choose a President by the following method: When the Delegates are met, let a Colony be taken from the whole thirteen Colonies by lot, after which let the whole Congress choose (by ballot) a President from out of the Delegates of that Province. In the next Congress let a Colony be taken by lot from twelve only, omitting that Colony from which the President was taken in the former Congress, and so proceeding on till the whole thirteen shall have had their proper rotation. And in order that nothing may pass into a law but what is satisfactorily just, not less than three-fifths of the Congress to be called a majority. He that will promote discord under a Government so equally formed as this, would have joined Lucifer in his revolt.

But as there is a peculiar delicacy from whom, or in what manner, this business must first arise, and as it seems most agreeable and consistent, that it should come from some intermediate body between the governed and the governours, that is, between the Congress and the People, let a Continental Conference be held in the following manner, and for the following purpose:

A Committee of twenty-six members of Congress, viz: two for each Colony. Two members from each House of Assembly, or Provincial Convention, and five Representatives of the people at large, to be chosen in the capital city or town of each Province, for, and in behalf of the whole Province, by as many qualified voters as shall think proper to attend from all parts of the Province for that purpose; or if more convenient, the Representatives may be chosen in two or three of the most populous parts thereof. In this Conference, thus assembled, will be united the two grand principles of business—knowledge and power. The members of Congress, Assemblies, or Conventions, by having had experience in national concerns, will be able and useful counsellors, and the whole, by being empowered by the people, will have a truly legal authority.

The conferring members being met, let their business be to frame a Continental Charter, or Charter of the United Colonies, (answering to what is called the Magna Charta of England;) fixing the number and manner of choosing Members of Congress, Members of Assembly, with their date of sitting, and drawing the line of business and jurisdiction between them: (always remembering, that our strength and happiness is Continental, not Provincial.) Securing freedom and property to all men, and above all things, the free exercise of religion, according to the dictates of conscience; with such other matters as is necessary for a Charter to contain. Immediately after which, the said Conference to dissolve, and the bodies which shall be chosen conformable to the said Charter, to be the legislators and governours of this Continent, for the time being: whose peace and happiness may God preserve. Amen.

Should any body of men be hereafter delegated for this or some similar purpose, I offer them the following extract from that wise observer on Governments, Dragonetti. "The science," says he, "of the politician consists in fixing the true point of happiness and freedom. Those men would deserve the gratitude of ages, who should discover a mode of government that contained the greatest sum of individual happiness, with the least national expence."—Dragonetti on Virtue and Rewards.

But where, says some, is the King of America? I'll tell you friend, he reigns above; and doth not make havock of mankind like the Royal Brute of Great Britain. Yet that we may not appear to be defective even in earthly honours, let a day be solemnly set apart for proclaiming the Charter; let it be brought forth placed on the Divine law, the Word of God; let a crown be placed thereon, by which the world may know, that so far as we approve of monarchy, that in America the Law is King. For as in absolute Governments the King is Law, so in free countries the Law ought to be King; and there ought to be no other. But lest any ill use should afterwards arise, let the crown, at the conclusion of the ceremony, be demolished and scattered among the people, whose right it is.

A Government of our own is our natural right: and when a man seriously reflects on the precariousness of human affairs, he will become convinced, that it is infinitely wiser and safer, to form a Constitution of our own, in a cool deliberate manner, while we have it in our power, than to trust such an interesting event to time and chance. If we omit it now, some *Massanello may hereafter arise, who, laying hold of popular disquietudes, may collect together the desperate and the discontented, and, by assuming to themselves the powers of Government, may sweep away the liberties of the Continent like a deluge. Should the Government of America return again into the hands of Britain, the tottering situation of things will be a temptation for some desperate adventurer to try his fortune; and in such a case, what relief can Britain give? Ere she could hear the news, the fatal business might be done; and ourselves suffering, like the wretched Britons, under the oppression of the Conqueror. Ye that oppose independence now, ye know not what ye do: ye are opening a door to eternal tyranny, by keeping vacant the seat of Government. There are thousands, and tens of thousands, who would think it glorious to expel from the Continent that barbarous and hellish power, which have stirred up the Indians and the Negroes to destroy us; the cruelty hath a double guilt, it is dealing brutally by us, and treacherously by them.

To talk of friendship with those in whom our reason forbids us to have faith, and our affections wounded through a thousand pores, instruct us to detest, is madness and folly. Every day wears out the little remains of kindred between us and them, and can there be any reason to hope, that as the relationship expires, the affection will increase, or that we shall agree better, when we have ten times more and greater concerns to quarrel over than ever?

Ye that tell us of harmony and reconciliation, can ye restore to us the time that is past? Can ye give to prostitution its former innocence? Neither can ye reconcile Britain and America. The last cord now is broken, the people of England are presenting addresses against us. There are injuries which nature cannot forgive; she would cease to be nature if she did. As well can the lover forgive the ravisher of his mistress, as the Continent forgive the murders of Britain. The Almighty hath implanted in us these unextinguishable feelings for good and wise purposes. They are the guardians of His image in our hearts. They distinguish us from the herd of common animals. The social compact would dissolve, and justice be extirpated the earth, or have only a casual existence, were we callous to the touches of affection. The robber and the murderer would often escape unpunished, did not the injuries which our tempers sustain, provoke us into justice.

O ye that love mankind! Ye that dare oppose not only the tyranny, but the tyrant, stand forth! Every spot of the old world is overrun with oppression. Freedom hath been hunted round the globe. Asia and Africa have long expelled her. Europe regards her like a stranger, and England hath given her warning to depart. O! receive the fugitive, and prepare in time an asylum for mankind.

IV. Of the present ability of AMERICA, with some miscellaneous reflections.

I have never met with a man, in England or America, who hath not confessed his opinion, that a separation between the countries would take place one time or other: and there is no instance, in which we have shown less judgment than in endeavouring to describe what we call the ripeness or fitness of the Continent for independence.

As all men allow the measure, and vary only in opinion of the time, let us, in order to remove mistakes, take a general survey of things, and endeavour, if possible, to find out the very time. But I need not go far; the inquiry ceases at once, for the time hath found us. The general concurrence, the glorious union of all things, prove the fact.

'Tis not in numbers, but in unity, that our great strength lies; yet our present numbers are sufficient to repel the force of all the world. The Continent hath, at this time, the largest disciplined army of any Power under Heaven; and is just arrived at that pitch of strength in which no single Colony is able to support itself; and the whole, when united, is able to do any thing. Our land force is more than sufficient; and as to navy affairs, we cannot be insensible that Britain would never suffer an American man-of-war to be built, while the Continent remained in her hands. Wherefore, we should be no forwarder an hundred years hence in that branch than we are now; but the truth is, we should be less so, because the timber of the country is every day diminishing.

Were the Continent crowded with inhabitants, her sufferings under the present circumstances would be intolerable. The more sea-port towns we had, the more should we have both to defend and to lose. Our present numbers are so happily proportioned to our wants, that no man need be idle. The diminution of trade affords an army, and the necessities of an army creates a new trade.

Debts, we have none; and whatever we may contract on this account, will serve as a glorious memento of our virtue. Can we but leave posterity with a settled form of Government, an independent Constitution of its own, the purchase, at any price, will be cheap. But to expend millions for the sake of getting a few vile acts repealed, and routing the present Ministry only, is unworthy the charge, and is using posterity with the utmost cruelty; because it is leaving them the great work to do, and a debt upon their backs from which they derive no advantage. Such a thought is unworthy a man of honour, and is the true characterstick of a narrow heart and a peddling politician.

The debt we may contract doth not deserve our regard if the work be but accomplished. No nation ought to be without a debt. A national debt is a national bond; and when it bears no interest, is in no case a grievance. Britain is oppressed with a debt of upwards of one hundred and forty millions sterling, for which she pays upwards of four millions interest; and as a compensation for her debt, she has a large navy; America is without a debt, and without a navy; but for the twentieth part of the English national debt, could have a navy as large again. The navy of England is not worth at this time more than three millions and an half sterling.

No country on the globe is so happily situated, or so internally capable of raising a fleet as America. Tar, timber, iron, and cordage, are her natural produce. We need go abroad for nothing. Whereas the Dutch, who make large profits by hiring out their ships of war to the Spaniards and Portuguese, are obliged to import most of the materials they use. We ought to view the building a fleet as an article of commerce, it being the natural manufactory of this country; 'tis the best money we can lay out. A Navy when finished is worth more than it cost; and is that nice point in national policy, in which commerce and protection are united. Let us build; if we want them not, we can sell; and by that means replace our paper currency with ready gold and silver.

In point of manning a fleet, people in general run into great errors: it is not necessary that one-fourth part should be sailors. The Terrible, privateer, Captain Death, stood the hottest engagement of any ship last war, yet had not twenty sailors on board, though her complement of men was upwards of two hundred. A few able and social sailors will soon instruct a sufficient number of active landmen in the common work of a ship. Wherefore, we never can be more capable to begin on maritime matters than now, while our timber is standing, our fisheries blocked up, and our sailors and shipwrights out of employ. Men-of-war, of seventy and eighty guns, were built forty years ago in New-England, and why not the same now? Ship-building is America's greatest pride, and in which she will, in time, excel the whole world. The great empires of the East are mostly inland, and, consequently, excluded from the possibility of rivalling her. Africa is in a state of barbarism; and no Power in Europe hath either such an extent of coast, or such an internal supply of materials. Where nature hath given the one, she has withheld the other; to America only hath she been liberal of both. The vast empire of Russia is almost shut out from the sea; wherefore, her boundless forests, her tar, iron, and cordage, are only articles of commerce.

In point of safety ought we to be without a fleet? We are not the little people now which we were sixty years ago. At that time we might have trusted our property in the streets, or fields rather, and slept securely without locks or bolts to our doors and windows. The case now is altered, and our methods of defence ought to improve with our increase of property. A common pirate, twelve months ago, might have come up the Delaware, and laid the city of Philadelphia under instant contribution for what sum he pleased; and the same might have happened to other places. Nay, any daring fellow, in a brig of fourteen or sixteen guns, might have robbed the whole Continent, and carried off half a million of money. These are circumstances which demand our attention, and point out the necessity of naval protection.

Some, perhaps, will say, that after we have made it up with Britain, that she will protect us. Can we be so unwise as to mean that she shall keep a navy in our harbours for that purpose? Common sense will tell us, that the Power which hath endeavoured to subdue us, is, of all others, the most improper to defend us. Conquest may be effected under the pretence of friendship, and ourselves, after a long and brave resistance, be at last cheated into slavery. And if her ships are not to be admitted into our harbours, I would ask, how is she to protect us? A navy, three or four thousand miles off, can be of little use, and on sudden emergencies, none at all. Wherefore, if we must hereafter protect ourselves, why not do it for ourselves? Why do it for another?

The English list of ships-of-war is long and formidable, but not a tenth part of them are, at any one time, fit for service; numbers of them not in being; yet their names are pompously continued in the list, if only a plank is left of the ship; and not a fifth part of such as are fit for service, can be spared on any one station at one time. The East and West-Indies, Mediterranean, Africa, and other parts over which Britain extends her claim, make large demands upon her navy. From a mixture of prejudice and inattention, we have contracted a false notion respecting the navy of England, and have talked as if we should have the whole of it to encounter at once, and for that reason, supposed, that we must have one as large; which not being instantly practicable, have been made use of by a set of disguised Tories to discourage our beginning thereon. Nothing can be further from truth than this, for if America had only a twentieth part of the naval force of Britain, she would be by far an overmatch for her; because, as we neither have, nor claim any foreign dominion, our whole force would be employed on our own coast, where we should, in the long run, have two to one the advantage of those who had three or four thousand miles to sail over, before they could attack us, and the same distance to return in order to refit and recruit. And, although Britain by her fleet hath a check over our trade to Europe, we have as large a one over her trade to the West-Indies, which, by laying in the neighbourhood of the Continent lies entirely at its mercy.

Some method might be fallen on to keep up a naval force in time of peace, if we should not judge it necessary to support a constant navy. If premiums were to be given to merchants to build and employ in their service ships mounted with twenty, thirty, forty, or fifty guns, (the premiums to be in proportion to the loss of bulk to the merchant,) fifty or sixty of those ships, with a few guard-ships on constant duty, would keep up a sufficient navy, and that without burdening ourselves with the evil so loudly complained of in England, of suffering their fleets in time of peace to lie rotting in the docks. To unite the sinews of commerce and defence is sound policy; for when our strength and our riches play into each other's hand, we need fear no external enemy. In almost every article of defence we abound. Hemp flourishes even to rankness, so that we need not want cordage. Our iron is superior to that of other countries. Our small-arms equal to any in the world. Cannon we can cast at pleasure; saltpetre and gunpowder we are every day producing. Our knowledge is hourly improving. Resolution is our inherent character, and courage hath never yet forsaken us. Wherefore, what is it that we want? why is it that we hesitate? From Britain we can expect nothing but ruin. If she is once admitted to the government of America again, this Continent will not be worth living in. Jealousies will be always arising; insurrections will be constantly happening; and who will go forth to quell them? Who will venture his life to reduce his own countrymen to a foreign obedience? The difference between Pennsylvania and Connecticut, respecting some unlocated lands, shows the insignificance of a British Government, and fully proves that nothing but Continental authority can regulate Continental matters.

Another reason why the present time is preferable to all others, is, that the fewer our numbers are, the more land there is yet unoccupied, which, instead of being lavished by the King on his worthless dependants, may be hereafter applied, not only to the discharge of the present debt, but to the constant support of Government. No nation under Heaven hath such an advantage as this.

The infant state of the Colonies, as it is called, so far from being against, is an argument in favour of independence. We are sufficiently numerous, and were we more so, might be less united. 'Tis a matter worthy of observation, that the more a country is peopled, the smaller their armies are. In military numbers, the ancients far exceeded the moderns; and the reason is evident, for trade being the consequence of population, men become too much absorbed thereby to attend to any thing else. Commerce diminishes the spirit both of patriotism and military defence. And history sufficiently informs us, that the bravest achievements were always accomplished in the non-age of a nation. With the increase of commerce England hath lost its spirit. The city of London, notwithstanding its numbers, submits to continued insults with the patience of a coward. The more men have to lose, the less willing are they to venture. The rich are in general slaves to fear, and submit to courtly power with the trembling duplicity of a spaniel.

Youth is the seed time of good habits, as well in nations as in individuals. It might be difficult, if not impossible to form the Continent into one Government half a century hence. The vast variety of interests occasioned by an increase of trade and population would create confusion. Colony would be against Colony. Each being able, would scorn each other's assistance: and while the proud and foolish gloried in their little distinctions, the wise would lament that the Union had not been formed before. Wherefore, the present time is the true time for establishing it. The intimacy which is contracted in infancy, and the friendship which is formed in misfortune, are, of all others, the most lasting and unalterable. Our present union is marked with both these characters: we are young, and we have been distressed; but our concord hath withstood our troubles, and fixes a memorable era for posterity to glory in.

The present time likewise, is that peculiar time which never happens to a nation but once, viz: the time of forming itself into a Government. Most nations have let slip the opportunity, and by that means have been compelled to receive laws from their conquerors, instead of making laws for themselves. First they had a King, and then a form of Government; whereas, the Articles or Charter of Government should be formed first, and men delegated to execute them afterward: but from the errors of other nations let us learn wisdom, and lay hold of the present opportunity ——— to begin Government at the right end.

When William the Conqueror subdued England, he gave them law at the point of the sword; and until we consent that the seat of Government in America be legally and authoritatively occupied, we shall be in danger of having it filled by some fortunate ruffian, who may treat us in the same manner, and then where will be our freedom? where our property?

As to religion, I hold it to be the indispensable duty of Government to protect all conscientious professors thereof, and I know of no other business which Government hath to do therewith: let a man throw aside that narrowness of soul, that selfishness of principle, which the niggards of all professions are so unwilling to part with, and he will be delivered of his fears on that head. Suspicion is the companion of mean souls, and the bane of all good society. For myself, I fully and conscientiously believe, that it is the will of the Almighty that there should be diversity of religious opinions among us. It affords a larger field for our Christian kindness; were we all of one way of thinking, our religious dispositions would want matter for probation; and on this liberal principle, I look on the various denominations among us to be like children of the same family, differing only in what is called their Christian names.

In page 1555, I threw out a few thoughts on the propriety of a Continental Charter, (for I only presume to offer hints, not plans,) and in this place I take the liberty of re-mentioning the subject, by observing, that a Charter is to be understood as a bond of solemn obligation, which the whole enters into, to support the right of every separate part, whether of religion, personal freedom, or property. A right reckoning makes long friends.

In a former page I likewise mentioned the necessity of a large and equal representation; and there is no political matter which more deserves our attention. A small number of Electors, or a small number of Representatives, are equally dangerous. But if the number of the Representatives be not only small, but unequal, the danger is increased. As an instance of this, I mention the following: When the Associates' petition was before the House of Assembly of Pennsylvania, twenty-eight members only were present; all the Bucks County members, being eight, voted against it, and had seven of the Chester members done the same, this whole Province had been governed by two Counties only; and this danger it is always exposed to. The unwarrantable stretch likewise, which that House made in their last sitting, to gain an undue authority over the Delegates of that Province, ought to warn the people at large how they trust power out of their own hands. A set of instructions for the Delegates were put together, which, in point of sense and business, would have dishonoured a school-boy, and after being approved by a few, (a very few without doors,) were carried into the House, and there passed in behalf of the whole Colony: whereas, did the whole Colony know with what ill-will that House hath entered on some necessary publick measures, they would not hesitate a moment to think them unworthy of such a trust.

Immediate necessity makes many things convenient, which if continued would grow into oppression. Expediency and right, are different things. When the calamities of America required a consultation, there was no method so ready, or at that time so proper, as to appoint persons from the several Houses of Assembly for that purpose; and the wisdom with which they have proceeded hath preserved this Continent from ruin. But as it is more than probable that we shall never be without a Congress, every well-wisher to good order must own that the mode for choosing members of that body deserves consideration. And I put it as a question to those who make a study of mankind, whether representation and election is not too great a power for one and the same body of men to possess? When we are planning for posterity, we ought to remember that virtue is not hereditary.

It is from our enemies that we often gain excellent maxims, and are frequently surprised into reason by their mistakes. Mr. Cornwall (one of the Lords of the Treasury) treated the petition of the New-York Assembly with contempt, because that House, he said, consisted but of twenty-six members, which trifling number, he argued, could not with decency be put for the whole. We thank him for his involuntary honesty.*

To conclude, however strange it may appear to some, or however unwilling they may be to think so, matters not, but many strong and striking reasons may be given, to shew, that nothing can settle our affairs so expeditiously as an open and determined Declaration for Independence. Some of which are:

First. It is the custom of nations, when any two are at war, for some other Powers, not engaged in the quarrel, to step in as mediators, and bring about the preliminaries of a peace; but while America calls herself the subject of Great Britain, no Power, however well disposed she may be, can offer her mediation. Wherefore, in our present state, we may quarrel on for ever.

* Those who would fully understand of what great consequence a large and equal representation is to a State, should read Burgh's Political Disquisitions.

Secondly. It is unreasonable to suppose that France or Spain will give us any kind of assistance, if we mean only to make use of that assistance for the purpose of repairing the breach, and strengthening the connection between Britain and America; because those Powers would be sufferers by the consequences.

Thirdly. While we profess ourselves the subjects of Britain, we must in the eye of foreign nations be considered as Rebels. The precedent is somewhat dangerous to their peace, for men to be in arms under the name of subjects: we on the spot can solve the paradox; but to unite resistance and subjection, requires an idea much too refined for common understanding.

Fourthly. Were a manifesto to be published, and despatched to foreign Courts, setting forth the miseries we have endured, and the peaceable methods we have ineffectually used for redress, declaring, at the same time, that not being able any longer to live happily or safely, under the cruel disposition of the British Court, we had been driven to the necessity of breaking off all connections with her; at the same time assuring all such Courts of our peaceable disposition towards them, and of our desire of entering into trade with them, such a memorial would produce more good effects to this Continent than if a ship were freighted with petitions to Britain.

PENNSYLVANIA COMMITTEE OF SAFETY.

Monday, January 29, 1776.

In Committee of Safety: Present—

John Nixon, Chairman, Daniel Roberdeau, James Mease, George Clymer, Thomas Wharton, Jun., Samuel Miles, Owen Biddle, George Gray, James Biddle.

Upon application of Major Bayard for permission to employ a Pilot and Pilot-boat to cruise off the Capes of Delaware, for a Ship, with Arms and Ammunition, bound to this port:

By order of the Board, the Chairman wrote to Mr. Henry Fisher, directing him to furnish Mr. Nathaniel Ramsey with a Pilot and Boat, for the above-mentioned purpose.

Lieutenant Cameron, taken with Mr. Connolly, and confined, by order of Congress, as a person inimical to the liberties of America, was this day brought before this Board, and, being examined, and found to have acted an inimical part in the present dispute between Great Britain and these Colonies, was remanded to jail, and there to remain till the further order of Congress and this Board.

John Fox, of this city, blacksmith, having informed this Committee that Peter Cribbs, his apprentice lad, is enlisted on the Continental service, by Lieutenant Collier, of Colonel Magaw's Battalion, and it appearing that the said John Fox has paid a consideration for the time of the said apprentice, the Commanding Officer of said Battalion is hereby desired to discharge him from his enlistment, on being repaid all the charges attending it.

Resolved, That no business be gone into before the Minutes of the preceding day's being read.

That the Minutes of this Board for the day be constantly read before the Members separate.

That no Member leave this Board without the permission of the Board.

Resolved, That this Board will, on Monday, the 5th day of February next, appoint Officers for a Company of Matrosses, to be immediately raised in this Province, for the service of Canada. And this Resolve to be published in the Newspapers, to the end applications may be made by such as choose to enter into the said service.

Mr. Apty finding it inconvenient to virtual the people confined by order of Congress in jail, Sachervil Wood was directed to provide them with the usual allowance, for seven Shillings and six Pence per week, each man, to commence to-morrow.

Tuesday, January 30, 1776.

John Nixon, Chairman, John Cadwallader, George Clymer, Robert White, Samuel Morris, Thomas Wharton, Jr., James Mease, George Gray, Daniel Roberdeau, Samuel Howell, Alexander Wilcocks, Joseph Reed, James Biddle, Owen Biddle.

Under our present denomination of British subjects, we can neither be received nor heard abroad; the custom of all Courts is against us, and will be so, until, by an Independence, we take rank with other nations.

These proceedings may at first appear strange and difficult, but, like all other steps which we have already passed over, will, in a little time, become familiar and agreeable; and until an Independence is declared, the Continent will feel itself like a man who continues putting off some unpleasant business from day to day, yet knows it must be done, hates to set about it, wishes it over, and is continually haunted with the thoughts of its necessity.*

* PHILADELPHIA, April 28, 1776.—The writer of "Common Sense," and the "Forester," is the same person; his name is Paine, a gentleman, about two years ago from England, a man who, General Lee says, has genius in his eyes. The writer of "Cassandra" is said to be Mr. James Cannon, a tutor in the Philadelphia College. "Cato," is reported here to be Doctor Smith, a match for Bentley. The Oration [in memory of General Montgomery], was an insolent performance. A motion was made [in Congress] to thank the orator, and ask a copy, but opposed with great spirit and vivacity, from every part of the room, and at last withdrawn, lest it should be rejected, as it certainly would have been, with great indignation. The orator then printed it himself, after leaving out or altering some offensive passages. This is one of the many irregular and extravagant characters of the age. I never heard one single person speak well of any thing about him but his abilities, which are generally allowed to be good. The appointment of him to make the oration was a great oversight and mistake. JOHN ADAMS.

Robert Towers reports his having received from Major Cox, 4,465 eight-ounce balls, for swivels; 4 thirty-two-pound double-headed shot; 16 twenty-four pound double-headed shot; 36 eighteen-pound double-headed shot.

Upon application of John Handlyn, for the payment of his Account for repairing a number of Fire-locks for Captain Dorsey's Company, in the Battalion late Colonel Bull's, an Order was drawn on Messrs. Mease and Caldwell, for twenty-two Pounds sixteen Shillings, in his favour.

Resolved, That Captain White procure the Timber for making fifty large Cannon-carriages.

Upon application of Captain William Williams, for the payment of four Fire-locks purchased by him for the use of his Company, in the Battalion late Colonel Bull's, an Order was drawn in his favour for sixteen Pounds ten Shillings, on Messrs. Mease and Caldwell, Paymasters.

By Order of the Board, the following Advertisements were sent to Messrs. Hall & Sellers, and Messrs. Bradford's, and the other Printers of this city, requesting them to publish them in their next Papers:

As Rags and Lint are essentially necessary for the publick service, this Committee most earnestly request the inhabitants of this City to collect what old Linen they have, and can spare; and, in the course of next week, persons, properly authorized under the hand of the Secretary of the Committee, will call at their houses to receive.

Such persons, also, as have Saltpetre to dispose of, are hereby notified that Robert Towers, Commissary, next door but one to the Presbyterian Meeting-House, in Market street, will receive the same, and pay them therefor.

The Board adjourned to half-after four o'clock, this day.

John Nixon, Daniel Roberdeau, George Gray, Joseph Reed, Thomas Wharton, Jun., Samuel Morris, Jun., Samuel Howell, Owen Biddle, John Cadwallader, George Clymer, James Mease, Alexander Wilcocks, James Biddle, Robert White.

By Letter from Mr. Henry Wynkoop to this Committee, dated Bucks County, the 24th instant, it appears that James Wallace, Andrew Kechlin, and Joseph Fenton, Jun., were appointed by the Committee of Inspection and Observation of said County, to attend the Saltpetre Works in this City, to be instructed in the manufacture of that commodity; and to set up Works at their respective houses in Bucks County, for the instruction of the inhabitants. James Wallace being, also, by said Committee recommended as the Officer for receiving and paying for the Saltpetre made in Bucks County:

Resolved, That on application of said John Wallace, he shall receive a sufficient sum of Money and Gunpowder for the purposes aforesaid, agreeable to the advertisement from this Board.

✓ Agreeable to direction of Congress, this Board went into the examination of Doctor Connally, and find him to be a person inimical to the liberties and dangerous to the safety of these Colonies; therefore, was remanded to Jail till the further orders of Congress, or this Committee.

Upon application of Mr. King, for the payment of his Bill, for a quantity of Grape Shot made for, and delivered to this Board, this Committee came to the following Resolve: That he be paid four Pence per pound for said Shot; and that he be allowed fifty-five Pounds as a recompense for his having undertaken this business, and the unexpected disappointments he met with on carrying it into execution.

In Committee of Safety: Present—

John Nixon, Chairman, John Cadwallader, James Mease, James Biddle, Samuel Howell, Samuel Morris, Jun., Owen Biddle, Daniel Roberdeau, George Gray.

Upon application of Captain Proctor, for a sum of Money for the Recruiting Service, by order of the Board an Order was drawn on Mr. John Maxwell Nesbitt, for fifty Pounds for said purpose.

Upon application of Captain Josiah Harmar, for the payment of ten Fire-locks, purchased by him for the use of his Company, in the Battalion late Colonel Bull's, by order of the Board an Order was drawn in his favour on Messrs. Mease and Caldwell, for thirty-six Pounds nine Shillings.

The Memorial of the Captains and Lieutenants of the Armed Boats, was this day read, and referred to Friday next.

Whereas, it is represented to this Board, by the Committee of the County of Philadelphia, that Thomas Austin is charged, by several witnesses, with having uttered many declarations inimical to the cause of American liberty, and tending to excite groundless fears and apprehensions in the minds of the good people of this Province:

It is Resolved, That the said Thomas Austin be required to attend this Committee, on Tuesday, the 6th day of February next, at eleven o'clock, in the morning, to answer the said charges; and that for that purpose he be served with a copy of this Resolve.

The following Notice was sent to Josiah Hart, Marshall Edwards, Jacob Laughlin, and Caspar Felters, Witnesses in the complaint against Thomas Austin, viz:

You are hereby required to attend the Committee of Safety, on Tuesday, the 6th day of February next, at eleven o'clock, in the morning, to declare such matters as you know touching a certain charge exhibited to the said Board against Thomas Austin.

Upon application of the Committee of Accounts, by order of the Board an Order was drawn on Michael Hillegas, Esq., in favour of John Nixon, Thomas Wharton, Jun., and James Mease, or either of their Orders, for the sum of ten thousand Pounds.

Lieutenant-Colonel Penrose having informed this Board, that a First Lieutenant is wanting in the Fifth Battalion of Troops to be raised in this Province, in the Continental service, this Committee, therefore, do appoint Richard Seward to be a First Lieutenant in said Battalion.

Upon application of John Tyler, for the payment of his Account for repairing a number of Fire-locks belonging to Captain Willet's Company, in the Battalion late Colonel Bull's, an Order was drawn on Messrs. Mease and Caldwell, in his favour, for eleven Pounds five Shillings and nine Pence.

Resolved, That Samuel Howell be joined to Robert Morris, Thomas Wharton, Jun., and Robert White, the Committee for importing Fire-arms, Gunpowder, Saltpetre, &c., from foreign parts for the use of this Province, to aid and assist them in that service.

Mr. Gratz having a quantity of Blankets and other Woollen Goods, said to be proper for covering and clothing the Troops now raising for the Continental service, this Board gave him directions to order the said Goods immediately to this City, and if they are found suitable for the above purposes, this Board will allow him a generous price for them.

Messrs. David Rittenhouse, Daniel Joy, John McNeal, and Samuel Morris, were by a Resolve of the 22d ultimo, appointed and required to make a survey of the Jersey-Shore, from Billingsport to Newton-Creek, and to determine what parts it may be necessary to fortify, to make an estimate of the expense thereof, and report the same to this Board, agreeable thereto, they make the following Report:

To the Honourable the Committee of Safety for the Province of PENNSYLVANIA.

GENTLEMEN: According to your request, we proceeded from hence into the Province of New-Jersey, to the lower part of Billingsport, on the river Delaware, and surveyed the shore from thence to the lowland near Mantua-Creek. We determined the bearing and distance of the pier at the fort, from thence, and likewise the breadth of the channel opposite Billingsport, which was readily done by means of the grounded ice on each side of it. From Billingsport we went to Red-Bank, and there, by measuring two stations, and taking several bearings, we ascertained its distance from the upper pier aforesaid. From Red-Bank we returned to Gloucester, where we took several bearings, which served to complete the draft which accompanies this, in which you will see the particular bearings and distances laid down with as much accuracy as the time would admit. If we may presume to give our judgment with regard to fortifying any part of the Jersey-Shore, we are unanimous in our opinion, that it is not advisable, because any part of Billingsport, or Red-Bank, is at too great a distance from the chevaux-de-frise, for either friends, or enemies, to annoy, with certainty, any boats, &c., that may be stationed at them; and if a fort were built at either of these places, the enemy would land above or below it without any difficulty, (unless a superior army could be collected before, on the spot to oppose them,) and oblige our people to spike their cannon, and quit the fort, or submit to be made prisoners, and the very means of our defence be made to operate against us, or at least be dismantled. To obviate which, we humbly offer a different manner of defence and annoyance to your consideration, which is to have a number of guns, twelve or eighteen pounders, mounted on strong travelling carriages, and previous to the enemy's approach to raise breast-works at the most convenient places at Billingsport, Marcus Hellin's, and other places, from whence these guns, thus mounted, and well plied with star and cross-barred shot, will annoy the enemy much, and, if they should land and press hard, our people can retreat and make a fresh stand at suitable places. If the enemy should land their whole force in the Jerseys, with an intent (as we may suppose) to bombard this city, in such case the bridges, after our cannon are retreated over them, should be destroyed, with houses, barns, fences, &c., which would assist them in crossing; and thus, if our cannon are well supported with musketry, every inch of ground may be disputed with great inconvenience and loss to the enemy.

DANIEL JOY,
DAVID RITTENHOUSE,
JOHN MCNEAL.

Upon application of Mr. Antis, an Order was directed to Mr. Towers, to deliver him six pounds of Powder, to repay that quantity borrowed by him to prove a cannon made by himself and Mr. Potts, at Warwick-Furnace.

Robert Colebrook and James O'Neil, two persons taken with Captain Campbell, and confined in Jail by order of the Congress, were this day discharged from their confinement.

John Brown, the servant of Doctor Connolly, was ordered from the Jail to the Work-House, there to be kept in safe custody till the further orders of this Board.

In consequence of a Petition from John Hackett, late Stewart on board the Dickinson, the Commodore was this day directed to discharge him from the Fleet.

Barnet Eichelberger, appointed by this Board as a Lieutenant in the Sixth Battalion of Continental Troops, to be raised in this Province, having resigned his commission, and the Committee of York County having recommended Mr. John Eddy as a proper person to be appointed in his stead:

Resolved, That the said Mr. John Eddy be appointed First Lieutenant in said Battalion, in the place of Mr. Barnet Eichelberger.

The following Memorial was drawn up, approved of, and Colonel Roberdeau desired to deliver it to one of the Members of the House of Assembly:

To the Honourable the Representatives of the Freemen of the Province of PENNSYLVANIA, in General Assembly met. The Memorial of the Committee of Safety.

The Committee have, ever since their appointment, applied themselves with the greatest zeal and fidelity to the important part confided in them, in providing means for the defence of this Province; they were, however, such means only as were thought more immediately requisite for our security against the attempts made by a Naval Armament, and were, besides, necessarily confined within the limits of the funds allotted to them by your honourable House; but they beg leave to represent, that as every day brings with it full proofs of the violence of the British Ministry, and of their fixed purpose to subdue the free spirit of America, that has yet given such obstruction to all their schemes of tyranny and despotism—a purpose assisted, too, by an obsequious Parliament, which may not speak the genuine sense of the Nation, that it has unhappily the direction of its force—it truly becomes us to prepare seriously for the storm gathering over the Colonies, and which, in the uncertainty of its course, may in a few weeks fall upon this Province. This being the idea of the Committee, they have come to the following Resolution, claiming the most earnest attention of your honourable House thereto:

“Resolved, That application be made to the honourable the House of Representatives, praying that they will take order for raising two thousand men, to act in the defence of this Province; and this Board will represent it as their opinion that it will be most for the publick service that one battalion of Regular troops be formed out of that number, and the remainder be a body of Riflemen.”

The Committee beg leave to solicit your attention to another object, also of extensive importance, the Military Association, the general sentiments concerning which they have, in the recess of the Assembly, had an opportunity of collecting; and though such numbers have already, and we hope will still engage in it, under its present form, as may prove a considerable addition to our strength, yet as there are material objections made to it, and as they understand, are to be laid before your honourable House, by divers bodies of respectable men, they submit to you whether it will not be highly expedient and consistent with good policy immediately to remove every cause of discontent on this head from the minds of the Associators, who, under an apprehension of partial and unequal burdens imposed on them, have, nevertheless, had the virtue not to refuse their services to their country, in confidence that your honourable House will reconsider the several provisions and regulations complained of, and give them satisfaction therein.

ALEXANDER WILCOCKS, Chairman.

In Committee of Safety, February 27, 1776.

This Board have taken into consideration the publication of your Committee, handed to us, respecting Thomas Sergeant and Joseph Sermon, who are convicted of refusing to receive the Continental Bills of Credit, and are of opinion, that whatever is further necessary for the carrying into full execution the Resolve of Congress against such offenders, should proceed from the Committee of Inspection and Observation. The reason of the interposition of this Board in the case of John Drinker, and Thomas and Samuel Fisher, is set forth in the Resolution accompanying this, and would have been unnecessary but in the particular circumstances of a dissolution of your Board.

GEORGE CLYMER, Chairman.

Resolved, That the Commissary be directed to prove the Fire-locks of all such Associators as shall bring an order from their respective Captains to him, for that purpose.

It appearing to this Board, that the business of Commissary of Stores has been attended with more labour and fatigue than was at first expected,

Therefore, Resolved, That Robert Towers, Commissary, be allowed at the rate of one hundred and eighty-two Pounds ten Shillings per annum, for his services, from the time he undertook the office of Commissary of Military Stores until the further Resolution of this Board.

Whereas, many persons have been employed in purchasing Fire-arms, in order to carry them into other Provinces, and as a practice of this kind may be of pernicious consequence, unless they are intended to be employed in such places, as, from their situation, are most exposed to the danger of an attack, of which this Committee in this case reserve to themselves a right of judging:

Therefore, Resolved, That no person, or persons, whatever, do presume to purchase, or carry out of this Province, any Fire-arms without application to, and license from this Committee being first obtained.

An Address and Petition, from the Committee of the County of Somerset, were presented to this Congress, desiring that householders, and others, not freeholders, who pay part of the taxes in this Colony, may be admitted to vote for Delegates in the Provincial Congress at future elections, and that said elections may be proceeded in by ballot; which were read, and ordered a second reading.

Several Petitions from the freeholders and inhabitants of the County of Essex were presented to the Congress, desiring that all persons subject to taxation in this Colony may be admitted to vote, at future elections, for Delegates in the Provincial Congress; and, also, praying that money at interest, and other effects, may bear an equal proportion of the taxes; which were read, and ordered second readings.

Two Petitions were presented to the House from a number of the inhabitants of the County of Morris, praying that in the appointment of officers to fill up the Battalion now to be raised, due attention be had to the abilities and qualifications of the officers, and that none be commissioned under the age of twenty-one years; which were read, and ordered second readings.

Mr. President laid before the Congress a Letter he had received from Jacob Ford, Esquire, a Collector of the County of Morris, setting forth, that a complaint had been made to the Committee of that County against the subscriber, that he had written a letter to one of the Precinct Collectors, requesting him not to receive any Continental or Connecticut money, as the Treasurer had refused taking the same; certifying, in said letter, that the reason of his making such a request to the Precinct Collector was occasioned by John Smith, Esquire, the Eastern Treasurer, refusing such money from the subscriber in payment of the taxes; which letter was read, and ordered a second reading.

Lieutenant-Colonel Winds informed this Congress that he was stationed at Perth-Amboy, with a part of the Eastern Battalion of the Continental Forces raised in this Colony, and that he was destitute of ammunition, and thought it not improbable he might soon have occasion for a supply. And this Congress being informed that the County of Somerset had a quantity of powder in store, and the County of Middlesex a quantity of lead, in consideration whereof, Ordered, That Mr. President request the Chairman of the Committee of Somerset to furnish Colonel Winds with four quarter-casks of Powder; and that he also request the Chairman of the Committee of the County of Middlesex to furnish Colonel Winds with one hundred and fifty pounds of Lead; and that the said Powder and Lead shall be replaced in some convenient time.

Adjourned till to-morrow morning, nine o'clock.

Friday, February 2, 1776.

Congress met according to adjournment.

John Cary, Esquire, Secretary to this Congress, not having attended this sitting, and it being uncertain when he will attend, and, also, whether he will incline to continue his service, if present, as he accepted his appointment, last sitting, with great reluctance; and as Messrs. Clark and Stewart declined officiating in Mr. Cary's room, as they found such service interfered with the duty of their stations as Delegates of the Congress, and as these reasons equally operated against Mr. Cary's being taken from the more immediate service of the Congress, while his time and attention were taken up in the execution of his office:

Therefore, Resolved, unanimously, That William Patterson, Esq., be appointed Secretary to this Congress.

William Maxwell, Esquire, Colonel of the Western Battalion of this Colony, laid before this Congress certain Resolutions of the Continental Congress, recommending the immediate arming Colonel Maxwell's Battalion, under orders to march to Canada; which were read, and filed.

Whereas, the Continental Congress have ordered Colonel Maxwell's Battalion to march to Canada, as soon as the men can be furnished with Arms, and other articles absolutely essential: And whereas, Arms are extremely scarce, and, indeed, impossible to be procured in time for the equipment of said Battalion, without making application to the several Counties in this Province:

Resolved, That the Committees, or other publick bodies, in whose hands any of the New-Jersey Provincial Arms and Accoutrements are deposited, do deliver the same to the Commanding Officer of said Battalion, or his order, of whom they are required to take vouchers, with the valuation of said Arms, &c., there underwritten; and that this Congress will either immediately pay for said Arms, agreeable to appointment, or replace them as soon as possible, which ever the said Committees, or publick bodies, shall think most proper.

This Congress do, in the most strong and explicit manner, recommend to every private person, who has Arms fit for immediate use, to dispose of the same for the purpose above-mentioned.

Ordered, That copies of the above Resolve be immediately made, and certified by the Secretary.

Ordered, That copies of the following Letter, signed by the President, be sent to the Commanding Officers, and Chairmen of the several County Committees in the Province:

GENTLEMEN: The late repulse at Quebeck requires every exertion of the friends of American freedom; in:

consequence whereof, Colonel Maxwell's Battalion is ordered to march forthwith, and the Continental Congress have applied to our body, urging the greatest despatch in procuring arms and necessaries for this expedition. Therefore, in pursuance of the aforesaid application, we request you, gentlemen, to use the utmost diligence and activity in collecting all the publick arms belonging to your County, being your proportion of the Provincial arms unsold. Despatch, in this case, is quite necessary. As, no doubt, the arms are distributed in the hands of the Associators, it will be necessary that every officer do his part. The value of the arms will be paid in money, or the number be replaced; and the expenses of collecting and forwarding them punctually discharged. We put you to this trouble with regret; but the necessity of the measure must apologize. You will have the arms collected in your County, valued by good men, and sent to Burlington or Trenton, under the care of such officer of Colonel Maxwell's Battalion as may be the bearer hereof.

Adjourned till this afternoon, three o'clock.

The question being put, whether any Officer in the Battalions already raised in this Province shall be advanced, or appointed to any command in the Battalion now to be raised? It was carried in the negative.

Resolved, That this Congress shall on Monday next, go into the appointment of Officers for the Third Battalion of this Province.

The Proceedings of the Committee of Hillsborough, in the County of Somerset, against Peter Vroom, of Piscataway, in the County of Middlesex, being transmitted to this Congress, and read, Ordered, That the charge against said Vroom be now considered.

Peter Vroom being ordered to be brought before this Congress, attended accordingly, and the proceedings of the Committee of Hillsborough were read in the presence of said Vroom, who confessed the charge therein exhibited, and having offered matter in mitigation, was ordered to withdraw.

Resolved, That the determination of the charge exhibited against Peter Vroom be deferred to some future day in the present Session, and that in the mean time he be committed to the common Jail of the County of Somerset, the keeper of which is hereby required to receive and keep him in close confinement, until this Congress take further order therein.

Ordered, That the Blankets belonging to the Barracks in Elizabethtown, be appropriated to the use of the Continental Forces; and that Mr. Edward Thomas and Mr. Isaac Woodruff, of the place aforesaid, be requested to ascertain the value of the said Blankets, and to transmit an account thereof unto John Dennis, Esq., the Eastern Treasurer.

Ordered, That John Dennis, Esq., do receive of the Commissary the Money arising from the sale of the Blankets belonging to the Barracks in this Province, and do account with the Congress for the same.

On application of Captain Peter Ten Eick, in favour of Peter Vroom, and from the family circumstances of said Vroom, it is

Resolved, That the former Order of Commitment be remanded; and that the aforesaid Peter Vroom be committed to the custody of Captain Peter Ten Eick, who has pledged his parole of honour to bring said Vroom before this Congress whenever required.

Adjourned to nine o'clock, to-morrow morning.

In Provincial Congress, New-Jersey, New-Brunswick, }
February 6, 1776. }

GENTLEMEN: Induced by a report current in this Province, that the honourable Continental Congress had agreed to allow the use of East-India Teas, many persons have publicly sold that article, and the use of it is, therefore, in danger of becoming more general.

We did not hesitate to determine that common report, often deceitful, and always uncertain, ought not to be sufficient to contravene a known and established regulation;

but on a Resolve being proposed for the purpose of putting a stop to this growing evil, one of the members informed us that he heard several of the Continental Delegates publicly declare, it was agreed in Congress, that no notice should be taken of the sale or use of East-India Teas in the Eastern Colonies. Here, indeed, we hesitated; and it being of great moment that every regulation of the honourable representative body of the Continent should be preserved inviolate, we must request, that you will speedily inform us, whether any, or what agreement has been made by you respecting the sale and use of East-India Teas.

Provinces of New-Jersey, in Congress, February 5, 1776.

Whereas, by a Resolution of the honourable Continental Congress, a third Battalion is recommended immediately to be raised in this Colony, for the service, and at the expense of the United Colonies, consisting of eight Companies, and each Company of seventy-eight Privates, and officered with one Captain, two Lieutenants, one Ensign, four Sergeants, and four Corporals; which recommendation, this Congress, being desirous fully to comply with, do, therefore, Resolve, That Officers of the said Battalion be immediately recommended for commissions, and that the Captains and Subalterns be appointed, and warrants issued for the inlisting the aforesaid complement of men.

Resolved, That agreeable to the recommendation of the said honourable Continental Congress, the Recruiting Officer inlist none but healthy, sound, and able-bodied freemen, not under sixteen years of age. The Form of the Inlistment to be in the following words:

"I, have this day inlisted myself as a Soldier in the American Continental Army for one year, unless sooner discharged, and do bind myself to conform in all instances to such rules and regulations as are or shall be established for the government of the said Army."

Resolved, That no apprentice whatsoever be inlisted within this Colony, without the consent of his master or mistress first obtained in writing: And that every person under the age of twenty-one years, inlisting himself as aforesaid, may within twenty-four hours after their parents or guardians shall have notice of such inlistment, obtain his discharge, by refunding the money received from the Recruiting Officer, and returning such necessities as may have been supplied him by the officer, or the value thereof in money.

That as to the pay and subsistence of said Officers and Soldiers, the same is fixed and ascertained by the said Continental Congress.

That it be recommended to the Officers of said Battalion, to pay the strictest attention to the behaviour of the troops, in Quarters, or on their march, that they give no reasonable cause of complaint.

And it is further Directed, That where any Company shall be inlisted, the Captains having warrants for raising the same, shall cause a Muster to be had thereof in the presence of Azariah Dunham, John Mehelm, Joseph Ellis, or Edmond Thomas, Esqs., who are hereby appointed Mustermasters to review the said Companies, and administer an oath to such Captains, in the words following, which the said Captains, respectively, are required to take, viz:

So help me God."

And if upon such Review, the Mustermaster, who shall attend for that purpose, shall obtain the above said oath, or (if of the people called Quakers,) an affirmation to the same effect; and, also, find the said complete, agreeable to the above directions, shall, thereupon, certify the same on the back of the Muster-Roll of such Company to this Congress, or in their recess to the Committee of Safety, in order that commissions may be made out to the Officers of such Company; which commissions the Committee of Safety of this Colony, during the recess of this Congress, upon receiving certificates as above, are required to make out and deliver. Ordered, That Mr. Demarest do attend the Papers, Books, and Records, removed from the Secretary's Office, at Perth-Amboy, and deliver the same to Charles Pettit, Esquire, on Thursday next, at Burlington; on delivery whereof, he is hereby required to take Mr. Pettit's receipt, agreeable to an order of this Congress.

In Provincial Congress, New-Jersey, New-Brunswick, }

GENTLEMEN: Sensible of the importance that the battalions raised in this Province should be as speedily as possible furnished with arms, we collected, for the supply of the First and Second Battalions, all the arms fit for service that could be obtained in this Province; we have, therefore, no resource of providing arms for the Third Battalion, but from our own manufactories or importation. How soon they can be manufactured is uncertain, and we have no present prospect of receiving them from abroad. But, being informed that two thousand stand have been lately imported, and that they are within your disposal, we should be glad that part of them may be ordered for the use of the Third Battalion, unless some more immediate publick service calls for them.

We beg leave to propose, whether it would not be advisable to clothe the battalions, now raising, in uniform, deducting the expense attending it out of the men's wages.

We are informed that considerable quantities of powder are lately arrived; and it being probable that the assistance of the Militia of this Province may be speedily wanted for the defence of this or a neighbouring Colony, we request the favour of your assistance in supplying us with ten tons of gunpowder, and twenty tons of lead, or as much as may be spared.

On a requisition from Lord Stirling, the Committee of Elizabethtown have furnished him with six thousand cartridges, Somerset County four quarter-casks of powder, Woodbridge a considerable quantity, and Brunswick one hundred and fifty weight of lead.

The Letter from the honourable Continental Congress, of the 12th instant, was read the second time, and is in the words following:

"GENTLEMEN: The arrival of troops at New-York, the importance of that place to the welfare of America, and the necessity of throwing up a number of works to prevent our enemies from landing and taking post there, render it necessary that a number of troops should immediately join Major-General Lee; I am, therefore, desired to apply to you, and request you would, with all possible expedition, send detachments of your Minute-Men, equal to a Battalion, under proper officers, and well armed and accounted, to New-York, there to be under the command of General Lee.

"Your approved zeal in the cause of your country gives me the strongest assurance that you will, with alacrity, embrace this opportunity of giving aid to your neighbours, and that your people will cheerfully engage in a service by which they will not only render a very essential service to their country, but also have an opportunity of acquiring military skill and knowledge in the instruction of field works, and the method of fortifying and intrenching camps, by which they will be the better able, when occasion calls, to defend their rights and liberties.

"I am, gentlemen, your obedient humble servant,

"JOHN HANCOCK, President.

"To the Honourable Convention of New-Jersey."

The Congress taking the above Letter into consideration, and desirous of doing every thing in their power to promote the common cause, do

As the matter contained in said Letter and Petition is of great importance to this Colony in particular, and to the United Colonies in general, and as the carrying the same into effect will be attended with considerable expense, it was moved and agreed that the following Letter be sent to the Continental Congress:

GENTLEMEN: This Congress having taken into their serious consideration the necessity of defending such parts of this Colony as are more immediately exposed to an invasion of the enemy, are of opinion, that the city of Perth-Amboy, in East-Jersey, from its open channel, and safe harbour, and from its local situation, is a place deserving the utmost attention at this time. As the city of New-York has at present a large body of troops, and fortifications are now erecting for its defence, it is more than probable that the enemy, sensible of these preparations, will attempt a lodgment at Perth-Amboy, from whence incursions might easily be made into the heart of the country, before a sufficient force can be collected to oppose them.

That part of West-Jersey, which is situate on the River Delaware, below Philadelphia, appears also to merit great attention at this time. Opposite to Reedy-Island, at a place called Elsenborough, in the County of Salem, a landing might easily be effected. This is within forty miles of Philadelphia, in a County abounding with provisions; and from whence an army might easily make its way to Cooper's Ferry in a very short time.

This Congress would be happy if they had it in their power to take into immediate pay a sufficient body of troops for the defence of both these important posts; but as this will be an expense too great for this Colony to support upon its own bottom, and as the being guarded at all points is a matter of the utmost importance to the common cause, more especially to the cities of Philadelphia and New-York; this Congress beg leave to submit to the consideration of your honourable House, the urgent necessity of making some immediate preparations to prevent any attempt of the enemy to land an army in those parts of this Province which appear to be so situated as greatly to facilitate the success of such an attempt. One or two battalions, with two artillery companies, may be sufficient for this important service. And we humbly submit to your consideration the necessity and propriety of such a step being immediately adopted. We wish not to put the Continent to this expense for the sole defence of the inhabitants of this Colony, but the interest of this Colony in particular being so connected with that of the United Colonies in general, as to render an invasion in New-Jersey a matter of the utmost importance to all; we humbly conceive that the necessity of the occasion will induce the wisdom of your honourable House to take into Continental pay two battalions, and two companies of artillery; or such a body of forces as may be thought sufficient to answer this desirable purpose.

The express, by which this is forwarded, will wait your commands; and I am to request the favour of an answer as soon as possible. I am likewise to request, that commissions may be sent for Officers of the Third Battalion, as some of the Companies are already full, and others in a fair way.

I am, gentlemen, your most obedient humble servant,

By order of Congress:

SAMUEL TUCKER, President.

To the Honourable Continental Congress.

A Letter from John Smyth, Esquire, Treasurer of the Eastern Division of this Colony, was read, and is in the following words:

"Perth-Amboy, February, 26, 1776.

"SIR: Mr. Stevens, according to my request, has been so good as to come down to this place, to whom I communicated the letter sent to me by the Congress, relative to the removal of the Treasury, as I did to my other securities some time before.

"I find that they are willing to continue security for me, considering the difficulty of the times, provided the Chest is removed to a place where the Office may be executed in the usual manner. I would, therefore, propose, that, as I am not now able, and little prospect of being so, in less than six weeks, to attend the Chest, it be removed to Mr. Stevens's, who will receive the taxes that are still to be paid in, and the County Collectors may be desired to attend at his house for that purpose. In which case no one will or can have recourse to the Chest, but those who have already entered into engagements, and are by law accountable to the publick, for the due performance of my office, which cannot in justice or reason be expected of me or them, without the Chest is suffered to remain in my or their possession.

"As this proposal fully comprehends the declared intention of the Congress in removing the Chest, I cannot doubt its proving fully agreeable and satisfactory to them.

"Whenever I am able to attend the duty of the office abroad, the Chest may then be removed to any other place, that shall be agreed on by all concerned, there to remain until we see happier times.

"Mr. Stevens goes home by way of Brunswick, to whom I beg you will please to give your answer, who will forward it to me.

"I am your most humble servant, "JOHN SMYTH.

"To Samuel Tucker, Esquire."

On the question being put, whether the Treasury Chest of the Eastern Division of this Colony, lately removed by a Resolve of this Congress, from Perth-Amboy, in order to be lodged in the hands of Peter Schenck, Esquire, at Millstone, for the sake of greater safety, be, agreeable to the request of Mr. Smyth, the Eastern Treasurer, carried to the dwelling-house of the Honourable John Stevens, one of Mr. Smyth's securities, there to remain during Mr. Smyth's indisposition, or until this Congress shall take further order therein, on the terms expressed in the above Letter, to wit: that Mr. Smyth and his securities continue bound by their former obligations; and provided they be at the charge of such removal? It was carried in the affirmative, as follows:

The draft of an Ordinance for raising two Companies of Artillery, and providing for their pay and subsistence, was read the second time; and being amended, was agreed to, and ordered to be engrossed.

The Congress proceeded to the determination of the prize ship, Blue-Mountain-Valley, now lying at Elizabethtown-Point, lately seized by Lord Stirling, with detachments of the Continental Forces and Militia: And, it appearing by the testimony of credible witnesses, upon their oaths, that the said ship, John H. Dempster, master, sailed from London some time last fall, laden with stores, shipped by order of the Right Honourable the Lords Commissioners of His Majesty's Treasury, bound to the port of Boston, or any other port in America: The said cargo, by the bill of lading, dated the 30th day of September, 1775, to be delivered unto the Commander-in-chief of His Majesty's Forces in America, or to his order. And the honourable Continental Congress, having previous to the taking the aforesaid ship,

"Resolved, That all transport Vessels in the same service, having on board any Troops, Arms, Ammunition, Clothing, Provisions, or Military or Naval Stores, of what kind soever, and all Vessels to whomsoever belonging, that shall be employed in carrying Provisions or other necessities, to the British Army or Armies, or Navy, that now are, or hereafter shall be within any of the United Colonies, or any Goods, Wares, or Merchandise, for the use of such Fleet or Army, shall be liable to seizure, and, with their cargoes, shall be confiscated."

It is, therefore, Resolved, That the said Ship Blue-Mountain-Valley, with such of her Cargo, as was shipped by order of the said Lords Commissioners of His Majesty's Treasury, directed, as by said bills of lading, to be delivered at the port of Boston, or elsewhere, unto the Commander-in-chief of His Majesty's Forces in America, or to his order, shall be and is hereby confiscated to the use of the captors, pursuant to the general directions for distribution, resolved on by the said honourable Continental Congress.

Resolved, That the said Ship and Cargo be disposed of by any two agents, or persons, to be chosen, the one by Lord Stirling, and the other by the Committee of Elizabethtown.

Resolved, That all the necessary charge and expense, which have arisen, by guarding and securing said prize, and supporting the Seamen, be first deducted out of the nett proceeds of such sales.

Resolved, That the amount of the sales of the Ship and Cargo (the expense and charge of guarding and securing the same, and supporting the Seamen being first deducted and paid thereout) be divided among all the captors, as well those of the Militia sent out by the Committee of Elizabethtown, as such of the Continental Forces as were employed in that service under Lord Stirling; that the said distribution be made among the Officers, Privates, and to the Vessels employed in said capture, in such manner as is usually distributed in the neighbouring Colonies, agreeable to the Resolutions of the Continental Congress.

Resolved, That all such Goods, Wares, and Merchandise on board said Ship, belonging to the Captain, Mates, and Seamen, as their, or either of their own private properties, be reserved for the proprietors thereof, and delivered to them free of all costs and deductions.

Resolved, That the Captain and Seamen belonging to said Ship when seized, be suffered to go to any place they may think proper (His Majesty's fleet or army only excepted.)

And this Congress recommend to the captors of said Ship, to make some gratuity to each of the Seamen on board, to enable them to travel to some other parts in pursuit of business.

The draft of a Letter to the Committee of Safety of Pennsylvania, in answer to their Letter respecting raising Artillery Companies in this Province, was read, and agreed to, and ordered to be engrossed; which was done accordingly, and is in the words following:

GENTLEMEN: The Congress have taken into their serious consideration the important matters recommended to them by your letter of 5th ultimo.

It is with pleasure that this Congress find that you have taken so very necessary a step, as to cause a survey to be made of the Jersey-Shore upon the River Delaware; and this Congress concur with you in opinion, that the necessity of making an early provision to guard both shores against common danger, is a measure of the highest importance, and requires immediate consideration.

This Congress very gratefully acknowledges the patriotic tender you have been pleased to make of your service, in giving or receiving mutual assistance, as the circumstances and situation of things may require; and this Congress will most cheerfully co-operate with you, in promoting all such measures as may be best calculated to advance the common cause.

In pursuit of this plan, this Congress have agreed to raise forthwith two companies of Artillery, and to purchase twelve field-pieces, for the defence of this Colony, to be stationed one half in East-Jersey, and the other half in West-Jersey. But as it is probable, that the officers appointed to the command of these companies may have occasion for some instruction, to improve them in the art of gunnery, this Congress, in such case, will rely upon your friendly declarations of affording such assistance as may be required.

With regard to the purchase of cannon, the Committee appointed by this Congress have orders to procure them on the best terms; and this Committee we recommend to your attention, if it should be found necessary to give you any further trouble in the management of this affair.

This Congress have made provision for paying a bounty of one shilling per pound for such merchantable saltpetre as shall be made in this Colony before the first day of January next. But should it be found necessary for any persons to acquire more practical knowledge of the art of making this necessary article, this Congress will in such case most gladly accept your obliging offer, and give a recommendation to such persons accordingly.

By order, &c.

The engrossed Ordinance for numbering the Inhabitants of this Colony, was read and compared.

Resolved, That the same do pass.

This Congress have before them a certified copy of a Letter lately wrote by Cortlandt Skinner, Esq., Attorney-General of this Colony, to his brother, Colonel Skinner, in Great Britain, containing many sentiments and expressions prejudicial to the peace and welfare of the United Colonies.

And whereas, by a law of this Colony, passed the last session of General Assembly, a salary was provided for, and granted to the said Attorney-General, under confidence of his friendly disposition towards the interests of this Province; which confidence, from the tenour of said Letter, no longer subsists; and Mr. Skinner having left the Colony, ceases to perform the duty of his office. This Congress, therefore, as a duty they owe their constituents, request the Treasurers of this Colony, and each of them, to stop all payments of salary to the said Cortlandt Skinner, until this Congress shall give further order thereon.

"Application being made to Congress, by the Convention of New-Jersey, for two more Battalions, and two Companies of Artillery, to be raised in that Colony, and the same being referred to a Committee, on the Report of the said Committee, the Congress did not agree to the raising any more Battalions or Companies in that Colony.

"CHARLES THOMSON.

"March 1, 1776."

On motion, Resolved, That a Letter of Instruction to the Delegates of this Province in Continental Congress, be immediately prepared and sent to them. A draft of which being produced, was read and agreed to, and is as follows:

GENTLEMEN: You must be sensible that this Congress are extremely destitute of the means of information, compared with your body, and, of course, unable to point out any certain line of conduct for you to pursue. Your deliberations must no doubt be formed upon the measures of the British Ministry, which are uncertain, extraordinary, and new almost every week. We, therefore, only request that you would join in the general voice of the United Colonies, and pursue such measures as you may judge most beneficial for the publick good of all the Colonies.

By order, &c.

This Congress, sensible of the extreme scarcity of Blankets now wanted for the Continental Forces, do recommend it to all the inhabitants of this Colony, who may have any good Blankets that they can possibly spare, to dispose of the same to the Commissary on reasonable terms, for the use of said Forces.

Resolved, That John Anderson, of New-York, be employed to print the Minutes and Ordinances of this sitting, and that the President sign an Order for the same; and that the Treasurers of this Colony, or either of them, pay to the said John Anderson, so much as Abraham Clark and Lewis Ogden, Esquires, shall certify that they have agreed shall be paid for printing the same.

The Congress adjourned to the fourth Monday in May next, then to meet at Burlington, unless sooner called by the President or Vice-President.

An Ordinance directing the manner of signing the General Association, by persons of tender consciences, and enforcing the same; and, also, for amending the Militia Ordinance, passed at the last session of this Congress.

Although it is not the design of this Congress to offer violence to conscience, yet it is highly necessary that all the inhabitants of this Colony should associate, as far as their religious principles will permit. It is, therefore, resolved and directed, that all persons, whose religious principles would not suffer them to bear arms, and to sign the General Association of this Colony, recommended by Congress in its original form, may be allowed to sign the same, with the following proviso: "I agree to the above Association, as far as the same is consistent with my religious principles."

And it is further Resolved and Directed, That all persons who, when requested to sign the Association, with the proviso aforesaid, shall refuse to do so, shall be disarmed, and give sufficient security for their peaceable and good behaviour, paying the expense attending the same; and the Committees of the several Counties and Townships are hereby required forthwith to tender the said Association to all who have hitherto refused or neglected to sign it, and to carry the above Resolution into effect: Provided, always, That if any person shall think himself aggrieved by any sentence of a Township Committee, he may, on giving security to prosecute the same to effect, and paying such costs and charges as the said Committee shall adjudge thereon, appeal to the Committee of the County wherein such Township is situated, which County Committee is hereby required and fully empowered to hear the complaint of the appellant, and decide upon the same; and if any person shall think himself aggrieved by any sentence of a County Committee, he may, on giving security, and paying costs as aforesaid, appeal therefrom to this Congress: Provided, always, That the said Committees may confine any person, notwithstanding his offer of security, who, in their opinion, may, when permitted to go at large, prove dangerous to the common cause.

And whereas, the late Militia Ordinance of this Congress hath not made any provision for subjecting such of the inhabitants of this Colony, between the ages of sixteen and fifty years, whose religious principles will not suffer them to bear arms, to any penalty for not attending, and obeying orders, on the days to be appointed for General Musters, or Reviews, and it being highly equitable and just that, at this time of publick danger, all such inhabitants of this Colony should bear an equal proportion of the publick expenses, as an equivalent for an exemption from bearing arms:

It is, therefore, further Resolved and Directed, That there shall be inflicted on all such of the inhabitants of this Colony, between the ages of sixteen and fifty years, whose religious principles will not suffer them to bear arms, and who shall not hereafter attend, properly accounted, and obey orders, on the terms to be appointed for the General Muster, or Review, of the Regiments of Militia in this Colony, the sum of ten Shillings, Proclamation money, for each and every default, any thing in the before-recited Ordinance contained to the contrary notwithstanding; to be recovered, and applied, by warrant of distress, in manner and form as directed by the said recited Ordinance: Provided, always, That the times so, as aforesaid, to be appointed for days of General Muster, or Review, do not exceed three days in a year; and that reasonable excuses shall be admitted for such delinquents' non-attendance, by such persons who shall be appointed to issue warrants of distress for the recovery of such penalties.

And whereas, vacancies have, and may happen, in companies of Militia in this Colony, by the promotion, resignation, death, removal, or other disability, of the Captain, or other Officers, of such Companies: For supplying which vacancies,

It is further Resolved and Directed, That each and every Company where such vacancies have, or may happen, shall, within ten days after such vacancy happens, or such Company shall have notice of this Resolve, assemble, and elect proper persons for supplying such vacancy, and make return thereof to the Committee of the Township to which they belong, who are to report the same to this Congress, or Committee of Safety, in order that commissions may issue; and in case such Company shall neglect to elect Officers within the time above limited, or in case any person, or persons, so elected, shall neglect to make the aforesaid return at the next meeting of the Committee thereafter, that then, and in such case, the said Committee shall name and appoint proper persons to be commissioned as aforesaid; or, otherwise, such Committee, upon the neglect of the said Company, or Companies, to elect persons to be commissioned as aforesaid, may, if they think it advisable to, dissolve such Company, and incorporating the persons composing the same into other Companies contiguous thereto, in which Companies they shall be enrolled, and bear arms, under the fines and penalties in the Ordinance directed for non-attendance.

And whereas, by the said former Ordinance, no distinction is made between those who sign the Muster-Rolls, and those who do not sign the same, it is hereby declared, that no distinction is intended; but that all those who refuse to sign such Muster-Roll, within the ages mentioned, (except such persons whose religious principles will not suffer them to bear arms,) shall be enrolled, and be subject to the same command, and liable to the same fines and forfeitures for neglect of duty, as those are who sign such Muster-Roll.

An Ordinance for appointing Barrackmasters in this Province, and making provision for defraying the expense of repairing said Barracks.

Whereas, the Barracks heretofore erected in this Colony have, for some time past, been neglected, and by that means much out of repair, which the circumstances of the present times require to be immediately put in order, for the reception of such of the Continental Forces as have been, or may be raised in this Colony, or quartered in the same: For which purpose, and that said Barracks may, in future, be taken proper care of, and suitably provided with necessary furniture,

It is Resolved, That the following persons be, and are hereby appointed Barrackmasters, viz: Isaac Woodruff and Edward Thomas, Esquires, for the Barracks in Elizabethtown; Samuel Sergeant and Jonathan Deare, Esquires, for the Barracks in Perth-Amboy; Hendrick Fisher and John Schuurman, Esquires, for the Barracks in New-Brunswick; Alexander Chambers and William Tucker, Esquires, for the Barracks in Trenton; and Thomas Rodman and Samuel Howe, Esquires, for the Barracks in Burlington; which said Barrackmasters, in each respective towns before-named, are hereby authorized and empowered to take the care and charge of the Barracks over which they are above particularly appointed, and cause the same to be put in proper repair, and provided with suitable furniture for the reception of such Continental or Provincial troops as may occasionally be quartered therein, provided such Barrack furniture can be procured on reasonable terms; and, also, that they, respectively, settle and discharge the expense of all such repairs as have been lately made, or are now making on the Barracks, to the care of which they are particularly appointed; and the Treasurers of this Colony appointed by Congress, or either of them, are required to pay to the said respective Barrackmasters, or either of them, out of the money to be made current by an Ordinance of this Congress, all such sum and sums of money as they, or either of them, may find necessary for the purposes aforesaid, not exceeding the sum of two hundred Pounds, Proclamation money, for each of said Barracks, in one year; and the said Treasurers shall take proper receipts for the money so by them, or either of them, paid out as aforesaid, which receipts, when laid before a Congress of this Province, or persons properly authorized thereto, shall discharge the said Treasurers, their heirs, executors, and administrators, for all such sums by them, or either of them, paid out as aforesaid; and the said Barrackmasters, and each of them, are hereby required to render a true account, to this or a future Congress, of all moneys by them received and expended, pursuant to the direction of this Ordinance, who shall be allowed a reasonable compensation for their time and trouble in executing the aforesaid trust.

An Ordinance for exempting persons who enlist in the service of the United Colonies from arrest.

Whereas, the speedy and effectual recruiting of the Forces for the defence of the United Colonies, is, in the present situation of affairs, of great importance to the security and defence of the said Colonies: And whereas, the subjecting soldiers to arrests for small debts tends greatly to retard and obstruct the service:

It is, therefore, Ordered and Directed by this Congress, That any person who shall inlist himself, and enter as a soldier in any of the Companies of the Continental Forces, and doth not owe more than thirty-five dollars to any one creditor, or upwards of one hundred and fifty dollars, in the whole, to all his creditors, then the person of the inlisted shall be free from all arrests in civil actions, during the time of his service as aforesaid; and those who are in custody, either on mesne process or execution, and do not owe as aforesaid, shall be discharged, under the hands and seals of any of the Judges of the County where any such person, or persons, shall be so imprisoned; and the goods and effects of all such debtors shall be free from attachments, executions, and other legal process, during the aforesaid service: Provided, always, That such goods and effects shall not be removed out of the city, town, or precinct, where the persons inlisted resided when they did inlist, during the time limited as aforesaid; and upon full proof of any attempt to remove the said goods and effects out of the city, town, or precinct, as aforesaid, then the said goods and effects shall be liable to the same process as the laws have already provided for; and in case the said person, or persons, so inlisted, shall or do, after the publication of this Ordinance, or after the time of such inlisting, by any deed or deeds, power or powers of attorney, make sale of, or empower others, in his or their absence, or during the time so limited as aforesaid, make sale of his or their goods and chattels, lands and tenements, to any person, or persons, whatsoever, whereby the creditor, or creditors, of such person, or persons, so inlisting as aforesaid, shall or may be defrauded or deprived of their just debts, all and every such deed, or deeds, and sales, made by any such person, or persons, or by virtue of his, or their, power or powers of attorney, as aforesaid, shall be void and of none effect; and such goods and chattels, lands and tenements, shall, nevertheless, be liable to be proceeded against by attachment, or any other legal process, at the suit of any creditor, or creditors, of such person, or persons; any thing in this Ordinance to the contrary thereof, in any wise, notwithstanding.

An Ordinance for striking the sum of Fifty Thousand Pounds five Shillings, in Bills of Credit, for the purposes therein mentioned, and directing the manner of sinking the same.

Whereas, it is prudent, not only to make provision for putting the Province into such state of defence as the present situation thereof seems to require, but, also, to have such sum of money in the Treasury as may probably be sufficient to answer future exigencies and contingent charges: And whereas, the sum of thirty thousand Pounds, directed to be issued by an Ordinance passed at the last sitting of this Congress, hath not, as yet, been printed; and as the same may not be sufficient to answer the purposes aforesaid,

It is, therefore, Resolved, That the said Ordinance be null, void, and vacated, to all intents and purposes whatsoever; and, in lieu thereof,

It is Resolved, Ordained, and Directed, That the sum of fifty thousand Pounds five Shillings, in Bills of Credit of this Province, be, as soon as possible, prepared, printed, and made as follows, viz: nine thousand five hundred Bills, each of the value of three Pounds; ten thousand Bills, each of the value of one Pound ten Shillings; six thousand six hundred and sixty-seven Bills, each of the value of fifteen Shillings; and five thousand Bills, each of the value of six Shillings; which Bills shall be in the form following, to wit:

"This Bill, by an Ordinance of the Provincial Congress, shall pass current in all payments within the Colony of New-Jersey, for Proclamation money, "Dated the 20th day of February, 1776."

And shall be impressed with such devices as the inspectors of the press, hereinafter appointed, shall direct; and, when printed, shall be delivered to Hendrick Fisher and Azariah Dunham, Esquires, of the Eastern Division, and to John Hart and Samuel Howe, Esquires, of the Western Division, four of the signers thereof, in equal moieties; one moiety to be signed by the Treasurer, and signers of the Eastern Division; and the other moiety, by the Treasurer and signers of the Western Division. And the said signers are hereby authorized and required, upon delivery of the said Bills by the Printer thereof, to administer to him, and he is hereby directed and required to take an oath or affirmation, in the following words:

"I, A. B., do declare, that from the time the letters were set, and fit to be put into the press, for the printing the Bills of Credit now by me delivered, until the same Bills were printed, and the letters unset and put into the boxes again, I went at no time out of the room in which the said letters were, without locking them up, so that they could not be come at without violence, a false key, or other art then unknown to me; and therefore, to the best of my knowledge, no copies were printed off but in my presence; and that all the blotters and other papers whatsoever, printed by the said letter, while set for printing the said Bills, to the best of my knowledge, are here delivered, together with the stamps for the indents and devices; and that I have not at any time been privy, or consenting to any other or more Bills being struck than I now deliver; and that, in all things relating to this affair, I have demeaned myself according to the true intent and meaning of the Ordinance, by virtue whereof this money is printed, to the best of my knowledge and understanding."

Which Printer, at the time he is ordered to print the said Bills, shall have a copy of this oath or affirmation, that he may govern himself accordingly; Provided, always, that if any accident has happened, he may have the liberty of making an exception thereof in his oath or affirmation, he declaring fully how it was.

And it is further Resolved and Directed, That the Bills made current by this Ordinance, shall be nearly the size and likeness of the Bills now current in this Colony, and shall be signed and numbered by the respective persons herein before appointed signers thereof; and in case of their, or either of their deaths, or other disability, then Joseph Hugg, of the Western Division, and John Covenhoven, of the Eastern Division, are hereby appointed signers of said Bills.

And in order that the said Bills may be numbered and signed with the less charge and risk, and with the most ease and expedition, the said signers are to observe the directions following, to wit:

First: Before the said signers do receive any of the said Bills, they shall each of them take an oath, (or affirmation, if Quakers.) before a Justice of the Peace, for the true signing of the said Bills of Credit; and that they will sign no more, or no other Bills, than by this Ordinance is directed; and that, to the best of their skill, they will perform what, by this Ordinance, they are enjoined as their duty. A certificate of which oath, or affirmation, is to be signed by the Justice, and by the deponents and affirmants, to be delivered to the Treasurers with the Bills, when signed by them.

Secondly: On receiving the Bills from the Printer, the said signers shall burn and destroy the blotters, and they shall divide the fair Bills so received into two equal parts; and to avoid confusion, shall agree betwixt themselves how the parts of each shall be numbered; and the signers for the Eastern Division shall take the stamps for the escutcheons, and the signers for the Western Division shall take the stamps for the ornaments.

Thirdly: Each of the signers may then carry his part to his own house, there to be numbered and signed by him with all possible expedition; which, or such part as is then necessary, being done, they shall meet at a day and place by them to be appointed, and agreed on, and each deliver the part numbered and signed by him to the other, in order for him to sign the same; and they shall then together burn and destroy the Bills, if any be over and above the number hereby appointed to be issued, and, in like manner, shall do from time to time, until all are signed and exchanged.

Fourthly: Each of the said signers may then carry the part of the Bills aforesaid, so delivered to them by the other to their respective houses, to be signed with all possible expedition; and when signed, in any sums, from time to time to be delivered to the Treasurer of the division where the signers live, and the stamps for the escutcheons, and ornaments, taking receipts of the respective Treasurers, for the sums so delivered; which, when produced, shall be sufficient to discharge the said signers, respectively, their heirs, executors, and administrators, from such parts of the said Bills as the receipts do express.

And it is further Resolved and Directed, That the said Treasurers shall, respectively, sign the said Bills to them delivered; and, under the obligation of their oaths, or affirmations, for the due execution of their offices, pay them out accordingly, as they shall be directed, by this or any future order of the Provincial Congress, or Committee of Safety of this Colony, and no otherwise.

And it is further Resolved and Directed, That the Bills of Credit to be made and issued by virtue of this Ordinance, shall pass current, until the 21st day of December, which will be in the year of our Lord, one thousand seven hundred and ninety-one, and shall be received in the said Treasuries, until the expiration of six months after the time last mentioned.

And it is further Resolved and Directed, That Samuel Tucker, Hendrick Fisher, Richard Smith, John Pope, and James Starling, Esquires, or any two of them, are hereby authorized and directed to agree with the Printer for the price to be paid him for printing the Bills according to the directions of this Ordinance, and shall be, and are hereby appointed Inspectors of the Press, to take care that the Printer of the Bills of Credit doth duly perform the duty hereby enjoined him.

And it is further Resolved and Directed, That there shall be paid to the Printer of the said Bills of Credit, such sum or sums of money for printing them, as the said Inspectors, or any two of them, shall certify under their hands, they had agreed to pay him for that service; and there shall be paid to the Treasurers, Inspectors, and Signers, such reward for their trouble, as the Congress or Committee of Safety for this Colony, shall deem reasonable. All which sums of money shall be paid by the Treasurers, or either of them, out of the money made current by virtue of this Ordinance, and shall take proper receipts for the same; which receipts, when laid before, and approved by the Provincial Congress, or Committee of Safety, shall discharge the said Treasurers, their heirs, executors, and administrators, for all sums by them paid pursuant to this Ordinance.

And it is further Resolved and Directed, That the said sum of fifty thousand Pounds five Shillings, when printed and signed as aforesaid, shall be delivered, one-half thereof to the Treasurer appointed by the Congress of New-Jersey, for the Eastern Division, and the other half to the Treasurer appointed as aforesaid, for the Western Division of this Colony; and each of the said Treasurers is hereby directed immediately after receiving said Bills, to sign as many of them as shall amount unto the sum of one thousand Pounds; and the said Treasurers, shall, respectively, from time to time, proceed to sign such further part of the said sum of fifty thousand Pounds five Shillings, as shall be sufficient to answer the publick uses of this Colony, ready to be issued as aforesaid; Provided, that not more than one thousand Pounds shall, after the issuing the above sums, be, at any one time, remaining in the hands of either of said Treasurers, signed by them as aforesaid.

And it is further Resolved and Directed, That Messrs. William Tucker, Abraham Hunt, Joseph Ellis, and Alexander Chambers be, and they are hereby appointed Commissioners for the Western Division; and that Hendrick Fisher, Azariah Dunham, Abraham Clark, and Caleb Camp be, and they are hereby appointed Commissioners for the Eastern Division of this Colony; which said Commissioners, or the major part of them, are hereby authorized and directed to receive of the Treasurers of this Colony for the time being, appointed by this Congress, or either of them, all such sum or sums of money as they shall, from time to time, find necessary to expend for the use of this Colony, pursuant to the Resolutions hereinafter mentioned.

And it is further Resolved and Directed, That the said Commissioners be, and they are hereby authorized and directed, to contract with Artificers for, or otherwise purchase, three thousand stand of Arms, on the most reasonable terms they possibly can; and, also, to purchase ten tons of Gunpowder, twenty tons of Lead, one thousand Cartouch-Boxes, at any price, not exceeding nine Shillings each; a quantity of Flints, Brushes, Priming-Wire, and Cartridge Paper, not exceeding one hundred Pounds in value; two Chests of Medicine, with Chirurgical Instruments, not exceeding three hundred Pounds in value; four hundred Tents, with Camp Equipage, not exceeding one thousand eight hundred and seventy Pounds in value; two thousand Blankets, not exceeding one thousand five hundred Pounds in value; a number of Axes, Spades, and other intrenching tools, not exceeding three hundred Pounds in value; and a train of Artillery, consisting of twelve field-pieces, of such sizes as the said Commissioners shall judge most advantageous for the defence of the Province, together with the necessary Carriages, Ball, Shot, and Equipments.

And it is further Resolved and Directed, That the said Commissioners do supply the Troops of this Colony, when called to action in this or any of the neighbouring Colonies, with one month's subsistence, at one Shilling per day per man, or Provisions to that amount, if necessary: Provided, That the expense of such subsistence doth not exceed the sum of one thousand four hundred Pounds in value, and one month's pay for the Troops of this Colony, when called into actual service: Provided, that the Continental Congress do not make provision for the same; And provided also, that the pay of such Troops doth not exceed the sum of four thousand Pounds in value.

And it is further Resolved and Directed, That the Treasurers of this Colony be, and they are hereby enjoined to pay to the said Commissioners, or to any three of them, of the Eastern, or any three of the Western Division, or their orders, respectively, all such sum or sums of money as they may find necessary to expend for the purposes aforesaid: Provided always, that no three Commissioners of either Division, shall draw out of the Treasury, any greater sum than shall be sufficient for the purchasing and providing one-half of the articles, the said Commissioners are above authorized to purchase and provide, unless a major part of the said Commissioners give them joint orders therefor: And the receipt or receipts from the said Commissioners, respectively, for moneys received by them in manner above directed, shall be sufficient vouchers and discharges to the said Treasurers, or either of them, their executors and administrators, for all moneys by them paid pursuant to this Ordinance.

And in order that the said sum of fifty thousand Pounds five Shillings, may be duly sunk, and the credit of the same thereby effectually secured,

It is Resolved, That the sum of ten thousand Pounds one Shilling, be levied and paid into the Treasury of this Colony, on the 21st day of December, in each and every of the years one thousand seven hundred and eighty-seven; one thousand seven hundred and eighty-eight; one thousand seven hundred and eighty-nine; one thousand seven hundred and ninety; and one thousand seven hundred and ninety-one: in order that the same may be inspected, cancelled, burnt, and destroyed by the Congress of this Colony, or, in their recess, the Committee of Safety.

And that the said sum of ten thousand Pounds one Shilling may be raised on the several inhabitants of this Colony in the most equitable manner, in each of the aforesaid years,

It is Resolved, That the same be raised in manner following:

All unimproved tracts of Land, held by deed, patent, or survey, shall be valued and estimated as aforesaid, at the one-fortieth part of the real value thereof.

All Mortgages, Bonds, Bills, and Notes at interest, which shall be deemed recoverable and of value, and due to the inhabitants of this Colony, shall be valued at one-twentieth part of the principal thereof. Provided always, that if any inhabitant of this Colony shall pay interest for a part, or the whole of the sum he receives interest for, then, and in such case, he shall not be rated or assessed for any larger sum than the sum he receives interest for, exceeds the sum he pays interest for.

Every Hawker or Pedlar, travelling on foot, and exposing goods to sale (except such goods as are manufactured in the United Colonies) before he or she exposes any such goods to sale, shall, over and above all other taxes, pay to the County Collector, who shall give a certificate therefor, the sum of six Shillings in each County, wherein the same are exposed to sale.

Every Hawker or Pedlar, travelling with a Horse or Carriage, and exposing goods to sale as aforesaid, shall in like manner, pay the sum of twelve Shillings.

And it is further Resolved, That the said ten thousand Pounds one Shilling, directed to be assessed in each and every of the five years before mentioned, shall be collected and paid into the Treasury on or before the said 21st day of December, in each of the said years, in the proportions following, viz:

And it is further Resolved, That the inhabitants of this Colony, at their Town-Meetings, to be held in each Township in this Colony, on the second Tuesday in March, annually, in each of the years the said moneys are directed to be levied, shall elect proper persons to assess and collect the aforesaid taxes; and in case the said inhabitants shall neglect to choose Assessors and Collectors as aforesaid, or, in case any such so chosen, shall decrease or remove out of the Township in which he or they were chosen, or be otherwise disabled from performing the duties enjoined by this Ordinance, that then the Committee of the Township where such neglect, removal or disability may happen, shall elect others to supply such vacancy; and if any person chosen Assessor or Collector as aforesaid, shall neglect or refuse to execute the same, agreeable to the directions of this Ordinance, every person so neglecting, or refusing, shall forfeit and pay to the Committee of the Township where he resides, for the use of such Township, the sum of five Pounds for every such neglect or refusal.

And it is further Resolved, That the Committee of each respective County in this Colony, shall annually choose a County Collector, for receiving the aforesaid quotas, and paying the same into the Treasury. And upon such County Collectors refusing or neglecting so to do, shall forfeit and pay to such County Committee for every such neglect or refusal, the sum of ten Pounds, for the use of such County.

And it is further Resolved, That each of the Assessors chosen as aforesaid, shall, before they do any thing in pursuance of this Ordinance, take the following oath or affirmation:

"That you will truly value and assess the rateable Estates of the inhabitants of the Township or Precinct of . . . pursuant to the directions of this Ordinance; and, also, assist the other Assessors in settling the quotas, according to the best of your skill and understanding."

And in order that the several and respective sums aforesaid, may be equitably assessed and levied:

It is further Resolved, That all and every of the inhabitants or householders of each County in this Colony, on application to them made by the Assessors of the respective Towns or Districts, chosen as aforesaid, shall forthwith give a true account of their names, and estates, real and personal, made rateable by this Ordinance, and where the same doth lie, which the Assessors shall take down in writing, with the value thereof, in order to be enabled thereby to make just and true assessments, and to render duplicates thereof to the Town or District Collectors chosen as aforesaid, by the times herein after prescribed for that purpose. And in case any of the inhabitants or householders shall at any time refuse to render a true account of their rateable estate, as aforesaid, every such person so refusing shall forfeit the sum of three Pounds, and be rated double the sum the said Assessors, in their discretion, may suppose such person, so refusing, might otherwise, in proportion to his estate, have been rated at.

And it is further Resolved, That in each of the years the said ten thousand Pounds one Shilling, is before directed to be assessed, levied and collected, the Assessors of each Town, or District, shall, on or before the 10th day of August, take an exact account of each person's rateable estates, made rateable aforesaid, within their respective Districts; and on the 1st Monday in September, in each of the said years, the said Assessors of every Town and District in each County in this Colony, shall meet together at such places in each County as are appointed by the laws of this Colony for the like purposes, and there settle and adjust the quota each of the Townships or Districts in such County, are to pay that year, to make up the quota hereinbefore ascertained for such County; which quota of each Township being so fixed and ascertained, the said Assessors of each Township or District, shall then proceed to make said assessment: They shall first compute the amount of the uncertainties in such Township or District, and deduct the same from the quota of such Township or District, together with all such forfeitures as may be received by virtue of this Ordinance; and, after such deduction, the said Assessors shall add their own, and the Township and County Collector's Fees to the remainder; and assess such remainder and addition of fees equally on the pound value of all the Estates in their respective Townships or Districts, of which they may have taken the value as herein before directed, so as to make up and pay the respective quotas as aforesaid, with the additional charges of assessing, collecting and paying the same into the Treasury as aforesaid; of which assessments the said respective Assessors shall deliver exact duplicates to the Collectors of such Districts within ten days after settling the quotas as aforesaid. For assessing and collecting which said assessments, the Assessors shall have six Pence, the Town Collector four Pence, and the County Collector two Pence on the pound for all Moneys assessed and collected by virtue of this Ordinance.

And whereas, some owners of improved Lands and Tenements may not reside in the said County or Township where the same shall be situated:

It is, therefore, Resolved, That the tenant, or person occupying such Land and Tenement, or either of them, shall be assessed for the same, and may deduct such assessment out of the rent with which he is chargeable for such Land or Tenement; and where no Tenant, or person, in the County occupies such Land, the tax for the same shall be recovered of the owner thereof in like manner as herein after is directed. And every person seated on and holding Land, not having the property thereof, or paying rent for the same, shall, notwithstanding, be assessed for so much Lands and Tenements as he or they shall actually occupy.

And it is further Resolved, That the Collectors of each Township or District, shall, in some convenient time after receiving the aforesaid assessments from the Assessors, notify each particular person assessed thereof, informing him of the time the same must be paid. And in case any such assessments shall remain unpaid the 1st day of November, after such assessment, the said Collector shall make out a list of all such delinquents, with the sums in which they are severally assessed, and lay the same before the Committee of the County to which they belong; which Committee are hereby directed and required to make out a warrant of distress, directed to such person, or persons, as they shall appoint for that purpose, requiring distress to be made on all such delinquents' goods and chattels, to at least the amount of their respective assessments, with the addition of eighteen Pence for each distress; directing, that such goods and chattels be sold in five days after such distress, for paying their said assessments, and costs of distraint. And in case any person, or persons, shall think him, or themselves, aggrieved by such assessment, every such person may appeal to the Committee of the County in which he or they reside, within one month after notice of such assessment; which Committee shall proceed to hear such appeal, and give suitable redress.

And in order to prevent dissensions in the several Townships in this Colony, respecting settling their quotas, from a suspicion that the Assessors of some one Town have valued the Estates therein less than the Assessors of another Town in the same County:

It is, therefore, Resolved, That in settling the quotas of each Township, the Assessors shall produce an exact account of the quantity of Land in that Township, with the number of Cattle and Horses of two years old and upwards, Money at interest, and the beforementioned certainties; which certainties shall be first deducted from the quota of the County, as heretofore hath been practised in like cases, and then divide the remainder to each Township upon the Land, and Money at interest; in which division the Land shall be valued between the sums limited for each County, by the last act of Assembly of this Colony, for settling the quotas in the several Counties: And the Cattle and Horses shall be valued at eight Shillings each head, and the Money at interest at the one-twentieth part of the real amount thereof, and divide the same upon the pound value of such Estates; which said valuation, is only to regulate the division of the quotas of each Township. But, in making the assessments, the said Land, Tenements, and real Estate of each individual is to be valued at the one-twentieth part of the real intrinsic value thereof, except tracts of land whereon no improvement is made, which is to be valued at the one-fortieth part of the value thereof, as is before directed.

And it is further Resolved and Directed, That if any person, or persons, shall, in this Colony, refuse to accept in payment any of the Bills of Credit emitted in virtue of this Ordinance, not exceeding ten Pounds, he or they so refusing, shall forfeit the sum of ten Pounds, and if the sum tendered and refused as aforesaid, exceed the sum of ten Pounds, then the person so refusing shall forfeit a sum equal in value to the sum so refused.

And in order that the mode of recovery of the said sums so forfeited as aforesaid, may be ascertained and established:

It is further Directed, That on complaint against any person refusing said Bills as aforesaid, being made to the Committee of the Township where the same shall happen, the said Committee shall give notice to said delinquent, that he be and appear before them at a day and place to be ascertained in such notice, to answer to the charge also to be specified therein; and if it shall appear to the said Committees, by the oath or affirmation of two good and lawful witnesses, that the said delinquent hath made such refusal, and that he had, previous thereto, been informed of the penalty to be incurred thereby, in virtue of this Ordinance, then, and in such case, the Chairman or Deputy Chairman of said Committee shall, by an order in writing, under his hand, directed to some proper person to be appointed by said Committee, authorize said persons to make distress and sale of the goods, chattels and effects of the delinquent, to the amount of the forfeitures incurred as aforesaid, together with costs and expenses, that shall accrue by reason of said refusal, to be taxed by said Committee; and the said person appointed to distrain as aforesaid, shall proceed thereon in like manner and form, as the distrainer is herein before directed for collecting the assessments made in virtue of this Ordinance; and shall and may retain in his hands, one Shilling and six Pence, if the sum levied as aforesaid be under ten Pounds; and if the same exceed ten Pounds, then the addition of three Pence the Pound for each distress and sale; and the residue of the moneys that shall arise from said sale, he shall deliver to the owner of the goods and chattels distrained as aforesaid. And in case any such delinquent shall think himself aggrieved by the determination of the said Committee, he shall and may, within five days after such determination, appeal to the Committee of the County; he previously giving sufficient security to the Chairman of said Township Committee, to prosecute said appeal the next meeting of said County Committee; and also for payment of all such sums, costs, and charges as shall be adjudged against him by the said County Committee; and in case he shall think himself aggrieved by the determination of the said County Committee, he may, within five days thereafter, appeal therefrom to the Congress or Committee of Safety of this Province, giving security to the Chairman or Deputy Chairman of the said County Committee, to prosecute said appeal at their next meeting, and also for payment of all such sums, costs and charges, as shall be adjudged against him by the Congress or Committee of Safety as aforesaid; which appeals, the several Chairmen or Deputy Chairmen of the several Committees aforesaid, are hereby required to grant on the above conditions.

And it is further Resolved and Directed, That all the forfeitures adjudged, recovered, and collected as aforesaid, shall be paid by the person collecting the same, to the Collector of the County where the delinquency happens, to be by him, as soon as may be thereafter, paid into the hands of the Treasurers aforesaid, to be appropriated and applied for the publick uses of this Colony, as the Provincial Congress shall order and direct.

An Ordinance to prevent persons deserting places in danger of being attacked, and for restraining such as are dangerous to the common cause from taking refuge in this Colony.

Whereas, large numbers of people are daily removing from the neighbouring Colonies into New-Jersey, and it being unknown upon what principles such removals are occasioned; whether it is to seek an asylum from Ministerial oppression, or the resentment of their injured country, to whom they may have become obnoxious, by adhering to the present system of tyranny now endeavouring to be executed in America; and it being inconsistent with the principles of persons properly attached to the cause of liberty to desert their town or country, at a time their assistance may be absolutely necessary for its defence, unless the support and maintenance of their families may make such removal necessary: 'This Congress do, therefore, think it advisable, that, although the inhabitants of this Colony ought most cheerfully to receive into their protection, and afford all the relief in their power to all such as are helpless, and unable to defend themselves, yet they ought to prevent the desertion of places in immediate danger of an attack from the enemy, by all who are proper to remain for the defence thereof; and also to prevent persons inimical to the liberties for which the United Colonies are contending, from taking refuge in this Province: For remedy whereof,

It is hereby Resolved, That all persons proper to bear arms, who have removed or may remove into this Colony from any City or County of another Province in danger of being suddenly attacked, do immediately return to such City or Province, to make that defence becoming every good citizen, who entertains a proper sense of the worth of liberty, and who has a due regard to his country's welfare; unless such person, or persons, shall produce licenses or permits from the Committee of such City or County from whence he or they remove, to reside in this Colony; or unless the residence of such person in this Colony may appear necessary for the support of his family, which may be removed here for safety; or unless such person, or persons, from the present stagnation of business, may have no visible means of support in the Colony from whence he came, and can procure such support by his industry in this Colony. And the Committee of each and every County and Township in this Colony are directed to carry the above Resolve into effect, and to cause all such persons, except as above said, to return to the City or Province from whence they came, after giving them a reasonable time to settle their families, and transact any business that may appear necessary for the publick good or their families' support.

And it is further Resolved, That all suspected persons removing into this Colony, shall immediately return to the place they came from; unless their behaviour in this Colony shall render their detention as delinquents proper; or unless such persons produce certificates from the Committee of the City, Township or County from whence they came, that they have signed the General Association recommended by the Continental or their Provincial Congress, and have not, by any subsequent act, contravened the same; or that they are deemed to be well affected to the cause of American freedom. Which last Resolve the respective Committees above said are also requested to carry into effect.

An Ordinance for directing the mode and fixing the time for the Election of Deputies, to serve in Provincial Congress, for this Colony; and also to ascertain the qualification of Electors.

Whereas, the Ordinance for regulating the election of Deputies, to serve in the Provincial Congress of this Colony, doth not sufficiently answer the good purposes intended; and whereas, at this particular period, it appears to be reasonable and expedient to extend the qualification of Electors to persons possessing certain degrees of property, as well personal as real: And to the end that Elections, upon which the safety of the people so much depends, may not be corruptly managed or obtained:

It is, therefore, Resolved and Directed, That all Freeholders qualified to vote for Representatives in General Assembly in this Colony, who have signed the General Association recommended by this Congress; and all other persons of full age, who, immediately preceding the Election, shall have resided for the space of one year in any County of this Colony, and who are worth at least fifty Pounds, Proclamation money, in personal estate, and have signed the General Association as aforesaid, shall be admitted to vote in the County wherein he resides, for Deputies to serve in Provincial Congress.

And in order that the good people of this Colony, so qualified as aforesaid, may have an opportunity of a new choice of Deputies, and of renewing such choice annually, during the continuance of the present troubles:

It is, therefore, further Resolved and Directed, That there be a new choice of Deputies to serve in Provincial Congress, for every County of this Colony, on the fourth Monday in May, yearly, and every year.

And it is further Resolved and Directed, That the inhabitants of each County in this Colony, so qualified as aforesaid, do meet together at the places herein after mentioned, on the fourth Monday in May next, and on the fourth Monday in May, annually, and then and there, by plurality of voices, between the hours of ten in the morning and three in the afternoon, proceed to elect any number, not more than five, nor less than three substantial Freeholders, each of whom shall be, bona fide, worth five hundred Pounds, Proclamation money, at the least, in real and personal estate, to serve as Deputies, with full power to represent such County in Provincial Congress, to be held at the City of Burlington, on the second Monday in June next. And that the places of meeting for the election in each County, shall be, for the County of Bergen, at the Court-House in New-Barbadoes; County of Essex, at the Court-House in Newark; County of Middlesex, at the Court-House in New-Brunswick; County of Somerset, at the Court-House at Hillsborough; County of Morris, at the Court-House in Morristown; County of Monmouth, at the Court-House in Freehold; County of Hunterdon, at the Court-House in Trenton; County of Sussex, at the Court-House in Newton; County of Burlington, at the Court-House in the City of Burlington; County of Gloucester, at the Court-House in the Town of Gloucester; County of Salem, at the Court-House in the Town of Salem; County of Cumberland, at the Court-House in Bridge-town; and County of Cape-May, at the Court-House in Middle Precinct. Provided, always, That this Resolution shall not be construed to prevent an adjournment of any Election from day to day, and from place to place, if the same shall be found necessary.

And it is further Resolved and Directed, That the Inhabitants of this Colony, so qualified as aforesaid, on the first day of each Election, between the hours of ten in the morning and one in the afternoon, do proceed to elect one substantial Freeholder in each County, to preside as Judge of such Election, who shall attend in person, and, if a poll be demanded, the Election shall be conducted as follows: Each Candidate may appoint one Inspector and one Clerk, and each of the Clerks shall set down, in writing, the names of the Electors, and their numbers, in the presence of the Judge, and shall make as many distinct columns, on fair paper, as there shall be Candidates voted for; but, previous to which, every Clerk so appointed shall, by the Judge of the Election, or by some Magistrate then present, be charged, on his solemn oath, or affirmation, "truly and impartially to take the votes and set down the name of each Elector, and the place of his residence, and to poll no Elector who is not attested, if so required, by the Judge or Inspectors of such Election."

And it is further Resolved and Directed, That the Judge of each Election shall not declare the choice upon the view, nor adjourn either to another day or place, without the consent of the majority of the Candidates, nor by any unnecessary adjournment delay the Election, and shall give a copy of the poll to every person that shall desire the same, upon the payment of reasonable fees for writing thereof. And if any Freeholder shall be questioned as to his qualification, by either of the Candidates or Inspectors, such Freeholder shall be charged by the Judge of such Election, or by some Magistrate then present, on his solemn oath or affirmation, "to declare, or swear, in the presence of God, that he is, and hath been a Freeholder and resident in the County for one whole year immediately preceding; that the estate for which he claims to give his vote, in such Election, is his own proper estate, and that it is not conveyed to him in trust, or on condition that he should give his vote in such Election for any particular person whatsoever."

And if any Elector, not being a Freeholder so qualified as aforesaid, shall be questioned as to his qualification, by either of the Candidates or Inspectors, such Elector shall be charged in manner and form aforesaid, on his solemn oath or affirmation, "to declare, or swear, that he is twenty-one years of age; that he hath, immediately preceding the Election, resided for one whole year in the County; that he is worth a clear estate, of the value of at least fifty Pounds, Proclamation money, and that he hath not before voted at such Election."

And it is further Resolved and Directed, That the Chairman of the several County Committees in this Colony do give publick notice of the time and place of such Elections, by putting up advertisements, in writing, at least twenty days before the time of each Election, at one or more of the most publick places in each Township, or Precinct, in the several Counties in this Colony.

And it is further Resolved and Directed, That the Deputies so elected as aforesaid, shall receive a Certificate of their election in the words following, to wit: "We do hereby certify, that on the day of the date hereof, were declared duly elected Deputies for the County of in the Colony of New-Jersey, with full power to represent the said County in Provincial Congress, to be held at in the County of on the day of next. As witness our hands and seals, this day of Anno Domini 177 . ." Which Certificate, under the hands and seals of the Judge chosen to preside at such Election, together with five or more Freeholders of the said County, shall be sufficient evidence of such Election; and the Deputies so chosen as aforesaid, shall give their attendance in Provincial Congress accordingly.

And it is further Resolved and Directed, That, in case of the death, or removal out of the Colony of any of the Deputies so chosen as aforesaid, before the next annual Election, or, in case the seat of any Deputy so chosen as aforesaid being declared vacant, the Freeholders and Electors so qualified as aforesaid, of the County for which such person was a Deputy, shall, upon the receipt of a warrant, under the hand and seal of the President, or Vice-President, for the time being, directed to the Chairman of such County Committee for that purpose, have leave to proceed to a new Election to supply his place: Provided, always, That such Election be carried on and regulated in such manner and form as herein is before more particularly mentioned and expressed.

And it is further Resolved and Directed, That when, and as often as any new Election of Deputies for the Colony in general, to serve in any future Congress, shall be directed to be held, the Freeholders and Electors so qualified as aforesaid, of each County, do proceed to elect a sufficient number of Freeholders for each Township, to constitute a County Committee of Observation and Correspondence, with full power as well to superintend and direct the necessary business of the County, as to carry into execution the Resolution and Orders of the Continental Congress, the Provincial Congress, or Committee of Safety of this Colony; subject, nevertheless, to the same rules and regulations as are herein before resolved and directed for regulating of Elections of Deputies to serve in Provincial Congress.

And it is further Resolved and Directed, That the Freeholders and Inhabitants of each Township in this Colony do, on the second Tuesday in March, yearly, and every year, proceed anew, in like manner, to elect such a number of proper persons as shall be thought necessary, to constitute Committees to act as Committees of Observation and Correspondence in each Township, with power to transact the business referred to them by the Continental Congress, the Provincial Congress, or Committee of Safety of this Colony, or by the respective County Committees.

And it is further Resolved and Directed, That, on the fourth Monday in May next, this Congress shall be, and the same is hereby directed to be dissolved, any thing in the Ordinance of the late Provincial Congress of this Colony of the 12th of August last contained, to the contrary notwithstanding.

And it is further Resolved and Directed, That at all future meetings of the Deputies chosen to represent this Colony in Provincial Congress, the votes be taken from the Members individually, and not from the Counties collectively.

And it appearing to this Congress to be essential to the welfare of this Colony that all persons chosen to serve as Deputies in Provincial Congress, should, as far as their particular circumstances admit, be perfectly free from other publick engagements:

It is therefore, Resolved and Directed, That whenever it shall appear that any Deputy, or Deputies, in Provincial Congress, have accepted any Military Office of profit under the Continental or Provincial Congress, which Office may require the personal service of such Deputy, or Deputies, the seat of such Deputy, or Deputies, in Provincial Congress, shall be declared vacant, and a new Election be ordered to fill up such vacancy; and such Deputy, or Deputies, during his or their continuance in such Office of profit, shall not be entitled to a seat in this or any future Congress.

And it is further Resolved and Directed, That the Deputies so chosen as aforesaid, when met in Provincial Congress, are, and shall be Judges of the qualification of their own Members, and shall have power to reject such persons as are, or shall be unduly elected Deputies to serve in Congress; and, also, to expel or disable all such Deputies to sit or serve, who, either by ill-practice in Elections, or by misbehaviour in Congress, shall, by this, or by any future Congress, or the major part of them, be declared unfit for a seat therein.

An Ordinance for numbering the Inhabitants of this Colony.

Whereas, it is recommended by the honourable Continental Congress that the number of Inhabitants of all ages, including Negroes and Mulattoes, in each Colony, be taken, in order to settle an equitable quota of the taxes which may hereafter be levied on the United Colonies, for sinking the Bills of Credit which have been, or may be emitted, for the support and defence of the said United Colonies:

Therefore, be it Resolved, That the Committee of each Precinct or Township in this Colony do, as soon as may be, after the publication hereof, appoint one or more person, or persons, as they shall think proper, to take an account of the number of Inhabitants of all ages, including Negroes and Mulattoes, within their respective bounds; which said person, or persons, so appointed, shall, within six days after being notified thereof, in writing, by the Chairman of said Committee, repair to some Justice of the Peace in the County where he or they reside, who is hereby directed to administer to him, or them, the following oath, or affirmation if a Quaker, to wit:

"You shall well and truly take a List of the number of all the Inhabitants of the Township of in the County of according to the directions of the Provincial Congress of New-Jersey, and make a fair and impartial return thereof to the Chairman of the Committee of the County of So help you God."

And the said person, or persons, so qualified, shall, on or before the twentieth day of August next, make return of his, or their List, containing the number of Inhabitants so taken, to the Chairman of the Committee of the County to which they belong, which County Committee are hereby authorized to allow such reward for the said service as they shall think reasonable, by an order, in writing, signed by the Chairman of said Committee, and directed to the County Collector, to be paid by him out of the publick money in his hands. And the said County Committee, within one month after receiving said Lists, shall return the same, together with one general List, comprehending the whole of the said Inhabitants within their respective jurisdictions, unto the Congress, or, during its recess, to the Committee of Safety of this Colony.

An Ordinance for incorporating the Minute-Men lately raised in this Colony into the body of Militia, and for further regulating said Militia.

Whereas, by a Resolution of this Congress, of the 12th of August last, a number of Minute-Men were directed to be raised, enlisted, and enrolled in the several Counties of this Colony, under officers to be appointed and commissioned by this Congress, to hold themselves in constant readiness to march to any place where their assistance might be required, for the defence of this or any neighbouring Colony: And whereas, in obedience to said Resolve, several Companies were enlisted and formed into Battalions, since which large numbers of said Minute-Men having entered into the Continental service, the said Companies and Battalions are greatly reduced, and in no condition to answer the design of their institution: And whereas, our defence, under God, chiefly depends upon a well regulated Militia:

It is, therefore, Resolved, That all the Minute-Men heretofore embodied in the several parts of this Colony, be immediately dissolved, and incorporated with the Militia in the several Companies in the District in which they respectively reside, as though such Minute-Men had never been raised, any thing in the above-mentioned Resolve to the contrary notwithstanding.

And whereas, by an Ordinance of Congress, passed this present sitting, all persons refusing to sign the General Association, with the proviso therein mentioned, are directed to be disbanded, and give security for their future good behaviour, and some doubts arising whether such non-Associators, so disbanded, shall be subject to the fines and forfeitures for non-attendance in the Militia, as directed by the late Military Ordinance, for the removing which doubts,

It is further Resolved, That each and every person in this Colony, disbanded for refusing to sign the said Association, shall be subject to the same Fines and Forfeitures for not attending and doing duty in the Militia, or paying an equivalent therefor, as directed by said Ordinance, in the same manner as though he had not been disbanded.

And it is further Resolved, That all and every person, or persons, capable of bearing arms, who shall attend at General Musters, or at times appointed for learning military discipline, and, at such time, or times, shall behave himself, or themselves, rudely and disorderly, and disobey the order of his or their Captain, or other commanding officer, shall forfeit and pay, for every such unruly and disorderly behaviour, the sum of six Shillings, to be recovered and applied as directed for non-attendance.

An Ordinance for raising two Artillery Companies in New-Jersey, and providing for their pay and subsistence.

Whereas, the present exigencies of the times render it necessary to raise at least two Artillery Companies for the defence of this Colony, one to be stationed in the Eastern, and the other in the Western Division thereof,

It is, therefore, Resolved, That two Artillery Companies, consisting of sixty-four men, officers included, be immediately raised, to be disposed of in this Colony, as the Congress, Committee of Safety, Brigadier-General of the Division to which they respectively belong, shall direct; each Company to be commanded by a Captain, Captain-Lieutenant, First and Second Lieutenants; and to consist of a Fire-Worker, four Sergeants, four Corporals, one Bombardier, and fifty Matrosses, all of whom are to be able-bodied freemen, and to be enlisted for one year, unless sooner discharged; and, when enlisted, shall sign the following Inlistment Roll:

"I,, have this day voluntarily inlisted myself in one of the Artillery Companies to be raised for the defence of New-Jersey, under the command of Captain, to continue in such Company one year, unless sooner discharged; and do bind myself to conform, in all instances, to such rules and regulations as are, or shall be established, for the government of the Continental Forces, or for the said Artillery Companies, by the Congress or Committee of Safety of New-Jersey."

And it is further Resolved, That there shall be paid to the Officers and Privates of said Companies, from the time they respectively enter into the service, the same pay as is allowed the Artillery in the Continental service; which shall be punctually paid by the Paymasters hereinafter named and appointed, or one of them, who shall pay each officer ten Shillings for every man he shall enlist in said Companies, passing muster; and also pay unto each person so enlisted, one Dollar a week for his subsistence, from the time he enlists in such Company, until he shall be properly stationed, and otherwise provided for.

And it is further Resolved, That said Companies shall, at their own expense, put themselves in proper uniform, and furnish themselves with good Muskets, or Fusils with Bayonets.

And it is further Resolved, That when any Company shall be raised, the Captain shall cause the said Company to be mustered in the presence of the Mustermasters, or either of them, appointed to muster the Third Battalion now raising, who are hereby appointed Mustermasters for that purpose; and upon such review, may reject such persons as they, or either of them, may think unfit or improper for such service. And if upon such review, such Mustermaster, who shall attend for that purpose, shall find the said Company complete, agreeable to the above directions, shall, thereupon, certify the same on the back of the Muster-Roll of such Company, to this Congress, or, in their recess, to the Committee of Safety, in order that Commissions may be made out to the Officers of such Company; which Commissions, the Committee of Safety of this Colony, during the recess of this Congress, upon receiving certificates as above, are required to make out and issue.

And it is further Resolved, That Azariah Dunham, Esq. be, and is hereby appointed Commissary and Paymaster to the Company of Artillery in the Eastern Division of this Province; and that Joseph Ellis, Esq., be, and is hereby appointed Commissary and Paymaster to the said Company, directed to be raised in the Western Division; which said Commissaries shall pay off the said Companies monthly; and when assembled, and attending the duty to which they are appointed, the said Commissaries shall provide for such Companies the same rations of provision and drink, as are allowed to the Continental Forces. The said Paymasters and Commissaries, before they enter upon the execution of the trust hereby reposed in them, shall severally take an oath, "That they will, well and truly, do and perform the duties hereby enjoined them, and render true accounts of their receipts and disbursements when required by a Congress of this Province, or any other Representative body of this Colony, who may call for the same;" and deposit such deposition with the Treasurer of the Division to which they belong. And said Paymasters and Commissaries, shall have and receive from the Treasurers of this Colony, appointed by Congress, or either of them, all such sum, or sums of money, from time to time, as they, or either of them, shall find necessary for the purposes aforesaid; and shall be allowed a reasonable compensation for their time and trouble, in receiving and paying the moneys herein made payable; and for procuring and supplying provisions for said Companies as aforesaid. And the receipts of the said Paymasters and Commissaries, for all moneys by them, or either of them, received of the said Treasurers, or either of them, as aforesaid, shall be sufficient vouchers to indemnify the said Treasurers, their Executors and Administrators, for all moneys by them, or either of them, paid out pursuant to the directions of this Ordinance.

And it is further Resolved, That the Mustermasters shall be allowed a reasonable compensation for reviewing and mustering such Companies.

An Ordinance for paying a bounty on Saltpetre and common Salt, manufactured in New-Jersey, and for purchasing Saltpetre.

Whereas, by a Resolution of this Congress, of the 24th of October last, the sum of one thousand Pounds was voted to be appropriated for the payment of the bounty of one Shilling per pound, over and above the market price, for any quantity, not exceeding twenty thousand weight, of good merchantable Saltpetre, made and manufactured in this Colony, on or before the 1st day of January, 1777:

And whereas, it is necessary that some mode should be adopted, in order that the appropriation of the above bounty may be attended with the beneficial effects designed:

It is, therefore, Resolved and Directed, That every person in this Colony, who shall become a candidate for the aforesaid bounty, or any part thereof, in order to be entitled to the same, shall produce to the Treasurers of this Colony, appointed by this Congress, or either of them, a certificate under the hands and seals of the Chairman of the Committee of the County where such person resides, "That the quantity of Saltpetre, for which such person shall claim the bounty, was manufactured in such County, at some time before the 1st day of January, 1777; that the same is good merchantable; and that the claimant hath not before received any bounty for the same."

And the several County Committees of this Colony are hereby authorized and directed, when any claimant for the said bounty shall apply to them, to examine such claimant upon oath, or affirmation, as to the purport of the above certificate; and in order that the quality of the Saltpetre may be sufficiently ascertained, the County Committees are directed to call in the aid of persons well skilled in that commodity. And as this Congress are desirous to give every possible encouragement to this most necessary manufacture; it is, therefore,

Resolved, unanimously, That the Committees of each respective County in this Colony, do contract for all such good merchantable Saltpetre that shall be made in this Colony, at any time before the 1st day of September next, and for which the aforesaid bounty shall be claimed, at any price, not exceeding three Shillings per pound for the same, over and above the said bounty; and the said Committees are hereby directed to purchase the same for the use of this Colony, to be disposed of as the Congress of this Province shall direct.

And it is further Resolved and Directed, That the said Treasurers of this Colony, or either of them, out of the fifty thousand Pounds made current in Bills of Credit, do pay to the several persons, who, upon producing such certificates, as aforesaid, shall, or may claim the payment of the above bounty, or any part thereof, such sum, or sums of money, as they shall, respectively, be entitled to as aforesaid. And, also, to the Chairman of the several County Committees of this Colony, or to their order given in Committee, such sum, or sums of money as the respective County Committees shall have engaged to pay for the purchase of such Saltpetre as aforesaid: Provided, That the amount of the sums claimed to be paid as a bounty, do not exceed the sum of one thousand Pounds, and that not more than the sum of three thousand Pounds be advanced for the purchase of Saltpetre; and the receipt of such claimants, or the receipt of the Chairman of such respective County Committee, or person in whose favour an order may be given as aforesaid, endorsed on such certificates, shall be sufficient vouchers to the said Treasurers, or either of them, for the payment of such bounties, or for the purchase of Saltpetre as aforesaid.

And whereas, the making of common Salt in this Colony is a matter of the highest importance at this time; it is, therefore,

Resolved, unanimously, That a bounty of six Pence per bushel, for every bushel of good merchantable Salt, that shall be made in this Colony, at any time before the 1st day of November, 1776, which bounty, the said Treasurers of this Colony, or either of them, are hereby required to pay, upon certificates duly attested, and agreed to as aforesaid, under the hand and seal of the Chairman of the Committee of the County where such Salt shall be made, certifying, that it hath been proved by the oaths of credible witnesses, that such Salt hath actually been made in some County of this Colony, at some time before the said 1st day of November, 1776; and that the claimant hath not before received any bounty for the same, and the receipt of the Chairman endorsed thereon, shall be sufficient vouchers to the said Treasurers, or either of them, for the payment of the said bounty.

An Ordinance to provide for the payment of Incidental Charges.

Whereas, it is necessary to provide for the payment of such Incidental Charges as have accrued during the sittings of this Congress:

It is, therefore, Resolved and Directed, That there be paid to Samuel Tucker and John Dennis, Esquires, the

To the Secretary of this Congress, fourteen Shillings per diem, for each day that he hath or shall attend this Congress, to be certified as aforesaid.

To Myndert Voorhees, the sum of fifteen Pounds for Fire-Wood and Candles, and for the use of his large Room, during the present sitting of this Congress.

And it is further Resolved and Directed, That there be paid to the Commissioners appointed to purchase Arms and Ammunition, Tents and other Military Stores, such sum, or sums of money, as the said Commissioners, or any three of them shall agree upon, as necessary to be expended; whose receipts shall be sufficient vouchers for the payment of the same.

To John Carey, Esq., as a recompense for his services as Secretary, during the last sitting of this Congress, at Trenton, and for revising and copying the Minutes for the Press, the sum of eleven Pounds four Shillings, Proclamation money.

To Doctor Moses Scott, the sum of one Pound sixteen Shillings and three Pence, in full of his account for attending certain sick Soldiers in New-Brunswick.

To Robert Drummond, Esquire, the sum of nine Pounds three Shillings and four Pence, in full of his account for removing the Treasury and Records in the Secretary's Office at Perth-Amboy, to New-Brunswick.

To John Pope, Esq., the sum of three Pounds three Shillings, for sundry expenditures, as per account.

To Azariah Dunham, Esq., the sum of two Pounds, for his expenses in going to and returning from Philadelphia, on a message to the honourable Continental Congress.

To Abraham Clark, Esquire, for copying and correcting the Minutes and Ordinances of this Session for the Press, such sum as Azariah Dunham and John Dennis, Esquires, shall agree to be paid for that service.

Which certificates, with receipts endorsed thereon, shall be sufficient vouchers to the said Treasurers, or either of them; and shall discharge them, their heirs, executors, and administrators, from the several payments so made and paid out of the Treasury by virtue of this Ordinance.

CONTINENTAL CONGRESS.

The Congress took into consideration the Report of the Committee on Captain Sellick's Petition, which was agreed to, as follows:

That they have maturely considered the Petition, and have examined Captain Sellick particularly thereon, and are of opinion, that the Petitioner be allowed, as a compensation for his expenses, trouble, and risk in taking the goods at Turtle-Bay, for the use of the United Colonies, the sum of three hundred and thirty-three Dollars and one-third, and that the Committee of Fairfield be directed to take into their possession, for the use of the said Colonies, all the goods taken by Captain Sellick, which are not already delivered by him, and to forward the two boxes of Saltpetre now in Captain Sellick's custody, to the Powder-Mill in Ulster County, to be manufactured into Gunpowder for the Continental service.

The Congress proceeded to the election of an Adjutant for the Battalion raised in Pennsylvania, and the ballots being taken,

John Patterson was elected.

Resolved, That the President sign Commissions to the Field-Officers, appointed by the Provincial Congress of North-Carolina, to command the two Battalions directed to be raised in that Colony by the Continental Congress, and that such Commissions bear like date with those issued to the said Officers by the said Provincial Congress of North-Carolina.

"JOHN MCKESSON, Secretary."

The Committee to whom the Letters from General Washington, and the intercepted Letters, were referred, brought in their Report, which being taken into consideration, the Congress came to the following Resolutions:

Resolved, That the seizing and securing the Barracks and Castle of St. Augustine will greatly contribute to the safety of these Colonies; therefore, it is earnestly recommended to the Colonies of South-Carolina, North-Carolina, and Georgia, to undertake the reduction of St. Augustine, if it be thought practicable.

Resolved, That the President of the Provincial Council of North-Carolina, and of Georgia, be requested to procure Committees of their several bodies to repair immediately to Charlestown, and there to confer with a Committee of the Council of Safety of South-Carolina, upon weighty and important matters relative to the defence and security of those Colonies.

Resolved, That the first Resolution, together with copies or extracts of such of the intercepted Letters as tend to show the state of the Forts and Garrison at St. Augustine, be transmitted by express to Henry Middleton and John Rutledge, Esquires, members of Congress, to be by them laid before the Committee directed to meet in consequence of the above Resolution; and in case the enterprise be judged practicable, that immediate preparations be made by the joint force of the said Colonies, and the expedition be undertaken without delay, at the expense of the United Colonies.

Adjourned to ten o'clock, to-morrow.

Tuesday, January 2, 1776.

The Committee of Claims reported, that there is due:

Resolved, That the prayer of said Petition be not granted.

The Committee on the state of New-York brought in their Report, which was read.

The Report of Captain Motte, with regard to the disposition of the Officers taken prisoners at St. John's, was laid before Congress, and read.

The Committee to whom the Report on Lord Stirling's Letters were recommitted brought in their Report, which, being taken into consideration, was agreed to, as follows:

That the President acquaint his Lordship, that the Congress has provided against the inconvenience of vexatious arrests of the men inlisting in the Continental service.

That the Barracks in the Colony of New-Jersey be prepared for the reception of such of the Battalions as may not be in readiness to proceed to New-York, and that the Ministerial troops, or prisoners, at present occupying them, be accommodated in the said Colony, in such manner as the Committee of Safety for said Colony shall think most prudent and convenient.

That Mr. Lowrey, the Commissary, be directed to supply the said Battalions with Stockings, and that the Delegates for the Colony of New-Jersey transmit to Lord Stirling six dozen printed copies of the Articles of War.

That considering not only the defenceless condition of the Colony of New-Jersey, for want of Ammunition in case of a hostile invasion of that Colony, but the evident want of the assistance of those Battalions for the defence of New-York, where an attack of the enemy is most probably to be apprehended, a requisition be made by the Congress to the Committee of Safety of Pennsylvania, of four hundred weight of Powder for the said Battalion.

That the same Fire-Wood, Camp-Equipage, and Barrack-Utensils be allowed to each of the New-Jersey Battalions as are allowed to the Battalion raised in Pennsylvania.

That the hundred stand of Arms supplied by the Colony of New-York for the New-Jersey Battalions, be paid for by the Convention of New-Jersey; and that in order to enable the said Convention to make such payment, as well as to furnish such of the men belonging to the said Battalions, as are yet unprovided with Arms, the further sum of 1000 Dollars be advanced to the said Convention; and that the price of the Arms be deducted out of the wages of the Privates belonging to the said Battalions.

That Lord Stirling be directed to seize and secure all the Ammunition and Warlike Stores belonging to the enemy, which now are, or hereafter may be, imported into the Colony of New-Jersey, and keep them till he shall receive the orders of Congress respecting them; and further, that he do, from time to time, give aid and protection to all the friends of America, who may be employed in importing into the said Colony, Ammunition, or other commodities not prohibited by the Association and Resolves of this Congress.

Whereas, it has been represented to this Congress, that divers honest and well-meaning, but uninformed people in these Colonies, have, by the art and address of Ministerial Agents, been deceived and drawn into erroneous opinions respecting the American cause, and the probable issue of the present contest:

Resolved, That it be recommended to the different Committees, and other friends to American liberty, in the said Colonies, to treat all such persons with kindness and attention; to consider them as the inhabitants of a country determined to be free, and to view their errors as proceeding rather from want of information than want of virtue or public spirit ; to explain to them the origin, nature, and extent of the present controversy ; to acquaint them with the fate of the numerous Petitions presented to His Majesty, as well by Assemblies as by Congresses, for reconciliation and redress of grievances : and that the last from this Congress, humbly requesting the single favour of being heard, like all the others, has proved unsuccessful ; to unfold to them the various arts of Administration to ensnare and enslave us, and the manner in which we have been cruelly driven to defend, by arms, those very rights, liberties and estates, which we and our forefathers had so long enjoyed unmolested in the reigns of His present Majesty's predecessors. And it is hereby recommended to all Conventions and Assemblies in these Colonies, liberally to distribute among the people, the proceedings of this and the former Congress, the late speeches of the great patriots in both Houses of Parliament relative to American grievances, and such other pamphlets and papers as tend to elucidate the merits of the American cause, the Congress being fully persuaded, that the more our right to the enjoyment of our ancient liberties and privileges is examined, the more just and necessary our present opposition to Ministerial tyranny will appear.

And, with respect to all such unworthy Americans, as, regardless of their duty to their Creator, their country and their posterity, have taken part with our oppressors, and, influenced by the hope or possession of ignominious rewards, strive to recommend themselves to the bounty of Administration, by misrepresenting and traducing the conduct and principles of the friends of American liberty, and opposing every measure formed for its preservation and security :

Resolved, That it be recommended to the different Assemblies, Conventions, and Committees or Councils of Safety in the United Colonies, by the most speedy and effectual measures, to frustrate the mischievous machinations, and restrain the wicked practices of these men: And it is the opinion of this Congress, that they ought to be disarmed, and the more dangerous among them, either kept in safe custody, or bound with sufficient sureties to their good behaviour.

And in order that the said Assemblies, Conventions, Committees, or Councils of Safety, may be enabled with greater ease and facility to carry this Resolution into execution,

Resolved, That they be authorized to call to their aid whatever Continental Troops, stationed in or near their respective Colonies, may be conveniently spared from their more immediate duty ; and the Commanding Officers of such Troops are hereby directed to afford the said Assemblies, Conventions, Committees, or Councils of Safety, all such assistance in executing this Resolution as they may require, and which, consistent with the good of the service, may be supplied.

Resolved, That all detachments of Continental Troops, which may be ordered on the business in the foregoing Resolution mentioned, be, while so employed, under the direction and control of the Assemblies, Conventions, Committees, or Councils of Safety, aforesaid.

Resolved, That it be recommended to all the United Colonies to aid each other, on request from their respective Assemblies, Conventions, Committees, or Councils of Safety, and County Committees, on every emergency, and to cultivate, cherish, and increase the present happy and necessary union, by a continual interchange of mutual good offices.

And whereas, the execrable barbarity with which this unhappy war has been conducted on the part of our enemies, (such as burning our defenceless towns and villages, exposing their inhabitants, without regard to sex or age, to all the miseries which loss of property, the rigour of the season, and inhuman devastation, can inflict, exciting domestic insurrections and murders, bribing the Savages to desolate our frontiers, and casting such of us as the fortune of war has put in their power, into jails, there to languish in irons and in want ; compelling the inhabitants of Boston, in violation of the treaty, to remain confined within the town, exposed to the insolence of the soldiery, and other enormities, at the mention of which decency and humanity will ever blush) may justly provoke the inhabitants of these Colonies to retaliate :

Resolved, That it be recommended to them to continue mindful that humanity ought to distinguish the brave ; that cruelty should find no admission among a free people ; and to take care that no page in the annals of America be stained by a recital of any action which justice or Christianity may condemn ; and to rest assured, that whenever retaliation may be necessary, or tend to their security, this Congress will undertake the disagreeable task.

Resolved, That the Assemblies, Conventions, or Committees, or Councils of Safety, be requested forthwith to transmit to this Congress copies of all the Petitions, Memorials, and Remonstrances, which have been, by the respective Colonies, presented to the Throne, or either House of Parliament, since the year 1762 ; and that they, also, inform the Congress whether any, and what, answers were given to them.

Resolved, That Mr. Bartlett be appointed one of the Committee of Claims, in the room of Mr. Langdon, and Mr. Samuel Adams, in the room of Mr. Cushing, who have leave of absence.

Adjourned to ten o'clock, to-morrow.

Wednesday, January 3, 1776.

A Letter from General Washington, dated the 25th of December, enclosing a Letter from General Howe, and accompanied with sundry papers, was laid before Congress, and read.

The Committee of Safety having recommended sundry gentlemen for Field-Officers of the four Battalions ordered to be raised in Pennsylvania, the Congress proceeded to the election ; and Arthur St. Clair, Esquire, was elected Colonel of the Second Battalion ; John Shea, Esquire, Colonel of the Third Battalion ; Anthony Wayne, Esquire, Colonel of the Fourth Battalion ; Robert Mugau, Esquire, Colonel of the Fifth Battalion.

The Congress, taking into consideration the Report of the Secret Committee, thereupon came to the following Resolutions :

Resolved, That the following Goods and Stores ought to be imported, as soon as possible, for the use of the United Colonies, viz : 60,000 striped Blankets ; 120,000 yards of 6-4 Broadcloths, the colours to be brown and blue, from 3s. to 6s. sterling, per yard ; 10,000 yards of ditto, different colours, for facings, at 4s. ; 3,000 pieces of Duffels, or some such Cloth ; 100 M. sorted Needles ; 50 M. ditto, none very fine ; 10 M. ditto, for Sailcloth ; 3,000 pieces of Raven's Duck ; 3,000 pieces of Tickenburgs ; 1,500 pieces of Osnaburghs ; 1,000 pieces of Vitrey ; 4,000 pieces of Hamburgh Dowlas ; 20,000 stand of Arms ; 300 tons of Lead ; 1,000,000 Flints ; 1,500 boxes of Tin, and Iron Wire, properly sorted for it ; Medicines, Surgeons' Instruments, Lint, and Bandages, in the whole, to the amount of 2,000 Pounds, sterling ; 500 sheets of Copper, of different sorts.

Resolved, That the Secret Committee be empowered and directed to pursue the most effectual measures for importing the above articles.

Resolved, That the further consideration of this Report be postponed.

The Committee of Claims reported, that there is due to Captain Edward Motte, for expenses, &c., in conducting the Prisoners taken at St. John's, from Kingston, in the Province of New-York, to Lancaster, in the Province of Pennsylvania, a balance of 367.7 Dollars.

That there is due to Robert Erwin, Wagonmaster, for carriage of Clothing and Medicine to Dobb's Ferry and to Cambridge 222.6 Dollars.

Ordered, That the above be paid.

The Committee on the state of New-York brought in a further Report, which, being taken into consideration, was agreed to, as follows :

Whereas, a majority of the inhabitants of Queen's County, in the Colony of New-York, being incapable of resolving to live and die freemen, and being more disposed to quit their liberties than part with the little proportion of their property necessary to defend them, have deserted the American cause, by refusing to send Deputies, as usual, to the Convention of that Colony ; and avowing, by a public Declaration, an unmanly design of remaining inactive spectators of the present contest, vainly flattering themselves, perhaps, that should Providence declare for our enemies, they may purchase their mercy and favour at an easy rate; and, on the other hand, if the war should terminate to the advantage of America, that then they may enjoy, without expense of blood or treasure, all the blessings resulting from that liberty which they, in the day of trial, had abandoned, and in defence of which many of their more virtuous neighbours and countrymen had nobly died; and although the want of public spirit, observable in these men, rather excites pity than alarm, there being little danger to apprehend either from their prowess or example, yet it being reasonable that those who refuse to defend their country should be excluded from its protection, and be prevented from doing it injury:

Resolved, That all such persons in Queen's County, aforesaid, as voted against sending Deputies to the present Convention of New-York, and named in a list of delinquents in Queen's County, published by the Convention of New-York, be put out of the protection of the United Colonies, and that all trade and intercourse with them cease; that none of the inhabitants of that County be permitted to travel or abide in any part of these United Colonies, out of their said County, without a certificate from the Convention, or Committee of Safety of the Colony of New-York, setting forth that such inhabitant is a friend to the American cause, and not of the number of those who voted against sending Deputies to the said Convention; and that such of the said inhabitants as shall be found out of the said County, without such certificate, be apprehended, and imprisoned three months.

Resolved, That no Attorney, or Lawyer, ought to commence, prosecute, or defend any action at law, of any kind, for any of the said inhabitants of Queen's County, who voted against sending Deputies to the Convention, as aforesaid; and such Attorney, or Lawyer, as shall contravene this Resolution, are enemies to the American cause, and ought to be treated accordingly.

Resolved, That the Convention, or Committee of Safety of the Colony of New-York, be requested to continue publishing, for a month, in all their Gazettes, or Newspapers, the names of all such of the inhabitants of Queen's County as voted against sending Deputies; and to give certificates, in the manner before recommended, to such others of the said inhabitants as are friends to American liberty.

And it is recommended to all Conventions, Committees of Safety, and others, to be diligent in executing the above Resolutions.

Resolved, That Colonel Nathaniel Heard, of Woodbridge, in the Colony of New-Jersey, taking with him five or six hundred Minute-Men, under discreet officers, do march to the western part of Queen's County, and that Colonel Waterbury, of Stamford, in the Colony of Connecticut, with the like number of Minute-Men, march to the eastern part of the said County; that they confer together, and endeavour to enter the said County on the same day; that they proceed to disarm every person in the said County, who voted against sending Deputies to the said Convention, and cause them to deliver up their arms and ammunition on oath, and that they take and confine in safe custody, till further orders, all such as refuse compliance.

That they apprehend and secure, till further orders, the persons named as principal men among the disaffected in the said County, in a summons for their appearance before the Convention of New-York, issued the 12th of December last, viz:

Of Jamaica Township, Captain Benjamin Whitehead, Charles Arden, Joseph French, Esquire, Johannes Polhemus.

Of Newtown, Nathaniel Moore, John Moore, Senior, Samuel Hallet, John Moore, Jun., William Weyman, John Shoals, Jeromus Rapalje.

Of Flushing, John Willet.

Of Hempstead, Justice Gilbert Van Wyck, Daniel Kismans, Esquire; of Cow-Neck, Captain Jacob Mott, Thomas Cornhill; of Rockaway, Gabriel G. Ludlow, Richard Hewlett, Captain Charles Hicks, Doctor Martin, Justice Samuel Clowes.

Of Oyster-Bay, Justice Thomas Smith, of Hog-Island, Justice John Hewlett, Captain George Weeks, Doctor David Brooks, Justice John Townsend.

And all such other persons who shall be found in arms, or who shall oppose the carrying the above Resolutions into effect, as the said Colonel Heard or Colonel Waterbury may think prudent to detain.

Resolved, That it be recommended to the said Colonel Heard and Colonel Waterbury, to execute the business intrusted to them by the foregoing Resolutions, with all possible despatch, secrecy, order, and humanity.

Resolved, That the Committee of Safety of the Colony of Pennsylvania be requested to furnish Colonel Heard with two hundred pounds of Gunpowder.

That it appears to your Committee, that the said Mr. Lovell hath, for years past, been an able advocate for the liberties of America, and mankind; that by his letter to General Washington, which is a part of the said enclosures, he exhibits so striking an instance of disinterested patriotism as strongly recommends him to the particular notice of this Continent.

Your Committee, therefore, submit the following Resolutions to the consideration of the Congress:

Resolved, That Mr. James Lovell, an inhabitant of Boston, now held a close prisoner there, by order of General Howe, has discovered, under the severest trials, the warmest attachment to publick liberty, an inflexible fidelity to his country; that by his late letter to General Washington, he has given the strongest evidence of disinterested publick affection, in refusing to listen to terms offered for his relief, till he could be informed by his countrymen that they were compatible with their safety and honour.

Adjourned to ten o'clock, to-morrow.

Wednesday, January 24, 1776.

A Letter from the Committee of Trenton, of January 23d was read.

The Secretary laid before Congress an account of the repulse our Troops met with in their attempt on Quebeck, was read :

Ordered, That the same be published.

An Account of the Repulse our Troops met with in their attempt on Quebeck, the 31st December, 1775, published by Congress.

The letters from Canada bring an account of an unsuccessful attempt made to gain possession of Quebeck by storm, on the 31st December last, between the hours of two and seven in the morning.

The General, finding his cannon too light to effect a breach, and that the enemy would not hearken to terms of capitulation, formed a design for carrying the town by escalade. In this he was encouraged by the extensiveness of the works and the weakness of the garrison. When every thing was prepared, while he was waiting the opportunity of a snow-storm to carry the design into execution, several men deserted to the enemy. His plan at first was to have attacked the upper and lower town at the same time, depending principally for success against the upper town.

But discovering from the motions of the enemy, that they were apprized of his design, he altered his plan; and having divided his little army into four detachments, ordered two feints to be made against the upper town, one by Colonel Livingston, at the head of the Canadians, against St. John's Gate; the other by Captain Brown, at the head of a small detachment, against Cape-Diamond; reserving to himself and Colonel Arnold the two principal attacks against the lower town.

At five o'clock, the hour appointed for the attack, the General, at the head of the New-York Troops, advanced against the lower town at Aunce de Mere. Being obliged to take a circuit, the signal for the attack was given, and the garrison alarmed, before he reached the place. However, pressing on, he passed the first barrier, and was just opening to attempt the second, when, by the first fire from the enemy, he was unfortunately killed, together with his Aid-de-camp, Captain John Macpherson, Capt. Cheeseman, and two or three more. This so dispirited the men, that Colonel Campbell, on whom the command devolved, found himself under the disagreeable necessity of drawing them off.

In the mean while, Colonel Arnold, at the head of about three hundred and fifty of those brave troops who with unparalleled fatigue had penetrated Canada under his command, and Captain Lamb's Company of Artillery, had passed through St. Roques, and approached near a two-gun battery, without being discovered. This he attacked; and though it was well defended for about an hour, carried it with a loss of a number of men. In this attack Colonel Arnold had the misfortune to have his leg splintered by a shot, and was obliged to be carried to the Hospital. After gaining the battery, his detachment passed on to a second barrier, which they took possession of. By this time the enemy, relieved from the other attacks, by our troops being drawn off, directed their whole force against this detachment; and a party sallying out from Palace-Gate, attacked them in the rear.

These brave men sustained the force of the whole garrison for three hours; but finding themselves hemmed in, and no hopes of relief, they were obliged to yield to numbers, and the advantageous situation the garrison had over them.

No regular return is yet come to hand; but by the advices received, we learn, that our loss, in killed and wounded, amounts to about sixty, and three hundred taken prisoners, who are treated very humanely. Among the slain are Captain Hendricks and Lieutenant Humphreys, of the Riflemen, and Lieutenant Cooper.

After this unfortunate repulse, the remainder of the Army retired about three miles from the city, where they have posted themselves advantageously, and are continuing the blockade, waiting for reinforcements, which are now on their march to join them.

Every possible mark of distinction was shown to the corpse of General Montgomery, who was interred in Quebeck, on the 2d January.

Resolved, That such of the Soldiers, ordered to Canada, as are married, and are desirous of having part of their pay given to their Wives, be indulged; and that the Captains be directed, in future payments of such Soldiers to deduct such part out of their Monthly Pay.

Resolved, That the President be desired to inform General Schuyler, that the return of Cannon, mentioned in his letter of December 21st, is mislaid, and that, therefore, he be desired to make a return to Congress as soon as may be, of all the Cannon and Artillery at Crown-Point and Ticonderoga, exclusive of those taken by Colonel Knox, for General Washington.

Resolved, That Mr. Bankson be appointed a First Lieutenant in the room of Mr. Morgan, who is in the country.

Information being given to Congress, that some Soldiers in the First Pennsylvania Battalion, now ordered to march immediately to Canada, are not supplied with Arms:

Resolved, That the Commanding Officer of said Battalion be directed to make a Return of the Arms of said Battalion, and how many are wanting, to the President of the Committee of Inspection and Observation for the City and Liberties of Philadelphia.

That the said Committee be desired to use their utmost influence to provide good Arms for such of said Battalion as may want them.

Resolved, That a Committee of Seven be appointed to consider the propriety of establishing a War-Office, and the powers with which the said Office should be vested.

The Members, Mr. Lynch, Mr. Franklin, Mr. E. Rutledge, Mr. Harrison, Mr. Ward, Mr. S. Adams, and Mr. Morris.

The Committee appointed to prepare a Letter to the Inhabitants of Canada, reported a draft, which being read and considered, was approved, as follows:

FRIENDS AND COUNTRYMEN: Our former address to you pointed out your rights and grievances, and the means we have in our power, and which we are authorized by the British Constitution to use, in the maintenance of the former, and to obtain a redress of the latter.

We have, also, shown you, that your liberty, your honour, and your happiness, are essentially and necessarily connected with the unhappy contest which we have been forced into for the defence of our dearest privileges.

We see with inexpressible joy the favourable manner in which you have received the just and equitable remonstrances of your friends and countrymen, who have no other views than those of strengthening and establishing the cause of liberty. The services you have already rendered the common cause deserve our acknowledgments, and we feel the just obligation your conduct has imposed on us to make our services reciprocal.

The best of causes are subject to vicissitudes; and disappointments have ever been inevitable. Such is the lot of human nature. But generous souls, enlightened and warmed with the sacred fire of liberty, become more resolute as difficulties increase; and surmount, with irresistible ardour, every obstacle that stands between them and the favourite object of their wishes.

We will never abandon you to the unrelenting fury of your and our enemies. Two battalions have already received orders to march to Canada, a part of which are now on their route. Six additional battalions are raising in the United Colonies, for the same service, and will receive orders to proceed to your Province as soon as possible. The whole of these troops will probably arrive in Canada before the Ministerial army under General Carleton can receive any succours. Exclusive of the forces beforementioned, we have directed that measures be immediately taken to embody two regiments in your country. Your assistance in the support and preservation of American liberty affords us the most sensible satisfaction; and we flatter ourselves that you will seize with zeal and eagerness the favourable moment to co-operate in the success of so glorious an enterprise. And if more considerable forces should become requisite, they shall not fail being sent.

At this period you must be convinced that nothing is so essential to guard our interests and liberty as efficacious measures to combine our mutual forces, in order that, by such a union of succour and counsels, we may be able to baffle the endeavours of an enemy who, to weaken, may attempt to divide us. To this effect we advise and exhort you to establish Associations, in your different Parishes, of the same nature with those which have proved so salutary to the United Colonies; to elect Deputies to form a Provincial Assembly; and that said Assembly be instructed to appoint Delegates to represent them in this Congress. We flatter ourselves with the prospect of the happy moment when the standard of tyranny shall no longer appear in this land; and we live in full hopes that it will never hereafter find shelter in North-America.

Signed in the name and by order of Congress:

JOHN HANCOCK, President.

Met according to adjournment, and having attended the Oration delivered in honour of General Montgomery, and of those Officers and Soldiers who magnanimously fought and fell with him in maintaining the principles of liberty.*

Adjourned to ten o'clock, to-morrow.

* An Oration in Memory of General MONTGOMERY, and of the Officers and Soldiers who fell with him, DECEMBER 31, 1775, before QUEBEC; drawn up (and delivered FEBRUARY 19, 1776,) at the desire of the Honourable Continental Congress, by WILLIAM SMITH, D. D., Provost of the College and Academy of PHILADELPHIA.

FATHERS, BRETHREN AND COUNTRYMEN! An occasion truly solemn has assembled us this day; and, that your attention may be alike solemn and serious, hear, in the first place, the voice of Eternal Truth: "It is better to go to the house of mourning, than to the house of feasting;" for, "None of us liveth to himself, and no man dieth to himself."

But there are some men, illuminated with a purer ray of divinity, patriots of the first magnitude, who, in a peculiar sense, may be said to live and die, not to themselves, but to others; and consequently to Him who is the author of all goodness. Endowed with that superior excellence which does honour to our whole species, the virtuous of every nation claim kindred with them; and the general interests of humanity are concerned in their character.

In veneration of such men, to exchange the accustomed walks of pleasure for the house of mourning; to bedew its sacred recesses with tears of gratitude to their memory; to strive, if possible, to catch some portion of their ethereal spirit, as it mounts from this earthly sphere, into perfect union with congenial spirits above—is a laudable custom, coeval with society, and sanctified to us by the example of the wisest nations.

It was the manner of the Egyptians, the fathers of arts and science, not only to celebrate the names, but to embalm the bodies of their deceased heroes, that they might be long preserved in public view, as examples of virtue; and, although "dead, yet speaking."

But this honour was not easily to be obtained; nor was it bestowed indiscriminately upon the vulgar great. It was decreed only by the public voice—a venerable assembly of judges, before whom the body of the deceased was brought for trial, and solemnly acquitted or condemned upon the evidence of the people.

Even Kings themselves, however much spared when alive, for the sake of public tranquillity, had still this more than fiery ordeal before their eyes; and, by the example of some of their number, who had been refused sepulture in those very tombs which their pride had prepared to their own memory, were taught both to venerate and to dread a law, which extended its punishments beyond the usual times of oblivion.

The moral of this institution was truly sublime—constantly inculcating a most important lesson, "That whatever distinctions our wants and vices may render necessary, in this short and imperfect period of our being, they are all cancelled by the hand of death; and, through the endless untried periods which succeed, virtue and beneficence will make the true distinctions, and be the only foundations of happiness and renown!"

If from the Egyptians, we pass to the Greeks, particularly the enlightened Athenians, we shall find that they had an express law, appointing orations and public funerals, in honour of those who gloriously sacrificed their lives to their country. And this solemn office was performed before the great assemblies of the people; sometimes for one, and sometimes for bands of heroes together.

Thucydides has recorded a celebrated Oration of this last kind, delivered by Pericles. The illustrious speaker, after a most animating description of the Amor Patriæ—the love of our country—which he exalts above all human virtues, turns to the deceased:

"Having bestowed their lives to the publick, every one of them, (says he) hath received a praise that will never decay; a sepulchre that will always be most illustrious; not that in which their bones lie mouldering, but that in which their fame is preserved. This whole earth is the

The Convention of New-Jersey, having made a new choice of Delegates to represent that Colony in Congress, three of said Delegates attending, produced their Credentials, which were read as follows:

"In Provincial Convention, New-Jersey, Brunswick, }

"On motion, Resolved, unanimously, That William Livingston, John De Hart, Richard Smith, John Cooper, and Jonathan Dickinson Sergeant, Esqs., be Delegates to represent this Province in the Continental Congress, for the space of one year, or until others shall be legally appointed in their stead; and that they, or any three or more of them, have full and ample power to consent and agree to all measures which such Congress shall deem necessary; and this Province bind themselves to execute, to the utmost of their power, all resolutions which the said Congress may adopt. And further, if the said Congress shall think necessary to adjourn, we do authorize our said Delegates to represent and act for this Province, in any one Congress to be held by virtue of such adjournments, during their delegation.

A Petition from sundry Inhabitants near Pittsburgh, was presented and read.

Resolved, That the above Memorial and Petition be referred to a Committee of Five.

sepulchre of illustrious citizens;" and their inscription is written upon the hearts of all good men.

"As for you, the survivors, from this very moment, emulating their virtues, place your sole happiness in liberty; and be prepared to follow its call through every danger." Then, addressing himself, with exquisite tenderness, to the relatives and children of the deceased, he suggests to them that the Commonwealth was their husband, their father and brother.

"From this day forward to the age of maturity, shall the orphans be educated at the publick expense of the state. For this benevolent meed have the laws appointed to all future relicts of those who may fall in the publick contests."

Nor were the Romans less careful in this matter. Considering men in general as brave, more by art than nature; and that honour is a more powerful incentive than fear; they made frugality, temperance, patience of labour, manly exercise, and love of their country, the main principles of education. Cowardice and neglect of duty in the field, were seldom punished with death or corporal inflictions; but, by what was accounted worse, a life decreed to ignominious expulsion and degradation from Roman privileges. On the contrary, deeds of publick virtue were rewarded, according to their magnitude, with statuos, triumphs of various kinds, peculiar badges of dress at publick solemnities, and songs of praise* to the living as well as the dead.

Next to the hymns composed in honour of the gods, poetry derived its origin from the songs of triumph to heroes, who tamed the rude manners of mankind; founded cities, repelled the incursions of enemies, and gave peace to their country. And this custom began when Rome contained only a few shepherds, gathering strength by an alluvies of the outcasts of neighbouring nations.

Those first efforts of poetick eulogy, whether in prose or verse (like those of a similar origin, which nature, always the same, teaches our Savage neighbours, although often sublime in substance, were yet so rude in structure, that Livy† forbears quoting them, as having become intolerable to the more refined taste of his age, however suitable they might have been to the era of their production.

What a multitude of compositions of this kind must have existed between the barbarous songs of the military upon the triumph of Cassius,‡ and the celebrated panegyrick of Pliny upon Trajan! They are said to have been swelled into two thousand volumes, even in the time of Augustus. In short, the praise of publick virtue was wrought into the whole texture of Roman polity; and Virgil, calling religion to his aid, gave it the highest finish.

He divides his shades, or place of ghosts, into different regions; and to the gulph of deepest perdition,¶ consigns those monsters of iniquity who delighted in the destruction of mankind, betrayed their country,

For these same laws a bribe repeal'd again."

Vultures prey upon their vitals, or they are whirled eternally round with Ixion upon his wheel, or bound down with Tantalus, whose burning fire hangs quivering over the elusive waters it cannot touch; or the fiery Typhoea, her hair entwined with serpents, her garments red with human gore, urges on their tortures with unrelenting hand!

The poet having thus exhausted imagination, as well as mythology, in the description of punishments for the disturbers of mankind and foes to their country, raises his conclusion to a height of horror beyond the reach of expression:

"Had I a hundred mouths, a hundred tongues,
A voice of brass, and adamantine lips;
Not half the mighty scene could I disclose;
Repeat their crimes, or count their dreadful woes."

Nor has Virgil strayed any further through the fields of fancy or fable in this place, than to borrow strength of colouring for the garb of truth; and, I suspect, that he drank from a purer fountain than that of Helicon, when he peopled his Tartarus with the ancient scourges of the human race. An authority scarce among Christians has, indeed, given us a most awful confirmation of his doctrine.

A prophet and poet indeed, whose inspiration was truly from Heaven, the incomparably sublime Isaiah, foretelling the fall of Babylon, has an ode of triumph, wherein he exults over its haughty monarch in strains of wonderful irony and reproach. He reproaches him as a destroyer of mankind, who had "made the world a wilderness." He represents the whole earth as delivered from a curse by his fall! The trees of the forest rejoice, because he is laid low! The very grave refuses a covering to his execrable corpse! He is consigned to the depths of misery; while the infernal mansions themselves are moved at his approach, and the ghosts of departed tyrants rise up, in horrid array and mockery of triumph, to bid him welcome to his final abode!

The astonishing grandeur and spirit of this passage, and indeed of the whole ode, are unrivalled by any portion of Greek or Roman name.

"How hath the oppressor ceased! The Lord hath broken the staff of the wicked! He that smote the people in wrath—that ruled the nations in anger—is persecuted, and none hindereth! The whole earth is at rest; they break forth into singing; yea, the firmest rejoice at thee, and the cedars of Lebanon, saying, Since thou art laid down, no feller is come up against us.

"Hell from beneath is moved for thee, to meet thee at thy coming. It stirreth up the dead for thee; even the chiefs of the nations! They say unto thee, Art thou also become weak as we? Thy pomp is brought down to the grave—How art thou fallen, O Lucifer, that didst weaken the nations? All Kings, (meaning just and merciful Kings,) even all of them lie in glory, every one in his own house, (or sepulchre;) but thou art cast out of thy grave like an abominable branch." &c.—Isaiah xiv.

But although the reward of heroes, in the Christian's heaven, be our proper theme on this solemn day; yet the passing view which we have taken of the perdition decreed to the traitors of their country, in the poet's hell, confirmed, also, by the voice of Scripture, is not foreign to our main purpose.

I know your beams glow with so strong an aversion to all the foes of liberty in this life, that you will surely avoid every thought and action, which might do you to their company in the life to come; and, therefore, bidding adieu—and may it be an eternal adieu—to those dreary regions and their miserable inhabitants, let us now exalt our joyous view to those celestial mansions, where the benefactors of mankind reap immortal triumphs!

"Lo! the best train advance along the meads,
And snowy wreaths adorn their glorious heads—
Patriots who perish'd for their country's right,
Or nobly triumph'd in the field of fight,
Warriors, who life by useful arts refine'd,
With those who leave a deathless name behind,
Friends of the world, and patrons of mankind,
Some on the verdant plain are stretch'd along,
Sweet to the ear, their tuneful Peans ring."

But here, ye Pagan poets, and thou Prince of their choir, we leave you far behind; for your sublimest flights are now infinitely short of the theme! Your gloomy theology gave you tolerable aid in forcing || Alexander himself (saith Bishop Newton) so highly renowned for his hatred of tyranny, and whose odes are also animated by the spirit of liberty and poetry, has nothing that can be compared with the Prophet in this place.

The excellent prelate above quoted, hath a further remark on this passage, which it would be unpardonable to omit.
"What a pleasure must it afford all readers of an exalted taste and generous sentiments, all true lovers of liberty, to hear the prophets thus exulting over tyrants and oppressors? The Scriptures, although often perverted to the purposes of tyranny, are yet in their own nature, and by preference to those of Homer, and all the other ancient poets, are still so very low that they seem little more than borrowed from holy-day sports on the banks of Tiber."

§ A poet now, as may appear from the following lines of Thomson, can give us descriptions of Æolian bliss, far superior to those of Virgil; "whose ideas on this subject (as Mr. Spence observes) although preferable to those of Homer, and all the other ancient poets, are still so very low that they seem little more than borrowed from holy-day sports on the banks of Tiber."

"In these bright regions of celestial day,
Far other scenes, far other pleasures reign—
All beauty here below, to them compar'd,
Would like a rose before the mid-day sun,
Shrink up its blossom—like a bubble, break
The passing poor magnificence of Kings—
For there the King of Nature, in full blaze
Calls every splendour forth; and there his court,
Amid ethereal powers and virtues, holds—
Angels, archangels, tutelary gods,
Of cities, nations, empires, and of worlds—
But sacred be the well that kindly clouds
A light too keen for mortals."

a hell, but the utmost efforts of natural genius could not make a heaven worthy of a rational and immortal soul! The glory of giving some animating description of that bliss "which eye hath not seen, nor ear before heard, nor could the unenlightened heart of man otherwise conceive," was left for a more Divine teacher. From him we learn, that a heart pure and detached from sordid pleasures, a soul panting after perfection, striving to imitate the goodness of heaven, anticipating its approving sentence, and devoted to the service of mankind, shall at last rise and mix in eternal fellowship with the beatified family of God!

Having now, my respected countrymen, and I hope I do not weary you, laid a wide foundation upon the practice of the wisest nations—in support of the present solemnity—I shall add but little more concerning the public utility of the thing itself.

Circumstances as we now are, and perhaps shall long be, in building up a fabric for future ages, it would be a wise institution, if in imitation of the Geneve Feast of Union, we should make at least an annual pause, for a review of past incidents, and of the characters of those who have borne an illustrious share in them; thereby animating our virtue, and uniting ourselves more closely in the bonds of mutual friendship.

The world, in general, is more willing to imitate, than to be taught; and examples of eminent characters have a stronger influence than written precepts. Men's actions are a more faithful mirror of their lives than their words. The former seldom deceive; but the latter often. The deeds of old contract a venerable authority over us, when sanctified by the voice of applauding ages; and, even in our own day, our hearts take an immediate part with those who have nobly triumphed, or greatly suffered in our behalf.

But—the more useful the display of such characters may be to the world, the more difficult is the work. And I am not to learn, that of all kinds of writing, panegyric requires the most delicate hand. Men seldom endure the praise of any actions, but those which their self-love represents as possible to themselves. Whatever is held up as an example, if placed beyond the reach of humanity, duly excited by public spirit, will excite no emulation; and whatever is placed within the vulgar walks of life, will attract no attention.

There is a further difficulty, peculiar to certain times; particularly those of civil dissension, when the tempers of men are worked into ferment. Whence it happens, that they who have been the subjects of obloquy in one age, have become the theme of praise in another. Such was Hamper, in the days of passive obedience, branded as a seditious disturber of his country's peace; and, at the blessed era of the Revolution, exalted into the first rank of patriots. Such was Sidney, condemned to a scaffold in the former period; and, in the latter, immortalized by the delegated voice of the nation!

What judgment posterity will form of the present mighty contest, in which these United Colonies are engaged, I am at no loss to determine in my own heart. But, while the same actions are, by one part of a great empire, pronounced the most criminal resistance, and by another, the most laudable efforts of self-preservation; no public character can be drawn alike acceptable to all. Nevertheless, as the faithful historian is the best panegyrist of true merit, he will not fashion himself to times and seasons, but exalt himself above them; and, conscious of his dignity, as responsible to succeeding ages, will take eternal truth as his support, which can alone bear the impartial test of future examination. He knows that the divine colours of virtue, although they may give a temporary glare, will not blend or mellow into a ground-work of vice.

Whatever events, disastrous or happy, may lie before us; yet some degree of applause, even from an enemy, is certainly due to the illustrious men, who, led by conscience, and a clear persuasion of duty, sacrifice their ease, their lives, and fortunes, to the public; and from their friends and country they are entitled to a deathless renown.

Perish that narrow pride, which will suffer men to acknowledge no virtue, but among their own party. In this direful contest, the chief concern of a liberal mind will be, that so much personal virtue as may be found on both sides, instead of being united in some great national point for the common good, should be dreadfully employed to the purpose of mutual destruction. And a man can as soon divest himself of his humanity, as refuse the tribute of veneration due to actions truly magnanimous.

When once it becomes criminal to plead the cause of a suffering people; when their virtues can no longer be safely recorded; then tyranny has put the last hand to her barbarous work. All the valuable purposes of society are frustrated; and whatever other human fate remains, will be wholly indifferent to the wise and good.

There are, also, many whose minds are so little, that they can conceive nothing great, which does not court the eye in all the trappings of dress, titles, and external splendour. An American patriot! a blanket hero! a General from the plough! all these are terms of ridicule and reproach among many. Yet such was Cincinnatus, in the best days of Roman virtue; and a British poet, already quoted, hath boldly taught his countrymen this noble lesson:

"Some, with whom compar'd, your insect-tribes
Are but the beings of a summer's day.
Have held the scale of empire, rule, and storm
Of mighty war; then, with unwearied hand,
Disdaining little delicacies, seiz'd
The plough, and greatly independent liv'd."—Thomson.

The same noble lesson is also taught, by the well known story of the two Spanish grantees, who were sent Ambassadors to the Hague. Notwithstanding all the pride of their nation, they did not despise the Dutch Deputies when they met them in a plain habit, and saw them on a journey sit down upon the grass, to a frugal repast of bread and cheese, out of their knapsacks. On the contrary, they cried out, "We shall never be able to conquer these people; we must even make peace with them."

Should ambassadors honour us with a visit, upon a like occasion; let us be prepared to meet them in the same majestic simplicity of dress and manners. Let us convince them that public virtue is confined to no courts, and that, although it sometimes basks in the sunshine of power, it frequently lies hid in the shades of obscurity, like the latent fire in flint, till called forth by the collusive hand of oppression.

down from Kingston, and having executed his orders, laid his Instructions before Congress, which were read.

Resolved, That the above be referred to the Committee on the Prisoners.

Adversity is the season which shows the spirit of a man in its full vigour; and times of civil calamity never fail to strike forth lights, sometimes single, and sometimes whole constellations, mingling their kindred rays to warm and to illuminate the genius of their country.

The sacred flame thus kindled, is not fed by the fuel of faction or party; but by pure benevolence and love of the publick. It, therefore, soon rises above the selfish principles, refines and brightens as it rises, and expands itself into heavenly dimensions. Being inextinguishable in its own nature, the blood of thousands on the scaffold, or in the field, is but as oil poured into a conflagration, increasing its vehemence, till it consumes all before it; burning still clearer and stronger, until the full day of peace and civil happiness.

Those who enjoy a true portion of this divine flame, duly called forth into exercise, stand in no need of further titles or distinctions, either by birth or grant. For what can the world present greater to the sight of mortals, or even immortals, than a man who knows and courts the blessings of peace, who wishes to breathe out his last in its arms; and, keeping it still as his object, is nevertheless roused by the first pang of his suffering country; gives his whole illustrious spirit to her relief; rises above all human allurements; never renits his zeal; fears nothing; regards nothing—but the sentiments which virtue and magnanimity inspire? What higher qualities can be required to entitle a man to the veneration and eulogies of his country? And these too will be his most durable monument.

The magnificent structures raised, by the gratitude of mankind, to their benefactors of old, had but a local and temporary use. They were beheld only by one people, and for a few ages—

“The Heav’n aspiring pyramid, the proud
Triumphal arch, and all that e’er upheld
The worshipp’d name of hoar antiquity
Are mouldering into dust.”

In vain does the wayfaring man investigate the tottering ruins for the divinity once enshrined there! A scanty receptacle, about six feet in length and half the breadth, informs him that it once contained some human dust, long since mingled with the common mass. In vain does the prying antiquary dwell upon the sculpture, or strive to collect and spell the scattered fragments of letters. The inscription is gone—long since gone, effaced, obliterated! And fruitless were the search, through the whole world, for the Hero’s name, if it were not recorded in the Orator’s page, and proclaimed by the faithful voice of History.

There it shall live, while the smallest vestiges of literature remain upon earth—yea, till the final dissolution of things human; nor shall it perish then; but, being the immediate care of Heaven, the great Archangel, when he sweeps suns and systems from their place, and kindles up their last fire, stretching forth his mighty arm, shall pluck the deathless scroll from the devouring conflagration, and give it a place among the archives of eternity!

But whither am I borne? to what heights have I ascended? I look down with astonishment and tremble at my situation! Oh! let your friendly arms be extended to save me as I fall. For in the idea I have of my subject, I have undertaken to guide the chariot of the sun; and how shall I steer through the exalted track that lies before me? Considering myself as honoured with this day’s office by the delegated voice of some millions of People through a vast continent, upon an occasion, wherein their gratitude, their dignity, their love of liberty, nay, even their reputation in literature, are all, in some degree, concerned; what language shall I use, or how shall I accommodate myself to every circumstance in the arduous way?

Truth alone must guide the hand that delineates a character. Should I affect to soar aloft and dip my pencil in the colours of the sky, I should but endanger my own wings, melt their wax, and be precipitated headlong. Nor is the danger less in the other extreme.

O! then, for some better Phœbus, some presiding Genius, to guide me through my remaining way; to point out the middle path, and teach me to unite dignity with ease, strength with perspicuity; and truth with the unaffected graces of elocution. Or rather, you shall be my Phœbus, my inspiring as well as presiding Genius, ye delegated fathers of your country! So far will I strive to imitate him, who always animated himself with his subject, by thus accosting himself before he went forth to speak—

“Remember thou art this day going to address men born in the arms of Liberty, Grecians, Athenians!” Let no thought enter thy heart—let no word fall from thy tongue unworthy of such an audience!

As to that hero, whose memory you celebrate as a Proto-Martyr to your rights—for through whatever fields I have strayed, he has never escaped my view—as to him I say, if any thing human could now reach his ear, nothing but the great concerns of virtue, liberty, truth, and justice would be tolerable to him; for to these was his life devoted from his early years.

He had received a liberal education in Ireland, his native country, before he went into the Army; and was, indeed, endowed with talents which would have led him to eminence in any profession. His own he studied with felicity which soon distinguished his military abilities; but war and conquest having no other charms to him than as the necessary means of peace and happiness to mankind, he still found leisure, in the midst of camps, to cultivate an excellent taste for philosophy and polite literature. To these he added a careful study of the arts of Government, and the rights of mankind; looking forward to that time, when he might descend into the still scenes of private life, and give a full flow to the native and acquired virtues of a heart rich in moral excellence.

Above eighteen years ago he had attained the rank of Captain in the Seventeenth Regiment, under General Monckton, and stood full in the way of high preferment; having borne a share in all the labours of our American wars, and the reduction of Canada. Ill-fated region! short-sighted mortals! Little did he foresee the scenes which that land had still in reserve for him! Little did those generous Americans, who then stood by his side, think that they were assisting to subdue a country, which would one day be held up over us, as a greater scourge in the hands of friends, than ever it was in the hands of enemies!

‡ The author did not intend to appropriate this term so as to detract from the merit of Doctor Warren, and other brave men who fell before, in the same cause.

Resolved, That the Secret Committee be directed to deliver to Colonel Maxwell, or order, twenty stand of Arms for the use of his Battalion, he to be accountable for the same.

Had such a thought then entered our hearts, we should have started with indignation from the deed of horror. Our heroism would have appeared madness and parricide! The lifted steel would have dropped from the warrior’s arm! The axe and the hoe from the labourer’s grasp! America would have wept through all her forests; and her well cultivated fields refused to yield further sustenance to her infatuated sons!

But far different were our thoughts at that time. We considered ourselves as co-operating with our brethren for the glory of the empire; to enable them to secure our common peace and liberty; to humanize, adorn, and dignify, with British privileges, a vast Continent; to become strong in our strength, happy in our happiness; and to derive that from our affection, which no force can extort from a free people; and which the miserable and oppressed cannot give!

And these, too, were the sentiments of our lamented hero; for he had formed an early attachment, amounting even to an enthusiastic love, for this country! The woodland and the plain; the face of nature, grand, venerable, and yet rejoicing in her prime; our mighty rivers, descending in vast cataracts through wild and shaggy mountains, or gliding in silent majesty through fertile vales; their numerous branches and tributary springs; our romantic scenes of rural quiet; our simplicity of manners, yet uncorrupted by luxury or flagrant vice; our love of knowledge and ardour for liberty—all these served to convey the idea of primeval felicity to a heart which he had taught to beat in unison with the harmony of Heaven!

He, therefore, chose America, as the field of his future usefulness; and as soon as the blessings of peace were restored to his country, and duty to his Sovereign would permit, he took his leave of the army, and having soon connected himself, by marriage, with an ancient and honourable family, in the Province of New-York, he chose a delightful retirement upon the banks of Hudson’s River, at a distance from the noise of a busy world! Having a heart distended with benevolence, and panting to do good, he soon acquired, without courting it from his neighbours, that authority, which an opinion of superior talents and inflexible integrity never fail to create.

In this most eligible of all situations, the life of a country gentleman, deriving its most exquisite relish from reflection upon past dangers and past services, he gave full scope to his philosophic spirit, and taste for rural elegance. Self-satisfied and raised above vulgar ambition, he devoted his time to sweet domestic intercourse with the amiable partner of his heart, friendly converse with men of worth, the study of useful books, and the improvement of his favoured villa. Nor from that happy spot did he wish to stray, until he should receive his last summons to happiness more than terrestrial.

But when the hand of power was stretched forth against the land of his residence, he had a heart too noble not to sympathize in its distress. From that fatal day—and oh! that it had never found a place in the volumes of Time—from that fatal day, in which the first American blood was spilt by the hostile hands of British brethren, and the better genius of the empire, veiling her face in anguish, turned abhorrent from the strife of Death among her children—I say, from that fatal day, he chose his part.

Although his liberal spirit placed him above local prejudices, and he considered himself as a member of the empire at large; yet America, struggling in the cause of liberty, henceforth became his peculiar country; and that country took full possession of his soul; lifting him above this earthly dross, and every private affection! Worth like his could be no longer hid in the shades of obscurity; nor permit him to be placed in that inferior station with which a mind, great in humility and self-denial, would have been contented. It was wisely considered that he who had so well learned to obey, was fittest to command; and, therefore, being well assured of his own heart, he resigned himself to the publick voice, nor hesitated a moment longer to accept the important commission freely offered to him, and, with the firmness of another Regulus, to bid farewell to his peaceful retirement and domestic endearments.

Here followed a scene of undissembled tenderness and distress, which all who hear me may, in some degree, conceive, but all cannot truly feel. You only who are husbands—whose hearts have been intimately blended with the partners of your bliss, and have known the pangs of separation, when launching into dangers, uncertain of your fate; you only would I now more directly address. Give a moment’s pause for reflection! Recall your own former feelings, your inward struggles, your virtuous tears! Here bid them again freely flow, while you listen to our hero’s parting words—

Ye scenes where home-felt pleasures dwell,

And thou, my dearest self farewell!

“Perhaps the Cypress, only tree

Of all these groves, shall follow me!”

But still, to Triumph or a Tomb,

Where Virtue calls, I come, I come!

[The foregoing lines were set and performed to music, which gave an opportunity of a pause, in delivering the Oration.]

“I come, I come!” Nor were these the words of disappointed ambition; nor dictated by any sudden start of party zeal. He had weighed the contest well, was intimately acquainted with the inalienable rights of freemen, and ready to support them at every peril! He had long foreseen and lamented the fatal issue to which things were hastening. He knew that the sword of civil destruction, once drawn, is not easily sheathed; that men having their minds inflamed and the weapons of defence in their hands, seldom know the just point where to stop, even when they have it in their power; and often proceed to actions, the bare contemplation of which would at first have astonished them.

It was, therefore, his desire rather to soften than inflame violent humours, wishing that America, in all her actions, might stand justified in the sight of God and the world. He foresaw the horrid train of evils which would be lost loose by the stroke which should sever the ancient bond of union between Great Britain and us. It was, therefore, his wish that such a stroke should never proceed first from the hand of America. Nor did it so proceed.

The Congress took into consideration the Report of the Committee on the ways and means of procuring Cannon :

Resolved, That two hundred and fifty Twelve-Pounders, sixty Nine-Pounders, and sixty-two Four-Pounders, be purchased for the use of the Colonies.

The resistance made at Lexington was not the traitorous act of men conspiring against the supreme powers; nor directed by the councils of any public body in America; but rose immediately out of the case, and was dictated by self-preservation, the first great law of nature as well as society. If there was any premeditated scheme here, it was premeditated by those who created the dreadful necessity, either of resistance or ruin. For, could it be expected that any people, possessing the least remains of virtue and liberty, would tamely submit to destruction and ravage—to be disarmed as slaves; stripped of their property and left a naked prey even to the insults of surrounding Savages?

Was this an experiment worthy of Great Britain? Where was the wisdom of her counsellors? Had their justice, their moderation, quite forsaken them? Could they possibly expect obedience in such a case as this? Would they themselves, in a similar case, even under a competent legislative authority, submit to laws which would destroy the great end of all laws, self-preservation? Human nature says, No. The genius of the English Constitution says, No. The nation itself hath heretofore said, No; and a great oracle* of its laws has given his sanction to the verdict:—"In cases of national oppression, (says he,) the nation hath very justifiably risen as one man, to vindicate the original contract subsisting between the King and People." And—"If the sovereign power threaten desecration to a state, mankind will not be reasoned out of the feelings of humanity, nor sacrifice liberty to a scrupulous adherence to political maxims."

If the case of America does not come within the above description, there seems to be no equity left upon earth; and whatever is exacted by force must be yielded through fear. But if justice be any thing more than a name, it is surely a solicitor in politics to say, that one part of a free country has a right to command that which the other "cannot obey without being slaves, nor resist without being rebels." Yet to such a dilemma does the Parliamentary claim of a "right to bind us in all cases whatsoever," reduce America; involving in it a total surrender of our liberties; superseding the use of our own legislatures; marking us with such a badge of servitude as no freeman can consent to wear; and subjecting us to burdens laid by those who are not only unacquainted with our circumstances, and bear no part of the weight, but ease themselves in proportion as they load us. If this be law, if it be equity, it has no example among any other people, possessing the least glimmerings of virtue or native freedom.

But although this claim be so repugnant to every idea of natural as well as legal justice, that the guilt of blood which it may occasion can be chargeable only on those who attempt to enforce it; yet I am well assured that when compelled at last by hard necessity, either to avert the dagger pointed at our breast, or crouch to unconditional servitude, our hero's heart beat for the dreadful alternative.

His principles of loyalty to his Sovereign (whom he had long served, and whose true glory consists in healing those streaming wounds) remained firm and unshaken. Love to our brethren, whom we must oppose; the interchange of good offices, which had so intimately knit the bonds of friendship between them and us; the memory of those better days in which we fought and triumphed together; the vast fabric of mutual happiness raised by our union, and ready to be dissolved by our dissensions; the annihilation of those numerous plans of improvement in which we are engaged for the glory of the empire—all these considerations conspired to render this conduct peculiarly abhorrent to him, and every virtuous American, and could have been outweighed by nothing earthly, but the unquenchable love of liberty, and that sacred duty which we owe to ourselves and our posterity.

Hence, as appears from his papers, even in the full triumph of success, he most ardently joined his worthy friend, General Schuyler,† in praying that "Heaven may speedily re-unite us in every bond of affection and interest; and that the British empire may again become the envy and admiration of the universe, and flourish" till the consummation of earthly things.

This part of his character I dwell upon with particular satisfaction; and, indeed, had he evidenced a contrary sentiment, or gone forth in the rage of conquest instead of the spirit of reconciliation; not all his other virtues, nor yet the respect which I owe to the appointment wherewith I am now honoured, could have induced me to appear in this place, on this occasion.

God forbid that any of the profession to which I belong, should ever forget their peculiar character, exercise a turbulent spirit, or prostitute their voice to inflame men's minds to the purposes of wild ambition, or mutual destruction. I am happy in knowing that nothing of this kind is wished from me; nay, that the delegated voice of the Continent, as well as of this particular Province, supports me in praying for a restoration "of the former harmony between Great Britain and these Colonies upon an firm a basis as to perpetuate its blessings, uninterrupted by any future dissensions, to succeeding generations in both countries."

Indeed this matter rests in safe hands, and is clear in itself. If redress of grievances, essential liberty, and security against future oppression can be obtained agreeable to our own desires; then, neither consistency, dignity, nor a regard to our illustrious British friends, who have defended our cause, pledged themselves for our sincerity, and hope by our aid to restore and perpetuate the glory of the whole empire, can suffer us to hesitate. To say, let them look to their own safety, and we will look to ours, would be unworthy of the liberal soul of any American, truly animated in our present cause, and with the love of universal liberty.

† In his letter of November 8th.

† The above paragraph having been either misinterpreted or misunderstood by some, the author does not think himself at liberty to make the least alteration in it, even if he judged any to be necessary. The quotation from the last petition of Congress, as well as the reference made to the instructions of our Assembly, both point to a past period; and the author cannot be considered, from thence, as taking upon him to make the least declaration concerning the present sentiments of either of these bodies; nor is there a word which can preclude the taking into the terms of accommodation, so far as may be thought reasonable, the redress of whatever grievances or losses we may have sustained, since that period. Upon the whole, it is presumed, that a single sentiment is not to be found in the Oration, which is not fully consonant to every declaration of Congress which has yet appeared; and to impute to them, or even suspect that such change of sentiment, before they have declared it, would not only be indecent, but very injurious to our cause. The author is also consistent with himself, and if the same doctrines which, he has been told, were well received in his late publication, should now be disagreeable to any, the fault is not his. But he will give the reader no further trouble on this topic, unless his own defence should in future render it necessary.

But suppose these terms cannot be obtained? Why, then, there will be no need of further arguments, much less of aggravations. Timid as my heart, perhaps, is, and ill-tuned as my ear may be to the din of arms and the clangour of the trumpet; yet, in that case, sounds which are a thousand times more harsh—the howling of wild beasts on the mountain top, where liberty dwells, would be "preferable to the nightingale's song" in vales of slavery, or the melting notes of Corelli in cities clanking their chains!

If this be a digression, pardon it as the last, and due to my own principles and consistency. I now hasten to attend to our hero through the remainder of his career—short, indeed! but crowded with scenes of virtuous activity, which would have dignified the longest life.

The Canada expedition is one of those measures which the enemies of American peace, having first rendered necessary, will now strive to misconstrue into hostility and offence. But when authentic proofs were obtained that a people professing a religion, and subjected to laws, different from ours, together with numerous Tribes of Savages, were instigated and preparing to deluge our frontiers in blood, let God and the world judge whether it was an act of offence; or rather, whether it was not mercy to them, to ourselves, to the whole British empire, to use the means in our power for frustrating the barbarous attempt.

Indeed, there was benevolence in the whole plan of his expedition. It was to be executed not so much by force as by persuasion; and appearing in the country with such a respectable strength, as might protect the inhabitants from the insults and vengeance of those who were striving to make them lift up their reluctant arm to the shedding fraternal blood. It was further wished to kindle up the expiring lamp of liberty among them; to open their eyes to its divine effulgence; and enable them to raise their drooping head, and claim its blessings as their own.

This was a work, in all its parts, suited to the genius of a Montgomery. He had a head and heart which equally pointed him out as a fit guide in such an undertaking. He understood and could well explain the blessings of a free Government. Persuasion dwelt upon his tongue. He had a soul, great, disinterested, affectionate, delighting to alleviate distress, and to diffuse happiness. He had an industry not to be wearied out; a vigilance not to be imposed upon; and a courage, when necessary, equal to his other abilities.

But still, with a few new-raised men, of different Colonies, and, perhaps, different tempers; ill-supplied with arms and ammunition; worse disciplined; unaccustomed to look cannon in the face; to make or to mount a breach—in such circumstances, I say, and in the short space of an autumnal and winter campaign, in rigorous northern climes, to achieve a work which cost Great Britain and the Colonies the labour of several campaigns, and what was a sacrifice of infinitely more value—the life of the immortal Wolfe—this certainly required a degree of magnanimity beyond the ordinary reach, and the exertion of the highest abilities of every kind.

The command and conduct of an army, were but small parts of this undertaking. The Indians were to be treated with, restrained, and kept in temper. The Canadians were likewise to be managed, protected and supported; and even his own army, in some degree, to be formed, disciplined, animated, accustomed to marches, encampments, dangers, fatigues, and the frequent want of necessities.

Camps, of all worldly scenes, often exhibit the greatest pictures of distress. The sick and the wounded—the dying and the dead—as well as the wants and sufferings of the living—all these call forth the most tender feelings, and require of a General that, to the courage of a soldier, he should unite the utmost benevolence of a man!

Our General possessed these united qualities in their highest lustre; of which there are numerous testimonies, not only from his own army, but from the prisoners, English as well as Canadians, now amongst us.

When his men laboured under fatigue, wanted bread and other necessities, had their beds to make in snow or deep morasses, they were ashamed to complain, finding that he was willing to share in the execution of whatever he commanded. And the example which he thus set to others, did more to inspire patience, obedience, love of order and discipline, than the most rigid exercise of power could have done. The influence of this example was still stronger, as it did not appear to be the effect of constraint or political necessity, but the amiable expression of a sympathizing soul; leading him to condescend to all capacities; exact in his own duties, and great even to common things. His letters, confidential as well as official, are a full proof of this.

"Our encampment is so swampy, I feel," (says he), "exceedingly for the troops; and provisions so scarce, it will require not only despatch, but good fortune, to keep us from distress. Should things not go well, I tremble for the fate of the poor Canadians, who have ventured so much. What shall I do with them, should I be obliged to evacuate this country? I have assured them that the United Colonies will as soon give up Massachusetts to resentment as them."

These sentiments were worthy of a heroic soul, and of the faith he had pledged to those people. Nor is he less to be venerated for his tender regard towards his own army. Instead of making a merit of his difficulties, (which were, indeed, more than ought to be mentioned in this place) he often seeks to conceal them; ascribing any little faults or tardiness, in his young troops, to their want of experience in forming; to their hard duty, the constant succession of bad weather, and the like, still encouraging them to nobler efforts in future. And if any impatience of discipline appeared, he nobly attributes it to "that spirit of freedom, which men accustomed to think for themselves, will even bring into camps with them."

His own superior military knowledge he has been known to sacrifice:

The Member chosen, Mr. W. Livingston.

The Committee of Claims reported, that there is due:
To Michael Connolly, expenses for Wagon-hire, carrying the Prisoners' Baggage from Bethlehem to Reading, and his own expenses four days, the sum of 160 Dollars.

To Richard Howell, the sum of 34½ Dollars, for transportation of Powder to Burlington.

to the general voice, rather than interrupt that union on which success depended; and when a measure was once resolved upon by the majority, however much contrary to his own advice and judgment, he magnanimously supported it with his utmost vigour; disdaining that work of low ambition, which will strive to defeat in execution what it could not direct in planning.

His perseverance and conduct in gaining possession of St. John's and Montreal, have already been the theme of every tongue, and need not be mentioned in this place. His abilities in negotiation; the precision with which the various articles of treaties and capitulations are expressed; the generous applause he gives, not only to every worthy effort of his own officers, but to the commanding officer and garrison of St. John's; his noble declaration to the inhabitants of Montreal, "that the Continental armies despise every act of oppression and violence, being come for the express purpose of giving liberty and security;" all these, I say, did honour to himself, and to that delegated body under whose authority he acted.

Leaving him, therefore, for a while, alas, too short a while—to enjoy the noblest of all triumphs, the applauses of his country, and the conscious testimony of his own heart—let us inquire after another band of brave and hardy men, who are stemming rapid rivers, ascending pathless mountains, traversing unpeopled deserts, and hastening through deep morasses and gloomy woods to meet him in scenes of another issue.

And mountains in whose jaws destruction grin'd,
Hunger and toil—Armenian snows and storms,
Greece in their view and glory yet untouch'd,
They held their fearless way—Oh! strength of mind
Almost almighty in severe extremes!—Thomson.

This praise was paid to ten thousand heroes, sustaining every danger, in a retreat to their own country, and is certainly due, so far as heroism is concerned, to less than a tenth part of the number, marching through equal difficulties against the capital of a hostile country.

Even the march of Hannibal over the Alps, so much celebrated in history, (allowing for the disparity of numbers), has nothing in it of superior merit, to the march of Arnold; and in many circumstances there is a most striking similitude.

The former had to encounter the rapid Rhone; the latter, the more rapid Kennebec, through an immense length of country. The former, when he came to quit the river, found his further passage barred by mountains, roaring their snowy crests to the sky, rugged, wild, uncultivated. This was, also, the case with the latter, whose troops, carrying their boats and baggage, were obliged to cross and recross the same mountains sundry times. At the foot of the mountains, the former was deserted by three thousand of his army, desponding at the length of the way, and terrified at the hideous view of those stupendous heights, which they considered as impassable. In like circumstances, about a third part of the army of the latter, deserted shall I say, or use the more courteous language, "returned home.*" The march of the former was about twelve hundred miles in five months. The Virginia and Pennsylvania rifle companies, belonging to the latter, including their first march from their own habitations to Cambridge, and thence to Quebec, marched near the same distance in about three months.

Besides these rifle companies, Arnold's corps consisted of about five hundred New-England troops, who sustained all the fatigues of the worst part of the march by land and water, with the utmost fortitude. And General Montgomery, ever ready to do justice to merit, having joined them before Quebec, gives their commander and them this character:

"They are an exceeding fine body of men, inured to fatigue, with a style of discipline among them much superior to what I have been used to see in this campaign. He, himself, is active, intelligent, and enterprising."

Having approached those plains which the blood of Wolfe hath consecrated to deathless fame, our hero seemed emulous of his glory, and animated with a kindred spirit. The situation of his army pressed despatch; snows and frosts only quickened his motions. He hoped by one successful stroke, before the arrival of succours to the garrison, to complete his plan, and save the future effusion of much blood. He further flattered himself, that his success, if speedy, might have some influence upon Parliament, in hastening a reconciliation. He understood that maxim of Folard, "No obstacle should break our resolution, when there is but a moment between a bad situation and a worse." This sentiment he expresses in his last letter with a spirit of modesty, and a sense of duty, as well as the danger attending it, which ought to be forever recorded to his glory. "I shall be sorry to be reduced to this mode of attack; because I know the melancholy consequences. But the approaching severity of the season, the weakness of the garrison, together with the nature of the works, point it out too strong to be passed by. Fortune often baffles the most sanguine expectations of poor mortals. I am not intoxicated with the favours I have received at her hand; but I think there is a fair prospect of success."

Poor mortals indeed, if nothing was to remain of them after death; for while he was courting this success, and gloriously leading on his troops in the front of danger, he received the fatal stroke, which in an instant released his great spirit, to follow and join the immortal spirit of Wolfe!

* When the Oration was delivered, the author did not know that an inquiry had been made into the reasons of the return of this party, and that the commanding officer had been acquitted. But as a very generous censure had been passed upon him through the Colonies, it was judged much more honourable for him to insert an account of his acquittal, than to suppress the paragraph—for all these transactions will be fully scrutinized by future historians.

It was at the foot of the Pyrenees that the three thousand deserted from Hannibal, and he freely dismissed seven thousand more, whose courage he perceived was not equal to the undertaking. Indeed, Livy tells us that the sight of the Alps, "their snow-capped tops almost penetrating Heaven, the rude cottages built on rocks, sheep and oxen pinched with cold, the men savage and wearing long beards, every thing, both animate and inanimate, stiff with frost;" struck even the remainder of his army with a temporary panic. It is not clear what use Hannibal made of his heats after crossing the Rhone, whether to carry his baggage, as he ascended along its banks, or not.

O! thou swift winged messenger of destruction, how didst thou triumph in that moment! the stroke that severed Montgomery from his army, deprived them of more than a member. It reached the vitale, and struck the whole body with a temporary death. As when the forked lightning, darting through the forest, amid the black tempest of night, rends some towering oak, and lays its honours in the dust, the inferior trees which it had long sheltered from the storm, stand mournful around, so stood the astonished bands over their fallen chieftain! nor over him alone; but over others, in their prime of glory, prostrate by his side!

Here, ye Pennsylvania youths, second to none in virtue, let a portion of your tears be sacred to the manes of Macpherson! You remember his generous spirit in his early years, for he drank of the same springs of science with many of you now before me; and we who reached the cup to your lip, rejoice that it contributed to invigorate both him and you into wisdom and public spirit. Having finished his scholastic* education, he studied the laws of his country, under a lawyer and patriot of distinguished name; and animated by his example, as well as precepts, had become eminent in his profession, at an age when some have scarce begun to think of business. The love of liberty being his ruling passion, he thought it his duty, in the present struggle, to offer himself to the service of his country, and he had soon an opportunity of attaining that military pre-eminence, of which he was laudably ambitious.

Enjoying an hereditary bravery, joined to a well cultivated understanding, and an active spirit, he soon became the bosom friend of General Montgomery, was his Aid-de-camp, was intrusted with a share in the management of his most important negotiations, stood by his side in the attack upon Quebec, and being, as it were, animated by one common soul, and dear to each other in life—in death, they were not a moment divided!

Here, likewise, fell Captain Cheseman, of the New-York forces, covered with honour, and lamented, by all who knew him, as an active and gallant officer. His particular merits, as well as the merits of some others, who shared his fate, ought to be more fully commemorated on this occasion, if proper accounts of them could be collected.

I must not, however, omit the name of the brave Captain Hendricks, who commanded one of the Pennsylvania rifle companies, and was known to me from his infancy. He was, indeed, prodigal of his life, and courted danger out of his tour of duty. The command of the guard belonged to him, on the morning of the attack; but he solicited and obtained leave to take a more conspicuous post; and having led his men through the barrier, where his commanding officer, General Arnold, was wounded, he long sustained the fire of the garrison with unshaken firmness, till, at last, receiving a shot in his breast, he immediately expired.

Such examples of magnanimity filled even adversaries with veneration and esteem. Forgetting the foes in the heroes, they gathered up their breathless remains, and committed them to kindred dust, with pious hands "and funeral honours meet." So may your own remains, and particularly thine, O! Carleton, be honoured, should it ever be your fate to fall in hostile fields! Or if, amid the various chances of war, your lot should be among the prisoners and the wounded, may you be distinguished with an ample return of that benevolence which you have shown to others. Such offices of humanity, softening the savage scenes of war, will entitle you to an honour which all the pride of conquest cannot bestow—much less a conquest over fellow-subjects, contending for the common rights of freemen.

By such offices as these, you likewise give a gleam of comfort to those mourners, who mix their tears with ours on Schuylkill and Susquehanna; and to her especially, on Hudson's River, pre-eminent in woe! Angels, and ministers of grace, complete her consolations! Tell her, in gentle accents, what wreaths of glory you have entwined, to adorn the brows of those who die for their country; and hovering for a while, on the wing of pity, listen to her mournful strain:

Sweet Ivy, win'd with myrtle, form a shade
Around the tomb where have Montgomery's laid!
Beneath your boughs, shut from the beams of day,
My eyesless tears shall bathe the warrior's clay;
And injur'd Freedom shall a while repair,
To dwell, with me, a weeping hermit there."

Having now paid the honours due to the memories of our departed friends, what need I add more? Illustrious, although short, was their race! "But old age is not that which standeth in length of time, nor is measured by number of years—wisdom is the grey hair to man, and an unspotted life is old age."

To such men, Rome in all her glory would have decreed honours; and the resolve of Congress to transmit the memory of their virtues, is worthy of that magnanimity which ought to characterize public bodies. Jealous and arbitrary rulers are sparing of honours to those who serve them, lest their own should be thus eclipsed; but your lustre, gentlemen, can suffer no diminution this way; and the glory you justly bestow upon others, will only be reflected to increase your own!

* He was educated partly at the College of Philadelphia, and partly at that of New-Jersey. A few days before his death, he visited the very spot on which General Wolfe expired; and the reflections in his letter on this occasion, as well as in that which he left sealed up for his father, in case of his death in the attack upon Quebec, were such as became a Christian and soldier. He bequeathed what little fortune he had accumulated, to his only brother, an officer in the regular army. As a reward for his services, he was appointed by the Congress, a Major in a battalion to be raised in the Delaware Counties, but had received no account of this promotion.

† John Dickinson, Esquire.

‡ These particulars were certified by General Thompson and Colonel Mague, my commanders in the Pennsylvania Rifle regiment, and they give me this further character of him in their letter, viz: "No fatigues or duty ever discouraged him; he paid the strictest attention to his company, and was ambitious that they should excel in discipline, sobriety and order. His social and domestic virtues you were well acquainted with."

This Committee made choice of Samuel Purviance, as Chairman, and William Smith, as a Deputy-Chairman, to be continued as such; and they also chose Doctor John Boyd, as Clerk.

On motion, the following question was put: Whether a Vessel arriving within the Capes of Chesapeake, on or before the first of December, be an importation within the first Resolve of the Congress, or not?

Resolved in the affirmative, 13—3.

Captain Charles Reiley, of the Ship Charles, from Liverpool, appeared before the Committee, and declared, on oath, that he was, on the 30th of November, at half-past one o'clock, abreast of Cape-Henry, and that he came to an anchor the same day in Lynhaven-Bay. He declares that he had no goods on board but Salt, Coal, Cordage, and Linens; and that he did not lade or bring in any Tea.

The Committee are of opinion that this is an importation within the terms of their Resolve.

The Captain at the same time produced his Log-Book, which corresponded with his declaration aforesaid, respecting the time of his arrival in the Bay.

The following gentlemen, importers of goods in said ship, appeared before the Committee, and made oath that they had not imported any East-India Tea in said ship: William Smith, James Cheston, David Mitchell, William Neill, Christopher Johnston, and David McLure.

Captain Robert Johnston, of the Ship Elizabeth, from Londonderry, having arrived in Chesapeake-Bay after the first day of December, appeared before the Committee, and declared, on oath, that there is not at present, nor has he imported in said ship, goods of any kind for sale, except seven pieces of Irish Bagging, being his own private adventure, which he engages to deliver into the hands of Mr. Hercules Courtenay and Captain George Woolsey, who are appointed by the Committee to receive and sell them at publick vendue, and after paying the said Captain the first cost and charges of said goods, out of the produce of the sales, the remainder, if any, to be accounted for to the Committee by Messrs. Courtenay and Woolsey, and applied by the Committee to the purposes in that case recommended by the Continental Congress.

A complaint having been laid before the Committee by John Cannon and others, against Alexander McLure, and Goodwin & Russell, that they had raised the price of certain goods by them sold, contrary to the Association of the General Congress; it was debated, whether the said complaint should be taken into consideration at a future meeting; and a vote being taken, it was resolved in the affirmative. The complaint is, therefore, to be heard at the meeting which shall happen next after the rising of the ensuing Provincial Congress.

Ordered, That public notice, by advertisement, be given to all Masters of Vessels arriving at the Port of Baltimore, that it is expected they will give information of such arrival to some one of the aforesaid gentlemen, on their first landing.

It having been reported to the Committee that two Vessels had lately arrived in this harbour, the Captains were desired to attend this meeting; but not having it in their power to do so immediately, they were directed to meet a number of the Committee at the house of Mr. Spear, at four o'clock, this afternoon, who are appointed to examine into the state of their several cargoes, if they have any.

It being thought necessary that a General Meeting of the Committee of Baltimore County, should be held at Baltimore Town as soon as convenient,

It is Ordered, That notices be immediately given to the Members in each Hundred, and, also, to the Freeholders of the County, to meet at the Court-House, in said Town, on Thursday, the 29th instant, at ten o'clock, to take into consideration several matters of importance to be then laid before them, and to choose Delegates to represent them at the next Provincial Convention, which is to be held at Annapolis, on the 24th day of April next.

The Minute contained in the Proceedings of December 7, relative to the complaint against certain gentlemen for raising the price of goods, was read, and considered,

And it was unanimously Resolved, That, as a line is now drawn by the late Provincial Convention, ascertaining the price of goods, no matters of this kind that may have happened since the General Congress, and before said Convention, shall be taken notice of. At a meeting of the Committee of Observation appointed for Baltimore County, at the Court-House, in Baltimore Town, on Tuesday, the 17th of January, 1775:

Present: Captain Charles Ridgely, in the Chair, Jeremiah Townley Chase, Clerk, Samuel Purviance, John Moale, Thomas Harrison, Thomas Sollers, Andrew Buchanan, Robert Alexander, John Mercer, William Smith, Nicholas Jones, Isaac Grist, Mark Alexander, William Randall, Gerrard Hopkins, Philip Rogers, Dixon Stansbury, Jun., Thomas Johnston, Benjamin Griffith, Charles Ridgely, Son of John, John Cradock, Walter Tolley, Jun., James Calhoun, Benjamin Nicholson, John Deaver, Doctor John Boyd, George Lindenberger, Darby Lux, William Worthington, William Wilkinson, Jesse Bussey, Daniel Shaw, James Gittings, Barnet Eichelberger, Hercules Courtenay, Mordecai Gist, Job Garretson, James Croxall, John Cockey, Ezekiel Towson, George Mathews, Thomas Cradock, Richard Cromwell, Thomas Rutter, James Bosley, William Cromwell, Doctor Charles F. Wienthall, Thomas Ewing, William Lux, Richard Moale, Arehildald Buchanan, William Spear, John Smith, George Woolsey, David McMechen, Mayberry Helius, and Nathan Cromwell.

Information being made to the Committee by Mr. Benjamin Nicholson, that the Reverend Mr. William Edmiston had publicly asserted, that all persons who mustered were guilty of treason, and that such of them as had taken the oath of allegiance, and took up arms, were guilty of perjury; and that the said William Edmiston had approved publicly of the Quebeck Bill; the Committee were of opinion that such declarations have a tendency to defeat the measures recommended for the preservation of America and her liberties, and that it is their duty to take notice of persons guilty of such offences.

Whereupon, Resolved, unanimously, That this Committee will meet at two o'clock, P. M., and that the Reverend Mr. Edmiston have notice to attend.

A copy of the charge was made out by the Clerk, and enclosed to Mr. Edmiston, with notice to attend.

The Committee met according to adjournment, Tuesday, two o'clock, P. M.

Present, the same Members as were in the forenoon.

The Reverend Mr. Edmiston attended, agreeable to the notice given him, and requesting an indulgence of two hours to prepare his Answer, the same was unanimously granted.

The Reverend Mr. Edmiston appeared, and delivered to the Chairman his Answer in writing, as follows:

"After maturely considering the charges exhibited against me before the Committee, I observe, in answer to them, that as mankind frequently differ in sentiment, and as no questions are agitated with greater warmth and intemperate zeal than those in politics, so expressions are often used, and sometimes hastily adopted, at such times, which, in the cool moments of reflection, men would omit or disavow.

"That I spoke the words mentioned in the charge, is true; that they were spoken in warmth, is equally certain. With respect to that part of the charge containing an accusation of perjury and treason upon those who had taken the oaths to the Government, I would beg leave to explain myself. What I meant had a reference to the political opinions which prevail, and was founded conditionally; that is, they who do not apprehend a departure, on the side of Government, from fundamental express stipulations, could not, consistently with their oaths, arm or prepare for war; but I did not, and do not mean, to charge any person with perjury or treason, who really thinks that his rights are, or may be so far invaded, as to justify resistance. As my political sentiments are different from what most people think, at this time, concerning these matters, particularly as they are disagreeable to the gentlemen of the County, and may, contrary to my intention, have the unhappy tendency of spreading confusion among the inhabitants of my Parish, I solemnly promise to avoid giving any just cause of offence, by propagating, hereafter, any opinion opposite to the decisions of the Continental Congress or Provincial Convention. And, upon the most serious reflection, I disapprove of the Quebeck Bill, as it establishes the Roman Catholic religion in the Province of Quebeck; abolishes the equitable system of English laws, and erects a tyranny there, to the great danger (from so total a dissimilarity of religion, law, and Government) of the neighbouring British Colonies, by the assistance of whose blood and treasure the said country was conquered.

"I tenderly love my country. I wish for her prosperity, and devoutly pray that the present contest may terminate to her advantage. And I sincerely hope that brotherly love will bury in oblivion all animosity between me and my parishioners, with whom to live in harmony and peace, is my warmest wish.

"WILLIAM EDMISTON.

"January 17, 1775."

The above being read, and considered, was accepted.

Ordered, That the same be published.

On motion, Ordered, That James Dalgleish be required to attend this Committee to answer a complaint made against him for saying, that the King ought to be damned if he repealed the late oppressive Acts respecting America, and that the said Acts were equitable.

Ordered, That George Lux deliver said notice according to the above notice.

At a meeting of the Committee of Observation for Baltimore County, on Monday, the 23d January, 1775:

Present: Samuel Purviance, in the Chair, Jeremiah Townley Chase, Clerk, Andrew Buchanan, Robert Alexander, William Smith, Doctor John Boyd, James Calhoun, John Merryman, Jun., William Spear, Isaac Grist, Mark Alexander, George Lindenberger, William Buchanan, John Smith, Benjamin Griffith, John Deaver, Barnet Eichelberger.

Resolved, It is the opinion of the Committee of Observation for this County, that on the sale of any Goods imported contrary to the Association of the Continental Congress, no Receipt ought to be given for the money raised for the relief of the Poor of Boston, and the same ought to be paid into the hands of the Treasurer.

Ordered, That Mr. James Christie and Mr. Neil have notice of this Resolve.

Messrs. Mordecai Gist, Isaac Vanbibber, John Cradock, John Howard, and Isaac Grist, are appointed to view the state of said Brig and Cargo, and report the same.

Ordered, That notice be given to Doctor John Stevenson, that the Committee requests his attendance, with Captain William Moat, of the Brig Sally, at two o'clock, P. M.

Post-Meridiem.—The gentlemen appointed to view the Brig Henry-and-Joseph, reported to the Committee that they viewed and examined the said vessel and the state of her cargo ; that they found the hatches caulked down, and the Salt sunk about one foot, with the marks of the beams thereon, and that they were of opinion that the said cargo, or any part thereof, had not been broke or landed.

The Committee proceeded to consider the state of the Brig Henry-and-Joseph, and of the cargo imported in the same :

Resolved, unanimously, That the said cargo be not landed.

Upon application made by Captain Woolsey, to the Committee, for leave to reship the cargo of the Brig Henry-and-Joseph, and on Captain Woolsey's engaging, that the said cargo shall not be landed in any part of North America between Nova-Scotia and Georgia ; and on his further engagement that the Master of the vessel in which the said cargo is to be reshipped, shall engage, on oath, that he will not, unless compelled so to do by stress of weather, land the same within the parts before limited, and that he will produce a certificate from the place where the said cargo shall be landed of the landing of the same,

Resolved, That leave be given agreeable to the above.

Doctor John Stevenson, with Captain William Moat, attending agreeable to notice, the Chairman acquainted them, that information was made to the Committee that the cargo of Salt imported in the Brig Sally, or part thereof, had been unladen contrary to the Resolution of the Committee, made the 6th instant.

Doctor Stevenson declared, that, apprehending the Resolution entered into by the Committee on the 6th instant, did not prohibit him from shipping the Salt to any other part of this Province or Virginia, he had, in consequence of such opinion, shipped a quantity on board four Bay craft, to be disposed of for his account ; that no part of said Salt had been landed in Baltimore County ; that he will deliver in to the Committee the names of the skippers of the several craft, and will return an account of the proceeds of the Salt, and the same will freely give for the relief of the Poor of Boston, and that the remainder of the Salt now on board the said brig, shall not be landed in any part of America, between Nova-Scotia and Georgia.

And Captain William Moat having declared, on oath, that the remainder of the Salt now on board the brig, shall not be landed within the limits aforesaid, Resolved, by the Committee, That the said apology be accepted.

Information being made to the Committee that many misrepresentations of the Proceedings of the Continental Congress had been made with a view to lessen the influence which the Association drawn, entered into, and recommended by them, justly merited and had almost universally obtained; and it appearing to the Committee that such misrepresentations are made by artful, designing, and wicked men, to divide the people, and defeat the measures now wisely pursued for the preservation of American liberty,

Resolved, unanimously, That it is the duty of this Committee, and of every Member thereof, and that we will, collectively and separately, persevere to carry strictly into execution the Association of the Continental Congress, and enforce an observance of the same, and that any attempt to defeat such purpose will, with its author, be exposed to the publick.

The Congress, by the Third Article of the Association, having recommended the disuse of all East-India Tea, the Committee request that their constituents, in their several families, will strictly adhere to this Resolution; and, however difficult the disuse of any article which custom has rendered familiar, and, to many, almost necessary, may be, yet they are induced to hope the ladies will cheerfully acquiesce in this self-denial, and thereby evince to the world a love to their friends, their posterity, and country.

A very extraordinary arrangement having been lately made in the Magistracy of this County, the Committee, reflecting on the conclusions which may probably be drawn from it in distant places, to the disadvantage of the gentlemen superseded, cheerfully embrace the opportunity afforded by the present meeting, to testify in favour of their conduct while they were in office. From personal acquaintance we know them to have been irreproachable in private, faithful and impartial in publick life, and deservedly entitled to the thanks of the whole County for the conscientious discharge of the trust reposed in them.

Resolved, therefore, unanimously, That this Committee ought, and we hereby do in our own names, and in the names of our constituents, sincerely thank those worthy gentlemen, whose abrupt dismissal, with all the circumstances attending it, does them the greatest honour. They return to a private station with the general approbation of the County, and the pleasing satisfaction of having honourably acquitted themselves of their obligations during their continuance in office. Their dismissal is a real loss; it is the more to be regretted, as from the manner of it, we can hardly expect that any of equal worth and character will hereafter be prevailed on to undertake the troublesome, unprofitable employment, now rendered distasteful to men of independent spirit and firmness, and evidently exposing them to unmerited insult.

Captain W. Jones, of the Schooner Nancy, from St. Croix, reported his vessel, made oath, and subscribed.

Captain Peter Templetoun, of the Brig Jane, from London, did the same.

Captain Button appeared, agreeable to the order of yesterday, and the charge against him having been read; and George Helms, the evidence, having been examined, it appeared that said Button, in a conversation with said Helms on the subject of mustering, had discouraged and prevented him for some time from learning the military exercise, as had been directed and recommended by the late Provincial Convention.

The Committee were, therefore, of opinion, that such conduct in Captain Button was a contravening the Resolutions of said Convention, had a tendency to sow discord and division among us, as far as his contracted influence could extend, and highly injurious to the common cause of American liberty.

The above Opinion being read to Mr. Button, he acquiesced in the determination of the Committee, and subscribed the following Paper, as some atonement to the publick for his misconduct:

"I acknowledge, that in conversation with George Helms on the subject of mustering, I asked him whether it was not an infringement of his oath (he being a Constable) to take up arms or muster, but had no design to prevent or dissuade him from learning the military exercise; nor have I used any arguments, or in any manner endeavoured to prevent or dissuade any other persons whatsoever from mustering; and I promise and solemnly engage to this Committee, that I will not, in future, make any attempts of this sort, nor will, in any wise, contravene or oppose the Resolutions of the Continental Congress or Provincial Convention. I am extremely sorry if, by my conduct, I should have appeared inimical to the cause of American liberty, as I am conscious to myself of having never harboured a thought injurious to the freedom of the Colonies.

"RICHARD BUTTON."

"May 2, 1775."

Information being made to the Committee that James Dalgleish, who was formerly complained against for his imprudent and injurious behaviour towards the cause of liberty, and this Committee, has again expressed himself in very obnoxious and indecent terms of the publick measures now carrying on in the Colonies for the preservation of their freedom, having declared that "as soon as the English Troops shall land here he will join them against the Americans, it being a folly for him longer to deny his principles," and this being proved by the testimony of Mr. Samuel Roddy, it was the opinion of the Committee, that the said James Dalgleish, by his repeated offences, has discovered an incurable enmity to this country, and that it is dangerous to the cause in which we are all embarked to encourage or countenance a person of such principles among us. The Committee think it, therefore, their duty, in conformity to the directions of the Continental Congress, to publish said Dalgleish to the world as an enemy to the liberty of Americans.

Committee met at their Chamber agreeable to adjournment, May 3, 1775:

Mr. A. Hall, from the Committee of Harford County, having made application to this Committee to furnish them with five hundred pounds of Gunpowder, it was agreed by the Members present, (as they are not as full a Committee as usual in determining business of importance,) to recommend a compliance with Mr. Hall's request to the next full meeting of the Committee.

At a meeting extraordinary of the Committee, May 5, 1775:

The Committee received a Letter from the Committee of Correspondence at Philadelphia, by Mr. Thomas Henderson, a Member of the Committee of Monmouth, in New-Jersey, requesting us to supply Mr. Henderson with a quantity of Gunpowder for the use of the Monmouth Committee.

Mr. Henderson represents, that they are altogether destitute of Powder, and cannot procure any from New-York or Philadelphia; that they expect to be called out to the assistance of New-York immediately, having been applied to for that purpose by the Committee of that city; and from some recent transactions of a Man-of-War and Tenders, who have been observed to be carefully sounding their coasts to discover, as it is believed, a proper place of landing, it is apprehended an army will be landed in their country; that, therefore, they are in a peculiar, dangerous, and critical situation, and stand in need of the speediest supply of Powder.

From this representation, the Committee were of opinion that, for the safety of the common cause, it is necessary and right to supply the Committee of Monmouth with five hundred weight of Gunpowder, for the present, and as they have a prospect of receiving one thousand or one thousand five hundred weight of that article from the Committee of Georgetown, they are encouraged to promise Mr. Henderson five hundred weight more, if they shall succeed in their application to Georgetown.

Committee met, Monday, May 8, 1775:

Present: Samuel Purviance, William Smith, John Smith, William Spear, Thomas Jones, John Merryman, S. Ennals, Hercules Courtenay, Daniel Hughes, William Buchanan, Jeremiah T. Chase, Andrew Buchanan, Thomas Ewing, Benjamin Griffith, James Sterrett, James Calhoun, Isaac Vanbibber, William Goodwin, Benjamin Levy, Robert Alexander, Mark Alexander, George Woolsey, John Boyd, Clerk, C. Clopper, G. Hopkins, George Lindenberger, J. Rutter, Charles Ridgely, Charles Ridgely, Son of John, J. Philpot, Mayberry Helms, J. McCleannan, J. Jones, J. Sterrett, John Mable, D. McCleannan, William Neill.

The Chairman informs the Committee, that he has received from Mr. Henderson, the Delegate from Monmouth, New-Jersey, sixty-nine Pounds fifteen Shillings, for four hundred and ninety-eight pounds of Gunpowder, sold him by the Committee, and delivered by Messrs. John Smith and William Buchanan; which sum the Chairman is desirous to pay into the hands of Mr. Andrew Buchanan, the Treasurer.

Captain William Sewell, of the Ship Calvert, from London, appeared, and made oath agreeable to the rules of the Committee, of his having imported no goods or merchandise whatsoever, excepting thirty-one Servants.

The Application from Harford Committee, minuted in the Proceedings of May 3, was read to this meeting; and it is agreed that said Committee be supplied with the five hundred pounds of Powder, mentioned in the Minutes of that day; and the Chairman is desirous to give directions that the Powder be delivered to the Harford Committee when applied for.

Captain Richard Dickinson, of the Snow Fanny-and-Jenny, from London, reported his cargo, took the Oath, and subscribed.

Mr. Francis Sanderson, once a Member of this Committee, but who, for some time past, had neglected his duty by refusing or declining giving attendance at their meetings, and other exceptionable conduct, did this day again unexpectedly appear among them, the Committee, reflecting on his late conduct, and uncertain as to the design of his coming among them at so critical a juncture, plainly informed Mr. Sanderson, of their sentiments: that they could not but suspect a man of so variable principles and questionable conduct; that as matters of great moment frequently were agitated among them, they did not think it prudent or safe for them to sit in council with a person in whom they could have no confidence; and that, therefore, they would wish him to withdraw himself from the Committee till the sense of the County should be known concerning him at a future election.

Mr. Sanderson declared, that he was sensible of the impropriety and mistakes of his late conduct, but was now heartily disposed to concur in every measure that his countrymen should adopt for the preservation of their rights; that, in the mean time, he acquiesced in the intimation of the Committee, and would, for the future, so conduct himself as, if possible, to recover the good opinion of his countrymen, and convince them of the sincerity of his present declarations.

A meeting extraordinary of the Committee, May 12, 1775:

Present: Samuel Purviance, James Calhoun, Hercules Courtenay, John Merryman, William Neill, George Woolsey, John Boyd.

James Burrow, of the Ship Nancy, from Milford, reported his cargo, took the Oath prescribed, and subscribed.

William McNelly, of the Snow Jenny, from Cork, did the same.

Committee met, May 15, 1775:

Present: Samuel Purviance, J. Garretson, G. Hopkins, S. C. Davy, J. Wells, R. Lemmon, James Cox, Mark Alexander, David Stewart, John Smith, William Buchanan, Benjamin Levy, Robert Alexander, George Lindenberger, J. McCleannan, Hercules Courtenay, C. Clopper, James Sterrett, Isaac Vanbibber, William Lux, George Woolsey, John Boyd, Clerk.

The Chairman laid a Letter before the Committee from the Chairman of the Committee of Fredericktown, in answer to one sent to them by express from the Committee, requesting to be supplied with as much Powder and Lead as they could spare. The Committee of Frederick have agreed to supply this Committee with five hundred pounds of Powder and four thousand pounds of Lead.

Captain Daniel Lawrence, of the Ship Jenny-and-Polly, from Bristol, appeared, took the necessary Oath, and subscribed.

Captain James Phillips, of the Brig Rogers, from Bel-fast, reports his cargo, swore, and subscribed, with the exception of a small box, contents unknown, and a few barrels of Potatoes, a keg of Whiskey, and a Cheese, being presents to some gentlemen in Town.

The Box is ordered to be put into the possession of the Committee for a further examination.

Captain Cathrew, of the Brig Dutchess-of-Leinster, from Dublin, reported, swore, and subscribed.

Captain Robert Stenhouse, of the Ship Union, from London, did the same.

Cornelius Garretson lodged an information before the Committee against Messrs. Usher & Roe, charging them with having sold to him, the said Garretson, certain goods at a higher price than he had usually paid for them, and that they had sold the same kind of goods to himself and others, some time ago, at a much lower rate than he had now paid.

Mr. Roe appeared, to answer this charge, and said, that Mr. Garretson had asked him for certain Buttons, which, he confesses, he had formerly sold to Mr. Garretson and others at two shillings and six pence per dozen, but for which he now asked three shillings and six pence, not being willing to sell the Buttons, without, at the same time, selling some cloth to which they matched, but that he did, at length, agree to let Mr. Garretson have them at the price he formerly sold them. Mr. Garretson departed, and soon after returned and took the Buttons from a young man who attended Messrs. Usher & Roe's Store, who insisted on having three shillings and six pence for them per dozen, which said Garretson paid; but, as soon as Mr. Roe understood what his Clerk had done, he called after Mr. Garretson, with an intention to refund him his money, but Mr. Garretson refused to return.

Mr. Roe afterwards sent the money to said Garretson, but he declined accepting it, choosing rather to lodge a complaint to the Committee for the imposition.

From the above representation, it appeared to the Committee that the same kind of Goods had been incautiously sold at Messrs. Usher & Roe's Store at different prices, and, in this instance, above the limitations ascertained by the Provincial Congress; but, as it appears to have happened by mistake of their Clerk, and as Mr. Roe offered immediately to rectify the mistake, the Committee thought proper to dismiss the complaint with a caution to Messrs. Usher & Roe, that they be more careful, in future, in giving cause for the like complaints.

The Continental Congress having "Resolved, That a Committee be chosen in every County, by those who are qualified to vote for Representatives in the Legislature, whose business it shall be attentively to observe the conduct of all persons touching the Association;" and the Convention held at Annapolis, on the 8th of December last, having recommended "that no persons, except Members of the Committees, undertake to meddle with or determine any question respecting the construction of the Association entered into by the Continental Congress, and that peace and good order be inviolably maintained throughout this Province," the Committee, considering the confusion and disorder that may arise from individuals, or any number of the people at large, undertaking to judge and determine offences that may be committed against the Association, do earnestly enjoin the Inhabitants of this County that they forbear from any violence or personal insult to any person whatever, but that in all cases when persons are charged with committing any violation of the Continental Association, or the Resolves of the Provincial Convention, or with contravening the measures now carrying on for the preservation of American liberty, information thereof be made to the Committee, who may impartially hear the accusation and the person accused, and proceed therein as directed by the Continental Congress.

Captain David Lewis, of the Ship Patuxent, from London, did the same.

Agreeable to notice for that purpose given, a respectable number of Freeholders of Baltimore County, met at the Court-House, May 18, 1775, to choose Delegates to represent them in the next Provincial Convention, Captain Charles Ridgely, in the Chair, Doctor John Boyd, Clerk.

After debating the mode of electing, it was agreed that the usual method should be observed, and the following gentlemen were then nominated and chosen, and empowered to continue and act as Representatives of this County for six months, viz: Captain Charles Ridgely, Thomas Cockey Dye, Walter Tolley, Jun., Charles Ridgely, Son of John, Robert Alexander, John Moale, Darby Lux, Benjamin Nicholson, William Buchanan, Jeremiah T. Chase, Thomas Harrison, John Craddock, James Gittings, Charles Ridgely, Son of William, Walter Tolley, Sen.

The following gentlemen were added to the Committee of Observation for this County:

PATAPSCO, UPPER: Zachariah McCubbin.

SOLDIERS' DELIGHT: Doctor William Lyon.

BALTIMORE TOWN: Daniel Bowley.

The Proceedings of the Committee on the 8th of May, respecting Mr. Francis Sanderson, were read to the freemen of the County now convened, and their sentiments taken on the propriety of the Committee's request to Mr. Sanderson, to decline acting as a Committee-man, till the sense of their constituents should be known on the matter.

When the freemen, having heard what Mr. Sanderson had to offer, unanimously approved of the Committee's prudent conduct.

And do further Resolve, That until Mr. Sanderson shall give unequivocal evidence of his sincere attachment to the cause of his injured country, by a steady and uniform acquiescence in every measure which has, or may be generally adopted for her preservation, they cannot approve of him as a man fit to act for them in Committee, leaving it to the Committee to determine how far he is otherwise entitled to publick favour.

FOURTH SERIES.—VOL. IV.

The Committee accordingly, (the business of the County having been finished,) fifty-two Members being present, proceeded to consider and judge of Mr. Sanderson's case; and were of opinion, that as he had already acknowledged to the Committee his error and late misconduct, and was sincerely sorry for the same, and was now willing to satisfy his countrymen, by a publick declaration, of his present political opinion, as contained in a paper which he handed in, Mr. Sanderson be restored to the good opinion of his countrymen:

"I hereby declare, that I have resigned the office of a Justice of the Peace for Baltimore County, being now sensible that my appointment to that office, with others, in the manner, and at the time the same was done, was disagreeable to my friends, and tended to injure the cause of my distressed country. I further declare my readiness to engage heartily in the measures now carrying on for the preservation of American liberty, and, for that purpose, I have contributed to the purchase of arms and ammunition, as, also, to the poor of Boston, and enrolled myself a soldier in a company of Militia, and I trust my future conduct will evince the sincerity of my present declarations, and restore me to the favour and esteem of my countrymen, an event most ardently wished for by,

"FRANCIS SANDERSON."

On motion, Ordered, That the Committee-Men in the respective Hundreds of the County, be prepared to give in an Account to the General Committee at Baltimore, against the first Monday in June, of the state of the Militia in their different Districts, the number of Men embodied, and the number of Arms fit for service; also, the amount of the different Subscriptions raised by them for the relief of the Poor of Boston, and for the purchase of Arms and Ammunition.

The necessity of this measure arises from the recommendation of the late Convention, who have directed that these Accounts be prepared and laid before them at their next meeting.

The late Convention having resolved that six hundred Pounds be raised for the defraying expenses of our Delegates to the General Congress, and as the proportion of that sum for Baltimore County is fifty-six Pounds,

Resolved, That each Hundred in the County collect their quotas of said sum, agreeable to the proportion fixed upon for the collection of Money for Arms and Ammunition; adding thereto nineteen Pounds, of a balance advanced formerly by Mr. William Lux to the Delegates of the late Congress, for which he is not yet paid; and that those who have not contributed in the last Subscription for the Delegates, be first applied to now, and the Money raised to be paid into the hands of Mr. William Lux, who is appointed to receive it, and pay the same to the Delegates.

On motion made, that a General Treasurer should be appointed in Baltimore Town, to receive and forward the Donations of this County for the Poor of Boston, Voted, That Mr. Samuel Purviance be appointed to that office.

Mr. Benjamin Wells lodged a complaint against Mr. James Christie, that he had raised the price of his Goods above the limitation of the Provincial Convention.

Mr. Christie was sent for to answer this charge, but being not at home, the matter was referred to another meeting of the Committee.

Committee met, May 19, 1775: Present, William Smith, Deputy-Chairman, and twenty-six Members of the Committee; R. Alexander, Secretary.

Messrs. Lux & Bowley, at the request of the Committee, produced a Letter of Advice and Instructions from Messrs. Pinney & Sibley, of Poole, relative to the loading of the Brig Sukey, Captain Samuel Clark.

Captain James Lightcoun, of the Sloop Friendship, from Bermuda, appeared, and reported his vessel, and took the Oath.

The Chairman laid before the Committee Extracts from two Letters received from Philadelphia, informing that sundry Vessels were loading in the Port of Liverpool with Salt and Dry-Goods, some of which were destined for this Province.

Ordered, That copies of the said Extracts be printed in Handbills, and enclosed to the different Committees of this Province and Virginia.

The sum of one hundred and twenty-four Pounds, proposed to be raised to defray the Expenses of the Delegates, and other Expenses, was proportioned as follows:

Copy of a Letter wrote to the different Hundreds:

GENTLEMEN: The Provincial Convention having recommended the raising of money for payment of the expenses of the Delegates at the Congress, the Committee resolved that one hundred and twenty-four Pounds be raised for that purpose, and for payment of Expresses, and having proportioned the same among the different Hundreds, the sum to be raised in your Hundred is which, by order of the Committee, you are to pay in by the first day of June.

And further, that you do not know that the said vessel or cargo is intended or directed by any order from the owner, or owners thereof, to proceed to any or either of the said Provinces, coasts, islands, or town of Boston; and that if the master of such vessel should land or unlade the said cargo, or any part thereof, at any of the places before excepted, contrary to the tenour of this oath, that you will, in such case, give information thereof to this Committee.

M., at which time and place the Committee will attend. It is expected that the Owners and Consignees of Vessels will, in future, be more punctual in directing the attendance of the Masters, or they, with the Masters, will be reported to the publick as delinquents.

Ordered, That the above be printed in Dunlap's and Goddard's Papers.

At a meeting of the Committee, on Monday, the 5th June, 1775: Present, Samuel Purviance, Chairman, and nineteen Members.

John Ghiselin, of Patapsco, Upper Hundred, made information to the Committee, that being in company with Mr. John Welsh and Robert Gilchrist, on the 21st of April last, and speaking of the present publick measures, the said John Welsh declared, "that he approved of the measures of the Congress and Committee, except mustering," which he then said was open rebellion.

John Geoghagan made information, that being in company with John Welsh and Samuel Oliver, the said Welsh informed Oliver, "that John Geoghagan had mustered, and that he had better take care of himself."

On application of Captain Clopper, leave is given for the purchase of half a barrel of Powder, which is to be made up into Cartridges, and kept for any emergency.

At a meeting of the Committee, on Monday, June 12, 1775: Present, Samuel Purviance, Chairman, and thirty-three Members.

Watson Crosby, of the Schooner Polly, from Jamaica, reported his cargo, and took the Oath.

Complaint by Thomas Rutter, against John McKim, of an overcharge in the price of twenty-four ells of Brown Roll.

On examination, it appeared that Mr. McKim had purchased said Brown Roll, with other goods, in Philadelphia, and paid thirteen shillings per ell, ready money, for the same.

N. B. The further proceeding in this business interrupted by the following accusation:

Captain D. Lawrence informed the Committee, that on or about the 5th instant, being at the house of Mr. Brit. Dickinson, and in conversation with Mr. Richard Button, who had a vessel launched that day, and talking about some of the Captains of vessels having lowered their colours on the Saturday before, when said vessel of Mr. Button was first attempted to be launched, said Button expressed himself with great passion about the affront given him. On which said Lawrence told him, the reason of their lowering their colours, was because they looked on him to be a Tory. Said Button replied, "They do call me a Tory, and so I am, and think the Ministry have a right to tax America, as we are descended from England."

Captain John Bruce, who was also present at the said conversation, confirmed the same; and further said, that he heard said Button say, the Americans were wrong in opposing the taxes; and speaking on the subject of news, he said that he believed none of the accounts published in the papers, except General Gage's.

In consequence of the above information, Captain Button was summoned to attend, which he accordingly did, and made his defence.

After debating thereon, Captain Button requested the decision of the Committee might be postponed until their next meeting; which was accordingly suspended.

At a meeting of the Committee, June 19, 1775: Present, Samuel Purviance, Chairman, and fifty Members.

Mr. Richard Button appeared, in consequence of the order of the last meeting, and delivered in two publications by him addressed to the publick.

And the Chairman informing the Committee that Mr. Button had subscribed and paid in seven Pounds ten Shillings for the Poor of Boston, and five Pounds for Arms and Ammunition, the Committee were unanimously of opinion that the same is satisfactory, and Mr. Button is, by the Committee, restored to the publick favour.

The Committee, to remove any impressions which may be taken up by the publick that would imply Mr. Button's resignation of the Magistracy to be in consequence of a requisition for that purpose by the Committee, do declare the said resignation was not required of him by them.

Post Meridiem.—Mr. Charles Ridgely, Son of John, complained that Mr. James Christie had asked a price for Osnaburghs above the advance limited by the Provincial Convention, and mentioned Mr. Christopher Johnston as a witness.

Notice of the above was made out and sent to Mr. Christie, who being absent, Ordered, That the same be referred to Monday next, at which time the same is to be heard, together with the charge against John Welsh.

Mr. Christie attended, and requested a hearing of the charge against him, alleging that he was present in the Committee in the forenoon, and had notice of the charge been then given him, he should immediately have attended; that he came on the first notice, and that having business which would oblige him to be absent on Monday next, he could not possibly attend that day.

But the Committee declined a hearing at this time as many of the Members were retired.

Information being made to the Committee that Mr. Rezin Hammond had, at a meeting of the Inhabitants of Delaware Hundred, for the purpose of forming themselves into Companies and learning the Military Exercise, used his influence and dissuaded the people from the measure as a violation of their allegiance, Ordered, That notice be given Mr. Hammond to attend on Monday next.

Copy of the notice to Mr. Welsh and Mr. Hammond was made out and delivered Mr. John Howard; and, also, notice to Mr. Samuel Shipley, requiring his attendance as an evidence.

The following are copies of Captain Button's Publications, and referred to in the Proceedings of this day.

TO THE PUBLICK.

It is to you I now address myself, and as there is no man, but at times is liable to errors and mistakes, I humbly hope what I now offer to the publick will be accepted as a sufficient atonement for my past conduct. I am truly sorry that what I have said at different times respecting the publick measures now carrying on has given so much offence, and beg pardon for it. I own (with regret) that I did not properly consider the bad tendency it might have, and acknowledge I have been very justly censured; I now assure you that I see the Parliamentary measures in a different light from what I have formerly done, and I trust my future conduct will convince you that I shall be a steady friend to the utmost of my abilities, and will cheerfully and readily contribute and join every measure that may be adopted for the publick welfare.

I remain your most obedient, humble servant,

RICHARD BUTTON.

TO THE PUBLICK.

Being sensible of my political errors, induced me to address my fellow-citizens a few days ago, with a declaration of my sincere sorrow, that my past conduct and unguarded expressions had given them such offence. Am very desirous to give them every reasonable assurance of my political principles, and hereby further declare, that I do most heartily and sincerely approve of the measures hitherto pursued, and now pursuing, by the publick, to oppose the claims of the British Parliament. I also acknowledge that I am now sincerely sorry for having lately accepted a commission to act as a Magistrate in this town; I solemnly engage that I will not act any longer in that capacity, nor in any other respect that may give offence to my countrymen. I flatter myself that this declaration, with a correspondent conduct, will entitle me to the same candour and humanity from the publick, which I have already experienced from the gentlemen of the Committee.

I remain your most obedient, humble servant,

RICHARD BUTTON.

True Entries of the Proceedings of the Committee, from the 19th day of May, to the 19th day of June, inclusive.

Test: ROBERT ALEXANDER.

At a meeting of the Committee, June 26, 1775: Present, Samuel Purviance, Chairman, and forty-two Members; William Lux, Secretary.

The Inhabitants of Baltimore Town having found it absolutely necessary to establish a nightly Watch in the said Town, for the preservation of their property from robbery or fire, as well as to prevent any hostile attempts in this time of publick confusion, and having had several meetings to digest a proper plan for the purpose, they unanimously agreed to recommend the same to the Committee for their approbation and superintendence; which being done, the Committee highly approved of the measure; and a subscription being signed by every inhabitant, wherein he obliges himself to conform to the regulations adopted, and to attend personally, or provide a sufficient man in his room, which said man, so provided, to be a subscriber, or to pay seven Shillings and six Pence, the Committee received the said subscription, and divided the subscribers into six Companies for the Town, and one for the Point, and then directed a general meeting of the subscribers to elect a Captain for each Company, which being done, the following gentlemen were returned, viz:

James Calhoun, First; George Woolsey, Second; Benjamin Griffith, Third; Barnet Eichelberger, Fourth; George Lindenberger, Fifth; William Goodwin, Sixth, for Baltimore Town, and Isaac Vanbibber, for the Point; but his district being thought rather too extensive, the Committee thought it necessary to appoint Jesse Hollingsworth and George Patten to assist him in the arrangement of the Watch.

The Committee then determined that the said Watch shall consist of sixteen persons, under the direction of a Captain, to be appointed for the night, and that they patrol the streets from ten o'clock at night until day-light the next morning, and that the Companies take it in rotation.

The Committee being applied to by Melchior Keener, with a Letter from the Committee of Marblehead, setting forth that they were in great want of Flour, and requesting liberty to load Captain Nathaniel Cook, of the Schooner Elizabeth, for that port, were of opinion that they ought to be relieved; and leave was accordingly given.

Messrs. Rezin Hammond and John Welsh, having been summoned to attend the Committee this day, to answer a complaint exhibited against them for dissuading the people from mustering, applied by letter, and excused themselves from personal attendance on account of the state of their health, at the same time declaring they were now ready to join their countrymen for the preservation of their liberties; and had sent eight Pounds eight Shillings, being the subscription for Delaware Hundred. But the said Letter not being deemed sufficient, they are directed to attend on Monday, the 17th July, and notice was accordingly sent them.

A Letter from Mr. James Christie, directed to the Committee, and requesting that the complaint exhibited against him might be immediately inquired into, as he was obliged to go out of Town, was laid before them and considered; but as the evidences had departed, it was deferred to Monday, the 17th July, at which time he had notice to attend; and H. D. Gough, Esq., was also desired to attend as an evidence against him.

Messrs. John Howard and Thomas Cradock, applied for two hundred pounds Gunpowder for Soldiers' Delight Hundred; and an order was given on Mr. Andrew Buchanan for the same, who is to receive thirty Pounds in payment therefor.

At a meeting of the Committee, July 3, 1775: Present, Mr. Samuel Purviance, Chairman, and thirty Members; William Lux, Secretary.

Captain John Parker, of the Ship Aston Hall, from London; Captain Nicholas Fortune, of the Snow Catharine, from Youghall; and Captain Richard Curtis, of the Brig Curtis, from Waterford, severally appeared, reported their vessels, and took the Oath.

A Letter from the Committee of Observation for Kent County, to the Chairman of this Committee, complaining of Mr. James Christie for selling Osnaburghs above the advance directed by the Provincial Convention, was laid before the Committee, but Mr. Christie being absent from Town, the consideration thereof was deferred to the 17th instant, when he is to attend on complaints of a similar nature.

A Letter from Henry Lloyd, Agent for the Contractors for supplying the Troops at Boston, to Doctor John Stevenson, being fallen into the hands of the Committee, was read, and is as follows:

"Boston, May 17, 1775.

"Sir: The stoppage of provisions from the Southern Governments for the use of His Majesty's troops, makes it necessary to endeavour to get a supply by concealing from the publick eye the destination of provisions shipped for that purpose. I shall, therefore, propose, for your consideration, the following method of doing it. Cannot a vessel be freighted with flour for the West-Indies, commanded by a person you can confide in, who will execute your orders to him to come into this port and deliver his cargo here, instead of going to the West-Indies. You may take up a vessel as large as two hundred tons, and give her a full freight. I should send you bills on the Contractors to execute this plan, or advise you to draw on them for the amount of what you may ship to me in this way, but the negotiation of such bills might discover your plan and defeat it, so that I should be glad you would advise me of some friend of yours, and when I am made acquainted with his name, and the sum you shall draw for, will send to him from hence, my bills on the Contractors for the amount you advise me of. You will please, likewise, to give the Contractors timely notice, that they may insure their interest if they think proper, and inform me of the name of the vessel and master you engage, that I may lodge a permit at the Light-house in this harbour, for admission to come up to the town and discharge her cargo here. Pray let the flour you purchase be such as will keep over the summer, and let the casks be good, well hooped, and the heads well secured with lining hoops.

"You will be careful to write me by a safe conveyance, that your letter may not fall into the hands of the Provincials.

"I am, sir, your most humble servant,

"HENRY LLOYD.

"To Doctor John Stevenson."

The Committee sent for Doctor Stevenson, and having shown him the Letter, he made the following declaration:

"I believe the within Letter to be Mr. Henry Lloyd's writing, and I declare that I have never received any copy of it, nor any other Letter to that purport; and I further declare, that if the Letter had come to my hands, I would not have executed the order, nor will I execute any order of the kind from any person whatever, contrary to the Resolves of the Continental Congress, or Provincial Convention.

"JOHN STEVENSON."

On motion, Resolved, That Henry Lloyd, of Boston, has knowingly and wilfully violated the Association of the American Congress, by endeavouring to supply the enemies of this country with Provisions; and that, agreeable to the Resolutions of the said Congress, it is the duty of us, and all our constituents, from henceforth, not to have any commercial intercourse with him; and it is recommended that an inviolable regard be paid to this Resolution.

The Committee having received information that the Ship Johnson, from Liverpool, with a cargo of Salt and Dry-Goods, arrived a few days ago in Wye-River, and that several other ships, with similar cargoes, may daily be expected from Liverpool in this Bay,

It is, therefore, unanimously Resolved, That if any Pilot, Craftsman, or others, shall be found assisting in the conveyance or introduction of any goods or merchandise, contrary to the direction of the Congress, or in receiving on shore, or unloading from any vessel, any goods which may have been ordered out of the Port, such persons shall be deemed enemies to the liberties of America, and will be held forth to the resentment of the publick; and if any person privy to such measures will disclose them, they shall receive the thanks of the Committee as real friends to their country.

The Committee directed the foregoing Resolution to be published in Handbills, and that one of said Handbills be delivered to the several Pilots attending this Port.

Messrs. Isaac Vanbibber, Isaac Grist, Samuel Davy, Thomas Elliot, George Woolsey, Benjamin Levy, David Stewart, and William Neill, or any two or more of them, are appointed a Committee to apply to every Vessel arriving within this Port, and to secure any Gunpowder they may have on board.

Mr. John McLure having applied for payment of a parcel of Gunpowder furnished the Committee, and there not being a sufficient sum yet paid in:

Ordered, That a sum sufficient to pay him be taken out of the Arms and Ammunition Fund; and that the same be replaced out of the Money raised for that purpose, when paid in by the County Committee.

At a meeting of the Committee, July 10, 1775: Present, Mr. William Smith, in the Chair, and nineteen Members.

The following Masters of Vessels appeared, reported, and took the Oath, viz:

James Thomas, of the Ship Isabella, from Bristol; Robert Callow, of the Brig Escape, from Milford; Joseph Richardson, of the Ship Camden, from London; Nicholas Howard, of the Sloop Delight, from St. Croix.

The following Masters appeared, and reported their intended voyages, took the necessary oaths, and subscribed, viz:

John Lovett, of the Schooner Swallow, for the West-Indies; Nathaniel Cook, of the Schooner Elizabeth, for Antigua.

On motion, Resolved, That, for the future, every Master of a Vessel reporting his cargo before the Committee, shall, also, at the same time declare, on oath, the quantity of Gunpowder he hath on board, or hath imported this present voyage.

Melchior Keener and David Stewart, shippers of merchandize on board the Schooner Swallow, Captain Cook, master, took and subscribed the necessary Oaths.

WILLIAM LUX, Secretary.

At a special meeting of the Committee, at the Court-House, July 11, 1775: Present, Mr. William Smith, President, and nineteen Members, William Lux, Secretary.

Information having been made to the Committee that the Ship Totness was arrived from Liverpool, below Annapolis, having on board Salt, Mr. Thomas Place, one of the consignees, attended the Committee, and declared that he and his partner, Mr. Ashburner, had received letters from Mr. Gildart, advising them that he intended despatching the Totness to them in twelve days from the time he wrote, ballasted with Salt, and that they daily expected her to arrive, when he intended laying her Papers before this Committee; and he further said, that he had been informed the said Ship was arrived, and aground on the Two-Sisters, but that he had not much confidence in the report.

Further information being made, that some of Mr. Gildart's friends had sent a boat down to meet the Totness, the Committee thought proper to send for Mr. Johnson Gildart, who attended, and declared that he had given a Pilot, who was going down with the Johnson, a letter to deliver Captain Warring, in case he met him, instructing him to proceed immediately to Halifax, and not to attempt coming up here.

Being again informed that the Boat which carried the letter was returned, the Committee sent two of their Members to inquire for the Skipper and bring him before them, which was accordingly done; and . . . immediately attended, and declared he had been sent down by Mr. Johnson Gildart with letters to the Ship Johnson, and that, at the same time, he had given the letter above-mentioned for Captain Warring, of the Totness, in case he should meet her; and that, on his return back from the Ship Johnson, he saw a ship on ground on the Three-Sisters, which he made for, and found her to be the Totness, and delivered the Captain his letters, who replied that he must come or send to Baltimore for further orders.

On this information, Mr. Johnson Gildart was sent for, who attended, and engaged that the ship should come to Baltimore, and wait the determination of the Committee; and accordingly gave orders in writing to the Captain for that purpose.

At a special meeting of the Committee, July 12, 1775: Present, William Smith, Chairman, and twenty-two Members; William Lux, Secretary.

Captain Edward Weeks, of the Snow Potomack, having arrived from Dublin and Madeira, reported his vessel, on oath, having on board twenty-eight pipes, five hogsheads, and seven quarter-casks Wine, shipped at Madeira for Dublin, without being intended to land them in America. And Mr. David Stewart, consignee of the vessel, entering into an engagement to the same purpose,

Resolved, That the said Vessel be permitted to load her cargo.

Captain John Martin, of the Brig Friendship, from Bermuda, reported his vessel in ballast.

At a special meeting of the Committee, at the Court-House, on Thursday, July 13, at four o'clock, P. M.:

Present: William Smith, in the Chair, William Spear, John Crockett, Thomas Elliot, David McLennan, George Woolsey, Samuel Smith, Cornelius Clopper, George Lindenberger, Mark Alexander, Samuel

Davy, Abram Vanbibber, Robert Buchanan, James Sterrett, Benjamin Griffith, John Sterrett, William Goodwin, Andrew Buchanan, William Buchanan, Benjamin Levy, Isaac Vanbibber, James Calhoun, Mordecai Gist, Thomas Harrison, Thomas Jones, Barret Eichelberger, David Stewart, John McLure, John Boyd.

A Letter from James Christie, Jun., Merchant, of this Town, directed to Lieutenant-Colonel Gabriel Christie, of His Majesty's Sixtieth Regiment, at Antigua, having been intercepted, was laid before the Committee, and ordered to be read, which was accordingly done, and the following paragraphs are part of its contents:

"Baltimore, February 22, 1775.

"We are in this terrible confusion here, with our politics, there is no depending on any thing, and that, added to other things, makes me wish myself out of the Province.

"We are little behind the New-Englanders, mustering, purchasing arms, ammunition, &c. We have some violent, fanatical spirits among us, who do every thing in their power to run things to the utmost extremity, and they are gone so far that we moderate people are under a necessity of uniting for our own defence, after being threatened with expulsion, loss of life, &c., for not acceding to what we deem treason and rebellion.

"The Provost and family are very well. Our publick affairs vex him, and he wishes himself away, but I know not when, or if ever that will happen.

"A part of yours, or any other Regiment, I believe would keep us very quiet."

The Committee then summoned Mr. Christie to attend them, but being confined to his bed, he was unable to do it. They then sent Messrs. James Calhoun, William Buchanan, Thomas Harrison, Thomas Jones, William Goodwin, and Isaac Vanbibber, to wait on him at his house, and to inquire whether the said Letter was wrote by him.

The gentlemen returned, and report that Mr. Christie had been shown the Letter, and acknowledged that it was wrote by him, but requested that any further proceedings thereon might be postponed until his health would permit his personal attendance.

The Committee not thinking it proper to comply with his request, as Mr. Christie had confessed he wrote the Letter, immediately gave him notice thereof, upon which Mr. Robert Christie attended on his behalf, but it growing late, and many of the Members being withdrawn, the Committee directed a Guard of nine men, under the command of an Officer, to be placed round Mr. Christie's house.

And then adjourned till to-morrow morning, at nine o'clock.

They resumed the business of yesterday.

Mr. Robert Christie, Jun., attended, and declared that Mr. James Christie was very sorry for the Letter he had wrote Lieutenant-Colonel Christie; that he did not mean any harm by it, and that he was very willing to acquiesce in the determination of the Committee.

On motion, Resolved, That Doctor John Boyd and Mr. John McLure, (Members of this Committee,) do wait on Mr. Christie, and inquire of him who those moderate people were that united for their defence, as mentioned in his Letter, and that they take his answer in writing.

The gentlemen returned, and report, that Mr. Christie declared, there never was any association between him and his friends for the purpose alluded to, or for any other purpose; and all that he remembers to have passed on the occasion was, that some time last winter he was informed that he, with some of his friends, were to be made a publick example of, for not uniting with the town in the present opposition, and this being spoken of accidentally among two or three of his friends, it was proposed, whether an association for mutual defence would be advisable, but no determination being then made, and they soon after being convinced that no threats worth notice had been thrown out against them, the matter dropped, and was never afterwards thought of or attempted, and that it was at this time of doubt and apprehension that he had wrote the Letter in question, which accounts for that part of it alluded to in this inquiry.

The Committee proceeded to take Mr. Christie's conduct, with respect to the said Letter, into further and deliberate consideration, and were unanimously of opinion, that by representing in said Letter the people of this town to be concerned in treasonable and rebellious practices, and that a number of soldiers would keep them quiet, he has manifested a spirit and principle altogether inimical to the rights, privileges, and liberties of America. They do, therefore, think it their duty to advertise the said James Christie, Jun., as an enemy to this country, and all persons are desired to break off all connection and intercourse with him.

The Committee do further Resolve, That as the crime of which the said James Christie is guilty, is of so dangerous and atrocious a nature, they will lay the same before their Delegates at the Continental Congress for their advice; and, in the mean time,

It is Ordered, That, as Mr. Christie is confined to his bed, and cannot be removed with safety to a place of security, the same Guard be continued at his house to prevent any escape, attempted either by himself or the assistance of his friends; and that Mr. Christie pay each man five Shillings for each twenty-four hours, and the Officer seven Shillings and six Pence.

A report having been circulated that a number of Arms and a quantity of Ammunition were secretly lodged in the house of Mr. James Christie, and the same being mentioned to the Committee, they directed two of their Members, Captain Clopper and Mr. James Cox, to go immediately and search Mr. Christie's house; which they accordingly did, and reported that they had examined the house attentively in every part, attended by Mr. Robert Christie, Jun., and that they only found two Guns and a pair of Pistols, and no Ammunition, and were convinced no others were in the house.

Resolved, That these Proceedings be published in the Maryland Papers.

And, on motion, Ordered, That the Proceedings of the Committee of Talbot County, respecting the Ship Johnson, and declaring James Gildart an enemy to the liberties of America, be republished in the Baltimore Papers.

At a meeting of the Committee, July 17, 1775:

Mr. John Welsh appeared before the Committee, and answered the charge exhibited against him by the following Declaration:

"Whereas, an information has been lodged against me in the Committee of Baltimore County, that I declared those who mustered were guilty of rebellion; in order to remove any ill impressions against me, I now declare that I approve of the measures recommended by the Continental Congress and Provincial Convention, and am willing to join my countrymen in the common cause, and to risk my life and fortune in defence of the liberties of America; and that I will recommend it to my neighbours to muster and learn the use of arms, as necessary to defend ourselves from all invaders of our liberties and properties.

"In testimony whereof, I have hereunto set my hand this 17th July, 1775.

"JOHN WELSH."

Mr. Thomas Place appeared before the Committee, and produced an invoice of a cargo, consisting of Salt and Earthen-Ware, shipped by James Gildart, on board the Totness, Captain Warring, amounting to two hundred and twenty Pounds eighteen Shillings and four and a half Pence sterling.

On motion, Ordered, That the Proceedings in the Maryland Gazette of the 13th July, respecting the Ship Johnson, and declaring James Gildart, of Liverpool, an enemy to the liberties of America, be republished in the two Baltimore Newspapers.

And a question arising how far breaking off all commercial intercourse with James Gildart should effect any connections with Johnson Gildart, or Ashburner & Place, or whether they ought to be included therein as partners with him, after some debates thereon, it was agreed to be referred to a future meeting.

At a special meeting of the Committee, on Tuesday, July 18, 1775:

Present: Samuel Purviance, Chairman, William Buchanan, Isaac Grist, Mark Alexander, Jeremiah T. Chase, Hercules Courtenay, James Calhoun, John Sterrett, John Smith, William Spear, William Lux, Secretary.

An application was made by Mr. John Fox, from Virginia, to supply a parcel of Gunpowder for the use of the Inhabitants at York, whom he represented to be in great distress, as expecting an attack from five Men-of-War, then drawn up in line of battle before the Town; and he produced a Letter from Robert Carter Nicholas, Esq., to him, desiring him to engage as far as one thousand Pounds sterling, and one thousand Pounds Virginia currency, for Gunpowder and Arms; but the small quantity in our Magazine being very insufficient to supply our own immediate wants, the Committee were of opinion they had it not in their power to comply.

At a special meeting of the Committee, July 21, 1775:

The following Letters were laid before the Committee:

"Philadelphia, July 18, 1775.

"GENTLEMEN: We this morning laid your proceedings on Mr. Christie's letter, before the Congress. That body has thought proper to refer it to our Provincial Convention. We are sorry that any inhabitant of our Province should have entertained sentiments so inimical to our common liberties as those contained in Mr. Christie's letter, and, with you, are of opinion, that for such conduct it is proper and necessary there should be an adequate punishment.

"We are, gentlemen, with respect and regard, your most obedient servants,

"THOMAS JOHNSON, JUN.,

"WILLIAM PACA,

"SAMUEL CHASE.

"To the Committee of Baltimore Town."

"July 21, 1775.

"SIR: I am now a little better, and the Doctor is of opinion that fresh air and moderate exercise would contribute much to restoring my health. I have to entreat of you to represent this to the Committee, and to request of them, for me, that if they think proper, I may have my liberty for the above purpose, on my giving such security as the Committee may require for my appearance before them when required. Your favour in this will oblige, sir, your most obedient servant,

"JAMES CHRISTIE, JUN.

"To Mr. Samuel Purviance, Chairman of the Committee for Baltimore."

On considering the premises, the Committee refer the determination to a fuller Committee on Monday next, and, in the mean time, that Mr. Christie may be permitted to ride out attended by his Guard.

Mr. David Stewart, applied for liberty to remove part of the Tea, lodged with the Committee in December last, from on board the Snow Potomack, alleging as a reason therefor, that it was not safe from cruizers; which was granted, and the two gentlemen of the Committee who have it now in possession, are directed to deliver it, taking an account of the packages, with a receipt for the same; and Mr. Stewart stands accountable for delivering a certificate from the Committee of such District as it may be lodged with for security.

A Letter from Mr. George Dent, Chairman of the Committee at Potomack, relative to the due importation of some parcels of Goods sent there by Mr. Johnson Gildart, was directed to be answered by the Chairman.

Holliday, Samuel Owings, John Merryman, Thomas Harrison, Benjamin Levy, William Richardson, William Lux, Secretary.

The Committee resumed the consideration of the motion relative to Ashburner & Place and Johnson Gildart, but thought it best to refer it further to Monday, the 31st, and then adjourned to the afternoon.

Captain Warring, of the Ship Totness, appeared, and desired liberty to land five Convicts, imported in the said Ship, and consigned to Ashburner & Place; but the Committee declined to give any opinion on the matter, as the proceedings against James Gildart, who is the owner, are already published.

Mr. Robert Christie appeared in behalf of Mr. James Christie, and requested that the Guard attending on Mr. James Christie might be dismissed on security being given, to the satisfaction of the Committee, for his appearance before the Committee or Provincial Convention, when thereunto required, and that he would not depart the Province without their permission.

Which being debated, it was resolved to accept five Securities, by a majority of twenty-one to fourteen; and, accordingly, the following Security was entered into and signed, viz:

"I do solemnly hereby engage not to depart this Province without the permission and consent of the Committee of Observation for Baltimore County, or the Provincial Convention, first had and obtained. As witness my hand, this 24th day of July, 1775. "JAMES CHRISTIE, JUN.

"Witness: "ROBERT ALEXANDER,

"We, whose names are hereunto subscribed, do hereby undertake and solemnly engage that James Christie, of Baltimore Town, shall not depart this Province without the permission and consent of the Committee of Observation for Baltimore County, or the Provincial Convention, first had and obtained, but shall stay and abide the determination and sentence that shall or may be pronounced against him by the next Provincial Convention, for the heinous offence committed by him against the community; and in case the said James Christie shall depart this Province without such leave, we, and each of us, do hereby voluntarily agree to submit to the same punishment that would have been inflicted on the said James Christie if he had not departed. The following is a copy of a Letter from the Massachusetts-Bay Delegates in Congress to this Committee, on the subject of shipping Flour to the New-England Governments:

"Philadelphia, December 4, 1775.

"SIR: We acknowledge the receipt of your letter of the 27th November, wrote by order of your Committee, upon the subject of permits for shipping provisions to New-England. In reply to which, we observe, that the New-England Colonies stand constantly in need of supplies of bread, flour, and corn, from your country, more especially the Colony of the Massachusetts-Bay, where the Continental Army are now fixed. The exportation of the articles before-mentioned ought to be under a very strict regulation, to prevent any misapplication of what may be intended for our friends there. We submit it to your consideration, whether it would not be advisable to require either a certificate from some Committee of Inspection in those Governments, and, where such certificate cannot be conveniently obtained, and the people applying for such permits are residents of New-England, or of your Colony, to require the shipper, or the master of the vessel in which the provisions are to be exported, to give bond that they shall be landed or delivered to our friends in those Governments, and to oblige the master to make oath, that he will use his best endeavours, that they shall be so landed and delivered.

"We are, with great respect, your most humble servants,

"JOHN HANCOCK,
"THOMAS CUSHING,
"SAMUEL ADAMS,
"JOHN ADAMS.

"To Samuel Purviance, Jun."

Mr. Mark Alexander having applied to the Committee for liberty to load the Sloop Granpus, John Brackett, master, with Provision for the use of the Colonies, to Massachusetts-Bay, the same was granted, on his entering in a bond with said master in double of the value of the cargo, that he will land the same, and produce a certificate thereof from a Committee of the port where it was landed, to this Committee, and that the usual Oath be taken by them.

Mr. Mark Alexander, on behalf of George Welsh and Elisha Thatcher, made application for permission to load the Schooner Peggy, John Lathrop, master, for the same parts as above; which was granted on the above condition.

Messrs. John Philpot and William Sterrett were summoned to appear before this Committee, to give information against Mr. Samuel Carson, Sen., merchant in Philadelphia, for speaking disrespectfully of this Committee. They appeared accordingly, and declared that they were in company with Mr. Carson, in Philadelphia, and heard him say, "he had been informed while he was at Baltimore, that a quantity of Tea had been imported at Baltimore, and that he was informed it was not to be now produced, and that a parcel of Handkerchiefs had come to Baltimore, which had been directed to be destroyed, and that only about a dozen had been burnt, and the remainder secreted and sold."

The Committee, looking on it as an imputation on their character, directed the Committee of Correspondence to write to the Committee of Correspondence at Philadelphia, to desire Mr. Carson to produce his author.

The same information was given by Messrs. Carvel Hall and Aquila Hall, of Harford County, respecting Mr. Carson.

The Committee having taken into consideration the defenceless state of Baltimore, and the dangers to which it is, in its present state, exposed, came to a resolution, that until some other measure be taken for the defence of the Town, by the Convention or Council of Safety, the Guns which are in Town be cleaned and put in order for service, and that proper Carriages for mounting the same be immediately procured to be made.

And if any such Boat or Vessel shall be navigated beyond the limits of this Province without such License, or if, after having obtained such License, the skipper thereof shall, without absolute and inevitable necessity, go to, or touch at, any place out of this Province, other than that mentioned in such Licence, or shall carry any person or Letter, of which he shall not give previous notice to such Committee, or shall bring back any person or Letter, of which he shall not give notice to some Committee of Observation, as soon as may be after his return, such skipper, and all other persons accessory to such misbehaviour, may be punished by imprisonment; but it is understood that this Resolution is not to prohibit crossing Potomack, although the Boats or Vessels employed or used therefor should go up the creeks or arms of Potomack-River making into Virginia, or to prohibit the passing and repassing at the Ferry on Pocomoke-River.

"Signed by order: "G. DUVAL, Clerk."

Messrs. Isaac Grist, Benjamin Griffith, and George Woolsey, or any two of them, are appointed to hire and contract for the said Boat.

The Committee, considering the peculiar situation of the Vessels arming in this Port, and the necessity that the same should be kept as private as possible,

Ordered, That where sufficient reasons appear to the Committee, that the permission to the Vessels trading in this Bay will be productive of any ill consequence, in such case the Committee detain such Vessel, or Vessels, from sailing.

A copy: GEORGE LUX, Secretary.

Present: Samuel Purviance, Jun., Chairman, Thomas Harrison, William Buchanan, John Smith, Isaac Grist, Benjamin Griffith, William Asquith, James Calhoun, John Boyd.

Do Resolve, That no Vessel whatever be permitted to proceed from this Port, except upon publick business, further than the River Patuxent, on the Western-Shore, and the River of Great-Choptank, on the Eastern-Shore, till the Vessels now arming in this Port be ready to sail.

The following Oath was appointed to be taken by all Masters of Vessels to and from this Port:

"You A. B., do solemnly make oath, upon the Holy Evangel of Almighty God, that the manifest now given in is a true account of the goods taken in on board your vessel; that you will not proceed with the vessel now under your command, during the present trip, any lower down the bay than Patuxent, on the Western, or Great-Choptank, on the Eastern-Shore, nor dispose or sell any of the goods now shipped on board your vessel, to any person who, you suspect, may carry the same to Lord Dunmore, the British vessels-of-war, or to any other persons whatever, with design of conveying such letters or intelligence."

Mr. Andrew Buchanan produced his account of Money paid for Powder and Lead, on which a balance of ten Shillings and six Pence remained due from him, which he paid in.

Captain William Chase, of the Sloop John, applied for permission to load said Sloop for Rhode-Island, or Dartmouth-Bay; which was granted him, on William Spear and Benjamin Griffith becoming security.

Captain William Johnson, of the Schooner, applied for liberty to load said vessel with Flour for Northampton County, in Virginia, which was refused, as he brought no certificate from their Committee, and it does not appear that any Troops are ordered to that County, which was the reason assigned, in a Letter to Lux & Bowly, for sending for the Flour, but as it appears that he has bought half a ton of Iron, he is permitted to carry it down, on reporting his cargo as heretofore agreed on.

Mr. John Moale is unanimously elected Treasurer, and the balance of sixty-two Pounds nine Shillings and ten Pence, was paid into his hands.

Upon motion, Resolved, That the permission granted to Messrs. Robert & Alexander McKim on the 22d ultimo, be cancelled, as it appears to this Committee that they have not concluded any bargain with Captain Paddock.

A copy of this Resolve is ordered to be delivered to Messrs. McKims by the Secretary.

Messrs. Lux & Bowly having produced a Certificate from the Convention to export the Produce of this Province to the amount of one hundred and sixty-eight Pounds fifteen Shillings, and requested liberty to export the same in Lumber, in the Schooner Resolution, William Wand, master; which was granted.

They also produced an Order from the Committee of Safety, for shipping one hundred barrels superfine Flour in the Pilot-Boat Chatham, on account of the Province, for which they obtained permission from the Committee.

Whereas, the Committee appointed at the last meeting to devise and point out the most eligible modes for Fortifying and defending this Town, did, on Saturday last, report to Messrs. Samuel Purviance, Jun., William Lux, John Moale, John Smith, William Buchanan, Isaac Grist, John Boyd, Benjamin Griffith, William Asquith, Thomas Harrison, and James Calhoun, (Members of this Committee, and collected together for this purpose,) that, in their opinion, the sum of seven thousand sixty-three Pounds six Shillings and eight Pence, was requisite for carrying their plan properly into execution; and the same being referred to the Council of Safety, they declared that they were only permitted to expend the sum of six thousand two hundred Pounds for placing obstructions in the channel, and putting Baltimore Town in a posture of defence, if such a scheme should appear to them practicable for such a sum. As it is of the utmost consequence that this Town should be fortified as soon as possible, Messrs. Samuel Purviance, William Lux, Andrew Buchanan, John Moale, Jeremiah Townley Chase, James Calhoun, Thomas Harrison, Benjamin Griffith, Isaac Grist, John Smith, John Boyd, William Asquith, and William Buchanan, acting Members of this Committee, did, at the same time, enter into bond with the Honourable Daniel of St. Thomas Jenifer, Charles Carroll, Barrister, James Tilghman, and John Hall, Esq., acting Members of the Council of Safety of this Province, for the purposes therein mentioned.

The Committee do, therefore, heartily approve of the conduct of the above named gentlemen, and will, if the next Convention does not allow a further sum for fortifying the Town, cheerfully assist and contribute all in their power for so laudable an end, but the gentlemen who entered into bond, are considered as solely invested with the power of directing and conducting the purposes for which said money was granted.

At an especial meeting of the Committee, on Thursday, February 8, 1776:

Present: Samuel Purviance, Chairman, William Lux, Secretary pro tem., John Smith, Thomas Harrison, William Buchanan, William Asquith, James Calhoun.

Captain William Wall applied to this Committee for liberty to load the Sloop, Captain Coffin, with Provisions for Rhode-Island; but as Captain Coffin had been before refused by this Committee, and then applied to the Congress, who also refused him, the Committee adhere to their former resolution of refusing the said Coffin liberty to load in this Port.

The Committee met, Monday, February 12, 1776:

Present: Samuel Purviance, Jun., Chairman, William Lux, John Smith, John Boyd, Thomas Gist, Thomas Harrison, William Buchanan, Benjamin Nicholson, William Wilkinson, Thomas Sollers, John Cockey, Abraham Britton, James Calhoun, J. Gittings, William Asquith, George Lux, Secretary.

Application being made by Captain Daniel Adams, of the Schooner Hawke, for liberty to take in a cargo of Flour for Beverly, or Newburyport, in New-England, it was granted to him, on his producing a proper certificate from the Committee of Beverly, in Essex County, in the Massachusetts-Bay.

The following Resolve of the Continental Congress being laid before this Committee, it was ordered to be inserted in the Minutes of their Proceedings:

"In Congress, October 26, 1775.

"Resolved, That it be recommended to the several Provincial Assemblies, Conventions, or Councils of Safety, of the United Colonies, to export to the foreign West-Indies, on account and risk of their respective Colonies, as much Provision, or any other Produce, (except Horned Cattle, Sheep, Hogs, and Poultry,) as they may deem necessary for the importation of Arms, Ammunition, Sulphur, and Saltpetre.

"A true copy from the Minutes:

"CHARLES THOMSON, Secretary."

Mr. James Moore appeared, according to summons, and Messrs. Nathaniel Britton, Tunis Titus, and Jesse Bussey, appeared as evidences against, all and each of which, being sworn, deposed, that Mr. James Moore had refused to take Bills of Credit emitted by the Provincial Convention, when tendered to him, alleging that he was afraid they would not pass, else he should have no objection; and, that the said James Moore had asserted that he would not pay any tax towards the support of American measures, and that he thought all those who had taken the oaths of allegiance, and mustered when holding a place under Government, guilty of perjury and rebellion.

It being represented by Mr. Gittings, that Jesse Williams was a material evidence on the occasion,

It was, Resolved, That the further examination of this affair be postponed until Monday next, Mr. William Lux being security for Mr. Moore's attendance.

At a meeting of the Committee, Monday, February 19, 1776:

Permission is granted to Captain Jesse Harding, of the Schooner Jenny, to load with Flour for Falmouth, in New-England; also, to the Brig Rogers, addressed to Captain George Woolsey, to load with Produce on the publick account.

In consequence of a Resolve of the Council of Safety, the following Advertisement was ordered to be published:

"All persons in this County, who are possessed of any Arms belonging to the publick, are hereby directed to deliver the same to the Committee of Observation at Baltimore, as speedily as possible, the Council of Safety having ordered them to collect and repair the same. The necessity of an immediate compliance with this requisition, it is to be hoped, will induce every one, who has any of said Arms, to attend thereto without delay."

Mrs. Button having produced to the Committee an Inventory of her Household Goods, Furniture, Provisions, Servants, &c., shipped on board the Schooner Fanny, in order to obtain permission for her departure in said vessel to the West-Indies; and it appearing by said Inventory, that four hogsheads Spirits, and sixty-nine Rum Hogsheads filled with Water, have been put on board said vessel contrary to the Resolve of the Committee of the 22d January,

Resolved, That Mrs. Button be not permitted to export the said Spirit or Rum Hogsheads, and that the Schooner Fanny shall not be at liberty to leave this Port without further orders, and that Mr. James Clarke, part owner of said Schooner Fanny, pledge his promise to the Committee, that said vessel shall not depart this Port without their leave being first obtained.

Mr. Clarke, agreeable to summons, attended, and pledged himself as required.

Mr. James Moore, agreeable to promise, appeared before the Committee, and, (after admitting the veracity of the charges exhibited against him in the depositions of Messrs. Nathaniel Britton, Jesse Bussey, and Tunis Titus, taken before this Committee,) voluntarily signed the following Recantation:

"Whereas, I, the subscriber, have unfortunately and inadvertently been guilty of actions tending to depreciate the currency emitted by the Convention of this Province for the express purpose of defending those inestimable privileges transmitted to us by our ancestors, and expressed an aversion to pay any taxes for sinking the said currency, and otherwise discouraged people from mustering, enrolling, and associating, but am now satisfied and convinced that such conduct is highly unbecoming the duty of an American, and tends immediately to obstruct the measures calculated to preserve the liberties of this country from the cruel and unrelenting oppressions of the British Ministry, do most sincerely acknowledge the heinousness of such offence, beg pardon of my countrymen, and do hereby solemnly engage and promise not to be guilty of a like offence in future, but to conform to such measures as shall be adjudged necessary by the Continental Congress, or Conventions of this Province, for the preservation of the rights of America. As a further atonement for my misconduct, I request this acknowledgment to be published, in hopes it may deter others from committing the like offence. Witness my hand, this 19th February, 1776.

"JAMES MOORE."

Resolved, That the above is satisfactory.

Application being made by Mr. Solomon Allen for liberty to load Flour in the Sloop Sarah, Zephaniah Sheperdson, master, agreeable to a Certificate from Governour Cooke, of Rhode-Island, which he produced to the Committee, the permission therein specified was granted.

Ordered, That Mr. James Moore's Recantation, and the Resolves of the Convention of the 4th and 16th January, respecting the regulations of the Militia and the filling up the vacancies that may arise from any Committee-Man's refusing to serve, be published in Handbills, and dispersed about in the different parts of this County, and that Summonses be sent to Messrs. William Smith, Charles Ridgely, Thomas Cockey Deye, John Stevenson, Son of Edward, Stephen Cromwell, William Randall, Ezekiel Towson, and Jeremiah Johnson, requiring an explicit answer whether they will act or not, as they have hitherto neglected to attend at the meetings of this Committee. If any of the above-named gentlemen should decline acting as Committee-Men, the vacancies occasioned thereby will be filled up on Monday, the 4th March, when each and every Member of this Committee is especially required to attend.

GEORGE LUX, Secretary.

Application being made to the Committee for liberty to remove seventy-five chests of the Tea under the care of the Committee to the Head-of-Elk, and to remove the remaining part thereof from the place where it is now stored to some other place of security,

Resolved, That Mr. Stewart be permitted to send seventy-five chests of said Tea to the Head-of-Elk, on condition of his engaging that the same shall be stored under the care of the Committee of Cecil County, and that he shall produce a Receipt from said Committee for said quantity of Tea.

Also, Resolved, That Mr. Stewart be permitted to remove the remainder of said Tea to any place in this County for the better security thereof.

Captain William McNeil, of the Sloop Ranger, having applied for liberty to depart with said vessel, now loaded with Provisions for New-England, agreeable to a permission for that purpose lately granted; and it appearing that the said Captain McNeil hath violated an engagement entered into before this Committee, the 18th day of December, to export fifteen hogsheads Molasses imported by him in said vessel from Turk's Island, reported to be the growth of a British West-India Island,

It is, hereupon, Resolved, That the said Captain McNeil hath behaved very unworthily, and forfeited the permission granted for loading said vessel; but it appearing to the Committee that the cargo shipped in said vessel is the property of persons unconcerned in Captain McNeil's misconduct, It is agreed, that, in case of his engaging to give the command of said vessel to a master approved of by this Committee, the said vessel shall be permitted to depart with her cargo, on the express condition that Captain McNeil shall not go in her.

Attest: GEORGE LUX, Secretary.
